VOL. 83. No. 176. PART ONE. ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, MARCH 1, 1931. PAGES 1—12A  PRICE 10 CENTS

12,000 VETERANS SEEK LOANS HERE IN 30-HOUR PERIOD

All Divisions and Many Ranks Represented — Several Gas Victims Among Those in Line.

TELL OF HARDSHIPS OF POST-WAR DAYS

Average Amount to Be Paid $250 to $300—40,000 Expected to Be Taken Care of Before July 1.

Within 30 hours after the soldiers' bonus bill was passed over President Hoover's veto, 12,000 veterans, it was estimated last night, had made application in St. Louis to borrow half the face value of their policies.

They came from every branch of the service. Many had been commissioned officers. One, at least, and probably many more, was a winner of the Distinguished Service Cross. Some had the strained voices that told of gas attacks 13 years ago, or bore scars of World War wounds. One, shell shocked, got the "shakes" while he waited in line. And of dozens questioned by the reporter, only two had a job.

All day yesterday they went through the soldierly, smooth-running mill at the Veterans' Bureau, 4030 Chouteau avenue, at the rate of 1000 an hour. About 1000 filled out their notes at the St Louis Chapter of the Red Cross, 2221 Locust street, and as many or more at the Veterans' Welfare Association in the Ambassador Building.

Bureau Open Today.

Both organizations will continue to handle applications. The Red Cross has opened a special office with volunteer help, and provides without fee the notary service required for those who have made no previous loans. These averaged about one out of 50 among yesterday's applicants, although less than half the total number of World War veterans in the country have obtained previous loans.

The Veterans' Bureau will be open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. today. Day and night shifts will begin tomorrow, so that applications can be filed between 7:30 a. m. and midnight. E. J. Wieland, manager, estimated 40,000 loans would be handled through this regional office before July 1. With each averaging $250 to $300—by deducting earlier loans—the office may be called on to disburse as much as $12,000,000.

Because of the congestion at regional headquarters, Wieland urged that veterans go to American Legion posts or a veterans' welfare agency to make their application. These have been supplied with note forms and can handle the transaction at least as rapidly by mail as the former soldiers can by going directly to headquarters.

Not Issued Immediately.

Part of the transaction must be by mail in any case, for the loan is not issued upon application. The former soldiers file a note in the amount of the loan, at 4½ per cent compounded annually, along with the bonus certificate. If they have obtained earlier loans, they present the pink receipt showing the certificate is already held by the office as security. In case of previous loans obtained elsewhere, the receipt and note must be mailed to the regional office where that loan was made.

With the staff to begin preparing checks tomorrow, Wieland figures on mailing out 600 checks a day. Yesterday's thousands thus provided several days' work ahead, and Wieland estimated checks would be mailed out, on the average, two weeks after application. Checks are issued immediately only in cases of extreme need, as shown by the statement of an accredited charity or veterans' welfare orgainzation.

The first applicant obtained his $394.50 within an hour after the office received notice Friday afternoon that the loan value had been increased by law from 22½ to 50 per cent of face value. Only a few others learned the bill had passed in time to apply before the office closed at 4 p. m.

Hours before yesterday's misty dawn, however, they began to gather outside the Chouteau Trust Building, where the Veterans' Bureau has its offices for the eastern half of Missouri. At 5 a. m. dozens were there. Most had walked. One said he and his wife, with money in sight for the first time in months, sat up and talked about it until he started his 28-block walk. From a

8500 EXTRA POLICEMEN PUT ON DUTY IN NEW YORK

Saturday Night Guard Increased to 14,500 Men as "Preventive" Measure.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. — New York's police guard was increased by 8500 men tonight, part of the force being ordered to do extra duty. The order increased to 14,500 men the number on duty from 8 p. m. today until tomorrow morning.

Police officers denied a general crime roundup was behind the unusual move. "Just a preventive order," said John J. Sullivan, assistant chief inspector.

Heretofore only on ocasions like a communist May day celebration or New Year's Eve has so large a force been mustered in the city.

WOMAN CAUGHT AFTER HOLDING UP THEATER CASHIER

Throws $140 Into Crowd Which Gathers And All But $40 of it Disappears.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 28. — A 27-year-old woman was seized by a policeman tonight as she left the lobby of a theater after holding up the woman ticket seller. She threw the money she had taken—estimated at $140, mostly in small bills—into the crowd which gathered. In the scramble all of the money except $40 disappeared. Harry Rockaway, a newsboy, turned that sum over to police.

The woman gave her name as Mrs. Edna France. She was registered on a charge of robbery armed.

$125,000 FOR DOG EXCESSIVE

San Francisco Appeals Court So Rules in Damage Suit.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 28. — The State District Court of Appeals today held $125,000 damages awarded for the death of "Peter the Great," dog motion picture star, were "grossly excessive." A new trial was ordered. "The life of a dog, no matter how valuable, cannot be considered on the same plane as the life of a human being," the Court ruled.

"Peter the Great," owned by Charles B. Dreyer and Edward Faust, was shot by Fred B. Cyriacks. A jury awarded Dreyer and Faust $100,000 actual damages and $25,000 punitive damages. Cyriacks, the record showed, fired three shots at Faust and two companions as they drove away from his home after a quarrel. One of the bullets killed the dog.

HEAVY SNOW IN ENGLAND

Storm Also Strikes Northern Ireland—Floods in Germany.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 28.—Reports tonight showed a snowfall in all of Britain. The Loch Lomond area of Perthshire reported a heavy fall, while the worst storm in years occurred in the peak district of Derbyshire, with snow a foot deep. The temperature dropped below freezing in London and wintry conditions are predicted for several days.

Another storm raged in Northern Ireland, where the drifts were several feet deep in the country districts and the Donegal Mountains. It snowed in London, too, and during the storm lightning struck one of the wireless masts on the Air Ministry Building and toppled it to the roof. In Germany heavy rainstorms and sudden thaws caused floods in the rivers Netze and Kueddow.

SHOALS ISSUE NOW POLITICAL SYMBOL, HOOVER DECLARES

Says Measure Has Been Made Excuse to Sidetrack Effective Federal Regulation of Interstate Power.

"LAME DUCK" BILL KILLED FIFTH TIME

Conferees Split on Amendment to Limit Length of Opening Session of New Congress.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The "lame duck" amendment has died in conference. It will be revived in the next session of Congress. The Muscle Shoals bill is still alive. President Hoover, in a formal statement this afternoon reported progress in his study of the bill, but did not say whether or not he would sign it. If the bill is killed by a veto, it, too, will be resurrected by its supporters at the first opportunity.

With less than three working days left of the session, this is the status of two of the most significant and most warmly controverted measures with which it has dealt. Both of them bear the name of Norris of Nebraska, who has pressed them through 10 years of unremitting effort. A vote on each of them was demanded by the Progressive group at the opening of the session, with the implied threat that refusal in either case would be met with filibustering tactics to compel an extra session.

Hoover Does Not Close the Door.

In the Muscle Shoals controversy, Congress sent to the President a compromise calling for Government operation of the power units of the $150,000,000 plant in the Tennessee River and for private operation of the fertilizer-making facilities. The President said today he was subjecting the whole matter to the "cold examination of engineering facts." He indicated plainly his dissatisfaction with the bill, but did not completely close the door against it.

In one part of the statement, the President seemed, indeed, to open the door to approval. He referred to the Muscle Shoals power plant as "a by-product of other major purposes of navigation and national defense." This language is almost identical with the terms that he used in his Elizabethton campaign speech in setting out the conditions under which he would favor Government operation. He said on that occasion: "There are local instances where the Government must enter the business field as the by-product to some great major purpose such as improvement in navigation, flood control, irrigation, scientific research or national defense."

Some Discouraging Touches.

Other parts of today's statement were less encouraging to the friends of the bill. Using the language in which his friend and adviser, Representative Fort of New Jersey, opposed the measure in the House, the President said it had been "transformed into a political symbol" and was "expected to be a political issue." There was an acrimonious note in his remark that the problem had become "enmeshed in an endeavor to create a national political issue." The general tone of the statement indicated a strong desire upon the President's part to minimize the political effect of whatever action he might take.

Again quarreling with Norris and those who have followed him upon the Shoals issue, the President charged that the bill had been used "to sidetrack effective action on the Federal regulation of interstate power in co-operation with the states." He said that this "public necessity," to which he had called attention before and since taking office, had been held aside by a measure dealing with "one per cent of the power and the interests of one per cent of the people of the United States."

The President said the bill called for the expenditure of $90,000,000 or $100,000,000 for expansion of the Muscle Shoals plant. In acting on it he had to consider many questions and in general he had to "consider the commonplace unromantic facts which test the merits and demerits of this proposition as a business."

"Lame Duck" Bill Dead Again.

The other Norris measure which appeared at one time to be on the verge of success was pronounced dead by its author after a meeting of Senate and House conferees had

NYE COMMITTEE HOLDS R. H. LUCAS VIOLATED LAW

G. O. P. Leader Chargeable Under Corrupt Practices Act in Fight to Defeat Norris, It Says.

HE REPLIES HE FILED REPORT DEC. 22

Senate Investigators Also Accuse McKelvie, McCloud and Stebbins in Nebraska Mess.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. — A scorching report on the 1930 Senatorial campaign in Nebraska was laid before the Senate today by the Committee on Campaign Expenditures, which conducted a long investigation. The report states that a secret conspiracy was organized and carried out in an unsuccessful effort to prevent the renomination and re-election of Senator George W. Norris, veteran Progressive leader, and that it was financed partly by a power company official and partly by men high in the Republican party.

Among those who are charged in the report with having violated State or Federal election laws in the attempt to "get" Norris, are Samuel R. McKelvie, member of the Federal Farm Board and former Republican Governor of Nabraska; Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican National Committee; Charles A. McCloud, Republican National Committeeman for Nebraska; W. M. Stebbins, former Republican State Treasurer of Nebraska, and others less prominent.

The committee reported that its efforts to learn the truth about the Nebraska situation were hampered by persistent "concealment, evasion and perjury," and alluded to the fact that Federal perjury indictments had been returned against George W. Norris, youthful Broken Bow grocer, who attempted to enter the primary against Senator Norris and Victor Seymour, Republican campaign manager who induced the grocer to apply for a place on the ticket.

Missourian Refused to Sign.

The report was signed by four of the five members of the committee—Chairman Nye (Rep.), North Dakota, Dale (Rep.), Vermont, Wagner (Dem.), New York, and Dill (Dem.), Washington. The only member refusing to sign was Senator Patterson, (Rep.) Missouri.

Patterson explained to newspaper men that he did "not agree with the report in its entirety," and felt the committee had expended too much time and effort in exposing the facts about the bogus candidacy of grocer Norris, who failed to get on the ticket. It was pointed out that the grocer's candidacy was undertaken to benefit Stebbins, who was on the ticket, but the Missouri Senator offered no further comment. He said he would not file a minority report.

Concerning expenditures, the committee found that a total of $8754 was expended in Senator Norris' behalf in the primary campaign, as compared with $19,304 known to have been expended in behalf of his principal opponent, Stebbins. It found that $5786 was expended in Senator Norris' behalf in the general campaign, as compared with $46,393 expended in behalf of his Democratic opponent, Gilbert M. Hitchcock, and in addition it found that $5066 was expended independently of Hitchcock's campaign in efforts to defeat Norris.

"In spite of the evasion and perjury encountered by the committee, the report continues," its investigation disclosed practices which appear to be as reprehensible as any of the better known forms of fraud or corruption. If the plans exposed had been successful, they would have completely thwarted the wishes of the voters of Nebraska."

"Anti-Norris Conspiracy."

The report then reviews in detail the incidents in what it describes as the "anti-Norris conspiracy." It declares the first step was the secret straw vote conducted to ascertain who would be the strongest candidate against Norris in the Republican primary, and adds that this poll was financed at a cost of $4000 by Walter W. Head, chairman of the Board of the Nebraska Power Co., chairman of the board of the Omaha National bank and president of the Foreman-State National bank of Chicago.

After the returns from the straw vote had shown that Senator Norris was so far in the lead of all

SAYS USED CARS WERE PAID FOR IN ALCOHOL

Agent Testifies at Hearing of Kirkwood Dealer Held on Liquor Charge.

Moonshiners who bought used cars from Gustave H. Bieger, vice president and secretary-treasurer of the Bieger Auto Co., Kirkwood, paid for them with moonshine alcohol, Deputy Prohibition Administrator James Dillon testified Bieger told him. The testimony was given before U. S. Commissioner Burke at the hearing of Bieger, who was arrested last week in a raid on his home and garage at 625 Simmons avenue, Kirkwood.

Dillon testified the raid followed an arrangement made by an informer to purchase eight five-gallon cans of moonshine whisky from Bieger at his home, Jan. 24. Five cans were delivered to the informer and an agent in the garage by Thomas O'Brien, jointly charged with Bieger and three others, in the basement of the home, agents testified.

When Dillon entered the home, he testified, Bieger admitted the possession of whisky and explained several of his customers were moonshiners who bought used cars and forced him to accept cans of alcohol in payment.

"He said," Dillon testified, "that the moonshiners demanded that Bieger allow them $17 for each can and that he disposed of it at the same price so as not to interfere with the market."

Following the hearing Bieger was bound over on charges of possession of alcohol and O'Brien was held on possession and transportation charges, although the agents testified that when the car in which the alcohol was taken to Bieger's garage drove up they did not see the driver and only knew that O'Brien had been driving the car because he hold them so.

VETERANS DROP MAYOR FOR NOT PAYING ANNUAL $1 DUES

Miller Was on Board of Trustees of Welfare Group; Sought Aid in Getting Certificate.

Because of his failure to pay dues of $1 a year and his inactivity in the organization, Mayor Miller was dropped from the rolls of the Veterans' Welfare Association, Inc., at its meeting at the 138th Infantry Armory, Grand boulevard and Market street, Friday night. He was a charter member and a members of the board of trustees, having been appointed Jan. 23, 1930, to serve a three-year term.

Four other trustees also were dropped because of inactivity. These were Robert Burkham, attorney for the Board of Education and a former candidate for Mayor; Allen C. Orrick, former president of the Board of Police Commissioners; Francis M. Curlee and James M. Byrnes. Curlee and Byrnes had one year to serve on two-year terms.

Officers of the association said Mayor Miller called on them a month ago to get help in entering his application for an adjusted service compensation certificate. The association has offices in the Ambassador Building.

RUSH FOR 1931 AUTO PLATES AT CITY AND STATE OFFICES

Time for Obtaining New License Tags Extended Until March 13.

The last minute rush for 1931 automobile license plates taxed the facilities of the State Automobile License Bureau, 1902 Pine street, yesterday, but when the office closed for the day total receips were $728,000 less than the aggregate amount received up to the same time last year. Receipts from license fees yesterday, totaled $70,000, making an aggregate of $2,112,000.

Chief of Police Gerk announced arrest of motorists without the 1931 plates would begin March 13, instead of today as contemplated originally.

When the State bureau opened at 8:30 a. m. about 1000 men and women were in line, O. P. Caulfield, Deputy State License Commissioner, estimated. Within an hour, he said, the lines were reduced to moderate proportions. A steady stream of applicants passed through until the bureau closed at 2 p. m. No record of the number of plates issued during the day will be available until tomorrow. Similar congestion prevailed at the office of License Collector Chapman, at the City Hall, where city licenses are issued. The office closed at noon.

The State Bureau has issued about 8000 license a day since early last week after the March 1 deadline had been announced. The 18 extra clerks who were laid off Feb. 13 have been re-employed.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN INJURED BY AUTO; DRIVER ESCAPES

Victim Struck When Crossing Newstead Near Enright; Police Get License of Machine.

An unidentified man was knocked down and injured seriously last night when he attempted to cross Newstead avenue near Enright avenue by an automobile driven by a man who failed to stop, although he was pursued for six blocks by another motorist.

Taken to City Hospital in an unconscious condition, the man was found to have both legs broken and a possible fracture of the skull. He appears to be about 30 years old, has dark hair and was wearing a dark suit and light cap. His belt buckle bears the letter "W."

James McKissock, a Negro, of 4574 Kennerly avenue, followed the driver but lost him in the traffic. He gave police the license number of the car.

NO EXTRA SESSION, WATSON DECLARES ON SENATE FLOOR

Tells Borah He Speaks With Assurance From Only Source That Could Recall Congress.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Republican leader Watson announced in the Senate positively today there would be no special session of Congress after March 4.

Watson asked members of the Senate to remain until March 4, when the present session ends.

Chairman Borah of the Foreign Relations Committee, inquired if there was any possibility of an extra session.

"I am sure if the appropriation bills are passed and there is no necessity of Congress, there will be no extra session," Watson replied.

Borah inquired if he was speaking authoritatively. "I speak with such assurance from the only source that could call an extra session, that I am sure there will be none," Watson replied.

$500,000 FIRE IN I. C. FREIGHT HOUSE IN EAST ST. LOUIS

Two-Story Structure, 500 Feet Long and Housing Outbound Shipments, Is Destroyed.

Fire last night destroyed the greater part of the Illinois Central Railroad's outbound freight house and freight offices on the East St. Louis river front, south of Eads Bridge, causing a loss of building and contents estimated at $500,000.

At the height of the conflagration, between 7 and 8 p. m., flames leaping to a height of 40 feet or more cast a glare upon and across the Mississippi. Thousands viewed the fire from the St. Louis levee, Eads and Free bridges. In East St. Louis the glare illuminated many blocks.

The building, a brick structure on concrete piles, was the largest freight house in the St. Louis industrial district. It was 800 feet long from east to west, having its front on the 300 block of South Front street, and was 100 feet wide. The westward 500 feet had two stories, the upper floor being used for office purposes. The eastern part of the building, 300 feet long, was of one story, and was protected by a fire wall. This section of the building was saved.

Started in Upstairs Office.

The fire was discovered at 6:20 p. m., having originated in the upstairs offices, about midway of the structure, from a cause not ascertained. The fire destroyed most of the freight records on the second floor, though employes saved the payroll and some other documents.

General merchandise freight in less than carload lots was delivered to the building in trucks, and was loaded upon trains. As Saturday is cleanup day, the quantity of freight remaining in the building was less than it would have been at other times.

Six East St. Louis fire companies and two from St. Louis were summoned, but it proved impossible to check the fire in the two-story portion of the building. The composition roof fell in sections, crashing loudly, and with the crash of each section the fire burned more fiercely, while the danger to the nearby inbound freight house increased. The inbound house is 50 feet south of the outbound, with tracks in the intervening space. Wind from the northeast increased the danger to the inbound house.

Switch engines ran into the zone of great heat and much apparent danger, taking the freight cars, most of them empties, from the tracks between the burning building and the inbound house. The north platform of the inbound house took fire more than once, but each of these outbreaks was extinguished. Had the inbound house taken fire, the Hall Milling Co., next to the south, would have been in great danger.

Twelve trailers belonging to the Columbia Terminals Co. were lined along the loading platform on the south side of the burning building.

BANKER HELD FOR $37,700 SHORTAGE AT E. ST. LOUIS

Willard J. Stailey, Officer of Southern Illinois Trust Co., Said to Have Confessed That He Embezzled Funds.

LOST MONEY IN PLAYING MARKET

Conrad Reeb, President, Says Signatures Were Forged—Employe for 20 Years — Bond Protects Depository.

Willard J. Stailey, secretary-treasurer of the Southern Illinois Trust Co. of East St. Louis, was arrested yesterday afternoon under a warrant charging the embezzlement of $37,700 of his company's funds.

Conrad Reeb, president of the trust company and affiliated Southern Illinois Bank, at Collinsville avenue and Broadway, issued a statement which said that Stailey's peculations were discovered Friday afternoon and that Stailey confessed immediately.

The money was appropriated during the past two months by means of false entries and other irregularities, Reeb said, relating that he learned from a confidential source that most of the money had been lost in stock market speculation.

Taken to Headquarters.

Stailey, taken to Police Headquarters by the bank's private watchman, refused to discuss the charge with police or reporters. The bank is protected against loss by a bond of the Maryland Casualty Co.

Stailey, who is 39 years old, had been connected with the bank for 20 years beginning as a clerk in the bookkeeping department. He lives at 1424 North Forty-Third street. His wife divorced him about eight months ago. He has no children.

Reeb explained that Stailey, among other duties, was in charge of the Savings Department and appropriated most of the money by forging the signatures of customers to about 12 withdrawal slips. A bookkeeper became suspicious of one of the slips Friday afternoon, Reeb said, and discovered it was a forgery.

Tells of Confession.

Reeb said Stailey readily admited the defalcation to him in the presence of other officers of the company and repeated his confession to a representative of the bonding company.

Reeb laid the case before State's Attorney Lindauer and the warrant was issued at noon yesterday by Justice of the Peace Stoecker on the formal complaint of Assistant State's Attorney Cray. Reeb said it was the first embezzlement in the history of his bank.

NEW DELHI, Feb. 28.—In addition to his political troubles, Mahatma Gandhi lately has been beset with toothache. Although he generally is opposed to doctors and dentists, his pain became so acute today that he summoned a local dentist just as in 1922 he called in a British doctor, who operated for appendicitis.

After the dentist, who is an ardent Nationalist, had treated Gandhi's teeth today, he returned to Gandhi with a set of false teeth which he said would enable him to masticate better his simple food. Gandhi, however, refused them, saying he preferred to bear his present discomforts silently.

$100,000,000 EMERGENCY AID URGED IN SENATE

Wheeler Proposal Would Authorize New Appropriation for Relief Before Congress Adjourns.

CARAWAY ASSAILS SECRETARY HYDE

Asserts Secretary of Agriculture Is Deliberately Holding Up Money Voted in $20,000,000 Measure.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—A proposal that a $100,000,000 emergency relief fund be placed at the disposal of President Hoover was offered today during the Senate debate, in which several Democrats and independent Republicans said legislation so far enacted failed to provide relief for drouth sufferers and the unemployed.

Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, introduced a resolution to authorize the $100,000,000 fund, after Senators Borah (Rep.), Idaho, and Copeland (Dem.), New York, contended there was still time to enact adequate relief legislation.

Copeland and other Democrats charged the Republican administration with failure to provide necessary relief. Borah contended Congress had shown a lack of courage and purpose, and Senator La Follette (Rep.), Wisconsin, said the Senate's abject surrender on the relief compromise had killed any chance of edaquate legislation.

Hyde Assailed by Caraway.

Senator Caraway (Dem.), Arkansas, opened the debate by charging Secretary of Agriculture Hyde was deliberately holding up the money appropriated by Congress in the $20,000,000 supplementary drouth relief fund. He denied the compromise represented a surrender on his part, saying it called for more than he had originally asked, though he agreed it did not take care of the unemployed.

Senator Walsh (Dem.), Massachusetts, who joined in the attack on the administration's relief efforts, said it was too late to enact further legislation at this session.

Administration leaders, who kept out of the debate, said later there was no chance for enactment of further legislation now. They contended the $65,000,000 already appropriated for drouth loans and about $500,000,000 for public construction would take care of the situation.

"Failure to Visualize Situation."

Demanding legislation to aid the unemployed, Copeland said:

"There has been an utter failure on the part of the administration to visualize the situation and deal with it."

"Doesn't the Senator think that, in view of the administration's attitude, there has been a lack of courage on the part of Congress in carrying out its program?" Borah asked.

Senator Barkley (Dem.), Kentucky, predicted a widespread reduction in wages following the adjournment of Congress, "when there is no longer a public forum where the situation can be aired."

Without a General Program.

He said Congress was adjourning without any "general program" for dealing with economic conditions.

"During the whole fight," he added, "the Government has occupied the familiar position of the ostrich with its head in the sand."

Asserting this country is wealthier today than ever before and yet people are unemployed, starving and naked, Senator Smith (Dem.), South Carolina, said "it is an indictment of this administration and previous administrations that we produce so much wealth in this country that we go to the poorhouse."

Ruling on Food Purchases.

Secretary Hyde said that whether a farmer could purchase food with money borrowed directly from the supplemental $20,000,000 drouth relief appropriation would depend on the individual case, its necessity and the security offered.

Regarding loans from agricultural credit corporations, which the measure proposed to increase and extend, the Secretary said farmers could use that money as though they obtained it from any bank.

Returning today from Cincinnati, the Secretary announced that plans for administration of the $20,000,000 fund should be completed.

To advise and assist the department in administration of the fund, insofar as formation and extension of credit corporations is concerned, committees will be formed in each of 21 drouth states.

Only one committee thus far has been completed, that in Arkansas, H. C. Couch of Pine Bluff is chairman and W. A. Hicks and S. T. Niemeyer, both of Little Rock, are the other members.

Urges Red Cross Inquiry.

A congressional investigation into the Red Cross was proposed today in a resolution by Congressman Allgood (Dem.), Alabama. The inquiry would be directed into the activities of the organization in the drouth areas.

Chairman John Barton Payne was out of the city tonight and no comment was forthcoming from national headquarters of the Red Cross.

In the resolution, the Alabaman said the inquiry would be made into the "works, activities and services in the drouth areas of the United States, all moneys received, all moneys expended, in what states and counties expended, in what manner and at what time and all records and accounts kept for said purposes."

The committee would report to the House the results of its investigation and any recommendations for legislation.

Discussing the proposal off the floor, Allgood said he based it on a reported statement from C. L. Bryan, Red Cross field representative at Gadsden, Ala., that it was time for relief work to end and rehabilitation work to begin.

"I want to find out what the Red Cross is going to do with the $10,000,000 fund that had been set as the goal to meet the drouth emergency," he said.

Text of President's Statement On Norris Muscle Shoals Bill

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.

FOLLOWING is the text of a formal statement on the Norris Muscle Shoals bill issued today by President Hoover:

"I have received a multitude of telegrams from Governors and citizens in the Southern states urging approval of Senator Norris' Muscle Shoals project, and requesting that I express my views upon it. Some of them express dissatisfaction with its principles but consider it expedient to approve it. I have also many telegrams from citizens of the Southern states and other parts of the country protesting against the principles of the bill.

"It is obvious from the debate, the press and these many communications that Muscle Shoals legislation is no longer a question of disposing of a war activity to the advantage of the people primarily concerned. It has by this legislation been transformed into a political symbol and is expected to be a political issue.

"To be against Senator Norris' bill appears to be cause for denunication as being in league with the power companies. It appears also to be emerging as the test of views upon Government operation and distribution of power and Government manufacture of commodities.

"In other words, its adaptation to the use of the people of the Tennessee valley and to farmers generally, is now enmeshed in an endeavor to create a national political issue.

Power Regulation Sidetracked.

"One side of the issue of this political phase is the use which has been made of Muscle Shoals to sidetrack effective action on the Federal regulation of interstate power in co-operation with the states

"Before and since taking office I have proposed this as a measure of essential protection to the 75,000,000 consumers and several million investors in power securities in all walks of life, who use and own the 35,000,000 horsepower of the country.

"This public necessity has been held aside for 18 months and the time of Congress given to 1 per cent of the power and the interest of 1 per cent of the people of the United States which is the proportion of the Muscle Shoals problem to the whole.

"The bill calls for expenditure of $90,000,000 or $100,000,000 from the Federal Treasury to expand a power plant—which has been a by-product of other major purposes of navigation and national defense—into a large undertaking by the Government, the major purpose of which is to be the generation and distribution of power and the manufacture of fertilizer.

"In acting on the bill, I have to consider whether it is desirable to adopt a change in Federal policies from regulation of utilities to their ownership and operation; whether the lease provision in respect to the fertilizer plant is generally workable; whether the method proposed in this bill will produce cheaper fertilizer for the farmers; whether the project is required for national defense; whether the proposals in this bill are in reality in the interest of the people of the Tennessee Valley, and in general to consider the commonplace, unromantic facts which test the merits and demerits of this proposition as a business.

"This happens to be an engineering project and so far as its business merits and demerits are concerned is subject to the cold examination of engineering facts. I am having these facts exhaustively determined by the different departments of the Government and will then be able to state my views upon the problem."

others mentioned as possible opponents, the next step, continues the report was "to search the state of Nebraska for a man bearig the same name as Senator Norris who might be induced to file for the purpose of confusing the voters and making it impossible for them to know which Norris they were voting for." This search was conducted by Seymour, who previously had conducted the disappointing straw vote.

Grocer Norris Put on Ticket.

Grocer Norris was induced to file by Seymour, who paid his filing fee of $50. Seymour later was reimbursed by Stebbins, who also sent grocer Norris a $500 Liberty bond and $300 cash. The report points out that the plan involved the resignation of young Norris as manager of a chain grocery store, where his salary was $4200 a year, and consequently the committee concludes he probably received other compensation, undisclosed by the evidence.

The report alludes in scathing terms to the act of Stebbins during the primary campaign in charging that grocer Norris' candidacy was a scheme upon the part of Senator Norris' friends designed to arouse sympathy in the Senator's behalf. At the time Stebbins was making this charge he had already financed the grocer's candidacy, the report points out.

As has been told, the plan fell through when the grocer failed to file nomination papers within the legal period and was ruled off the ballot by the Nebraska Supreme Court. Had he got on the ticket, the report states, Senator Norris undoubtedly would have withdrawn from the Republican primary and run as an independent candidate, whereupon, says the report, the authors of the scheme planned to have grocer Norris also withdraw and run as an independent, thus making Senator Norris' election impossible.

Intimidation Charged.

Recalling the fact that Miss Esther Alton, formerly a stenographer in Seymour's office at Lincoln, exposed the origin of the conspiracy to the committee, the report states that Frank March, Secretary of State of Nebraska subsequently visited Miss Alton, in company with other politicians and sought to intimidate her into making an affidavit denying her previous testimony.

The action of McKelvie in putting up $10,000 to be used in Stebbins' behalf, in circumstances that would prevent the source of the fund from being known, and the fact that $2850 was spent without any report being made, is declared by the Committee to violate the Nebraska law which limits individual contributions to $15,000 and provides that any contribution in excess of $250 must be reported.

McCloud, the Republican National Committeeman, also is charged with having contributed in excess of $1000 and with having used dummy names to conceal his contributions.

Lucas' $4000 Fund.

Senator Norris having won the Republican nomination in the face of all obstacles, "the final episode in the plan to defeat him," continues the report, "was the secret expenditure of some $4000 by Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the National Committee, in connection with the circulation of scurrilous literature in Nebraska and other states."

The committee reviews the familiar circumstances under which Lucas obtained a loan, pledging funds of the National Committee as security, and secretly used the proceeds to pay for the printing and distribution of the notorious "bar-room cartoon" and similar literature and adds:

"The only conclusion which the committee is able to reach is that Mr. Lucas attempted to conceal the transaction, designedly failed to report as required by the corrupt practices act, and is chargeable with a wilful violation."

The report concludes with a statement that the committee in due course will recommend legislation to "curb or prevent recurrence of the evils exposed by this investigation," but reserves them for a subsequent report.

Lucas Says He Filed Report of Expenditures Dec. 22.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Robert H. Lucas replied tonight to the Nye Committee's charge that appeared wilfully to have violated the corrupt practices act in failing to report his expenditures in opposition to Senator Norris, (Rep.), Nebraska.

In a statement telephoned to the Republican National Committee from Jacksonville, Fla., Lucas said: 'My personal expenditures of the last campaign were paid Dec. 2 and no report was due until Jan. 1. My report was made and filed with the clerk of the Senate on Dec. 22."

$500,000 FIRE IN I. C. FREIGHT HOUSE IN EAST ST. LOUIS

Edward Stewart, superintendent of the company, summoned by a telephone message, directed the successful effort to save the trailers, valued at $45,000, drawing them out of the danger zone with a motor lorry. One trailer belonging to another company burned.

About two hours after it had started, the fire was definitely under control. The estimate of a $500,000 loss was made by William Rhedemeyer, local freight agent of the Illinois Central. He said the building, completed in 1917, was one of the most substantial buildings of its kind in the country.

A night force of 22 employes had reported for duty on the second floor shortly before the fire was discovered. All got out without injury.

FRANCE SURE TO OK ITALY'S ADHERENCE TO NAVAL TREATY

Agreement in Paris All but Signed, It Is Thought as British Delegation Starts Home.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Feb. 28.—Italy and Great Britain today reached an agreement in principle for the settlement of naval problems left over by the London conference last year and, although the accord is subject to French approval, in official circles here there was a general feeling that it was all but signed.

Arthur Henderson, British Foreign Secretary, who headed his nation's naval delegation at Paris and here, said tonight before he started back for the French capital, "we'll get an agreement in Paris if we do as well there as we did here." He added that the prospects were bright for such a result.

This tentative acord which, when it is ratified, will obviate the danger of Franco-Italian naval competition, is regarded by many as even more important politically than it is in a military sense.

In Rome Italian prestige is uppermost in the official mind, for there is always present Premier Musolini's principle that the Rome of the Caesars is entitled to an important place in the world, and many arguments based on the negotiations which ended today at noon have been brought forward as indications that Italy's diplomatic ability, judgment and importance have been fully recognized.

Behind the scenes Mussolini has been active during the negotiations and he took things into his own hands yesterday. Last night at a dinner in the British Embassy he virtually concluded the accord with Henderson.

The details were smoothed out this morning by Henderson and Dino Grandi, Italian Foreign Minister, and tonight government circles were almost triumphantly happy.

The agreement, which both British and Italian officials expected will be approved by France tomorrow when the British delegates stop at Paris on the way to London, settles the Franco-Italian naval rivalry for the five years' duration of the London pact, which is thus transformed into a five-Power treaty.

Agreement to Be Submitted to U. S. and Japan.

PARIS, Feb. 28.—French statesmen, now that an accord has virtually been reached between France, Italy and Great Britain concerning naval construction up to 1936, turned their attention to the problem of air strength, which will be one of the important considerations at the general disarmament conference next year.

The Associated Press was informed tonight that while a few minor matters remain to be arranged between the three countries on naval matters, the accord reached at Rome today, together with a similar one negotiated at Paris earlier in the week, provided the substance for an agreement which has virtually been achieved.

After the meeting tomorrow between Arthur Henderson, British Foreign Minister, and Aristide Briand, the next step will be submission of the Rome accord to the Governments of the United States, Japan and the British Dominions, for the Rome agreement was considered here to constitute a vital amendment to the London naval treaty, requiring the ratification of all the signatory parties.

The problem of parity, as such, between France and Italy was said to have been completely sidestepped in the new tripartite arrangement and the hope was expressed that the world conference of 1932 and the new naval conference to be held in 1936 will end any other naval differences that may appear on the horizon.

SHOALS ISSUE NOW POLITICAL SYMBOL, HOOVER DECLARES

broken up in disagreement. This was the "lame duck" proposal, which has passed the Senate five times. An amendment attached by the House upon the demand of Speaker Longworth, providing a fixed closing date for the second session of Congress, proved fatal.

"The House conferees," said Norris, "evidently conferred with their leaders, for they came back today and announced definitely that they would not surrender upon the question of limiting the second session. They were willing to extend the session to June 4, or one month beyond the date set by the House amendment, but the Senate could not accept that or any other limitation. On all the other points of difference we could have reached an agreement.

"We felt that under any limitation Congress in its closing days would become subject to the control of a few determined persons."

Norris explained that the Speaker of the House during the last six days controls legislation through his power to recognize members desiring the passage of bills under suspension of the rules.

"The Speaker," he said, "is a virtual monarch of legislation during the last six days. We could not accept an amendment that would perpetuate that condition."

TO ACT WEDNESDAY ON IMPEACHMENT OF LARRY BRUNK

House Leaders Agree to Report Articles and to Press for Immediate Trial of Treasurer.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 28.—An agreement was reached today by House leaders to present to the House for action Wednesday the articles of impeachment of State Treasurer Larry Brunk. Speaker Nelson is prepared personally to take the floor in opposition to a postponement if the coalition of State Survey leaders and defenders of Brunk should make further attempts to delay action.

There are evidences of disintegration of the forces which sought to prevent submission of the articles to the Senate until after the Survey Commission graduated income tax bill and school bill had reached a vote in the Senate. These forces, organized by Brunk's defenders, had made considerable progress with an argument that consideration of the impeachment proceedings by the Senate would delay the tax and school legislation, and that the Senate might adjourn without taking up those bills.

Nelson said today that in his opinion no other course was open to the House than to adopt the articles of impeachment, speedily since it had gone on record several days ago in favor of impeaching the treasurer.

No Temporizing With Honesty.

"Nothing can interfere with the carrying through of this proceeding," the speaker said. "There can be no temporizing on a question of honesty in government. There is no question bigger than that and I am confident that when the matter is presented to the House the members will take that view of it.

"A committee of the House has reported that the State Treasurer was a party to two conspiracies, that as a result of those conspiracies the state was deprived of its funds, and that the Treasurer and those who joined with him profited personally at the expense of the State Treasury. The House has adopted that report, and all that now remains is for the House to adopt the articles of impeachment and send them to the Senate.

"I have followed a policy of not participating in the debates on matters of legislation, but this is entirely too big a matter to permit a mere question of propriety to control. If it should seem to me advisable I should not hesitate to take the floor in this matter."

Although Nelson refused to discuss the details of conferences he has had with House leaders who have been counseling delay, it has become known that he had served very definite notice on Representative Langdon R. Jones of Kennett and Representative James W. Armstrong of Richland that he would personally take a hand in the adoption of the articles of impeachment if they persisted in their obstructive tactics.

Jones Sees the Speaker.

Jones and Armstrong have taken the leadership in the Survey Commission legislation, Jones having been a member of the Survey Commission. Before the adoption of the impeachment resolution in the House Jones went to the Speaker's office. In effect he told the Speaker that he would fight impeachment if it threatened to interfere with the program. It was then that the Speaker announced his determination to press the impeachment charges.

The Speaker has actively supported the Survey Commission bills, but his position is said to be that he cannot see the possibility that the impeachment proceedings will interfere in any way with the survey legislation. He is said to feel that there will be plenty of time for the Senate to act on the survey bills after the impeachment case gets to the Senate and before it can come to trial.

It has been apparent for several days that the defenders of Brunk in the House, those who seek in every way to prevent the voting of articles of impeachment, haye been using the supporters of the survey program to accomplish their purpose.

Brunk Defenders' Plea.

The first indication of the plan came from Representative O. B. Whitaker of Weaubleau, who sought to have the report of the Clay committee, which reported that the evidence gathered by it justified impeachment, declared out of order on the ground that the committee conducted its investigation in secret. When it was apparent that the House would adopt the report, Whitaker made his appeal to the supporters of the survey program. "If this impeachment case is gone through with," he said, "it will mean the death of the survey program."

The Speaker announced last night that the six members of the committee which conducted the Brunk investigation would be the members of the committee to draw the articles of impeachment. These articles, 12, in number, were prepared in tentative form today and will be submitted to the committee as a whole Monday or Tuesday. It is the expectation that they will be ready to be offered for the approval of the House Wednesday.

The fallacy of the argument that the impeachment proceedings will have an adverse effect on the Senate's action on the Survey bills is shown by an examination of the rules governing impeachment trial. After the articles of impeachment are filed in the Senate, at least three weeks will elapse before the trial can be begun. In the first place the Senate must formally notify Brunk of the charges against him, and must fix a time for his appearance, after which under the law it must allow him a reasonable time to file an answer to the charges. After that the managers for the House must have time to reply.

Senate authorities estimate that these preliminary proceedings will require at least three weeks, during which time the Senate will be free to act on the survey bills and all other matters of legislation. The House tax bill is on the Senate calendar for final passage, having been reported by the Ways and Means Committee last Wednesday.

It is the expectation that Senator Dearmont, chairman of that committee, will offer a motion Monday to make the bill a special order in the Senate for some day later in the week. The school bill probably will be taken up in the House before the end of the week and will then go to the Senate, where it can be taken up the following week, long before the three weeks of preliminary work on the impeachment have been finished.

Trial Likely to Last Three Weeks.

The actual trial is expected to occupy fully three weeks. The last impeachment case in Missouri was that of a Circuit Judge named Jackson, who was tried before the Senate in 1859. That trial occupied 16 days, with the Senate sitting as court day and night.

From present indications, the Legislature will not adjourn until about the middle of April, though after March 17 the members will receive only $1 a day, the 70-day period during which they are paid $5 a day expiring on that day. If by any chance the impeachment case should not be submitted to the Senate until after the survey legislation is out of the way, final adjournment probably would be postponed until close to the first of May. Senators naturally are anxious to get the impeachment case quickly that the number of $1 days be as few as possible.

Neun Challenges Mayor to Reply To Charge of Trying to Seize Power

WALTER J. G. NEUN, for the last eight years president of the Board of Aldermen, opposed by Jules R. Field for the Republican nomination to that office, issued the following statement yesterday:

"I call upon Mayor Miller to come out in the open and answer the charge which I have made repeatedly in this campaign that he is trying to grab control of the fiscal and legislative branches of the city government by electing his personal secretary and the chief political adviser to the important office of president of the Board of Aldermen.

"The Mayor is silent so far as the public is concerned, but at the City Hall he is cracking his whip, and the word has gone out to city employes that the Mayor's secretary must be elected at all costs. His ambition is obvious. He wants to scrap the city charter and set up a dictatorship at the City Hall. He is not satisfied with being Mayor. He wants to be Mayor and president of the Board of Aldermen at the same time.

"Of course, under the charter he can't hold the two offices himself, but for all practical purposes his secretary and right hand man, occupying the position of president of the Board of Aldermen, will give him the control he seeks.

"The Mayor's secretary has shown himself wholly unfamiliar with the many complex problems affecting the welfare of the city which confront the Board of Aldermen from day to day. But being a loyal employe of the Mayor, naturally he has to do as his boss says. And his boss apparently is determined to control every branch of our city government.

"This bold attempt of Mayor Miller to set himself upon a throne supreme at the City Hall challenges the attention of every St. Louisan who places his city above machine politics and boss rule. The city's welfare is at stake.

"I want to say now that I have never kow-towed to the Mayor, and never will. The office of President of the Board of Aldermen should be independent, for the best interest of our city. It is the intent of the city charter that it should be so.

'Since I was first elected to that important office I have supported only those measures which I conscientiously believed were for the betterment of St. Louis—for its welfare and progress. And so long as I am President of the Board of Aldermen, this policy will continue."

U. S. TO MAINTAIN PRICE ON EXPORTS OF WHEAT

Legge Asserts None of Stabilization Supply Will Go Below Prevailing World Levels.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Chairman Legge of the Federal Farm Board emphasized today that none of the Grain Stabilization Corporation wheat to be exported would be sold at prices below prevailing world levels.

Questioned regarding reports from the European grain conference that the announced intention of the corporation to sell abroad not in excess of 35,000,000 bushels had been likened to Russian "dumping," Legge said: "No wheat has been sold and none will be sold at prices below prevailing world prices and not below world levels as all Russian wheat was sold."

"There was not comparison at all, he asserted, in the sale for export of stabilization wheat and Soviet Russian exports. He estimated at 20,000,000 bushels the amount of wheat out of position on the Atlantic and Gulf seaboards, which would be sold for European export. The balance of the out-of-position wheat is on the west coast, which moves ordinarily into Oriental export channels.

Regarding recent reports regarding the sale of a shipment of wheat from New Orleans to Antwerp at prices below May wheat in Chicago, the chairman said the price paid was 9 cents above the Liverpool price of that day and also above domestic July wheat.

Asked if the corporation would make or lose money on its sale of wheat for export, the chairman was of the opinion that the corporation would have to take some losses. He did not estimate the amount.

RAND'S DEPOSITION IN MENZIES SUIT FOR $13,000,000

Rand testified that he held $50,000 of the stock of the Anco company, and that two other officers of the International company, Andrew W. Johnson and the late Jackson Johnson held $35,000 and $50,000 respectively. Rand said he did not consider that his interest in the Anco company constituted "any connection with the Anderson company."

Took Stock in New Firm.

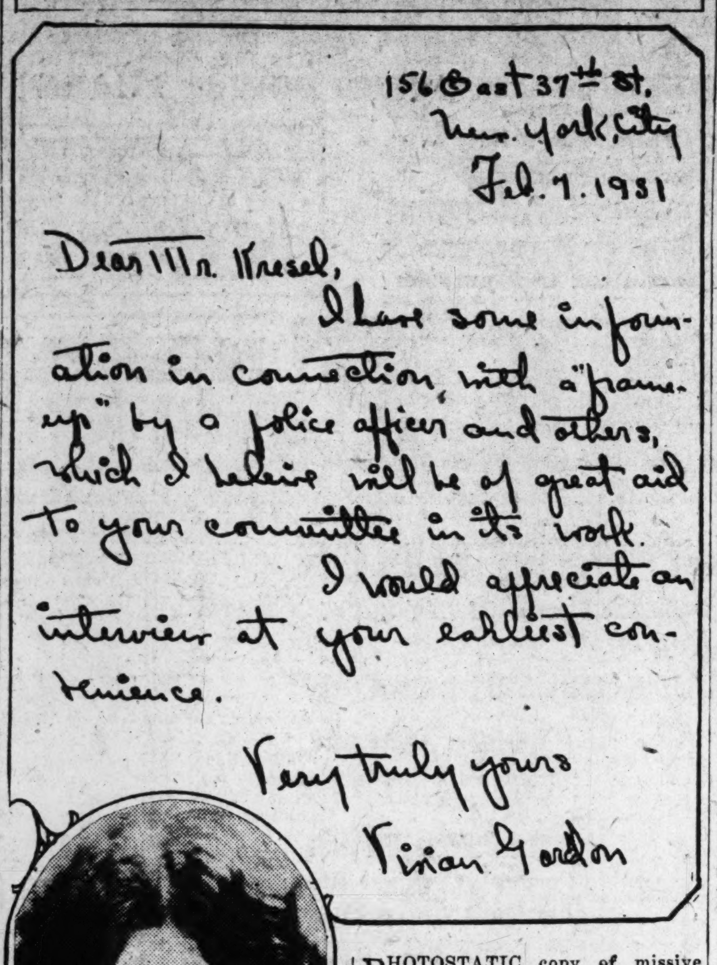
Nichols had sought financial assistance also from the St. Louis Livestock Loan Co., of which R. H. Macon was president, and in that case again, he said, negotiations were dropped because of pressure from the International company. Rand testified that the International company "had no connection or relations with Macon as president of the Livestock loan company."

On further examination he related that during 1928 Macon abandoned the Livestock loan company and organized the Macon company, and that he, Jackson Johnson, J. T. Pettus and Andrew W. Johnson, all directors of the International company took stock in the new company, his own share being $15,000. The Macon company, he said, was organized to lend money to employes of the International company, and later the International firm bought out the Macon company.

Rand denied that his company ever had underpriced shoes on Government contracts in order to take business away from the Menzies company, as Nichols alleges. He said he knew, however, of one instance in which the Menzies company received a contract which was later revoked because it was unable to meet the terms specified. He testified he had seen a copy of a letter in which Nichols appealed from the decision of the Quartermaster's Department directly to the Secretary of War.

"The letter developed the fact that he had failed to perform his contract," Rand testified. "Mr. Nichols took it up with the Secretary of War, Dwight Davis, with a letter in which he threatened to prosecute the Government for ruining his business. A threat was made that the Government would be held accountable for the detriment to the Menzies Shoe Co. in the way they handled their contract."

Letter, Clew to Mysterious Murder, and Woman Victim



156 East 37th St.
New York City
Feb. 7. 1931

Dear Mr. Kresel,

I have some information in connection with a "frame-up" by a police officer and others, which I believe will be of great aid to your committee in its work.

I would appreciate an interview at your earliest convenience.

Very truly yours
Vivian Gordon

PHOTOSTATIC copy of missive written by Mrs. Vivian Gordon, in which she offered to give Isidore Kresel, former counsel of the Appellate Division's inquiry into the Magistrate's Courts of New York City, information regarding the alleged "frame-up" of women by policemen. Her body was found in a park. (Below) MRS. GORDON.

12,000 VETERANS SEEK LOANS HERE IN 30-HOUR PERIOD

more fortunate "buddy," he got a dime for carfare.

When members of the regional staff began to arrive at 7 a. m., hundreds were waiting. In 30 minutes the milling, unorganized crowd was shaped up into a line that extended up the stairs from the office on the seventh floor, down the stairs, out the entrance and around two sides of the building.

Bank Lends Employes.

The Chouteau Trust Co. lent employes and space in the emergency. By 8 o'clock these rooms, at the southeast corner of the building, were opened up, and functioning with far less confusion than, for example, an automobile license bureau in a rush. The veterans got used to standing in line 13 years ago. By 12 the line on the stairs had vanished, and all applicants were being taken care of in the special rooms downstairs.

Rarely well-clothed, frequently ragged, these men still had the feel of "the old army." There was no disorder. Some faces were drawn, but most of the men in this line "cracked wise" as easily as they did in others, under quite other circumstances, back in 1918.

One showed a penny as his sole capital, and laughed as he did it. But most of the jibes in the line referred to the presidential opposition to the bill.

"When will we get our checks?" asked a miner from Leadwood, Mo., six months out of work. "Maybe a month," was the reply.

"I'll take that cigarette, then. Four weeks before I can buy another."

Buys Gasoline on Time.

Buying gasoline on time for a "flivver," the miner and another had driven to St. Louis in the hope of immediate funds. One was a veteran of the 110th Engineers, the other an overseas member of an automobile repair unit. Both were married. One had five children, the other four.

"The merchants in Leadwood are carrying everybody, as long as they can," said one. "When the merchants can't go any further—and they're not in any too good a shape—the Leadwood Community Fund feeds them.

"Nothing to do down there but mining. And the mines cut down months ago. Work only three weeks out of four now. March 15, they say, they may go back on full time and take on a few more—maybe."

No Work for 18 Months.

"No work for 18 months" was the situation of Paul F. Spoenemann of 4615 Enright avenue, wartime corporal in the second platoon of Co. E. 138th (St. Louis) Infantry, gassed twice, wounded in the leg by a shell splinter.

"I've done anything that meant as much as two bits for me and my wife," said William Owens of Pine Lawn. "Even egg-peddling. Anything!" Owens, an automobile hood polisher, was laid off nearly two years ago.

And questioning of others showed he had not been alone in doing just "anything." Even more had not found anything to do. All had debts that would take much or most of the loan. One expected $300—"and it won't pay me out." Recurrent in nearly every story was the hope that there would be a little left, after the oldest debts were paid, to tide families over the remaining months of joblessness.

Technicality Causes Grief.

Tragedy grew out of one technicality of the law. The new bill failed to knock out a provision of the old—that policies must be two years old before they had any loan value. That had an economic justification when the original law was adopted and the Government established its 20-year funding of the bonus, which it is to have paid up in full in 1945. Remaining in the new law—five years after the Government began paying the "premiums" on this insurance—it excludes by President Hoover's estimate 100,000 veterans from any loan whatever.

Bitter comments were made by applicants who, for the most part because of pride in patriotic service, had not applied for the bonus until recently, when unemployment and want made the future seem very uncertain. "I wasn't in the navy for money," said John Straub of 5131 Enright, who was in convoy service. "I never thought of applying for the bonus until late in 1929. "When we left the navy, they told us we'd done something for our country. The only reasons for anyone to delay applying for adjusted compensation were patriotic. Now they discriminate against these who showed that bit of extra patriotism.

"I suppose these fellows aren't as much in need as men who hurried to apply for the bonus," he said sardonically. "I've talked to a dozen of them. When they were turned away here, their last hope vanished."

Straub is a salesman, out of work for seven months. He said he and his wife had been forced to depend, to an extent, upon friends.

10,000 Checks for $3,000,000 Issued by Regional Offices.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Veterans' loan applications were registered at governmental agencies today at the rate of more than 1000 an hour.

Chief Finance Officer H. W. Breining of the Veterans Bureau estimated that more than 10,000 checks for upwards of $3,000,000 had gone out from the 54 regional offices during the day.

Long lines of men assembled at the Washington office. Of the 1200 applications received at noon, only 78 were for loans on certificates that never before had been borrowed upon.

From 500 to 600 applications an hour were handled in the Washington office, and officials said a similar rate should have been maintained in the 53 other regional offices.

Veterans' Administrator Hines tonight headed a group of radio speakers appealing to veterans to permit those most in need to receive loans first.

POLICE NAMED IN DIARIES OF SLAIN WOMAN ARTIST

New York Detectives Told Vivian Gordon Knew Arnold Rothstein and 'Legs' Diamond.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Numerous clews today served chiefly to hamper detectives seeking a motive for the killing of Vivian Gordon, red-headed artist, subpenaed as a witness in the vice graft inquiry.

From diaries found in her $150-a-month apartment and from other sources police learned a great deal about her past, which they said involved policemen, convicts, swindlers, extortionists and business men. Detectives were told she knew the slain Arnold Rothstein, Broadway gambler; George McManus, another gambler, and Jack "Legs" Diamond, gangster.

Miss Gordon had threatened to testify before investigators of the Magistrates' courts that her divorced husband, John Bischoff, and Plain Clothes Man Andrew J. McLaughlin, "framed" her on immorality charges seven years ago. She was strangled and her body thrown from an automobile into a Bronx thicket.

"Railroaded by Police."

Referee Samuel Seabury, conducting the courts inquiry, made public a letter the woman wrote to an unnamed friend. In it she said she expected to tell investigators how she was "railroaded" by her ex-husband and the police in 1923.

"Boy, I'll be glad to get that cleaned up, if it takes my last breath," she wrote. "To be vindicated, vindicated, vindicated. And then, when folks feel mean and nasty they can't say, 'Why, she this, that and the other thing.'"

Plain Clothes Man McLaughlin, whose salary is $3000 a year, will return tomorrow from a Bermuda cruise. He will be questioned about the arrest in 1923.

Threatening letters were received today by investigators of alleged corruption in New York's lower courts and Police Department.

"Well, there's one squealer that won't talk, and we've just started. You ain't heard nothing yet," one letter said.

"Taking Things Into Own Hands."

"We are sorry to see three nice young men go wrong, but we gave you a chance to lay down. We are taking things into our own hands now."

The "one squealer" apparently was Miss Gordon.

Assistants of Referee Samuel Seabury struck again today at the records of Magistrate Jean Norris and vice squad policemen.

They presented to Seabury a new example of the "rooming house racket" in which vice squad detectives are alleged to have exacted "protection" money from landladies.

Nina Landry, operator of a small hotel, testified plainclothesmen Lee Halperin and Daniel Sullivan waited outside the hotel while a man and woman rented a room. On a signal from the man, she said, they entered and arrested Mrs. Landry. A cousin paid $40 for a $500 bond and $500 to a lawyer.

Magistrate Norris convicted the woman, but after she had spent two weeks in jail, the Court of General Sessions reversed the conviction.

DRY GOODS STORE, RESTAURANT AND MEAT MARKET HELD UP

Man and Two Women Robbed of $90; Robber Fired on as He Leaves One Place.

Julius Schram and two women employes were held up in Schram's dry goods store at 3221 Cass avenue last night by an armed man who took $90 from a cash register and escaped.

Joseph Caton, brother of William Caton, proprietor of a meat market at 2636 Nebraska avenue, was forced into an ice-box by three armed men who took $79 from a cash register.

Sing Lee, proprietor of a restaurant at 3040 Franklin, fired four shots at an armed Negro as he ran from the place after robbing Lee of $7.

DEAF INSTITUTE AFFILIATES WITH WASHINGTON U.

Graduates of Central School Will Receive University Degrees — Unusual Recognition of Work.

An educational affiliation has been arranged between the teacher training school of Central Institute for the Deaf, 818 South Kingshighway, and Washington University, whereby graduates of the school, who are equipped to teach the deaf, will receive degrees from the university.

The school will be placed under the supervision of the newly established University College of the university, which, it was made known, is taking over the work of the former Division of University Extension.

This was announced yesterday by Chancellor Throop of the university, Dr. Max A. Goldstein, director of the institute, and Prof. Frederick W. Shipley, dean of University College and formerly director of the extension division.

Co-operative Relations.

Through an administrative board, the new college will handle co-operative relations with other educational institutions, such as that entered into with Central Institute for the Deaf. Chancellor Throop said there was no other affiliation to announce at this time. The connection with Central Institute in a sense marks another step in the development of the university's medical science center. Central Institute adjoins the university's Medical School group and the training of teachers for the deaf is a measure to relieve affliction. No direct affiliation with the medical work is contemplated, however. Central Institute is internationally known for its progress in teaching deaf children by oral methods and training teachers.

While the affiliation is effective now, students will not be enrolled until next autumn. Students first will take two years in the university's College of Liberal Arts unless they have satisfactory credits for similar studies elsewhere, and then they will go to Central Institute for two years of advanced work. Graduates will be given the degree of Bachelor of Science in Special Education. For the final two years most of the classes will be in the institute's normal building at Kingshighway and Papin street but some will be on the university campus. Members of the training school faculty likely will be listed in the university faculty.

The teachers' school has 30 students now but the university expects to fill the classes to the capacity of 50. This school was started shortly after the establishment of the institution by Dr. Goldstein in 1914 and it has graduated 160 teachers, besides giving summer courses to more than 400 others.

Last June the General Education Board gave Central Institute $25,000 a year for five years for educational research in teacher training classes and certain other objects. Chancellor Throop and Dr. Goldstein stressed the fact that the new affiliation is neither a financial nor research arrangement, but purely educational, and leaves the institute under the necessity of obtaining its own financial support. The school for deaf children, the department of speech correction and speech clinic and the lip-reading department for deafened adults do not go under university direction.

An Unusual Distinction.

Dr. Goldstein said this was the first time in the history of the country and probably of the world that such a school had been established with so high an educational standing or that one had been affiliated with a university or offered a degree.

While technically Dean Shipley will be in charge, Dr. Goldstein actually will continue to direct the work of the last two years of the course. The administrative board, fixing the curriculum, will comprise Dean Shipley, Dr. Goldstein, Dr. L. W. Dean, head of the otology department of the university's madical school; Prof. Frank L. Wright, head of the education department; Prof W. R. Mackenzie, head of the English department, and others whom the board may designate.

In converting the Division of University Extension into University College, Washington is giving this unit a better scholastic recognition and is dissociating it from the idea of far-flung and miscellaneous activities such as some state universities conduct in their extension work.

U. S. Income Tax Trebled This Year For Half of Those Who Must Pay

Return to 1928 Rate Makes Difference to 1,000,000 Persons—Total Expected to Be $100,000,000 Below Last Year's.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—More than 1,000,000 citizens, approximately half of those who must pay income tax on March 15, will have to pay three times as much tax to the Government this year as they did last year.

The situation is brought about through the return to the 1928 income tax rates after a 1 per cent reduction for one year on incomes of 1929 payable in 1930.

The rates on normal income which must be paid this year are 1½ per cent on the first $4000 of net normal income, 3 per cent on the next $4000 of normal income and 5 per cent on all above $8000. Last year the taxpayer having $4000 or less normal income paid only one-half of 1 per cent, those having from $4000 to $8000 income paid 2 per cent and above that on normal income the rate was 4 per cent.

Based on income tax statistics of 1928, the last complete year available, about 2,523,000 persons will have to pay tax on their incomes this year unless the depression of 1930 reduced the number. Of that total in 1928, nearly half, or 1,223,077, had incomes of less than $4000 a year and paid a total tax of $9,734,159.

The second bracket of income taxpayers, numbering 786,190, must pay a third more tax this year, which is expected to approximate $17,701,052, the amount received from 1928 incomes. The third bracket taxpayers must pay a fourth more than last year on normal income.

In 1928 the income tax amounted to $1,164,254,037 and 4,070,851 persons made returns, but of that number 1,547,788 did not have to pay tax.

Whether the income tax returns will show more or less than received in 1928 is one of the problems that is puzzling Treasury officials. They are awaiting the March 15 installment on 1930 tax to determine just how great a deficit the Government will face at the end of the 1931 fiscal year next June 30.

$215 TAKEN IN HOLDUP OF DRUG STORE BY THREE MEN

Clerk and Two Customers in Place at 3861 Kennerly Avenue Robbed.

Edward L. Weaver, clerk in a drug store at 3861 Kennerly avenue, and two customers were held up there about 11 o'clock last night by three armed robbers.

They took $140 from the cash register, $35 from Charles Trotter, 3904 Kennerly avenue and $40 from Harry Stewart, 3916 Maffitt avenue.

ARRESTED ON ARSON CHARGE; SAID TO HAVE CONFESSED

Alphus L. Miller of 1918 North Fifty-seventh street, East St. Louis, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging him with arson in connection with a fire at his home, Feb. 5, which caused $800 damage.

Miller confessed, according to Deputy Fire Marshal Phillip Stoeger Jr., that he set the place on fire to collect on the insurance.

POLICE QUESTION MAN WHO PAID LOOT REWARD

Attorney Lemon Tells Them Nothing New, Saying He Can Talk Only to Grand Jury.

Continuing their search for clews which might lead to the apprehension and conviction of the Grand National Bank burglars, Chief of Police Gerk and Chief of Detectives Kaiser yesterday questioned Joseph L. Lemon, State Representative, who recovered $822,000 in stolen bonds as attorney for the bank's insurance company.

Lemon refused to amplify his previous statements, reiterating his assertion that he did not deal with thieves or representatives of thieves. "I am a grand jury witness and I have no right to talk with anyone about the case outside the grand jury room," he told reporters.

Lemon, who has said he would tell the grand jury all he knows about the transaction, including the name given him by the man from whom he got the stolen bonds and who received the $125,000 "reward," has been subpenaed to appear Wednesday afternoon when the grand jury will resume its investigation into the bond recovery.

A patient at St. Mary's Hospital until Friday, Lemon was obviously weak when he appeared at headquarters with Sigmund Bass, another lawyer. Bass said he came as a friend because Lemon was ill and might need assistance.

SON SUES TO BREAK WILL OF MRS. MARIA V. MUELLER

Jacob Gass Attacks Document Giving $25,000 Estate to Her Husband.

A suit to set aside the will of Mrs. Maria V. Mueller, who died last April, was filed in Circuit Court yesterday. She bequeathed her estate, valued at $25,000, to her husband, Martin Mueller, 6925A Vermont avenue.

In the petition, Jacob Gass, Mrs. Mueller's son by a former marriage, alleges his mother was unduly influenced in the preparation of her will and that its terms do not represent what her actual intent was. Mueller, who is named as executor, could not be reached.

Mrs. Mueller mentioned in the will all of her children, including Otto Mueller, Johanna M. Moellenberg, Anna G. Tesch, Sophie G. Huebschen, Herman Mueller and the plaintiff.

RESIDENTS FIGHT TAKING OF TRACKS FROM GRAVOIS AV.

Bitter Opposition to Public Service Co.'s Plans Develops at Hearing of State Commission.

The hearing before the State Public Service Commission, in progress at City Hall since Thursday, on the application of the St. Louis Public Service Co., to remove its tracks from certain sections of Gravois avenue and other South Side streets and reroute the Tower Grove and Bellefontaine car lines, was adjourned late yesterday until the week of March 16.

Bitter opposition to the company's plans has developed among some residents and business men in the territory affected leading to lengthy cross-examination of the executives of the company who appeared to press their application. Stanley Clarke, president of the company, was on the stand yesterday and was questioned at length by Albert R. Schweitzer, attorney for the Gravois Transportation Committee and other business organizations.

Concerned With Paving Delay.

The City of St. Louis, through its law department, is opposing the application because of the possible effect on the repaving of widened Gravois avenue. City officials believe any change now in the status of the street with reference to car lines would delay the paving until next year.

Associate City Counselor Forrest G. Ferris Jr., asked the Commission to dismiss the application on the ground that it was involved with proposals for operating a substitute bus service and relocating tracks on streets for which the company has no franchises, matters over which the Commission has no jurisdiction. The Commission ruled it would proceed with the case, giving consideration to Ferris' arguments at the proper time.

Clarke Proposes Plan.

In a statement which he read to the commission after he had given his testimony, Clarke suggested the commission might be able to compose the differences of the interested parties—the company, the city and the residents in the affected area—by submitting a tentative plan for solution of the questions involved.

Clarke said he was moved to make this suggestion by a desire to avoid delay in completion of the Gravois widening and repaving project. He added that under such compromise arrangement, provided it were acceptable to all parties, the company would be willing to bear that part of the repaving cost which would be assessed against it under its franchise, if permitted to remove the tracks in question, reserving the right to apply to the Board of Aldermen for a refund of the charge. In his testimony he said various engineers had estimated this item at from $18,000 to $32,000.

City Opposes Suggestion.

After hearing Clarke's suggestion President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service said such procedure might invalidate or weaken the tax bills for the improvement, as ordinances already have been introduced on the basis of the tracks remaining in the street. He said the city opposed Clarke's suggestion.

Chairman Milton R. Stahl announced the commission would not undertake an informal settlement of the controversy, but would confine itself to the particular matter legally before it—the application of the company for permission to remove certain tracks and reroute lines.

In view of the widening and repaving of Gravois avenue, now in process, which would necessitate relocation of street car tracks, the Public Service Co. proposes to remove its double track between Arsenal and Victor streets and the single track between Victor and Mississippi, and also the single tracks in Mississippi between Gravois and Geyer avenues and in Victor between Gravois and Eighteenth.

The company then would reroute the Tower Grove cars over Arsenal and Jefferson and the Bellefontaine cars over California avenue from Meramec to either Geyer or Lafayette avenues. The company proposes to operate a fast bus line over Gravois when it is widened between Twelfth boulevard and Compton avenue, connecting the downtown business section with Carondelet Park.

Lacks Majority Consent.

Clarke was asked if the company had obtained the consent of the requisite number of property owners for proposed new tracks on Arsenal street. He said it had the consent of between 35 and 40 per cent, but not the 51 per cent required.

INDIAN WOMAN FREED IN KILLING; HELD YEAR

Lila Jimerson Cleared of Connection With Murder of Artist Marchand's Wife.

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 28.—Lila Jimerson went back to her home on the Cattaraugus Reservation this afternoon. When she left the reservation, almost a year ago, she was under arrest, charged with murder in connection with the death of Mrs. Clotilde Marchand, wife of Henri Marchand, an artist for whom Lila had been a model. Today she was going back, a free woman, a Supreme Court jury having acquitted her of any complicity in the killing of Mrs. Marchand.

"I'm too glad to talk," Lila said as the car in which she rode away from the city headed toward Burning Springs Creek and the one-story frame cabin of Anson Jimerson, her aged father.

She left behind her, in a jail cell, the aged Nancy Bowen, who swore on the witness stand that she murdered Mrs. Marchand because Lila had told her that the artist's wife was a "white witch" and had placed a curse upon Nancy and all her family.

Nancy had been indicted for the murder, but what was to be done in her case, District Attorney Guy B. Moore declined to say. Likewise, he declined to discuss the question of whether Marchand's connection with the case was ended.

The State contended that Lila instigated the murder of Mrs. Marchand because she wished to be free to continue her relations with Marchand. The defense claimed Marchand had at least an equally strong motive for desiring the death of his wife. Lila herself, on the witness stand, declared Marchand had plotted the death of his wife.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY SOLD

Purchased From J. N. Mitchell, President of First National Life and Two Associates.

The Mississippi Valley Life Insurance Co., 3207 Washington boulevard, was purchased yesterday by Joseph F. Dickmann, president of the First National Life Insurance Co., and two associates, Edward G. Rolwing and Thomas J. McCann. Rolwing and McCann are president and vice president, respectively, of the Corn-Cotton Land Co.

The Mississippi Valley company has $22,000,000 in policies in force and the First National $20,000,000. Each is capitalized at $100,000 and the purchased concern has a surplus of $50,000, according to Charles G. Revelle, attorney in the transaction. The purchase was made from John N. Mitchell, president of the Mississippi Valley Life, who owned all the stock of a holding company which held 97 per cent of the insurance company stock. Mitchell resigned after the transaction was concluded and Dickmann was elected president in his place.

SPRING IN FULL BLOOM IN ANNUAL TULIP SHOW

Blazing Red and Orange Tulips With Blue Hyacinths Shown in Shaw's Garden.

Spring, forecast outdoors in budding forsythia, soft maples inconspicuously in flower, lilacs putting forth the leaf-buds, bursts into full bloom indoors in the annual show of tulips and hyacinths at Shaw's Garden.

With the blazing red and orange of hothouse tulips, the gentle blue and white of the indoor hyacinths, are touches of spring from the outdoors. Privet in leaf provides a border of shrubbery around the indoor spring garden, and striking against the green is the gold of forsythia just on the verge of blossoming.

The privet was taken indoors two weeks ago and forced into leaf. The forsythia, or goldenbell, almost ready to bloom outdoors, was not transplanted until yesterday. With them in the background of the show—although forsythia in bloom cannot be dismissed as mere "background"—are tiny pink azaleas, introduced from China a few years ago by the late E. H. Wilson, of Arnold Arboretum.

Last year's "bulb" show was a sunken garden. This year it is an elevated garden. The flowers have been lifted up, in two brick-bordered beds, for close inspection.

Actually, each of the beds is an ornamental flagstone walk, bordered by flowers and leading toward an inviting garden bench. An occasional pink or white "Alpine violet," sets off the tulips and hyacinths.

The tulips are all early "May-flowering" varieties—the red Lady Moore and vermillion brilliant, pink ibis and Murillo, white Boule de Neige, yellow prince, orange toreador and Soleil d'Or. Among the hyacinths are the softly colored Queen of the blues, pink Gertrude, white l'Innocence and deep blue Grand Maitre.

Next week a white latticed gate at the north end of this garden, in the floral display house, will swing open to disclose a show of cinerarias, more brilliantly colored than even the tulips. The combined show will continue through March 15.

TRAPS SWINDLER OF JOBLESS WHO GOT $6000 IN 7 MONTHS

Victim Uses "Ad" to Trick Fadiam Thompson, Who Admits Fraud to Police.

Fadiam Thompson, who police say admits he swindled unemployed persons in St. Louis of $6000 in the last seven months, was arrested Friday in a trap set for him by one of his victims. A warrant, charging him with obtaining money by false pretenses, was issued yesterday.

Riley C. Crow, who gave Thompson $10 to get him into the Janitors' Union last Monday, went downtown with Thompson to the Arcade Building where Thompson dashed down a stairway and got away with the money. Thursday Crow pursuaded a friend to insert an advertisement asking for a job as janitor. Crow waited outside Friday and when Thompson came to the friend's door, called the police.

Carl Specht, 3318 Halliday avenue, identified Thompson as the man who took $54 from him promising for that amount to get him into the electrical union. Thompson said he lived at 204 North Jefferson avenue.

Motion Picture on Evolution.

A motion picture on evolution, with the subtitle, "Up From the Dawn, the Progress of Man and Animals Through the Ages," will be presented by the Greater St. Louis Museum of Natural History at 8:15 p. m. next Thursday at the auditorium of Hadley Vocational School, Lake avenue and Waterman boulevard. The announcement says the picture portrays the cosmic forces that helped shape the earth and reconstructions of dinosaurs, among other things. It was produced under the direction of a member of the staff of the American Museum, New York.

CHARGES EXTORTION BY MUSIC TEACHERS

Konrad Bercovici Publishes Book in Which 'Caruso' Is Blackmailed.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Konrad Bercovici, Rumanian-born author, today described what he declared was a music racket. He is publishing a novel about it. One of the characters sings and eats like Caruso. This character is blackmailed by Claques, as Bervovici says Caruso was.

Young aspirants to opera and the concert platform are mulcted, he asserted, by predatory teachers and managers. Estimating the vocal teachers of New York alone at 2000, he expressed an opinion that not many were competent. He said 50,000 pupils paid tribute in thousands of dollars so long as the money lasted without getting very far toward a concert career.

His daughter, Rada, studied six years in a Paris conservatory under competent teachers, he said, and then was unable to get a New York hearing unless she paid exorbitant managerial fees.

"Her experience has been such," he said, "that, although she is an excellent singer, she never sings." As it is, she has turned to short story writing.

Alleges Sale of Influence.

Some teachers, Bercovici said, "extort advance fees, part of their promise being the use of influence with concert managers and impresarios." The minimum tutoring fee is $5 for a 20-minute lesson. The maximum is $25. He exonerated the recognized schools and conservatories of his charges. Pupils are passed along from teacher to teacher, he says.

"When there is still money left in any of the relatives' pockets," he said, "the students generally go abroad. Usually the last teacher recommends a foreign Maestro." In Europe the process of drilling out dollars is repeated.

Then he took up what he called the "manager racket."

"Only two or three new singers a year appear on the legitimate concert stage," he said. "But hundreds give concerts for which they pay themselves.

"It costs about $30,000 to get to the point of a New York debut. The debut costs another $5000 or so.

"The purpose of a New York debut, of course, is to get a reputation, so the singer may obtain concert appearances elsewhere. But the New York debut is not the end. The critics usually say the singer needs more training, so the teachers continue their work.

Halls Controlled by Managers.

"Some of the managers hire the halls of New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago and other centers for the best dates two and three years ahead. If the singer wants a hall for one of those dates he has to put himself in the hands of the manager controlling it."

Even after a singer attains the operatic stage, Bercovici said, he still must pay tribute, but to the claques. In his book the tenor says, "One good chef de clacque is worth three conductors."

"One chef de clacque used to come here in the fall for the season and the next spring he would go to Europe for the season there," said Bercovici.

"He now is retired and lives in Paris, as a connoisseur of music. He said he was getting too old to clap his hands properly. He had begun to miss some of the cues."

Percy Rector Stephens, chairman of the Committee for the Defense of Music Teachers, characterized Bercovici's assertions as "a cheap piece of publicity at the expense of a respectable profession." "Most music teachers," he said, "are honest and poorly paid."

SHOTGUN FIRED AT HOUSE OCCUPIED BY EX-CONSTABLE

Someone Shoots from Thicket Into Wall of August Clossen's East St. Louis Home.

Three charges from a shotgun were fired at the home of former Constable August Clossen, 312 North Seventy-third street, East St. Louis, at 8 o'clock Friday night by an assailant concealed in a thicket on a lot adjoining Clossen's property. The shots were fired in rapid succession, the small pellets lodging in a wall of the house near a window.

Clossen told Deputy Sheriffs he thought he had incurred the enmity of criminals by law enforcement activities when he was Constable of Centerville Township.

Clossen was shot in the ear and slightly wounded two years ago when two other men, struggling over possession of a revolver in a beer flat, accidentally discharged it.

this famous oil spray treatment soothes colds away

THERE'S been a lot of sound progress made in the treatment of colds during the past few years. And the "Pineoleum" oil spray method, recommended by thousands of doctors, has radically changed the public's ideas about the treatment of colds.

"Pineoleum" is modern . . . speedy . . . effective. It does three things, and does them well: (1) It bathes the inflamed membranes in a spreading, penetrating film of oil that protects the tissues and inhibits the growth of germs. (2) It acts at the seat of the trouble—the passages of nose and throat. (3) Its bland and healing oils clear the air passages, soothe the angry membranes and rid you instantly of that stuffed-up feeling.

Use it for the children before they start for school. They like it . . . it's not like "taking medicine" . . . and there's nothing to upset the stomach! At your drug store.

JOSEPH FULLERTON BAKEWELL FUNERAL SERVICE TOMORROW

St. Louis U. Student's Death Due to Meningicoccus Infection, Invariably Fatal.

Funeral services for Joseph Fullerton Bakewell, 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bakewell Jr., 4907 Pershing avenue, who died Friday at St. Mary's Hospital, will be held at 8:30 a. m. tomorrow from the residence to New Cathedral. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Mr. Bakewell, a junior college student at St. Louis University, was taken to the hospital early Friday, and died five hours later of meningicoccus infection, a form of meningitis causing blood poisoning. He had attended classes on Thursday. The disease is invariably fatal, and no effective treatment is known.

In addition to his parents, Mr. Bakewell is survived by a sister and four brothers.

Books-for-Blind Bill Passed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Congressional action was completed today on a bill to allow the library of Congress to provide annually $100,000 worth of books for the blind. The bill passed the Senate last May and was approved today by the House. Representative Ruth Pratt, (Rep.) of New York, sponsor of the legislation used the record of Helen Keller as an illustration of the benefits that would aoccrue from wider distribution of books for the blind.

Progress Made in Tests For Prolonging of Life

Park G. Hammar, Former St. Louisan, Writes Friends of Research Work Done in Swiss Laboratory.

Park G. Hammar, former St. Louis paint manufacturer, student of methods of prolonging life, has sent word to St. Louis friends of the progress of the laboratory work which he is financing in Montreux, Switzerland.

The Park Hammar Research Laboratory was opened last December in the former Villa Spickner, No. 3 Rue du Theatre, Montreux. It is in charge of Dr. Paul Kouchakoff, a Russian, who was engaged in research work for four years previously in the Ronchese Laboratory at Nice, France.

Hammar met Dr. and Mrs. Kouchakoff last summer in Paris, when he was seeking for Russian emigres to enter a colony for his proposed experiments in diet, posture and exercise, as a means of rebuilding the body and prolonging life. Paris and London newspapers dubbed him "Mr. Methuselah."

Dr. Kouchakoff, a former pupil of the famous Dr. August von Wassermann of Berlin, had been engaged in an intensive study of food and its effects on the blood. Under his arrangement with Hammar, he is now giving his whole time to these studies and to the subject of life prolongation.

Results Hoped for by 1933.

Laboratory work will continue two or three years, under the plans now announced by Hammar. The laboratory has been equipped, and an experimental kitchen has been added, which will be in continual use. Quarters have been provided for the rabbits and guinea pigs which will be used in the feeding and blood-testing experiments. Vivisection has no part in the experiments, it is stated.

It was announced recently that Prof. Metalnikoff of Pasteur Institute, Paris, would spend several weeks this spring as guest of Hammar, and in collaboration with Dr. Kouchakoff, in the laboratory at Montreux. Dr. Kouchakoff outlined his theories at the first international microbiological conference, held last July at Pasteur Institute, Paris. The next conference will be held in 1933 and hopes to have full conclusions reday for a report then.

Hammar, 67 years old and a bachelor, is a layman with no scientific degree, but has studied the subjects of food, exercise and life prolongation for 20 years. He published a book, "Longer and Better Living," in 1929. In the book he told of his plan for a health colony, to live for six months on the semitropical seashore, on a diet of fruit and vegetables, with swimming as the exercise, and with brief but frequent periods of sleep, in the "horizontal prone" posture, face downward on a log.

Hammar to Try Own System.

These plans have been modified since his acquaintance with Dr. Kouchakoff, but it is Hammar's expectation to make a personal trial of the system of diet which the scientist is to work out, with a view to rebuilding his body and making himself definitely younger. Dr. Kouchakoff, who is 49 years old, his wife, who is English, and Mrs. Kouchakoff's sister, Miss Helen Mary Murray, also will follow the course of diet and exercise when it is worked out by the laboratory experiments.

At the time of his departure from St. Louis last October, Hammar planned to remain abroad two years or longer. He experienced difficulty in getting Dr. Kouchakoff into Switzerland, which excludes Russians generally. He prevailed upon the Swiss authorities to admit him on the ground that Dr. Kouchakoff, an adherent of the old regime in Russia, was not politically minded, and would limit himself to scientific work.

Baptist Conference Wednesday.

The Rev. Dr. W. H. Bowler, executive secretary of the Northern Baptist Convention, will be in St. Louis Wednesday to attend a conference on missionary activities at Third Baptist Church, Grand and Washington boulevards. He is in charge of the financial program for missions of the Northern Baptist Church throughout the country.

TWO NEW YORK POLICEMEN OUSTED FOR COLLECTING GRAFT

Pair Was Charged With Taking $7500 a Month "Protection" From Speakeasies.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—James J. Quinlivan and William M. O'Connor, former plainclothes men, who have been under suspension as a result of disclosures in the Magistrate's courts vice inquiry were dismissed from the Police Department today by Commissioner Mulrooney. They were charged with collecting $7500 a month "protection" money from speakeasies.

"The proof clearly indicates that these officers are unfit to be members of the Police Department," the Commissioner said.

The departmental trial of Quinlivan and O'Connor began Tuesday and ended yesterday.

ALEXANDER VEST, SON OF LATE SENATOR, DIES AT 72

Alexander Sneed Vest, 72 years old, son of the late Senator George Graham Vest of Missouri, died yesterday in a hospital in Kansas City, following a heart attack. He removed from St. Louis to Kansas City four years ago to live with his daughter, Mrs. Leslie C. Williams. He is survived by his daughter and a sister, Mrs. George P. B. Jackson of 953 Laurel street. Funeral plans have not been announced.

Mr. Vest was connected with the old Third National Bank and other St. Louis banks, and was in the auditing department of the 1904 World's Fair. More recently he was a deputy in the office of the United States Collector of Internal Revenue.

CONFERENCE ON PALESTINE WILL OPEN THIS MORNING

Following Session of Jewish Delegates, National Chairman Rothenberg Will Address Public Meeting.

A conference on Palestine, attended by delegates from Midwestern and Southwestern Jewish organizations, will be opened by Prof. Gustave Klausner, general chairman of the Arrangements Committee, at 10 o'clock this morning, at Hotel Statler. Resolutions on the course of Jewish action in relation to building up the Holy Land will be debated, and plans for a Midwestern and Southwestern regional board to be in charge of all regional activities relating to Palestine discussed.

A public meeting, to be addressed by Morris Rothenberg, national chairman of the American Palestine Campaign; Jacob de Haas, Jewish journalist, and others will be held at the conclusion of the sessions.

DELMAR BUS LINE EXTENDED

Daytime Service to Hanley Road to Get 60-Day Trial.

The People's Motorbus Co. line No. 1, Washington-Delmar, has been extended beyond its present terminus at Delmar and Kingsland avenue to Hanley road on request of residents of that section of University City.

Under the extension, which will have a 60-day trial, every fourth bus will run to Hanley road between 7 a. m. and 8:24 p. m. During the period of the day that the through service is in effect, the University City-Clayton line, No. 51, will detour at Delmar boulevard and Midland avenue, over Dorset avenue and Hanley road, passing the new University City High School.

RUDY VALLEE IS SUED OVER "VAGABOND LOVER"

Alleged Author of Song Seeks Accounting on $80,000 Profits.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—Suit asking Rudy Vallee to account for $80,000 profits from the song, "I'm Just a Vagabond Lover," was filed in Superior Court today by Leon Zimmerman, who claims to be author of the piece.

Zimmerman's attorney said his client agreed to place Vallee's name on the song as co-author, while Vallee was to popularize the song and divide the profits evenly. It was copyrighted by Zimmerman May 12, 1927, the bill set forth. The complaint charged that Vallee realized $55,000 from a motion picture based on the song and other profits totaled $25,000, of which Zimmerman contends he has not received a share.

A Circuit Court Master in Chancery recently upheld Zimmerman's claims to authorship in another suit in which he was challenged by Jesse Brown, Chicago attorney. Final decision in this case is pending in Circuit Court.

HERE'S THE SCIENTIFIC TRUTH ABOUT IT!

Most every year about this time, flu reports become more widespread. More and more people suffer from colds. And pneumonia cases are generally on the climb.

To safeguard ourselves, medical authorities everywhere advise the utmost care. Lowered resistance, they say, always makes us less able to fight off disease. And though the exact cause of flu is not scientifically certain, it's wise for all of us to keep our vitality high during this danger period. Eat nourishing food. Get plenty of sleep, fresh air and exercise. Avoid exposure. And start at once to take a good fortifying tonic.

Doctors advise Scott's Emulsion

Scott's Emulsion is recommended by doctors because it brings the remarkable health-building and disease-resisting vitamins of cod-liver oil—in the pleasantest, quickest way. Scott's Emulsion is emulsified. So it's free from that strong "fishy" taste. It's easier to take—easier to digest—and it's more quickly absorbed into the blood stream.

As a result, Scott's Emulsion benefits you almost immediately. It promptly strengthens and revitalizes weakened systems. It improves your weight and appetite. It increases your energy and resistance and helps you to fight off the dread attacks of pesky colds and other serious winter diseases.

Try Scott's Emulsion for pale, thin children, too.

Made of purest, tested Norwegian cod-liver oil, Scott's Emulsion is rich in vitamin A, the growth-promoting vitamin that helps guard against disease. It is rich in vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin that prevents rickets. It also contains vital mineral elements that aid in forming sound bones and teeth. This gives Scott's Emulsion a special advantage for growing children, infants, nursing and expectant mothers.

Get it to-day!

Try Scott's Emulsion confidently. It has helped millions. It tastes good! Children as well as grown-ups take it willingly. Get a bottle at your druggist's to-day!

15 YEARS of research
3 YEARS in the home

NOW a 3 YEAR GUARANTEE and LOWER PRICES

NOW, out of a performance record unmatched in the industry, comes a Three-Year Guarantee on the General Electric Refrigerator.

This remarkable warranty means that General Electric assumes responsibility for the performance of your refrigerator for three full years.

General Electric's new guarantee is based on the proved satisfaction of General Electric owners. It is complete confirmation of the soundness of the Monitor Top principle—with hermetically sealed mechanism—an engineering masterpiece perfected in 15 years of exhaustive research and test.

Today the General Electric offers you the full range of refrigerating convenience—fast-freezing of ice and desserts, three different zones of temperature, an All-Steel cabinet, broom-high legs, maximum food storage space, and a score of other advantages. Today, as always, General Electric's great dollar value is emphasized by its amazingly low operating cost.

General Electric Features

MONITOR TOP—houses the simple mechanism—hermetically sealed and permanently oiled—protected against air, dirt, and moisture.

FAST FREEZING—Accessible dial on top of cabinet speeds freezing of ice and desserts.

3 ZONES OF COLD—(1) for fast freezing, (2) for cold storage, (3) for food compartments. A fourth zone for moist cold storage of vegetables can be had with the SEALDCRISP container.

ALL-STEEL CABINET—Porcelain-lined. Rounded corners, easy to clean. Beautifully modern in design—"at home" in any kitchen.

GREATER STORAGE CAPACITY—utmost food storage space for outside dimensions. No cabinet space is taken up by mechanism.

SIMPLE INSTALLATION—plugs into nearest convenience outlet same as an electric fan. Is easily movable.

LOW OPERATING COST—General Electric design employs a smaller motor, using less current.

POULTRY SHIPPERS TO MEET

The twenty-third annual convention of the Missouri Egg and Poultry Shippers' Association will be held March 8-10 at Hotel Jefferson, with more than 400 shippers from over the United States in attendance.

Unusual interest is being shown in the convention, according to H. H. Bergman, secretary of the association, because of the low price of eggs during the winter and the consequent economic problem facing the industry. A. D. Greenlee of St. Louis is president of the organization.

RESEARCH BUREAU OUTLINES REMEDY FOR CITY'S DEFICIT

Says Municipal Revenue Will Be From $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 Short for Present Fiscal Period.

The Bureau of Municipal Research, in its bulletin "Mind Your Business," issued yesterday, declares that the city will have a deficit of $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 when the present fiscal year ends in April.

In the last 11 years, the Bureau states, the municipal revenue funds has shown a surplus only twice, in 1924 and 1928. In 1921, 1927 and 1929 the deficit exceeded $1,000,000. For last fiscal year it was $193,711.

"Why should St. Louis expenditures regularly exceed revenues?" the Bureau asks. "It is begging the question to say that revenues are insufficient. Unless and until more revenues are provided by equalization of assessments, expenditures must be held down.

"Revenues can be and are estimated with reasonable accuracy. But the budget for 1930-31 was not balanced in the beginning. Original appropriations from the Municipal Revenue Fund exceeded estimated revenues by $806,266. During the last seven months of 1930 further appropriations amounting to $459,419 were made. The deficiency bill, approved Feb. 2, 1931, provided for additional appropriations of $665,166 from the Municipal Revenue Fund. In other words, appropriations so far in the fiscal year have exceeded estimated revenues by $1,930,851.

"Of the additional appropriations made since the general appropriation ordinance was passed, $300,000 was for unemployed relief, which may be considered as a real emergency measure. Some $159,000 was appropriated for street improvements, special taxes against city property, Courthouse fixtures, and sundry relief bills. The deficiency bill appropriated $655,166 to a majority of the city divisions to meet current expenses for the balance of the fiscal year.

"With the exception of the unemployment relief bill, only a few small supplementary appropriations were in the nature of real and unexpected emergencies which could not have been foreseen at the beginning of the fiscal year. The general appropriation ordinance provided a fund of $165,000 for sewer assessments, street improvements and other contingencies which might arise during the year. None of this appropriation has been used, however, and will revert to the Municipal Revenue Fund to help cover a part of the impending deficit.

"The creation of a deficit is bad budget procedure. When the deficit is small, it may be taken care of in the subsequent annual budget. But when it amounts to approximately 10 per cent of the total revenues, as this year's deficit is estimated to be, it becomes a serious matter. Revenues are not increasing rapidly enough to take care of the deficits. It has been the experience of other cities that mounting deficits must be finally liquidated by the issuance of short time notes or bonds. This is obviously bad financial practice, for it forces future taxpayers to finance present current expenses and benefits.

"What then will prevent the future recurrence of municipal deficits which have the making of a serious situation for St. Louis? Perhaps the fundamental remedy is increased revenues, which are now held down by a tax limit in the State Constitution and low and inequitably assessed property valuations, as has been pointed out by the Bureau of Municipal Research in the past.

"But meanwhile what preventatives can be applied? They are relatively simple, but can only be applied and carried out by means of a strong determination on the part of the city. They are:

"(1) A balanced budget, in which proposed expenditures, including an adequate contingency fund, do not exceed a conservative estimate of revenues.

"(2) Control of appropriations by an allotment system by which the appropriations of each department are allotted by monthly or quarterly periods, and no department can exceed its allotment for the period without presenting reasons and receiving the approval of the Board of Estimate and the Board of Aldermen. This prevents a department from spending all of its money during the first part of the year, and finding itself with a deficit during the last month or two.

"(3) The practice of ruthless economy by department heads, who must cut down expenditures to fit their appropriations, and not assume, as some of them apparently have, that they can spend the amount of their budget request, instead of the amount of their budget allowance. This necessarily rules out all extensions of present services or the addition of new municipal services unless and until there are revenues forthcoming with which to finance them.

"There is need for attacking the revenue problem immediately in a fundamental and thoroughgoing manner. It cannot be done by soft-pedaling mounting deficits, and by assuming that somehow, some way, these deficits will be met in the future. Meanwhile, and for that matter at any time, the three principles of budget and accounting control outlined must be followed to keep the city from more serious financial difficulties and reverses."

ASSERTS BUDGET LAW DOES NOT HAMPER LEGISLATURE

Attorney-General in Opinion Says Asembly Is Supreme in Making Appropriations.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 28.—An opinion issued today by Attorney-General Stratton Shartel holds the Missouri Legislature is supreme in making appropriations for State departments and institutions, the State budget law passed by the 1929 Legislature notwithstanding.

The opinion, written by Walter E. Sloat, Assistant Attorney-General, was in answer to a query from Representative E. W. Kiethly, Ralls County, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, which asked if the Legislature could use "its own judgment in the matter of making appropriations."

Several State institutions and departments have asked that their appropriations be made in a lump sum, instead of by the detailed method followed by the State Tax Commission, which prepared the budget. The budget law, enacted by the last Legislature, prescribes the detailed procedure.

EVOLUTION PORTRAYED IN FILM

Museum of Natural History to Present Movie Thursday.

A motion picture presentation on "Evolution" will be held at 8:15 o'clock Thursday evening at the Hadley Vocational School, Waterman and Lake avenues, under the auspices of the Greater St. Louis Museum of Natural History. The picture portrays the progress of man and animals through the ages, showing microscopic animal life, reconstructions of prehistoric animals and the development of human races. It was prepared under the direction of members of the staff of the American Museum of New York.

At the time of the showing of the picture the museum organization will discuss plans for a museum building here. Dr. Edwin P. Meiners is secretary.

2 Children Reported Drowned.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Feb. 28.—Aunt's Creek in Stone County is being searched for the bodies of two children, a boy 8 and his 10-year-old sister, thought to have been drowned on a fishing party. The search is led by Hamp Holt, father of the children.

WIFE GETS LIFE IN KILLING OF HUSBAND

Convicted in Philadelphia of Plot With Brother, Who Received Death Penalty.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 28.—Mrs. William F. Prophet was convicted of murder in the first degree in connection with the killing of her husband and the penalty was fixed at life imprisonment.

Prophet, an advertising solicitor, was shot to death in his bedroom last Nov. 22 just before dawn. His wife's brother, Harold E. Williams, has been convicted as the actual murderer and sentenced to death.

The Commonwealth presented Mrs. Prophet's confession made to police in which she gave as the motive her desire to be rid of her husband, because life with him had become unbearable. The confession said her brother was in need of money and had agreed to kill Prophet for $500 of his $3000 life insurance.

On the witness stand, Mrs. Prophet repudiated this confession, asserting she had signed it without reading it. She denied she had plotted her husband's death or conspired with her brother to kill him. She accused Prophet of miserliness in household finances, attacked his moral life, told of mistreatment by him of herself and her 10-year-old daughter, whose illegitimacy, she said, Prophet had used as a club over her head. The defendant was Prophet's second wife. They had two small sons and the girl lived at her home. Mrs. Prophet is 32 years old. Her husband was 39.

Missouri Girl Made Happy

MANY times a child has everything to make her happy and still is discatisfied. This may not be the youngster's fault. Often it is due to a condition mother can easily correct.

Take the experience of Mrs. H. G. Witte, 8845 Lawn Ave., St. Louis, who says: "Nothing seemed to please Clara Marie. She was fretful, feverish, suffered a lot from colds. She was constipated.

"We saw California Fig Syrup advertised and got some. It relieved her trouble promptly; made her bright and happy again. We have used it for three years now for all Clara Marie's upsets, and heartily recommend it to all parents."

Mothers by thousands praise this pure vegetable product. Children love its rich, fruity flavor. Doctors recommend its gentle aid to relieve constipation, feverishness, fretfulness, headaches; to open the bowels in colds or children's ailments.

Appetite is increased by the use of California Fig Syrup; breath is sweetened; coated tongue is cleared; digestion and assimilation are aided. Weak bowels and stomach are strengthened. It helps listless, weak children to become strong and energetic again.

By James M. Gould.

With entry into the Western final of the U. S. F. A. cup competition as a prize, the Ben Millers of the St. Louis Soccer League and the Slavia eleven of Cleveland meet this afternoon at Sportsman's Park in the sectional semi-final game. Play will start at 3:30 p. m. in order that the game may not conflict with the Muny championship series between the Schenbergs and the St. Matthews at Fairgrounds Park. H. S. Pithie of Detroit will referee the Millers-Slavia game.

In the Slavias, Western semi-finalists by virtue of a victory over the Pittsburg Morgans, the Millers will be meeting an experienced eleven. Five of the Clevelanders played last year with the Bruells of Cleveland, who were beaten by Fall River in the National final. These cup-play veterans are Alex Ramsey, goal; George Caraffi, center half; Bob Wilson, center forward, Bill McWade, inside left, and Ralph Caraffi, outside left. Most of the other members of the Cleveland team played with the American-Hungarians two years ago when, playing in St. Louis, they were defeated by the Millers in an overtime game on a muddy field. Bookie, the Slavia inside right, played with Vaughan and Tracy of St. Louis on the U. S. team which competed in the international tournament at Montevideo last summer. Thus it may be seen that there is nothing "set-uppish" about the visiting eleven and it is entirely probable that the Millers will have to be at their best to earn a decision this afternoon.

It is difficult to correctly weigh the chances of the Millers. At times Manager Bill Foley's team looks like the proverbial "million dollars," and, at other times, the play of the club is expensive at a 30-cent rating. But, the Millers are a fighting team and are at their best when the going is toughest. They all are "money-players."

Millers at Full Strength.

The Millers had no easy path to the semi-finals. Their first cup game was with the Tablers, and Foley's eleven were given hardly a chance to come through. But they won, 5 to 3, in an extra period. In their other cup game they met the Coca-Colas and again were "odds against." Paying no attention to predictions, the Millers played their game and won from Phil Kavanaugh's team, 2 to 1.

The Millers will be at full strength this afternoon. They have enlisted the services of Jimmy Cro-

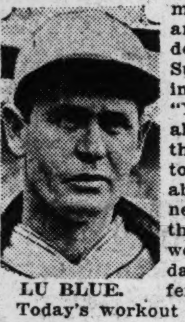
Browns Have Little Hope Blue Will Rejoin Club; Squad Rounding to Form

By John E. Wray,
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 28.—After six days of preliminary work under rather unfavorable weather conditions, Bill Killefer's youthful Brownies have made sufficient progress to assure a tough time for the regulars, when they report for duty here, Tuesday. While Old Sol refused to shine generously on more than one day since the club's arrival here, the team has not missed a workout.



LU BLUE.

To assist in catching up with lost time, Manager Killefer has decided to give his squad a brief drill tomorrow afternoon and perhaps will devote subsequent Sundays to working out his men. "Youngsters need all we can give them, and I want to satisfy myself about all of the new material on the squad before we leave Florida," was Killefer's comment.

Today's workout under lowering skies was one of the best the players have participated in. That juvenile infield continues to excite favorable comment on the part of onlookers. Today, however, Lin Storti at second had all the bounces going wrong and did not do himself justice. Burns at first was particularly effective.

Grimes Hitting Better.

In batting practice it was noticeable that Eddie Grimes is improving in his method of hitting. He had been taking a "double hitch" in his preliminary swing, and this was taken advantage of by opposing pitchers. He is being cured of this fault and now times his blows better.

Eddie is a great defensive third baseman and an improvement in his hitting conceivably could cause a big change in Manager Killefer's infield arrangement. The present plan contemplates using Levey at shortstop and Kress at third. But a slashing hitter at third base would perhaps lead Killefer to use Kress again at shortstop. Grimes' batting will therefore be watched with interest.

Apparently not much hope is entertained that Lu Blue will return to the club.

In that case, the eyes of the team's watchers will be on Irving Burns at first base. So far as can be judged from the preliminary practice, he is going to be a hard man to keep off the club because of his powerful swing. As mentioned before, the prime requisite for a job with the Browns this year is a lot of base hits.

Two Minor Injuries.

The squad has survived the first week of practice splendidly and only two men are under treatment by Tommy Bramell, the watchdog of sore arms and legs. Catcher Crouch wrenched his knee and Pitcher Stiely was hit on the elbow, neither casualty amounting to much. The pitchers' arms are something to brag about, and, of course, Sam Gray's fitness has caused a big jump in the team's stock. There seems no doubt in Manager Killefer's mind that this fine pitcher will see another great year after his eclipse of 1930.

Walter Stewart—here's a name to conjure with. Stewart is a trifle more muscular looking this year and is brown and healthy looking. All the management is praying for is more base hits to support this boy.

The team just about puts Walter at the head of the American League pitching list. With hitting like the Athletics afforded their pitchers, Walter might have been right up there with his left-handed rival, Grove, last year. Stewart is eagerly awaiting the arrival of the 1931 model official baseball. As told in dispatches some time ago, this has been changed from last year only in respect to the stitching. The seams of the 1931 ball are of coarser thread and cause a higher ridge.

Stewart Discusses New Ball.

Stewart, commenting on the possibilities of the new ball, told the Post-Dispatch:

"The bigger seam will undoubtedly help the curve ball pitchers, but I would like to try out one before expressing a positive opinion. Naturally the better the finger grip, the better the curve. All curve ball throwers always have used the seam to get the needed

Kress Makes Up Brownie 'Squad' From St. Louis

THE St. Louis division of the Browns' second "squad" departed yesterday for the West Palm Beach training camp.

He was Ralph "Red" Kress, the infielder who, according to present plans, will be transferred from shortstop to third base for the season of 1931. Kress played a few games at third toward the end of the 1930 campaign and, while he didn't cause any jealousy on the part of Pie Traynor, nevertheless did show enough adaptability for the position to make Bill Killefer believe the red-head might do at third.

Pink Defeats Field of 15 In Miami Nursery Stakes

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 28.—Over a fast track, but in the face of a strong wind, the Tennessee Stable's Pink, regarded by many horsemen as the best filly shown here, scored in a drive in winning the Nursery Stakes, No. 2, over a high-class field of 15 juveniles today.

George D. Widener's Seasaint was second and the Oakland Farm's Flying Home third.

Pink, in her first out here, was beaten, but her defeat was attributed to lack of racing education. Today she was in great form, and with Kurtsinger riding a great race, she got away well, but was a bit slow in getting into her racing stride. Meanwhile, Seasaint was racing in front and going very easy. However, in the final sixteenth Pink began to close, and in a hard drive gradually drew away from Seasaint to win by a length and pay $4.20.

Seasaint beat Flying Home half a length for the place. The race was worth $2820.

Raccoon was a handy winner of the fifth race, a handicap of a mile and one-sixteenth and paid $15.20 for a $2 mutuel ticket. Ell-Weir was second and Sun Mission third. Tantalizing led the field to the far turn, where Raccoon moved into command, and drew away in the stretch run to win handily by one and a half lengths. Ell-Weir beat Sun Mission two lengths for the place.

BEARS LOSE TO AGGIES AND MISS CHANCE TO WIN VALLEY CROWN

By the Associated Press.

STILLWATER, Ok., Feb. 28.—The Oklahoma A. and M. College basketball team defeated Washington University tonight in a close game by a score of 30 to 26.

By winning the Oklahoma Aggies were in position to end the season in a tie with Washington for the Missouri Valley Confrence title. Had the Bears won they would have clinched the title.

The Washington University team played its last game tonight, and if Oklahoma A. and M. wins its last game with Drake University here Monday night, it will share winning honors with Washington.

Washington led at the half, 9 to 6.

With two minutes to play, the score was tied, 26-all. Hensley then shot a long throw for a goal, and a short time later Blue shot a short throw for another goal, giving the Aggies the victory by two points.

Creighton Back in Valley Title Hunt.

By the Associated Press.

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 28.—Creighton University leaped back into the championship picture in the Missouri Valley Conference basketball race by defeating Drake here tonight, 29 to 21, as the Oklahoma Aggies were defeating the conference leaders, Washington University of St. Louis.

By defeating Grinnell here next Friday, the Bluejays can tie for the title.

Creighton led all the way.

THREE-WAY TIE FOR PREP LEAGUE LEAD MAY NOT BE BROKEN

A meeting of coaches and athletic directors of the three interested schools last night failed to develop a plan for the playing off of the three-way tie for the basketball championship of the Preparatory School League. St. Louis U. High, Christian Brothers' College and McBride High finished the regular season schedule in a tie for first place.

One of the customary rewards for the champion team is a trip to Chicago to represent the league in the National Catholic High School tournament. If there is no playoff it is unlikely that any team will be sent to Chicago.

MAX SCHMELING AND STRIBLING TO MEET IN ONE OF N. B. A. STATES

By the Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—Both Max Schmeling and W. L. (Young) Stribling have posted forfeits with the National Boxing Association to guarantee that their projected championship bout will be held in a state under N. B. A. jurisdiction. General John V. Clinnin, czar of the N. B. A., said tonight each fighter had deposited $2500 with him.

BILL TILDEN AGAIN DEFEATS KOZELUH

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 28.—William T. Tilden II won his eighth straight match of his touring series with Karel Kozeluh of Czecho-Slovakia at Olympia Arena tonight. Kozeluh took the first set, 7—5, and Tilden the next three, 6—4, 6—2, 10—8.

Emmett Pare defeated Francis Hunter, 6—4, 6—4, in the other singles match. The doubles match was canceled because of the time required for the singles.

THREE TIE GAMES IN BRITISH CUP SERIES

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 28.—Results of matches in the sixth round of the English Football Association cup competition played today were: Sunderland 1, Exeter City 1; West Bromwich Albion 1, Wolverhampton Wanderers 1; Everton 9, Southport 1; Birmingham 2, Chelsea 2.

Petrolle-Tut Suspensions Likely to Be Lifted Tuesday

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—The tides of suspicion rose and fell today and arguments were hot and vicious as to whether Billy Petrolle and King Tut, in their sixth engagement, staged one of those things last night in Madison Square Garden.

The New York State Athletic Commission, represented solely at the bout by John J. Phelan, made no move today to begin the investigation he ordered after Petrolle knocked the blonde Tut down and out in the fourth round of a savage melee. In the meantime, the Minnesota State Athletic Commission barred both battlers and their managers pending the outcome of the investigation.

The thing is all very mysterious and in the opinion of close observers will die a natural death somewhere along about the time that local commission meets here for its weekly meeting Tuesday. It is rather generally suggested that Phelan, in the absence of his two fellow commissioners, acted precipitously in ordering the purses of the warriors held up.

Tut Out of Hospital.

The fear that Tut, whose real name is Henry Tuttle, might be suffering from appendicitis was removed by the fighter's withdrawal this morning from the hospital where he was taken last night suffering from the pains in his body. Dr. William Walker, examining physician for the State Athletic Commission, could find no evidence that Tut was suffering from appendicitis after the match.

From Minneapolis came reports that odds in Tut's favor shifted suddenly before the match and a great deal of money was wagered at the last minute on Petrolle to win.

In New York the odds abruptly shifted before the bout from 8 to 5 in Tut's favor, to as high as 2 to 1 on Petrolle to win.

Suspended by N. B. A.

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—John V. Clinnin, president of the National Boxing Association, today announced the automatic suspension of Billy Petrolle and King Tut for their alleged fake fight in New York. He explained that the action, which will bar the two lightweights from further competition in the 30 states controlled by the N. B. A., was a consequence of their suspension by the Minnesota branch of the association.

Cochran Defeats Hoppe to Win Balkline Tourney

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Welker Cochran of Hollywood won the international 18.2 balkline billiard tournament tonight by defeating Willie Hoppe of New York in the final match, 400 to 191. The victory gave Cochran a final record of six triumphs against no defeats. Hoppe finished second with four wins and two defeats.

The other two competitors, Kinrey Matsuyama, of Japan, and Eric Hagenlacher, of Germany, finished in a tie for third place with one win and five defeats and will meet in a play-off at 400 points tomorrow night.

Cochran turned in the best game of the competition in beating back Hoppe tonight, needing only six innings to score his 400-points. After Hoppe had taken a lead with runs of 74 and 56, Cochran got the ivories under control and reeled off 157 caroms before he missed in the fourth inning. He followed this run-up with another of 118 in the fifth and ran out the match with 47 in the sixth.

The inning scores:

Hoppe	0	74	56	3	7	57	—191
Cochran	38	32	8	157	118	47	—400

High runs: Cochran 157, Hoppe 74.

Averages: Cochran 66 4-6; Hoppe 31 5-6.

St. Louis Boys Help Marquette Win Track Meet

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 28.

JACK TIERNEY, sophomore Marquette University sprint star from St. Louis University High School, was the outstanding star today as Coach Conrad M. Jennings' runners swamped Bradley Tech of Peoria, Ill., 68 to 36.

Tierney sat a new gymnasium record in winning the 220-yard dash in :24.3 seconds, shaving three-tenths of a second off the old record held jointly by Fred Alderman of Michigan State and Mike Treps of Marquette and which has stood since 1926. The St. Louis flyer also was first in the quarter-mile in :54.1 seconds, and was second in the 40-yard dash which was won by Johnny Sisk, Marquette football star, in :04.6 seconds.

Bob Nevin, another sophomore from Christian Brothers' School, St. Louis, was second in the high jump, third in the low hurdles, and third in the 40-yard dash.

Ban Johnson Unchanged.

The condition of Byron B. Johnson, former president of the American League, was reported as unchanged, at St. John's Hospital, last night. Johnson has been confined to the hospital several weeks suffering from diabetes and other complications.

KASTNER ROLLS 300, TAKES LEAD IN TOURNAMENT

Frank Kastner of the Chevrolet bowling team, rolled into the lead in Bobby Byrne's individual classic at the Grand and St. Louis drives last night with an 1842 total for the eight games including one of those rare birds in tournament play, a perfect score of 300.

Kastner shot an average for his eight games of slightly better than 230 with games of 238, 238, 227, 200, 300, 223, 182 and 234.

Winfield "Windy" Glaub and Lee Martin, teammates on the Witter Razz five, rolled into a tie for second place with scores of 1778.

Otto Stein, one-time all events champion of the A. B. C., also a member of the Witter quintet, was in third place with 1762. Ray Holmes, young star of the Wooster Lamberts, was fourth with 1727, and Oscar Whitehead fifth with 1703 when the first two squads finished.

A feature of the early competition in this classic was the appearance on the drives of Al Jellison, who was St. Louis' best bowler 25 years ago, trying a come-back at an age that is nobody's business. Al didn't do so well, getting a 1468 count for the eight games.

Four squads will bowl in the event today at 1:30, 3:30, 7:30 and 9:30 p. m.

ORDER FOR ARREST OF GEORGE GODFREY

NUEVO LAREDO, Mexico, Feb. 28.—Mexico City authorities today requested police here and at other border points to arrest George Godfrey, Philadelphia Negro heavyweight boxer, who defeated Dick Russell here five days ago. The message said that Godfrey, booked for a fight in the Mexico City Bullring today, had disappeared after accepting an advance payment.

JIM WILSON SAYS DEAN IS "IT" MAN OF BASEBALL

By J. Roy Stockton.
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

BRADENTON, Fla., Feb. 28.—Cardinal regulars are due to report Monday morning and they will find strong-armed pitchers in unusually good condition to give them all the batting practice they want.

"Not only that," Manager Gabby Street said this evening, after rain had prevented the afternoon workout. "My pitchers will be in grand shape for the exhibition games and I can send fine young pitchers against the enemy without worrying and with no danger of hurting anybody's arms. We've been here less than a week and we lost a day and a half because of rain, but I never saw pitchers get into condition so quickly."

"You're right, Sarge." Jimmy Wilson chipped in. "I never saw them start to throw stuff so soon in my experience as a Phillie and big league catcher."

"Why they're all throwing hooks and even knuckle balls. Rhem looks like he's in mid-season form, Dean and Derringer are ready and Grabowski is hooking them and throwing so many knuckle balls that I have to warn him."

Last Year's Experience.

"I expect to use Dean, Derringer and Stout against the Athletics in the first game," Street continued, "unless something happens the coming week to make me change my plans. They're in trim and we won't have to worry about the A's slugging our youngsters this year. Remember last season we had to play an exhibition after less than a week of work and it was dangerous. Now our staff is in shape and our hitters will have a chance to tune up their batting eyes before we have to play a game. Everything is coming along fine and it looks like we'll go out of Florida in grand shape."

Street was asked if he planned to work Hallahan as hard as he did last spring. Fans will remember that Gabby devoted almost half his time to the young southpaw.

"It worked last season, so I'll follow the same plan this year." Street replied. "Of course, I'll wait till next week before I give anybody any punishing work. You know, there's great danger of charley-horses if the boys run hard and start and stop quickly before their legs are in shape.

"This week should toughen the leg muscles so the boys can go the limit and they'll do that little thing pretty soon."

Dean Has Everything.

Wilson was asked if any of the young pitchers had shown anything impressive and Jim cut a big grin as he replied that Dean certainly had something to show. So he was asked to lucidate. "Just what did Dean have?"

"Everything," Jim replied. "Just everything. Speed, curves, control, change of pace and that kid surely knows what he's doing out there. He can do anything on that diamond. Hit, run, field, bunt and I believe he'd make a good catcher, a great first baseman or anything you needed. He's got baseball 'it.'"

Wilson also had a good word to say as to Kaufman, Stout and Derringer. Several of the youngsters, not on the Cardinal roster, also have impressed, but they're just here to pitch to batters and with such a large pitching staff in Redbird colors, there's no chance for any of the youngsters to avoid the trip to one of the farms. However, they're getting a taste of big league life and that's another of Robins Play Nine-Inning Practice Game—Mack Says It's A Great Year for Recruits to Break In—McGraw's Fame Attracts Japanese Observers.

By the Associated Press.

CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 28.—Joe Shaute was the losing pitcher in today's nine-inning practice game in the Brooklyn Robins camp, but Wilbert Robinson, plump manager of the Robins, thinks the former Cleveland Indian ace will be a big help in the coming National League campaign.

Shaute pitched with a free and easy motion that indicated he has recovered from the sore arm that cost him his place with the Indians.

Mack Observing "Kids."

FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 28.—Only a few regulars have taken part in the Athletics' training thus far, and Manager Connie Mack has had plenty of opportunity to look over his recruits.

In one of his brief talks to the squad, Mack said that young men possessing baseball talent have a better chance to break into the majors this season than for years.

"We, too, are looking for young men," he said. "I need pitching strength, and I hope it comes from this young crop."

SOME BIG NAMES, BUT FEW PLAYERS ON BASEBALL'S 1931 'HOLDOUT' LIST

HAFEY, HERMAN, TERRY AND KLEIN AMONG STARS LATE IN SIGNING

By Herman Wecke.

Major league baseball players, worried over the present "hard times" or the fact that they may have to fight for regular jobs, have come into the fold with signed contracts, and now, with all the teams in training, there are few holdouts. All told, there were some nine dissatisfied athletes, according to the latest available reports. Some of these, however, are real stars, potent factors in the welfare of their respective nines.

On the 1931 "holdout" list have appeared the names of Bill Terry of the Giants, Dazzy Vance and Babe Herman of the Robins, Eddie Morgan of the Indians; Chick Hafey of the Cardinals and Chuck Klein of the Phillies. Lesser lights included Horace Ford of the Reds, Sam Byrd of the Yankees and Art Veltman, a rookie catcher with the Braves. Al Simmons, the big gun of the world champion Athletics, delayed signing, but he cannot be regarded as a holdout in the true sense, inasmuch as he has had no salary conference with Manager Connie Mack. As was the case a year ago, Simmons is at Hot Springs to get into condition, and will not report in Florida. Thus he will not see Mack until early in April. A year ago Simmons did not sign his contract until the Mackmen had taken the field for their first championship game. It may be the same this spring.

Stars Needed by Teams.

Vance and Herman are important cogs in the Brooklyn machine. Wilbert Robinson, who has visions of a pennant, needs Vance's pitching and Herman's slugging. And McGraw needs Bill Terry about as badly as he needs his right eye. According to reports, there is quite a difference between the sum offered and demanded in the case of Terry and the Giants. Terry outdid Lou Gehrig of the Yankees in about everything last season and he wants a 1931 salary somewhere on a par with the new contract signed recently by the Yankee first sacker. Without Terry, a really great player, the New York Nationals would not look so "hot" for the pennant race.

Although Burt Shotton has numerous sluggers on his roster, those long hits of Chuck Klein will be needed. Eddie Morgan, given a chance at first base last season, after being none too good in the outfield, came through in great fashion. He topped his club in home runs and now he wants the salary of a real star. He has threatened to retire and go into business. If he does, Cleveland will have to put Lew Fonseca back at the initial sack.

Ford recently announced that the Reds had asked him to accept a salary cut of $4500 and that rather than take it he would retire. As far as Byrd and Veltman are concerned, their clubs probably could worry along without them.

But then it's quite a time before the first salary checks roll around and maybe all the boys will be in line before the season opens, April 14. Holdoutitis is chronic with several of the athletes, so their failure to come into the fold cannot be taken too seriously.

Heavy Training This Week.

The two St. Louis teams have their usual holdout this spring. Last year, the Browns had George Blaeholder and Heine Manush. Now Manush is gone and Blaeholder came into the fold early. In fact, he went South with the first detachment. Now the Cardinals have Hafey who is still in California waiting for the club to give him $15,000 a year.

With the pitchers and catchers having had a week of work, the regulars of the Browns and Cardinals are scheduled to get down to work for the coming flag campaign this week. Bill Killefer, not having a great deal of talent at his disposal, knows pretty well what he will have. Not so with Gabby Street.

At the Cardinals' Bradenton camp, there is promise of several lively fights for regular berths when the athletes get down to real labor. For instance, at first base, there will be the battle between Bottomley and Collins. At third base, Eddie Delker is counted on to make it a battle with "Sparky" Adams. Then Pepper Martin is being touted as a regular in the outfield. And also the Cardinals still have Jerome Herman "Dizzy" Dean, the young pitcher, who threatens to become one of the most colorful characters baseball has known in some time.

Thus while the spring training work of the Browns will be more or less a cut and dried affair, plenty of spice will be added to the Cardinals' work.

AL BROWN ORDERED TO DEFEND HIS TITLE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 28.—The National Boxing Association today issued notice that Al Brown, bantamweight champion, who is now in Europe, will be given time to fill dates at Paris and Barcelona, Spain, but must defend his title on his return to America in April.

Tommy Freeman, welter champion, has petitioned for more time, owing to recent illness.

Bacon, St. Charles	Forward	Johnson, University City
Towers, St. Charles	Forward	Devine, Webster Groves
Hall, Ferguson	Center	Brossard, Maplewood
Houston, Wellston	Guard	Harkey, Webster Groves
Miler, Maplewood	Guard	Williams, Ritenour

HONORABLE MENTION: Forwards—Randolph, Ritenour; Zimmerman, Hancock; Bockenheide, Fairview; Ker, Maplewood; Pierce, Kirkwood; Tice, Maplewood; Huckleberry, Webster Groves. Centers—Pickering, St. Charles; Meisel, University City. Guards—Lueckerath, Ferguson; Scholle, St. Charles; Wallebrock, St. Charles; Murray, Wellston; Rogers, Normandy; Rhyne, Maplewood; Deckert, University City; Young, Normandy; Kercheval, Jennings; Young, Normandy.

St. Charles High, winner of the County League basketball title, placed two players on the 1930-1931 All-Star team of the conference. Maplewood, runner-up for the crown, Ferguson and Wellston each received one position. Webster Groves, which is re-entering the league this month, placed two men on the second team, while University City, Maplewood and Ritenour were represented at the other positions. The two teams were selected for the Post-Dispatch by the coaches and officials of the league.

Bacon and Towers, the St. Charles forwards, were undoubtedly the outstanding players at the position and were selected by nine of the 15 coaches. Their offensive work was one of the main reasons for St. Charles' 16 straight victories this season. Bacon received honorable mention on last year's all-star five.

The center position proved the most difficult, as there were no really good centers in the league. Hall of Ferguson, however, was chosen the best of the lot by eight coaches. He played almost any position on his team, and, with the exception of Lueckerath, who broke his arm in mid-season, was the driving force that put Ferguson within striking distance of the title.

Houston of Wellston and Miller of Maplewood were chosen for the guard positions. Houston was the back-bone of the Wellston five and his great offensive play enabled that team to upset many highly-touted title aspirants. He was named center on last year's five, but this year was shifted to guard. Miler's playing on the Maplewood team was not as good this season as last, when he was the main cog in Maplewood's offense and defense.

The second team would have almost as much power as the first in its attack, but it probably could not withstand the latter's offense. Both Johnson of University City and Devine of Webster Groves are accurate shots. Brossard, all-county center last season, was not a standout this year. Williams, one of the guards, was considered the main spring in the Ritenour team. Harkey, captaining the Webster quintet this year, was selected for the other guard position.

today, but afforded the pitchers no rest from their daily task of learning how to field. Perhaps no major league manager devotes so much time to this defensive aspect as does Joe McCarthy, the Yankees' new pilot.

Shotton Boasts Reserves.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., Feb. 28.—Burt Shotton, manager of the Phillies, said today that for the first time since he took over the management he will start the 1931 season with "real reserve material." "I am not predicting just yet, but I do think we will get out of last place if two new men come up to expectations and make good," he said.

Japanese Watch Giants.

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 28. — H. Koshimoto and M. Hongo arrived from far-off Tokio today to study major league baseball as it is taught by John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants. The Orientals plan to stick around a while and watch McGraw's methods. Then they'll return home and teach youngsters in their own land the inside stuff they pick up.

A two-hour drill on routine occupied the Giants today.

Griffith Likes Bonus Plan.

BILOXI, Miss., Feb. 28.—Clark Griffith has no objection to paying his pitchers on a piece-work basis in proportion to the number of victories they turn in.

Not only did the Washington owner of the Nationals agree to incorporate in Ad Liska's contract a provision that will compensate him proportionately to the extent of improvement over his 1930 record of nine won and seven lost, but he announced he would make similar arrangements with any of his other flingers who foresee a big year.

The youthful submarine hurler's signature left Fred Marberry and Jack Hayes the only unsigned men on the roster.

the advantages of bringing them to camp.

Sylvester Johnson is still missing and the theory is that he has broken down on the road somewhere. He will have a long story to tell when he arrives.

Wilson says Johnson won't suffer by being tardy, as he needs only three or four days to put his arm in condition. He'll start throwing with mid-season speed the first day in camp.

Manager Street has ordered his athletics to report at the park tomorrow for morning practice. Prospects are for a rainy spring and he doesn't want to miss any good days, so if the sun is shining the boys will work from 9:30 to noon. It will be the last Sunday of the trop without an exhibition game, by the way.

Avon Park Wants Cards.

Norton Smith, former Mayor of Avon Park, where the Cardinals trained in 1927, 1928 and 1929, visited Sam Breadon here today and asked the Red Bird president to consider Avon Park as the 1932 training camp. The weather probably would be better there, with less rainfall, but the park here is such a good one that it is unlikely that Sam will seriously consider a change.

Charley Gelbert is taking off weight rapidly. He circles the park with the other athletes, takes part in fielding and batting and then hikes to the outfield to chase flies with the pitchers. Charley is a big man and wants to strengthen his legs to avoid the danger of a charley-horse, which bothered him last summer.

Mike Gonzales, the veteran Cuban catcher, can pound the ball as well as ever. He'll help the Cards this year, both as catcher and pinch hitter.

Don't tell me that ball is any slower," manager Street said, in a conversation with Sam Breadon over the new raised seams.

"But is it any faster?" Sam asked.

"It couldn't be," was Street's comeback.

"It will cut down the batting, though, you can bet on that," Jimmy Wilson's comment.

"Veteran pitchers will be able to do tricks with it that they couldn't do with the old smooth cover. You'll see some fancy curves this year from Haines, Grimes, Rhem and Hallihan. Grimes and Haines, I believe, will be aided more than any others on our staff."

The covers on the new balls are not as tight as on the old ball. The players believe the ball will not cut up as easily as the old ball and that balls will remain in play longer, which will help the pitchers.

nin of the Tablers, that player not having been "cup-tied" by previous competition, and Cronin will be at inside right. Dueker, Tabler goalie, also will be a reservist. If the Millers have any departmental weakness, it probably lies in the half-back line, but Croak, Tracy and Diaz may prove they deserve higher rating than that at present given them. Hamm, Erbe and Vaughan form a strong combination in front of the Miller goal, and there is plenty of scoring strength in the forward line of Curran, Cronin, Kickham, Nash and Mulroy.

While the Millers and Slavias are playing here, the Bricklayers and Swedish-Americans, both of Chicago, will be competing in the other semi-final, with Oscar Mossman of St. Louis as the referee. Assisting Referee Pithie here will be Jimmy Dunn and Ribby Murphy as linesmen.

Mount Vernon High Wins.

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., Feb. 28.—Mount Vernon's basketball team brought their 1930-31 schedule to a successful end last night by defeating its old rivals, Marion, in a last-minute rally in which the winning goal was scored as the gun, ending the game, was fired. The count was: Mount Vernon 20, Marion 19.

JOHN DOEG BEATS BERKELEY BELL TO WIN BERMUDA TITLE

By the Associated Press.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Feb. 28.—John Hope Doeg, champion and No. 1 ranking player of the United States today annexed the Bermuda championship, defeating Berkeley Bell of Texas, in the finals, 6-4, 2-6, 6-1, 6-3.

The former Californian, now living in Newark, N. J., played consistent tennis to defeat the Texas star who played brilliantly and poorly by turns. Bell ran off four straight games after the count was two all to take the second set.

Bothered by the calling of foot faults and failure to get his service working, Bell tossed away the third set deliberately, but then could not rally sufficiently in the final to halt the hard stroking, left-handed Doeg.

ED SERRANO HEADS TENNIS RANKINGS OF O'FALLON PARK CLUB

Edmund H. Serrano, former city champion, heads the official men's singles ranking of the O'Fallon Park Tennis Club for 1930 according to the list announced last night. Mrs. Virginia B. Dueker, national public parks woman titleholder, was ranked first in the women's singles event.

The ranking list follows:

NORTHWESTERN CLINCHES BIG TEN BASKETBALL TITLE

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 28. — Northwestern University Wildcats clinched the Big Ten basketball championship here tonight by defeating Ohio State, 32 to 18. The game belonged to the Purple all the way, with left forward Reiffe leading the attack, scoring three field goals and dropping three foul throws through the hoops.

The Wildcats displayed crafty floor work in sifting through the Ohio guards. Riel, right forward, was just behind his running mate, Reiffe, in point totals, for he sent two field goals down and garnered three single markers on foul throws.

Fesler played in his usual brilliant style for the Buckeyes. He led the scoring for Ohio State with three field goals.

The score at half time was: Northwestern 13; Ohio State 5.

Illinois Is Easy Victor Over Iowa.

By the Associated Press.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Feb. 28.—Illinois' rejuvenated basketball team tonight rang up its sixth consecutive Big Ten victory, swamping Iowa, 31 to 13, in the closing home game of the Illini season.

Illinois got away to a fast start and all through the first period, scored almost as it pleased. Harper and Bennett, aided by Red Owen, found it easy to break through the Hawkeye defense and the decision was well in hand before the opening period ended.

Iowa tightened up in the second period and managed to hold Illinois to a 7 to 5 advantage but found little opportunity to do any shooting. In this period, Williamson, Iowa's high scoring forward, fell and crashed his head on the floor and was carried to the dressing room.

Purdue Rallies to Beat Gophers.

By the Associated Press.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 28. — Johnny Wooden and Charley Stewart were the main springs in a Purdue basketball rally in the last half which defeated Minnesota here tonight, 33 to 28.

The game was fast but ragged throughout. Minnesota led at the half, 13 to 12, then jumped out in front toward the latter part of the second period, 22 to 17. Stewart and Wooden then flipped in five baskets between them, to give the Boilermakers a lead which they held for the rest of the game.

Michigan Wins Over Wisconsin, 26-15.

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 28. — Michigan's in-and-out basketball five held to its tie with Purdue for third place in the Western Conference race by defeating Wisconsin 26 to 15 tonight in the new Badger fieldhouse.

Every man in the Wolverine line-up connected for one or more field goals, while Steen, Wickman and Poser bore the weight of the Wisconsin attack. The victory was Michigan's sixth of the Big Ten season, and the defeat was Wisconsin's seventh in 11 games.

Indiana Defeats Chicago, 33 to 22.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—Indiana's basketball team squared up for an early season defeat, tonight, walloping Chicago 33 to 22, on the Maroon's home floor.

The Hoosiers took the lead at the start, and held it to the middle of the second session when Chicago staged a spurt that took it to a 21-21 tie.

HANDICAP ENTRIES TO CLOSE TONIGHT

Entries for the Industrial Handicap bowling tournament, to be held at the Rogers Recreation alleys, and the annual Fraternal-Civic Club handicap tourney, scheduled for Frank Heidel's alleys, close tonight. The Industrial tourney will be rolled on Saturdays and Sundays and will begin March 14. The Fraternal-Civic Club meet is open to members of any fraternal order or civic club, the one restriction being that all members of any five-men or two-men team must hold membership in the same order or club. Full information can be secured from Frank Heidel, GRand 9139.

A mixed doubles contest is scheduled for the Arway Recreation alleys tonight. This event, a handicap affair, is open to any bowler who rolls in a sanctioned league. Entry fee is $2 per couple. Two squads will roll, the first going on at 7 o'clock.

Frank Heidel will hold a mixed doubles sweepstakes at his alleys next Sunday. Two cups will be awarded the winning team in addition to cash prizes. The event will be four games.

Dykes Showed Quick Wit On Double Play in World Series, McGraw Points Out

By John J. McGraw.
Manager, New York Giants.

IN describing the latter part of the second game of the last world series, played in Philadelphia, several of the writers in their play-by-play accounts said: "A genuine bad break stopped the Cardinals' threatened rally in the eighth inning and the game was soon over."

That brief mention refers to one of the great plays of the series which was more the result of alertness and quick thinking that luck. This brilliant play was made by Jimmy Dykes, a fighting ballplayer of the old-fashioned type. Jimmy may be somewhat slower than other stars in the legs but he is certainly not handicapped that way in the brain. He is a competitive player of the highest type—not merely a piece of muscular machinery.

The score at the time was 6 to 1 in favor of the Athletics, but any sort of a rally might have changed everything. For several minutes it looked as if the "break" the Cardinals had been awaiting had really come. Earnshaw was pitching and had been doing a good job of it, though the Cardinals had hit him often. Already they had been robbed by several fielding plays that seemed impossible. In fact, no game in the series furnished more sparkling plays in the field than that second fight.

THIS particular inning started off with Sparky Adams driving a clean single to right. The Cardinals, still full of fight, jumped at the chance. Frankie Frisch, batting left-handed, picked on one and with a vicious whack sent the ball toward third base. It looked like a sure single.

Jimmy Dykes evidently had been on the lookout for a ball hit down his way, though the general thought was that Frisch would hit to right field. At the crack of the bat, Adams was on his toes ready to tear around on the hit.

Dykes, taking one step backward, leaped high in the air, reached for the ball and it hit his outstretched glove. As the ball stuck, the St. Louis rooters groaned.

ORDINARILY the making of that catch and getting one man would seem sufficient, but Jimmy Dykes, being a real ballplayer, thought out another possibility as he jumped. Anyway, Dykes' feet came to the ground in the right position for him to make a throw. Without hesitation he whipped the ball to Foxx at first base—a perfect peg—and Adams was caught off the bag for a double play. That was a really great play—correctly thought out and perfectly executed.

Had Dykes failed to make the catch the Cardinals would have had two on and none out. It was indeed a bad break for the St. Louis outfit, but I give the credit to Jimmy Dykes and not to luck.

resistance. With a bigger seam the breaks should be wider and perhaps sharper.

"The wind resistance? That may interfere with the speed of delivery but that won't bother most curve throwers. Speed is not the first requisite for curve pitching. It's the control of the break and the sharpness of the bender that counts.

"I don't think the new ball as described will bother the hitters if they are able to meet the ball. In the first place, neither the cover nor the inside makeup of the ball has been changed, I am told. In that case the ball will travel just as before. If Babe Ruth meets one solidly, I don't think the wind resistance agains the slightly higher seams is going to stop the ball. When Babe hits them, they stay hit."

Stewart should know. He has had good success in fooling the Bambino in past years, although once last year Babe caught him twice in the same game for murderous wallops.

"Babe once was easy for a curve ball left-hander," Stewart observed. "But he is no longer. The curve and the change of pace occasionally made him look foolish. In my opinion Ruth is a better batter today than when he was a few years younger. He makes more base hits and most of them are still hard and long ones. He will have another big year if his condition is as good as the newspaper dispatches say it is."

The Case of Lu Blue.

Lu Blue, Waddey, Young and Collins are the alleged holdouts of the club. Rather, they have not signed contracts. Blue is not due in camp but the others are all supposed to be on the ground.

Blue's future is uncertain. His contract has been greatly reduced, but possibly he is included in the bonus plan, according to which exceptional performance would be exceptionally rewarded. It is hard to believe that this great player could have collapsed within one year. If his arm is in shape his presence on the club will do much to stabilize first base. Burns is making a big jump from Wichita Falls and it remains to be seen whether his hitting and his fielding will measure up. He is young and will be a fixture, but an ace in the hole like Blue might help.

Young, a good hitter in the Association last year, is needed. All hitters are needed by the Browns. It is true that there isn't much chance that he will be in the important games but the club is far from being wealthy in backstops.

What would happen to this department if Ferrell suffers an injury is painful to contemplate, especially with Young absent. The only other catcher would be Jack Crouch, a fine-looking husky young fellow who, of course, lacks big league experience. The club is not sitting pretty in its catching department. That can not be denied.

Heydler Opposes Bonus Plan.

President John Heydler of the National League was a visitor in Palm Beach today, on purely social affairs.

"It's going to be a great year for the National League, if the advance signs mean anything," Heydler commented. "Five clubs all in the race and you can take your pick which is the best. The weaker clubs of last year are better. We had a great attendance record last year. In view of the depression elsewhere it seems to show that baseball goes on when other forms of entertainment fail. We look for a big season this year."

Heydler is in Florida on a pleasure trip and was accompanied by his wife.

Firpo Joseph to Box on Amateur Card Friday

Fred (Firpo) Joseph, St. Louis University athlete, will make his initial appearance in local fistic competition Friday night when he takes on an opponent yet to be selected in the feature glove match on Kid Bandy's amateur boxing card at Rodenberg Hall, 6200 North Broadway.

Joseph, whose home is in Akron, O., is more than 6 feet tall and weighs about 210 pounds. He has been boxing as an amateur for about five years, but not in regular competition. He held the amateur ring title in his home city before coming to St. Louis U.

The heavyweight boxing championship of St. Louis U. has been in his possession for three straight years. In matches that he fought for the Billikens in collegiate competition he won with apparent ease, most of the victories being chalked up via the kayo route.

"Firpo" has played tackle on the Blue and White varsity eleven for the last three years.

Les Schulte, Dan O'Keefe's National A. A. U. junior heavyweight champion, is included among the battlers Bandy is trying to sign as a foe for Joseph.

Joey Parks, Wesley House lightweight, and George Biehl, Sherman Park welterweight, are in line to be contestants in specials on the card. Biehl owns two triumphs over Joey Huff of the E. K. A. C., who recently outpointed Joe Herbst Jr.

Yale Frosh Beat Harvard, 47-20

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 28.—Yale's undefeated freshman basketball team won its fourteenth straight victory here tonight at the expense of its traditional rival, the Harvard first-year team, by the overwhelming score of 47-20.

The exceptional play of the Blue cubs was noticeable from the outset of the first period on. At the end of the first quarter the teams were tied at 8-all, and the Yale five forged ahead rapidly from then on.

Ben Reese of St. Louis was one of the outstanding players for the New Haven outfit and it was mainly through his efforts that the Harvard forwards were stopped. Reese, who has been playing despite an injured knee, scored only one field goal himself, but his work on the defense was indispensable to the Blue victory.

The Yale freshman team is reputed to be able to trim the varsity almost at will in their practice sessions this year, and those who watched the yearlings in action tonight, could well believe it.

Last Saturday night, at New Haven, the Yale Freshmen defeated the Princeton Freshmen, 33 to 26.

HARRY HEILMANN IN HOSPITAL; ARTHRITIS HAS HIM CRIPPLED

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 28.—The severely swollen right wrist that has prevented Harry Heilmann, slugging outfielder for the Cincinnati Reds, from joining his teammates in camp at Tampa, Fla., today sent him to the Jewish Hospital here for two weeks' observation by several physicians and specialists.

Club officials fear that the attack of arthritis which caused the wrist to swell may prevent him from attending training camp and getting into the opening lineup this season.

CARNERA TO RESUME TRAINING TODAY FOR HIS FIGHT WITH MALONEY

MANY EXPERTS PICK PRIMO TO STOP RIVAL IN THREE ROUNDS

By John E. Wray,
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 28.—If everything seems rosy in the camp of Primo Carnera tomorrow afternoon this most spectacular of all fighters will endeavor to resume training for the "battle of the tenth rib," next Thursday night, at the Garden Corporation's big wooden bowl here.

This is in spite of the fact that Primo's manager, like Mrs. Enry Awkins, first said he wouldn't, then said he couldn't and finally declared he shouldn't let Primo box Jimmy Maloney on the date named. Whether the unfortunate plight of the promoters touched See's heart, whether Primo showed unexpected improvement, following his week of rest, or whether Mr. See felt that he had effectually established his alibi in case of Carnera's defeat is not known. But he has decided that he will let the "man mountain" attempt to resume light training.

About all Carnera will try, See told the Post-Dispatch, is bag-punching. That will be attempted to find if the effects of striking a blow inconveniences the big boy or causes him twinges of the celebrated cracked rib.

"He has not been able to do one bit of work since we discovered the injury," said Manager See.

Has Taken On Weight.

"Of course he has taken on some weight and has lost ground. We are going into the ring in any event and hope everything will come out all right. However, as I told you before, we will not take chances with our man. He is young and has his career before him. We cannot risk a more serious injury."

Carnera has not seemed to be in very good spirits, probably because he wants to go ahead with the business of training for a fight against the judgment of his manager. Carnera is willing to fight—there isn't any doubt of that. If he can sharpen his aim between tomorrow and fight night, he will not have lost any serious ground. Carnera is no boxer at his best. The lay-off can't hurt his skill much.

In the meantime, at Edward James Maloney's camp, everything is serious. If this were a championship event, the Irishman could not have worked more faithfully. Day after day for three weeks or more he has boxed and trained hard and he really is in splendid condition. Perhaps it is Maloney's seriousness that is reflected in Manager See's effort to place Carnera on the hospital list. It must be remembered that Primo is to fight for the title next September, and another setback by Maloney might alter promotion plans.

Many Pick Maloney to Win.

There are many here who, after looking over Maloney, believe he will repeat his Boston victory. Others recall the in-and-out record of James, the strong boy, and are inclined to dismiss the possibility with the rather cynical remark: "He's away from Boston now and he won't have a home referee this time."

Maloney's record for the past year was not at all convincing. Although he knocked out Armand Emanuel and Al Friedman to start the year, Emanuel later defeated him, as did Johnny Risko. Risko, by the way, knocked out Maloney in 1929. It's hard to pick a fighter with a record which, for sheer changeability would make a chameleon envious.

When Maloney defeated Carnera in Boston, thereby surprising the world, he did it by "taking it on the lam." In addition, when he couldn't fight a parthian battle on the runaway, he closed in and hugged until Primo plucked him off. He fought to stay the 10 rounds—and he did it. And it is entirely possible he may repeat the tactics and the victory—it's all up to the referee.

McClelland Will Referee.

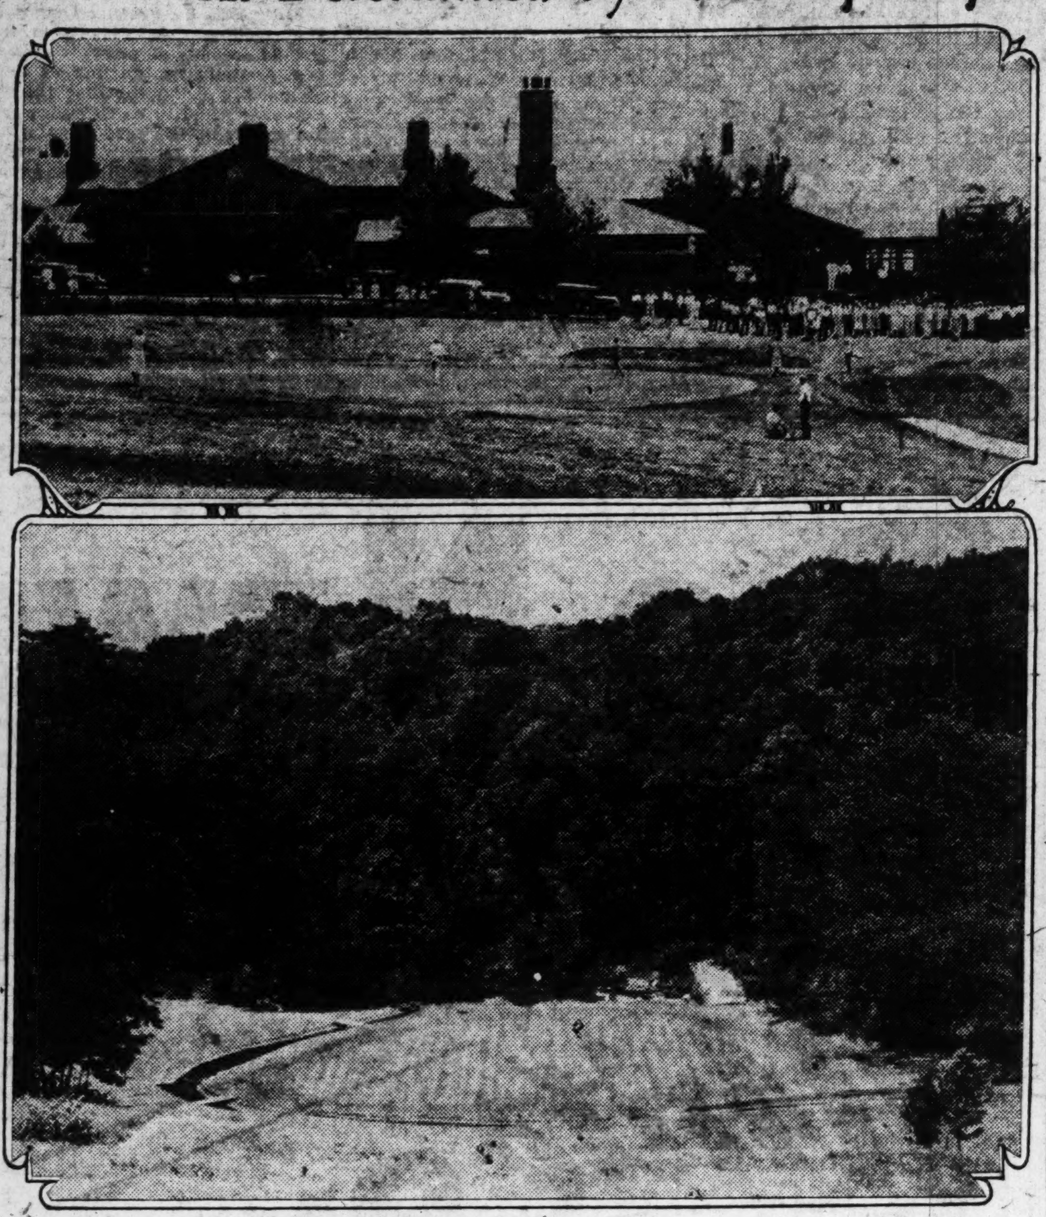
This gentleman has been named. He is Elmer (Slim) McClelland of Detroit. See refused to permit Johnny Martin of Boston, one of Maloney's friends, to preside. "Anybody but a man from Boston," was the only stipulation Carnera supporters made. McClelland will shoulder all the responsibility next Thursday night. At the Risko fight the commission named three judges, who ballotted on the result of each fight, the majority vote determining the winner.

The helpful effect of the fine fight between Risko and Walker was felt immediately after that show. The Carnera box office did a big business next day — about $4000—and has been doing nicely since. The management thinks now that the show will go over nicely, as everybody is working on percentage. Seat prices run from $2 to $15, so that the gate seems fairly certain to reach the $100,000 mark. If it does everybody will be happy.

In the meantime the wise boys are discrediting Carnera's injury and picking him to win within three rounds. As one smart member of the Maloney camp remarked: "It's better than an even money shot that Carnera won't catch up with Maloney in three rounds."

Which is rather an ominous prediction—indicating that ringsiders will see a hit-and-run battle.

"Best 18 Holes" in St. Louis District
As Determined by Ballot of Golfers



No. 18 green at the St. Louis Country Club (top), showing the deep trap in front, and, below, No. 13 green at Sunset Hill Country Club with the artificial water hazard to the left and in front. The tee is on a high hill 130 yards from the green.

By W. J. McGoogan.

One unfailing topic of conversation wherever a golfer meets another is "the best golf holes" on his or any other course. Players in the St. Louis district have argued this question after every tournament so with a view of getting an idea as to what would be an "All Star St. Louis District Course" the Post-Dispatch asked some 20 professional and amateur players to submit their choices as to the 18 holes in the district which, if put together, would make the best possible championship course in the district.

Men representing each club in the district who are known to play many of the courses and who are familiar with most of them, were asked to do the picking, bearing in mind that the ideal course should have a length of about 6700 yards and a par of 72 and include two par fives and two par threes on each nine.

Thirteen of those asked to make selections responded and the "course," a card of which is presented herewith, is the result.

The "course" totals 6775 yards, with 3248 yards for the out nine and 3527 for the home nine.

Five at Country Club.

Five holes on the All Star course went to the Country Club, four to Normandie, three to Sunset, Midland Valley and Westborough two each, Glen Echo and Algonquin one each.

Many of the judges pointed out that some of the courses were not entirely familiar to them and for that reason they did not pick a hole from certain clubs but it is noticeable that players from those clubs did include a hole from them in their selections. The new Westwood course in particular was passed up by the judges, with the explanation that it is too new to be judged properly, while Osage, Hillcrest, Crystal Lake and St. Clair are not familiar to many players communicating.

Some holes received a preponderance of votes for their places and No. 14 at Sunset Hill received the largest majority, 12 of the 13 selectors picking it. Eleven believe that No. 10 at Normandie is the best No. 10 in the district.

Also there was a wide divergence of opinion among the judges as to other holes. Nine different No. 5s were named, but No. 5 at Midland Valley received the high of three votes while for several holes as many as eight figured in the voting.

"All - America" Pick Out.

One peculiarity was that No. 3 at Normandie was picked, although No. 3 at the Country Club was named on an "All-America" course a few years ago.

Many holes were eliminated from consideration because of the fact that they would not fit in with the course. No. 1 at Glen Echo, for instance, is regarded as a great hole, but the judges declared that it is too exacting for a No. 1 hole, but it would surely belong on an ideal course if it were placed farther along the line.

Another surprise was the selection of No. 17 at Normandie over No. 17 at Sunset, although the latter is regarded as one of the sportiest par 5's in the business. The judges explained that they did not consider Sunset's 17 fair because a player is restricted on his tee shot by the ditch which runs through the fairway making it necessary for a long hitter to use an iron for his first shot.

There are numerous good No. 18 holes and several of them were discarded by the judges because they didn't fit in. No. 18 at Westborough, at Glen Echo, at Normandie and at Sunset received considerable attention, but the eighteenth at the Country Club proved to be the most popular finishing hole.

As to No. 19—well now there is a place!

Those who made selections were: Professionals—John Manion of Sunset, Art Longworth of Country Club, Clarence Coff of Westborough, Jim Fogertey of Osage, Walter Kossman of St. Clair, and amateurs—Jim Manion and Elliott Whitbread of Normandie, Chick Irwin of North Hills, Ben Goodwin of Algonquin, Clarence Wolff of Sunset, Dick Bockenkamp of Midland Valley, Dr. I. R. Davis of Forest Park and Sidney Salomon of Westwood.

"All-Star" Golf Course

"All-Star" golf course picked from St. Louis district courses with yardage, par and outstanding characteristics of each hole:

NO. 1—ALGONQUIN, 420 yards, par 4. A fine starting hole with a wide fairway and not too much trouble. Its length makes par difficult to obtain; also it has a tricky, rolling green, well trapped.

NO. 2—WESTBOROUGH, 351 yards, par 4. A wide lake in front of the green forces player to stroke his tee shot carefully to put it in position to get over the water with his second. There are traps and out-of-bounds on the right of the fairway.

NO. 3—NORMANDIE, 210 yards, par 3. The tee shot here must carry to the green in the air, for the green is surrounded with every kind of golf trouble—ditches, water, traps and out-of-bounds to the rear.

NO. 4—GLEN ECHO, 506 yards, par 5. Out-of-bounds to the right and a rolling, rather narrow fairway. The green is rolling and well trapped.

NO. 5—MIDLAND VALLEY, 173 yards, par 3. Here is another par 3 which requires a tee shot which carries to the green, for the putting surface is well trapped.

NO. 6—COUNTRY CLUB, 322 yards, par 4. Narrow undulating fairway, sloping sharply to the left where there are trees and trouble. Out-of-bounds to the right. The green is elevated slightly and is severely trapped.

NO. 7—SUNSET HILL, 408 yards, par 4. Similar to No. 1 at Algonquin, only there is more trouble, for the fairway slopes to the left where there are traps and rough. It requires two good, long shots to get home.

NO. 8—COUNTRY CLUB, 340 yards, par 4. A decided dog leg. Ditch crosses the fairway about 200 yards in front of the green; there is trouble to the left and right. The green, heavily trapped, opens to the left and requires a fine pitch shot second.

NO. 9—COUNTRY CLUB, 518 yards, par 5. Out-of-bounds to the right, but because of the fairway sloping into a ditch to the left, it is necessary for the player to place his tee shot to the right in order to get a second which will cross the ditch and put him in position to reach the green with the third, although two very well placed shots, powerful and long, can get home.

NO. 10—NORMANDIE, 425 yards, par 4. Particularly with the new ball this is an extremely difficult 4, rated by numerous golfers as the hardest par 4 in the district because of its length and the fact that a ditch runs in front and on the right of the green, with out-of-bounds to the left and trouble behind the green. A powerful, well-placed drive is required and this usually leaves it necessary to hit a long wood to the green.

NO. 11—NORMANDIE, 405 yards, par 4. The fairway bends to the right and runs abruptly uphill to the green. There are trees to the left, rough and a ditch to the right. It requires a good drive and a second which will carry to the green, for if the ball hits in front of the green it usually rolls down an embankment to the left or down a hill to the right.

NO. 12—WESTBOROUGH, 579 yards, par 5. One of the hardest fives in the district. Requires two long and straight shots to get over a deep ditch which crosses the fairway and the third shot must be made uphill to the green.

NO. 13—SUNSET, 130 yards, par 3. A picturesque hole with the tee high up on a hill, the green nestling in the valley below, with artificial water hazards in front and to the left.

NO. 14—SUNSET, 445 yards, par 4. A decided dog leg to the right with a narrow fairway for the first shot, rough to the left and ditch to the right. The first shot must be straight and long to put the player in position to reach the greens with his second.

NO. 15—MIDLAND VALLEY, 384 yards, par 4. A blind hole with a good drive frequently winding up in a valley facing three deep traps which guard the green.

NO. 16—COUNTRY CLUB, 180 yards, par 3. The tee shot must carry to the green, for the putting surface is large and affords one of the most severe putting tests in the district. The green is elevated and severely trapped.

NO. 17—NORMANDIE, 560 yards, par 5. Out-of-bounds to the left and rough to the right. Deep traps cut into fairway far enough from the tee so that there will be many seconds landing in them this year because of the new ball. The green is severely trapped.

NO. 18—COUNTRY CLUB, 419 yards, par 4. The fairway is hilly and the first shot must carry long and be so placed as to give the player an iron shot second which must cross a very deep trap in front of the green. Out-of-bounds to the back of the green.

Babe Ruth Plans To Be Golf Pro, After Baseball

By the Associated Press.

BELLEAIR, Fla., Feb., Feb. 28.

BABE RUTH does not intend to cool his heels in a baseball dugout when he reaches the twilight of his illustrious diamond career.

Just before teeing off today in the Florida West Coast open tournament, Ruth said he hoped to become a golf professional when his days of baseball usefulness were ended.

FRANK STACK WINS NATIONAL SKATING TITLE

CHICAGO, Feb. 28. — Frank Stack of Chicago flashed across the line first to win the one-mile race and the men's 1931 North American indoor ice skating title tonight at Chicago Stadium. He nosed out Ross Robertson of Toronto, in the mile event for his third first place in the meet.

Stack, 25-year-old Canadian-born Chicagoan, swept into the lead on the last of the 10 laps and won by inches. The slow time of 3:16.8 was due to loafing early in the race. Stack replaces Percy Johnston of Toronto as men's indoor champion.

Three new North American records were made tonight. Clay Barnette of Detroit set a new record of 1:27.6 in the junior boys' half-mile event. The old record, set by Herb Flack at Detroit in 1929, was 1:28.3. Elsie Mueller of New York won the senior women's quarter-mile race in :44.2, to better the record of :45 set by Rose Brady and Leila Potter at Detroit in 1929. Vic Ronchetti of Chicago lowered Flack's 1929 Detroit record of 2:26 in the three-quarter mile junior boys' race to 2:16.2.

Three first places gave Elsie Mueller of New York the senior women's title, while two firsts and a third gave Al Krux the boys' intermediate title. Clay Burnette of Detroit and Vic Ronchetti of Chicago finished in a point tie for the junior boys' title and were to skate it off in a special race.

THUNDER CALL FIRST IN SPRINT AT NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 28. — Thunder Call, 5-year-old chestnut son of Thunderer and Vertical, won the third and best race here today, a six-furlong dash for 3-year-olds and upward in a driving finish from A. P. Canale's High Score.

High Score broke fast and moved quickly into the lead, approaching the stretch, however, Thunder Call sprinted into command, but just lasted to win by half a length from High Score. War Time, owned by J. H. Manheimer, was third, a head behind High Score, and only a nose in front of the Colgate Stable's Petabit.

Thunder Call paid $14.60 for $2.

Batting Clothes.

"Poor Hack Has Only Eight Suits to Dirty."

THERE is an old fellow named Hack,
Who as only eight suits to his back;
If they're all batting clothes,
Right smack on the nose,
The pill he'll be able to crack.

A Safety Measure.

Speaking of baseball suits a Chicago fan has sued the Cubs for $25,000 on account of an alleged injury received when during the excitement following one of Hack's home runs when he was pushed out of the stand and fell 15 feet, said fall not doing him a bit of good.

Which recalls a suit against the Cardinals when Jim Bottomley dropped a homer on the nose of a customer in right field. The owners figure that raising the seam will lower the casualties.

SARAZEN TAKES LEAD IN FLORIDA GOLF TOURNEY

By the Associated Press.

BELLEAIR, Fla., Feb. 28. — Gene Sarazen of New York, slopped through a steady rain today to card two fine rounds of golf and take command of the field at the half-way point in the Florida West Coast open championship with a 139.

Defending a title he won so sensationally last year, Sarazen clipped three strokes from par this morning to score a 67. On the No. 2 course and waded through drenched fairways this afternoon to post a 72 on the difficult No. 1 course of the Belleair Country Club.

One stroke behind the pace-setter came Al Espinosa, from Chicago, who equalled Sarazen's 67 this morning, but could not keep step on the second round.

Standing alone in third place was young Joe Belfore of New Rochelle, N. Y., who surprised the gallery with a 68 this morning and came back with a fine 74 in the afternoon.

After a disastrous start in the morning, Horton Smith, youthful New York professional, came back with a 71 to finish the day with a total of 147. He had illustrious company, for, posted at the same figure, were Walter Hagen, Detroit; Willie McFarlane, former national open champion, of Tuckahoe, N. Y.; Wiffy Cox, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Lew Waldron of Chicago.

Nebraska U. Mat Team Defeats Missouri, 24—6

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 28.—Taking falls in three matches and time decisions in three, Nebraska University tonight defeated Missouri in a Big Six conference dual wrestling meet, 24 to 6. It was the second defeat in three starts for the Missouri grapplers this season.

Kansas Athletes Smother Missouri

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 18.—Kansas defeated Missouri in their twenty-seventh annual dual indoor track meet tonight, 72 to 13. It was the most one-sided victory in meet history.

Kansas blanked Missouri in eight of the 11 events and lost the mile relay on a foul after the Jayhawker quartet had finished well ahead of the Tigers in 3 minutes, 33.7 seconds.

Meet officials ruled Bondank of Kansas fouled a Missouri runner on the third lap, and disqualified the team.

Barber was the only Tiger to win a first, taking the mile run. Captain Dick Swartz of Missouri, veteran miler and two-miler, was withheld from competition because of his recent attack of influenza.

Clyde Coffman, Kansas sophomore, set a new meet record for the pole vault when he cleared the bar at 12 feet 9¾ inches. It was the only meet record broken. The old mark was 12 feet 7¾ inches set by Ken Lancaster of Missouri in 1926.

The summaries:

50-YARD DASH—Won by Sickel, Kansas; second, Klaner, Kansas; third, Jackson, Missouri. Time, 5.4s.

MILE RUN—Won by Barber, Missouri; second, Levine, Kansas; third, Soellner, Kansas. Time, 4m. 37s.

50-YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Flick, Kansas; second, Nichols, Kansas; third, Kautz, Missouri. Time, 6.6s.

HIGH JUMP—Hanson and Coffman, both of Kansas, tied for first; third, Huhn, Missouri. Height, 5 ft. 10¼ in.

440-YARD DASH—Won by Jones, Kansas; second, Young, Kansas; third, Ulffers, Missouri. Time, 52.6s.

POLE VAULT—Won by Coffman, Kansas, 12 feet 9¾ inches; second, Trueblood, Kansas, 12 feet; third, Eaves, Missouri, 11 feet, 6 inches.

MILE RELAY—Won by Missouri (Ulffers, Dyer, Trowbridge, Wilson); Kansas disqualified. (Kansas finished first in 3:33.7.)

50-YARD LOW HURDLES—Won by Flick, Kansas; second, Gridley, Kansas; third, Welch, Missouri. Time, 6.2 seconds.

SHOT PUT—Won by Riesen, Kansas, 41 feet 7¾ inches; second, Foy, Kansas, 40 feet 10 inches; third, Kimes, Missouri, 38 feet 7 inches.

TWO-MILE RUN—Won by Kennedy, Kansas; second, Weinkein, Missouri; no third, as Levine, Kansas, other runner, dropped out before finish. Time, 10 minutes 33 seconds.

880-YARD RUN—Won by Fullerton, Kansas; second, Soellner, Kansas; third, Clark, Missouri. Time, 2 minutes 4.0 seconds.

BILLIKEN FRESHMEN DEFEAT BEARS, 24-17

The St. Louis University freshman basketball team last night defeated the Washington University freshman basketball team at the Ainad Temple in East St. Louis, 24-17. In the preliminary game the Springfield, (Ill.), Elks girls' basketball team defeated the Aces, an all-star girls' team of East St. Louis, 27-12. The basketball games were given on a basketball program by the Red Cross to raise money for the flood sufferers.

SCHENBERGS AND ST. MATTHEWS TEAMS OPEN MUNY SOCCER TITLE SERIES

ELEVENS SEEM WELL-MATCHED; THREE GAMES ARE SCHEDULED

By Dent McSkimming.

One of the most interesting of the 19 annual championship finals of the Municipal Soccer League is promised this afternoon at Fairground Park when the Schenbergs meet the St. Matthews in the first game of the three-game series. There are several elements present which make this match between the group winners of Carondelet and Fairground more than usually promising.

Dave Bartnett.

In winning their semifinal games last Sunday the Matthews were severely tested by the Corry A. C., a team which was not expected to come close. The Matthews were obviously playing below their natural stride, perhaps because they are a very young team and still subject to stage fright. Having got past that obstruction, they may now go on to play very good football.

The Schenbergs, with veteran players in almost every position, and the best goal tender in the Municipal League as their strongest asset, will be hard to score upon. The fullbacks, Heidell and Branconier, played an improved game last Sunday after having had a bad time of it against the Longos. Still, they are not sure-footed kickers, and Center Forward Bart Connors may get just the one or two openings he needs for goals. Connors gets more out of his scoring opportunities than any other center forward in the league this season.

Manager Vic Cromer is a bit worried about his lineup, for Jim McCarthy and Gene Thumm have complained of illness. He may have to make some last-minute changes, but he has good reserve material.

The second game of the final series will be played next Sunday. Today's starting time was moved forward to accommodate fans who wish to see the Municipal program and then go to Sportsman's Park to see the national challenge cup game between the Ben Millers and Slavia of Cleveland.

A novel feature has been added to the Muny show in the form of a preliminary game between the Sherman Park and Columbus Square teams. This is the fifth meeting of these finalists for the Playground League championship. Each has won one game and two were tied. The players range from 13 to 16 years of age and some have developed surprising skill.

DRAKE CAPTURES VALLEY MEET; BEARS FOURTH

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 28.—Drake University with its first well balanced track team in several years romped off with first place in the Missouri Valley indoor track meet at the Drake Field House tonight, scoring 55 1-3 points. Grinnell, Oklahoma Aggies, Washington and Creighton trailed in that order.

The teams finished as follows: Drake 55 1-3 points, first; Grinnell 36 2-3, second; Oklahoma A. and M. 25 2-3, third; Washington 9 1-3, fourth; Creighton 4, fifth.

The Bulldogs broke two conference records in their scoring spree. Lansrude vaulted 12 feet 11¼ inches to eclipse the old mark of 12 feet 11 inches held by English of Missouri since 1928, and Van Laningham galloped the half mile in 1:59 to clip 1.8 seconds from the nine-year mark of Gardner of Nebraska.

The White and Blue representatives placed in every event on the program. To pile up their margin of victory they won both first and second in the pole vault, shot put and the half mile, and in addition gained firsts in the mile and 50-yard low and high hurdles, and seconds in the mile relay and two-mile run.

50-YARD DASH—Won by Glass (O.); Smith (D.), second; Wise (C.), third; Alexander (G.), fourth. Time, :05.4.

50-YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Podrebarac (D.); Hensley (G.), second; Murray (G.), third; Gaughen (C.), fourth. Time, :06.8.

440-YARD DASH—Won by Murphy (G.); Webb (D.), second; Thompson (D.), third; Pojman (G.), fourth. Time, :54.3.

50-YARD LOW HURDLES—Won by Podrebach (D.); Hensley (G.), second; Glass (O.), third; Golz (G.), fourth. Time, :06.

880-YARD RUN—Won by Van Laningham (D.); Rylands (D.), second; McIlrath (G.), third; Ohle (W.), fourth. Time, 1:59 (new conference record).

MILE RUN—Won by Gordon (D.); Pilbrow (G.), second; Goble (G.), third; Lain (O.), fourth. Time, 4:32.7.

TWO-MILE RUN—Won by Jenkins (O.); Monneyham (D.), second; Pilbrow (G.), third; Lain (O.), fourth. Time, 9:42.2.

POLE VAULT—Won by Lansrude (D.); Johnson (D.), second; Dodge and Todt (O.), tied for third. Height, 12 feet 11¼ inches (new conference record).

SHOT PUT—Won by Blanck (D.); Harlan (D.), second; Kukolich (G.), third; Douglas (G.), fourth. Distance, 44 feet 1¼ inches.

BROAD JUMP—Won by Timberlake (W.); Glass (O.), second; Smith (D.), third; Kula (C.), fourth. Distance, 21 feet 9¾ inches.

HIGH JUMP—Won by Douglas (G.); Timberlake (W.), and Leonard (O.), tied for second; Murray (G.), and Smith (D.), tied for fourth. Height, 5 feet 6 inches.

MILE RELAY—Won by Grinnell (Pojman, Hensley, Edwards, Murphy); Drake, second; Oklahoma Aggies, third; Creighton, fourth. Time, 3:36.3.

Roller Wrestles On Coliseum Card

Re-arrangement of the preliminary card supporting the one fall finish match between Pat O'Shocker and George Zaharias, heading tomorrow night's Coliseum wrestling show, was made last night when Promoter Tom Packs announced that he has signed Jack Roller, veteran California heavyweight, to match grips with Kola Kwariani of Russia, in the second event, a one-fall bout with time restrictions of 30 minutes.

A match between John Maxos, Greek grappler, and Charley Fox of Cleveland, originally carded as the second preliminary, has been moved up to the semi-final position on the program and the time limit increased to 45 minutes.

Joe Cox, Kansas City heavyweight, and the only newcomer on the card, will make his debut in the curtain-raiser, also limited to 30 minutes, with Frank Brunowiecz, Boston Pole.

It was anounced last night that the Coliseum box office will be open all day today for the accommodation of fans desiring to secure their reservations in advance.

EARL AVERILL SIGNS CLEVELAND CONTRACT

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 28.—Earl Averill, slugging outfielder on the Cleveland Indians' roster, signed a contract today at his home in California, it was learned here today. He will report to the Indians' training camp Wednesday at New Orleans.

ARGUS FIVE DEFEATS KANSAS CITY TEAM

Led by Pederson who scored a total of nine points, the St. Louis Argus basketball team defeated the Kansas City Meteors last night 33 to 22 at the Wheatley Branch of the Y. W. C. A. The victory gave the Argus team the Negro title of the West.

In a preliminary game the Argus Girls' team defeated the Webster Groves Girls' five 17 to 4.

Van Ryn in Final.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 28.—John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., advanced to the singles finals of the Pan American tennis championships today by defeating J. Gilbert Hall, Orange, N. J., in their semi-final match, 7—5, 6—3, 3—6, 6—3. Van Ryn will play George Lott, Chicago, in the finals tomorrow.

Cabool Quintet Wins.

HOUSTON, Mo., Feb. 28.—Cabool defeated Houston, 24-11, in a basketball game at Cabool last night. Licking defeated Mountain View which makes a tie in the South Central Association race between Houston and Licking. The championship will be decided in a game at Licking next week.

20 TEAMS ROLL IN NATIONAL K. OF C. EVENT

The annual national bowling tournament of the Knights of Columbus got under way at the Rogers Recreation alleys last night with 20 local teams representing leagues of the Santa Maria and Laclede Councils taking the drives.

The start of the tournament followed a banquet at the Knights of Columbus hall on Lindell boulevard at which officers of the local city bowling association were guests.

There are 340 five-man teams entered in the tournament, with 480 doubles and 970 singles entrants. Last year's championship was won by a Newport, Ky., five with a 3030 total, the doubles by Ed McCarthy and W. Mertholer of Chicago with a 1292 count, and the singles by W. Dernbach of Chicago with 699. The latter won the all-events championship with a 2033 total for the nine games.

A Sweet Stomach!

What a pity when youth and vitality are set at naught by a disordered stomach and unpleasant breath! Don't have them at any age! Hearty eaters—hard smokers—high livers—find Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets a boon and a blessing.

Why have a disordered stomach, or risk an unpleasant breath? Chew a Stuart Tablet. No soda, just a soothing combination of Calcium Carbonate (the modern anti-acid, more effective than soda), Magnesia and the like. Result: a sweet stomach, improved digestion, no pains, no discomfort.

MAKE THIS TEST!

Purchase a 25c, handy pocket tin of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at your druggists' (one tablet will neutralize 2½ times its weight of acid material in the stomach); use after meals and be convinced that it is not necessary to suffer the distresses of indigestion.

"Drunkenness Is a Disease and I Can Cure It"
—Leslie E. Keeley, M. D., LL. D.

THE EDITOR of a powerful Chicago Newspaper before his death, challenged this statement of Dr. Keeley that "Drunkenness is a disease and I can cure it." He defied Dr. Keeley to cure the men whom he would send to the Institute. The results were so convincing that, through his great newspaper, he was personally responsible for thousands of men and women taking The Keeley Treatment for Liquor.

C. B. C. WILL OPPOSE BILLIKEN FRESHMEN IN CONTEST TONIGHT

The game between the Christian Brothers College team and the St. Louis University freshmen at 9 o'clock tonight will climax the second annual basketball day at C. B. C. The program will get under way this afternoon at 2 o'clock when two grammar school teams, St. Mark's and St. Anthony's oppose each other.

Following the game between the girls from Rosati-Kain and Columbus girls' club, St. Edward plays Visitation in another parochial contest. There will be a two-hour intermission before the night program starts with St. Mark's girls' team meeting St. Alphonsus. St. Mark's recently won its nineteenth game in 21 starts.

Muny Basket Title Game Tomorrow At St. L. U Gym

By transferring the second game of the Municipal basketball championship series to St. Louis University Gymnasium on West Pine boulevard, the league officials have made it possible for several thousand persons to witness the game. The first match of the series, between Lowe & Campbell and tre Union Fuels, was played at Sherman Park Community Center, where a crowd of 1000 packs the place to a point where everyone is uncomfortable. This second game of the series will be played tomorrow night.

With Dil Gockel playing a roaming guard assignment, the Unions are a far stronger club than was generally suspected. Gockel was out of the city for the past two months but arrived just in time to get into last Wednesday's match in which he played a masterful game. Lowe & Campbell won the game, 26 to 24, scoring the tying and winning field baskets in the last 20 seconds of play.

A preliminary, starting at 7:30 p. m., will bring together the St. Edwards and Hip A. C. intermediate teams in the second game of their series. St. Edwards, larger and older boys, won the first game.

South Side Bowling Meet.

Among the first entries for the fifth annual South Side tournament are the Mississippi Valley Trust, three teams; Weick Bros., Nick's Stores, Wayside Inn, Humes Deal, Roberts, Rice's Agent, Neel Drug, German House Recreation, Steinmetz Buffet, Anheuser Busch, four teams; Liberty Bell Oil, National Tailoring, Wolff-Tober Shoe.

In addition to the regular prize list and gold medals five new bowling balls will be given to the bowlers rolling high individual games in the five-man, doubles, singles, and to the men finishing second and third in the all-events.

Entries for the tournament close Monday, March 2, and the German House Recreation management expects a new record will be set for the South Side tourney.

Lean Drama Season Fades

Mary Hart at the Orpheum Has Legit Field Pretty Much to Herself From Now On—Two Theater Guild Plays Left for American—"Trader Horn" Film in for Two Weeks at Shubert.

WHEN Howard Thurston, the magician, departed from the American Theater last night he left that house without any attractions in sight for several weeks at least. Only two shows, according to present bookings, are still to be played there. These will be the offerings of the New York Theater Guild, which will present, probably late in March, "Elizabeth the Queen," with Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontaine to be followed by one other attraction a little later.

The Shubert goes into the motion picture, "Trader Horn," tonight and expects to get two weeks out of the film. Then, on March 15, William Hodge will arrive with his successful "The Old Rascal," and Grace George, Jane Cowl and "Lysistrata" are expected to come some time in April.

The stock company at the Grand Central folds up this evening, so that Mary Hart, down at the Orpheum, has the dramatic field pretty much to herself for the rest of the winter and spring. Wild animal thrills were filmed and recorded with elephants, lions, rhinos, crocodiles and many other African denizens playing their parts. The company took the first sound recording outfit into Africa, and so far the only one, and filmed and recorded the animals in action, savage native ceremonies and the vivid drama all on original location. W. S. Van Dyke, who directed the trek, screened "The Pagan," and "White Shadows in the South Sea."

Abendmusik Concert Of All-German Music

An all-German program will be presented by the AMC, a young students' club, at the Artist Guild, Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. Oscar Heather, tenor, will sing a group of songs by Handel, including the aria, "Waft Her, Angels, to the Skies."

Isadore Grossman, a first violinist of the Symphony Orchestra, will play Mendelssohn's E Minor Concerto, and the program will be made up of the works of well-known German composers.

Dramatic League Plays.

The second presentation of the Theater of Nations of the Dramatic League of St. Louis will be next Friday evening in the Community Playhouse, Missouri Hotel auditorium, when the German group will give the program. A modern German one-act fairy play by Olga Steiner, "Putzelchen and Pumpinchen," with musical accompaniment by Charlotte Anschuetz, has a cast of children. "The Midnight Visit," a one-act comedy, will also be given in German.

Mummers in Three Plays.

A program of three one-act plays will be given by the Mummers, dramatic club of the Downtown Y. M. C. A., at the Wednesday Club auditorium, Taylor avenue and Westminster place, Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock. The plays are: "Creatures of Impulse," by W. S. Gilbert; Three Players, a Fop and a Duchess," by Babette Hughes, and "The Clod," by Lewis Beach.

Rubenstein Club Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Rubenstein Club will be held at the home of Miss Hilda Medairy on March 5. The subject to be studied is religious music. A paper on "Early Church Music" will be presented by Mrs. August Hartman. Mrs. A. P. Linders will be mistress of program.

Ferguson's Recital Friday.

Bernard Ferguson, well-known St. Louis baritone, and former Municipal Opera singer, will be heard in a recital at the Woman's Club, Friday evening, at 8:15. Ferguson will present the program originally announced for Feb. 10, which illness prevented him from giving.

Fischer to Conduct Philharmonic Concert

Next Wednesday evening the orchestra of the Philharmonic Society will give its second concert of the season under the conductorship of Frederick Fischer, who is also the assistant conductor of the Symphony Orchestra. The orchestra numbers somewhat over 100 nonprofessional musicians. The concert will be held in the Scottish Rite Cathedral, 3625 Lindell.

A special feature will be the presentation of the "Forty-Sixth Psalm," a concert oratorio composed during 1930 by John Kessler, a St. Louis musician and composer and produced under the auspices of the American Guild of Organists. This work will be sung by a mixed chorus and a quartet.

Catholic Guild to Present "Jade God"

The St. Louis Catholic Theater Guild in conjunction with the American Red Cross Drouth Relief will present "The Jade God" at the St. Louis University auditorium, 3642 Lindell boulevard, for seven nights starting tomorrow and concluding next Sunday evening.

This is a mystery play in three acts by William Edwin Barry and the leading roles will be played by Loretto Hennelly, Tom Riordan, Rosalia Fehlig, William F. Powers, Laurence Neville, Leianna Devlin, Theodore Monti O'Mara, Joseph McKenna, J. William Murray and Joseph P. Kelly Jr.

The entire proceeds for the seven nights will be turned over to the Red Cross.

Holmes to Tell of North African Tour

The realm of strange beauty and of exotic romance which spreads along the African shores of the Mediterranean is the itinerary of the screen journey over which Burton Holmes is to conduct his auditor-spectators at the Odeon tomorrow night.

Mr. Holmes' impressions of the North African tour is to embrace the chief sights of all the countries visited and will be illustrated with pictures in color and motion.

Szell to Conduct Pop Concert Today

At the Odeon at 5 p. m. today George Szell, guest conductor of the Symphony Orchestra, presents the first of the series of radio pop concerts he is to conduct during his visit to St. Louis this year. His debut program will feature Grieg's Second Suite from the "Peer Gynt" music and Brahm's Fifth and Sixth Hungarian Dances.

At Right, Edmund Lowe In "Men On Call," Loew's.

Below, Edwina Booth In "Trader Horn." Shubert.

Zecchi, Italian Pianist, Soloist With Symphony

Visiting Artist Will Play the Liszt E-Flat Concerto at This Week's Pair of Concerts at the Odeon.

THE St. Louis debut of Carlo Zecchi, the young Italian pianist, and an orchestral work new to St. Louis audiences, mark the program which Georg Szell as guest conductor has chosen to present in his second pair of regular symphony concerts at the Odeon Friday and Saturday. Zecchi is to play one of the greatest of all virtuoso display pieces, the Liszt E-flat concerto.

Zecchi came to this country last month. He was destined to the piano from the age of 4 and appeared at 5, for the first time in public. At 12 he conducted before the Crown Prince of Italy his own choral work, "New Italy," a patriotic proclamation, for that was in the early years of the World War. He entered the conservatory of Santa Cecelia at 14, in 1918, and three years later graduated. He has played with the Augusteum and La Scala orchestras in Italy, with the Colonne, Pasdeloup and Lamoureux orchestras in Paris, with the Persimphans in Moscow.

Smetana's splendid musical tribute to his native Bohemia, the tone poem "Moldau," brings it to a close. Other orchestral numbers are Haydn's C major (London No. 1) which this city then hears for the first time.

"Kick In" for Clara Bow.

"Kick In," Willard Mack's dramatic success of a few seasons ago, will be the basis of Clara Bow's next talking picture. This announcement followed immediately on the heels of word that the film company has just acquired the dialogue rights to the play.

The Week's New Films - - - By Nie

OUT of the dim distant past the movie masters have dragged that ancient tear jerker, "East Lynne," and made it over into a modern movie. The long "asides" and the pauses to allow the audiences to hiss the villainous Captain Levison have been thrown into the discard, but the modern cash customers—many of whom know nothing of the joy their grandparents got out of sobbing over the death of the beautiful Lady Isabel—can get an idea of what sort of drama the mid-Victorians revelled in at the Fox this week. Lady Isabel still dies, five times daily, as the old meller ends; Captain Levison, curse him, gets in the way of a Prussian bomb shell in Paris in 1870 and Robert Carlyle, Isabel's divorced husband, is as stern and unbending as he ever was. The conversation, still plentiful enough, has been shortened considerably. They went in for flowery oratory back in the days when "East Lynne" was written, but no modern improvements have been added. There are no telephones, no electric lights, no automobiles, and Ann Harding looks lovely as the much wronged Isabel, in the costumes of the period. Clive Brook is the cad, Levison, and Conrad Nagel the unforgiving husband.

There's Millions In It.

STILL another old play, "It Pays to Advertise," finds its way to the screen this week at the Missouri in Roi Cooper Megrue's fine comedy, "It Pays to Advertise." The story of two youths and a girl who created a tremendous demand for a new soap by some spectacular advertising, only to discover that they had forgotten to manufacture any of the product, makes a dandy film farce. Skeets Gallagher, a press agent, who whoops things up for the new business, has a lot of genuinely funny wise cracks and Norman Foster, Carole Lombard and our old friend, Louise Brooks, who has returned to the fold in Hollywood, have been given fat parts. "It Pays to Advertise" is great fun with some romance tossed in for good measure.

The Ghost Walks.

AND if "Dracula" is not as time worn as "East Lynne" it is another stage play which has been around and seen things before the movie magnates got hold of it and made it over into a celluloid meller for the St. Louis Theater customers. The screen drama takes in considerably more ground than the stage play showing the 500-year-old Count Dracula in his native haunts surrounded by lady vampires, bats and other creepy creatures before he journeys to London looking for fresh victims. After he gets to England the original play is followed rather closely although much more elaborately. For those who like ghost stories and grim happenings "Dracula" is highly recommended.

A Seaside Romance.

IN "Men on Call," at Loew's this week Edmund Lowe is a railroad engineer who goes wrong when his girl gets tangled up in a love nest scandal. She could have explained it all, satisfactorily, in reel one but Eddie wouldn't listen and so the picture had to run on about an hour longer. In the meantime Ed, who has been given up as a total loss by the engineering business, becomes a coast guardsman and one of the first persons he rescues from the Pacific is his old flame. The film might have ended again but he was still stubborn and had to get mixed up in a wreck himself and taken to a hospital before he would listen to reason and go into the final clinch. "Men on Call" is good entertainment for real lovers of the Coast Guard.

Love Finds a Way.

THERE is a lot of suspense and good comedy in "Stolen Heaven," at the Ambassador and Nancy Carroll and Phillips Holmes tell an entertaining story in a most entertaining manner. Phil is a New York shipping clerk who gets a chance to steal $20,000 and does it. Nancy, out of a job at the moment, shields him from the police and they decide to go to Miami, live the life of Riley until the money is all gone and then commit suicide. Strange as it may seem they fall in love while they are enjoying life and when the bank roll vanishes they still want to live. The police swoop down on them about that time and although they have a chance to escape they decide that honesty is the best policy after all and the boy heads back home to give himself up, serve his time while Nancy waits for him outside the Big House. Sounds rather cut and dried movie stuff but it's well done and very pleasing.

Chaplin's Silent Film For Loew's, March 13

Charlie Chaplin's current picture "City Lights," a silent so far as the star is concerned, is to come to Loew's Theater on March 13. It will run for two weeks with the engagement to be extended beyond that time if the business warrants. It will be played at popular prices.

Through an arrangement between Chaplin and Loew's circuit of theaters the comedy is to play those houses throughout the country instead of being sent around as a road show. Chaplin is to get a percentage of the receipts as well as a large rental figure.

George Arliss Going Home.

Following the completion of his next picture, "Alexander Hamilton," George Arliss will return to New York with Mrs. Arliss and will then sail for England, where they plan to spend the summer at their country home on the Kentish coast. "Alexander Hamilton" is now in rehearsal. "The Millionaire," with dialogue by Booth Tarkington, is now in the cutting room. In the cast of "The Millionaire" are, besides Mr. and Mrs. Arliss, David Manners, Evalyn Knapp, Bramwell Fletcher, Noah Beery, Ivan Simpson, James Cagney, J. C. Nugent, Sam Hardy, J. Farrell MacDonald, Charles Grapewin, Charles E. Evans, Tully Marshall, Ethel Griffis and Ben Hall.

Glee Clubs With Symphony

THE St. Louis Symphony Orchestra will unite with the three choruses of Washington University in a special concert to be given at Washington University Field House, Tuesday, March 10, as a farewell to the Men's Glee Club of the university which is to represent the Missouri Valley Conference in the National Glee Club contest to be held in New York four days later.

The Washington University Glee Club, Clay Ballew, director, recently won the Missouri Valley championship at the regional contest held at Lawrence, Kan. It will sing the three songs which are to be its offering in the national contest. The Women's Glee Club, Miss Agnes Replogle, director, will sing a group of three songs, and the two glee clubs, combined with the university chapel choir will sing Fletcher's "A Song of Victory" to orchestral accompaniment, Charles Galloway conducting.

George Szell of Prague, the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra's guest conductor, will conduct the purely orchestral part of the field house concert. Alexander Thiede will appear as incidental soloist in Saint-Saens' "The Deluge," one of the numbers to be presented by the orchestra.

Oscar Heather, soloist with Abendmusik Club Tuesday night.

Leianna Devlin in "The Jade God," St. Louis University.

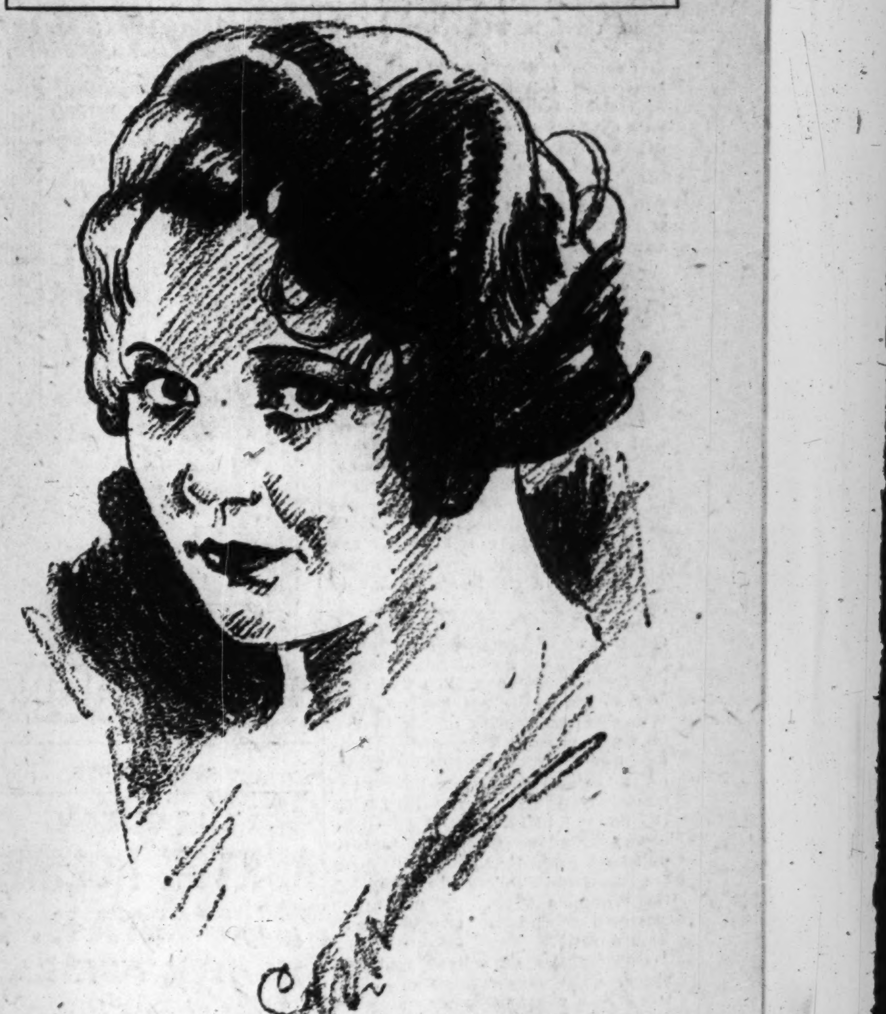
Dorothy Sands in "Many a Slip," at the Orpheum Theater.

One of the Angels



Nancy Carroll in "Stolen Heaven," at the Ambassador.

Big Money for the Stars

Film Producers Find That, After All, Names Are More Important Than the Play and the Players are Profiting—"East Lynne" Comes to Life on the Screen After Many Years.

ACCORDING to all reports from Hollywood the high-salaried motion picture stars are coming back into their own. The studios buzz with talk of $2500 to $8000 a week, and one featured player is to receive $30,000 a week for a short period.

When the talkies arrived producers experimented with the idea that "the play's the thing." They made pictures with stage actors and actresses whose names were little known to movie fans. Many of the luminaries of the silent screen faded and a few disappeared entirely. For a time it seemed the big stars would be replaced by a constellation of minor ones. The big salaries were going, too.

But the industry could NOT shake off its habits of centering publicity and advertising on the players. The play usually came second. New stars were created and when the fans demanded to see more of them producers bid for their services.

Competition has been keenest between Warner Brothers-First National and Paramount. Ruth Chatterton, in leaving Paramount next fall, will receive $7500 a week, studio reports say, and William Powell, who goes over this spring, has a contract approximately as large. Kay Francis is another who will benefit handsomely financially by the change.

Ann Harding's salary under a new agreement with Radio-Pathe, will run between $6000 and $8000 a week, it is announced. Constance Bennett tops the list of the permanently employed. During a "vacation" period allowed her by Pathe, she will make two pictures for Warner Brothers, receiving $150,000 each, equivalent to $30,000 a week.

BUT they're not all coming back and the old-timers who have tried to regain their former positions and failed are pathetic figures in gay Hollywood.

Much is heard about the one-time favorites who have climbed back into the cinema spotlight. But of these unfortunates who are reduced to the status of extras, little is said because genuine sorrow is felt for them.

There was pointed out on one set the other day four former luminaries, all were extras. One was Florence Turner, who, when she was a star a few years ago, was one of Mary Pickford's biggest competitors.

Nearby was Barbara Tennant, a featured player of more than ordinary importance not so long ago. Two former directors of money-making pictures, Pat Powers and Henry Otto were there, too.

At another studio the same day one could see two former stars playing insignificant roles. They were Grace Cunard and Enid Bennett. On another stage, among the crowd, was Buddy Roosevelt, a western star a few years back.

TIME was, in the old stock company days in St. Louis, when a season never failed to see at least one presentation of "East Lynne." Now, after many years, it is back here again, this time as a picture, at the Fox Theater. The present generation of movie fans probably never saw the play but hundreds of thousands of people have seen "East Lynne" on the stage during its 70 years of existence and 15,000,000 copies of the book were sold in the United States and 500,000 copies in England. Yet the first stage adaptation of Mrs. Henry Wood's novel sold in New York for $100.

About a year and a half after the novel was published in England, winning instant recognition and popularity, Clifton W. Tayleure, a Brooklyn playwright distinguished in his time, adapted it for the stage. He sold his dramatization to Lucile Western, then a popular American star. Miss Western played "East Lynne" to packed houses at Tripler's Hall on Broadway near Bond street. That was in March, 1863. Tripler's Hall has long been forgotten; Miss Western, too, is only a dim memory; but "East Lynne" has been brought to life again by the films and the picture will also be produced in French, Spanish, German and Italian.

IT is in no spirit of Hollywood wisecrackery that the producers are approaching these venerable vehicles.

Mention of "East Lynne," supreme sob-drama of the tent shows, may bring a smile to some, but the talking picture represents all that a talented cast and lavish production can make it. Players like Ann Harding, Conrad Nagel and Clive Brook are not often used in a picture the studio regards as a gamble.

As a follow-up to "East Lynne" will come "St. Elmo," a play of the same vintage, and Warner Baxter will play the lead. Quaint old "Trilby," rechristened "Svengali," stars John Barrymore, no less, and "Resurrection," with its old theme of the-woman-pays-and-pays, has been regarded highly enough to be given Lupe Velez, John Boles and an expensive production.

Another sob-feast of the silent screen, "Over the Hill," the story of mother love, is on the verge of revival, and the ancient novel, "David Harum," also will be screened.

"The Squaw Man," old play which has been filmed several times already, is engaging the attention of C. B. De Mille, who made it as his first Hollywood picture in 1913.

Any day now we may expect to hear that the talkies have seized "Thorns and Orange Blossoms," "The Rosary," and yea, even "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model!" But there is still no dearth of titles like "Gambling Daughters," and "Gold Dust Gertie."

WOMAN'S EXPOSITION TO OPEN THURSDAY

Daily Features Announced for Show to Start With Street Parade.

The Woman's Exposition will open at the Coliseum Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and continue through Wednesday, March 11. It is presented by Mrs. Louise J. Brooks and will include a baby show and health contest, directed by the St. Louis Republican Women's Clubs, one of several women's organizations participating in the exposition.

The opening of the exposition will be preceded by a parade of floats and automobiles through the downtown section.

Walter J. G. Neun and Jules R. Field, candidates for the presidency of the Board of Aldermen, will participate in a corn-shucking contest the opening night. Admission to the exposition will be 50 cents. The doors will be open daily from 2:30 until midnight.

Women of the Mooseheart Legion will sponsor a quilting bee for grandmothers Friday afternoon. Women of the Methodist churches of the city will present a pageant "Festival of Christian Citizenship" on Saturday night and during the afternoon the Democratic Women will sponsor a children's vaudeville program.

The Alhambra Grotto will give a carnival at the exposition Saturday night also. Sunday afternoon singers from Negro churches will sing and at night the Joint Council of Women's Auxiliaries of Trade Unions will present a program. Proceeds of the evening will be devoted to the support of two homes for unemployed girls maintained by the council in St. Louis.

The Monday afternoon feature will be a patriotic pageant, "America the Beautiful," by the Carondelet Women's Club. At night the Missouri Fraternal Congress will hold a rally.

Conferences of school mothers' clubs, child conservation organizations and parent-teacher associations, will be held Tuesday afternoon. The night program has been designated as Catholic night, sponsored by the St. Louis Council of Catholic Women.

Members of the Gardenville and Wyman school units of the Public School Playground Mothers' Circle will engage in a volleyball game Wednesday afternoon and the exposition will close that night with concerts by the bagpipe band of the Caledonian Society and the St. Louis Choral Club.

Lecture on "Coldest Africa."

Carveth Wells, explorer and author, will speak on "In Coldest Africa" at a meeting of the Contemporary Club at the Jefferson Hotel at 6:45 o'clock the evening of Wednesday, March 11.

Another National Radio Audition to Be Held—Tenor Gigli of the Metropolitan Opera to Sing at 7:30 Tomorrow Night Over CBS Chain—NBC to Make Recorded Radio Programs, But Not for Its Own Network Broadcasts—Lilly Pons Will Sing Over KSD Easter Sunday Evening.

Beniamino Gigli, leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera, is announced as soloist for the opening program, at 7:30 tomorrow night, of a new series planned to feature outstanding stars of the opera. KMOX is to broadcast this concert locally. Wilfred Pelletier will conduct the orchestra.

Announcement is made that prizes for the fifth annual National Radio Audition will be the same as in previous years—a total of $25,000 divided into five awards. Preliminary auditions in local districts are to begin in the spring, and the finals will be broadcast over a country-wide chain in December. Any singer between 18 and 25 years old who is not a professional is eligible. Choir singers are not classed as professionals.

A series of novel programs, based largely on dramatizations of news happenings, will be broadcast over the CBS net at 9:30 p. m. Fridays, beginning this week. A large cast of actors will be used. A narrator will designate the time and locality and otherwise prepare the "stage" for the news dramas, each of which will be preceded by specially scored music with the idea of creating the proper "atmosphere."

Lilly Pons, the French soprano whose success at the Metropolitan Opera really has been sensational, is to sing over KSD in a concert with Shilkret's orchestra on the night of April 5.

Vaughn de Leath, for several years one of the more popular NBC "crooners," who was "loaned" to WTAM, Cleveland, is to return to chain broadcasting. She will be on the NBC Artists' program Sunday, March 15.

A very fine artist will sing over KSD next Sunday night, when Elizabeth Rethberg, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera, will be soloist in the classical concert at 8:15. She will sing Elizabeth's great aria from "Tannhauser," Elsa's dream song from "Lohengrin," the "Liebestod" from "Tristan and Isolde," Tschaikowsky's "None but the Lonely Heart," "Die Lorelei" and several songs in English.

The National Broadcasting Co., according to the Associated Press, is to begin producing recorded programs for broadcasting. The records will not be used for chain broadcasts, but will be for stations that can not join the networks at certain times and for some regional stations. NBC artists will make the records, which will be of the usual "electrical transcription for broadcast purpose only" type.

Hitherto the NBC has refused to have anything to do with recorded programs, which introduce another mechanical process between performer and listener. It is worth noting reports that when the NBC acquired control of WENR, Chicago, recently, it found that if it wished to operate that station, it must carry out several contracts for "electrical transcription" broadcasts, some of which ran for a number of months. WOR, Newark, N. J., one of the leading Eastern stations, has been experimenting extensively with recorded programs. There have been numerous stories that the NBC was trying to acquire WOR. The New Jersey station is said to have reported that its audience had little objection to "electrical transcriptions."

Use of recorded programs is growing rapidly, and it is not inconceivable that the day may come when those who object to such "machine" music will be driven back to the concert hall.

Outstanding music of Latin-America will be played by the United States Service Orchestra from 9:30 to 10 o'clock tomorrow night over the NBC's Red chain. Isabel Perez Dupuy, soprano, and Tito Guizar, a Mexican tenor, will be soloists. The concert will come from Washington.

An elaborate plan for increasing the number of small local broadcasting stations throughout the East and Middle West by setting aside 25 of the 96 available radio channels and by decreasing the required separation between such transmitters to two kilocycles has been presented to the Federal Radio Commission by Clarence R. Cummins, a Williamsport (Pa.) broadcaster. Acting as trustee for the Community Radio, Inc., Cummins said he had $6,500,000 available to finance the undertaking and that as an evidence of good faith $250,000 would be deposited with the commission if so desired. The Community Radio Corporation wants to link 400 local stations on the 25 channels.

The Baroness von Hindenburg, niece of the President of Germany, may take part in a series of broadcasts. She visited the NBC studios in New York recently.

Earle Sande, the noted jockey, is said to be scheduled for a radio program.

Bradley Kincaid will begin his special broadcast over WLW tomorrow. He will go on WLW every morning except Saturday and Sunday at 5:30, at 5 p. m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays and at 4:45 p. m. Tuesdays.

* * *

An "Early Bird" program is put on the air at 4 o'clock every morning, except Sunday, by WMBD, Peoria, Ill. WMBD uses 1000 watts power on 1440 kilocycles.

The new $8,000,000 liner President Hoover, largest American built merchant vessel, which was recently launched at Newport News, is being equipped with the most extensive radio system yet installed on a vessel. A centralized radio system with 50 speaker outlets will be installed. A powerful central receiving station with an electric phonograph will be built amidships on the promenade deck. From this point a sensitive receiver capable of picking up shore radio stations without interference will deliver the programs simultaneously to the various public rooms as well as to more than 35 special staterooms and suites.

Bob MacGimsey, who has won radio fame by whistling four notes at the same time, has been added to the entertainers giving the Reminiscences programs over the Blue chain Sunday nights.

* * *

The Musical Crusaders are to change from Sunday afternoons to 7:30 Wednesday nights, beginning this week.

The Salute programs which have been a feature of Tuesday night broadcasting will be shifted to 5 o'clock Sunday evenings, beginning March 15. KWK is the local station in the chain carrying these programs.

Famous trials are to be recalled in a series of dramatizations over the NBC's Red chain, beginning at 9:15 tonight.

State winners in national radio auditions will sing on two programs over KMOX tomorrow. Gladys Morrison of Kansas City, Irene Pehling of Poplar Bluff and Jean Roberts and Emerson Brown of St. Louis, winners in this nationwide vocal contest in the last four years, will be featured at 3:30 p. m. and again at night at 10 o'clock.

* * * The Community Forum will broadcast another international program this afternoon at 4 o'clock when Senor Jose Torres, the new Mexican Consul, will speak on "Mexico and Missouri—Neighbors." Morris Rothenberg, national chairman of the American Palestine campaign, will discuss "Palestine and the Jew."

Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States Supreme Court is to be honored in a broadcast over the CBS chain on his ninetieth birthday, at 9:30 next Sunday night. Speakers will include Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes and Charles A. Boston, president of the American Bar Association.

* * *

Dr. Albert Einstein's farewell message to America, delivered on the eve of his departure for Berlin, is to be broadcast by the CBS chain at 9 o'clock Wednesday night.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Formation of a Dixie network, a special group of stations associated with the Columbia system, is announced by Sam Pickard, vice president of the CBS. Operation is to start with 11 stations, WBT, Charlotte, N. C., acting as key station. The first chain program is to be broadcast March 23.

A complete studio organization is to be maintained at WBT, and it is planned to present special programs featuring Southern artists and entertainers. At the opening and closing of each broadcast "Dixie" will be played. It it the intention to present through WBT programs to meet the needs of stations in the group which are not always included in broadcasts over the CBS chain from New York or Washington.

Besides WBT, the group will include WWNC, WGST, WBRC, WDOD, KLRA, WREC, WLAC, WTOC, KNOX AND WDSU. Later it is hoped to add WQAM, WDBO, WDAE, KRLD, KTRH, KTSA, WACO and, for certain programs, KFJF. When broadcasts come from New York or Washington WTAR and WDBJ will be in the chain.

Plays Over KSD

Albert Spalding, famous violinist, who will play over KSD at 2:30 this afternoon.

On KSD Tonight

What's New in Radio Industry

Directors Elected by St. Louis Radio Trades Association.

New directors of the St. Louis Radio Trades Association were elected Wednesday night at a meeting held at Hotel Kingsway. They were: William Bigalte and Robert Morton, representing the dealers; Julian Sampson and Otto Heilmann, factory agents, and Ray Layer and Gene Strauss, wholesalers. Officers will be elected by the directors.

Fred Wiebe, retiring president, reviewed the course of the radio business during the past nine years, and discussed the work of the association in establishing services, such as an accounting department, for the benefit of dealers. He called attention to a department which checks on persons who seek home demonstrations of receivers without any apparent intention of buying. The association has an extensive list of such persons.

He also had read resolutions, adopted at Indianapolis at a recent meeting of radio dealers and wholesalers, outlining changes in factory contracts with distributors that were held to be highly desirable for the protection of distributors and their dealers. Wiebe laid special stress on the work done by the association's secretary-manager, William P. Mackle.

George Gaertner, who was elected president of the national radio retailers' association at Indianapolis, reported on activities during the convention.

Charles Staffelbach, who is widely known as a radio distributor, spoke on his candidacy for member of the Board of Aldermen. It was voted that the St. Louis Radio Trades Association indorse his candidacy.

A total of 450 broadcasting hours were used by the Federal Government on the two NBC chains during 1930. Record shows that 328 Government officials, including President Hoover, made a total of 850 radio addresses over these networks, the President making 27 of them. Since becoming President, he has made 37 radio talks, equaling in 22 months President Coolidge's seven-year total.

Auto Manufacturers Regard March as Month That Will Unfailingly Indicate Course of the Industry for Year

Detroit Wonders About Effect of Canadian Tariff

More U. S. Factories May Have to Erect Branch Plants Across Border.

By CHRIS SINSABAUGH.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 28.—Now the automobile industry enters the show-down month. Ever since last fall it has been expected that March would be the period in 1931 which would reveal the course of the industry for the year.

Particularly since the first of the year, leading executives have recognized that despite excellent show attendance and interest, an increase in retail buying, and an accelerated rate of production, March was to tell the story.

If the upward trend in sales and production in March registers a proportionate increase over January and February, conditions will be accepted as the industry has forecast them. That is, that the first quarter will be one of slow recovery, the second of more rapid acceleration, and the last half of the year like old times.

With spring relieving unemployment on a more general scale, especially if it come with mild weather, retail sales are expected to increase in a fashion that will justify stepping up production to more nearly a normal level.

The crisis of the unemployment situation, so far as the motor car industry in Detroit is concerned, seems to have passed. The car makers' efforts to relieve the situation have produced results. They have sought to give work to as many as possible, even though on a part time basis.

Old employes have been given the preference and every effort is made to discourage the invasion of outside labor. Local plants have hesitated even to hint at possibilities of additions to their payrolls because such announcements always produce a flood of outside applicants.

Ford and Chevrolet, the largest producers, naturally have the longest employment roster. The plants of the former are said to be operating on a three-day week with a force of 100,000. Some departments are running four and five days as occasion demands. Chevrolet's payroll includes approximately 30,000. The company is operating on a four-day week.

Other plants are going at about the same ratio, which means that the industry is running under wraps, but is ready to quicken its pace if March makes good.

Assurance of the nation's bankers that they are willing to go as far as sound banking practice permits in credit for retail motor car dealers has done a great deal to

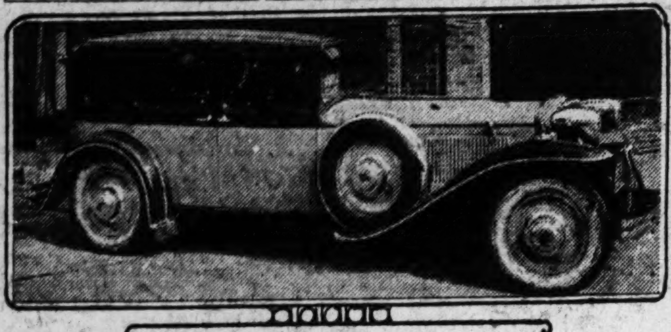
Has Novel Public Address System



Automobile equipped with a public address system said to be the only one operated with AC current supplied from A batteries through a converter. The car carries a radio receiver of standard 110-volt AC type. The AC current is derived from six 6-volt 150 ampere National batteries operating the motor converter and changing DC to AC current. The car, according to B. P. Rollerts, St. Louis branch manager for the National Battery Co., daily travels 65 to 70 miles through the streets of this city broadcasting music and talks. Its amplifiers and speaker are suffiently powerful so that it may be heard at distances up to half a mile.

Test for 3000 Miles Shows Economy Due To Free Wheeling

Studebaker's statement that free wheeling saves 20 per cent in gas and oil under ordinary driving conditions is substantiated, it is stated, by a recent road test for more than 3000 miles during which a saving of 21 per cent in gas and 49 per cent in oil was registered for free wheeling.

"Two identical Studebaker eight sedans were employed," the report says. "The cars were alike in every detail, each having the free wheeling transmission with which all Studebaker cars are now equipped. The cars were driven through Western Pennsylvania and Indiana over every type of highway, mountain roads and level roads, paved highways and rough back trails, as well as through the congested traffic of city streets.

"The two cars trailed each other, one free wheeling, the other in conventional gear, for 12 days at a speed of approximately 30 miles per hour. This speed was maintained up and down grades, except that the free wheeling car was kept in free wheeling gear at all times. The second car was driven in conventional gear throughout.

"An accurate check was maintained on gasoline and oil consumption for the entire trip. At the end of the 12 days, the two cars had traveled a total of 3060 miles at an average speed of 30.2 miles an hour. The free wheeling car averaged 16.3 miles per gallon of gasoline, and 1785 miles per gallon of oil. The second car, driven in convention gear, averaged 13.5 miles per gallon of gasoline and 1200 miles per gallon of oil—a saving of 21 per cent in gas and 49 per cent in oil for free wheeling."

Oldsmobile Finds Better Way to Make Bearings for Engines

Twelve thousand times a minute each connecting rod bearing of an automobile engine is under pressure when the car is being driven at 60 miles per hour. These strains, in addition to frictional stress, demand high quality materials and workmanship in the manufacture of bearings.

The general practice of bearing manufacture has been to place the two parts of the connecting rod in dies, then force the molten babbit into place. With this method there was no way wholly to prevent air or gas bubbles from being trapped in the babbit.

In the new Oldsmobile bearings, the connecting rod is fastened to a wheel with the large bearing of the rod locked in the center of the wheel. The correct amount of babbit is forced into the bearing and, as the rod revolves 1100 times a minute, the babbit is thrown by centrifugal force to its proper position.

Repeated tests on the General Motors proving ground proved that this new method produces better and longer wearing bearings.

Capt. Hawks Drives Franklin Speedster

Completing the purchase of a new Franklin Convertible Speedster recently, Capt. Frank M. Hawks, airplane speed king, has bought a Franklin convertible speedster. He said airplane experience had made him prefer air-cooled engines.

The Farnklin speedster which the airman bought was designed for him by Raymond Dietrich and is especially equipped. It is painted in maroon with vermillion striping and fitted with khaki top.

Coleman Is Named Manager of Indiana Branch in St. Louis

W. D. Coleman has been appointed branch manager in St. Louis for Indiana Trucks, Inc., manufacturer of Indiana trucks. He succeeds John L. Grice, resigned.

W. D. COLEMAN

Coleman has been in the motor truck business and related industries for some 17 years. He joined the Brockway Motor Truck Corporation, of which Indiana Trucks, Inc., is a branch, two years ago and spent most of his time on national accounts.

Ford Dealer Uses Service Station for Showing New Cars

The Walsh Motor Co., a Ford dealer at 5127 Delmar boulevard, has arranged an unusual display sales room in the center of his large service station. It is said to be the first time a Ford dealer has used the idea.

New Ford cars are displayed attractively in a 25-foot square enclosed in heavy plush-covered rope. The floor is painted black and gray in alternating squares and the corner posts are finished to match.

On this display space are concentrated the beams from a number of colored lights. The company reports that the idea has proved good, for every service customer who enters the station stops to inspect the new Ford models.

Essex Lubrication When Engine Starts

With the new Essex Super Six dual flow automatic oiling system, even if car has been in an unheated garage, when the engine is started lubrication is instantaneous, thus preventing the usual wear when a cold engine is started.

Another advantage of the dual flow system is the fact that the large volume of oil is subjected to considerable agitation when churning in open troughs. The oil temperature at this time is sufficient to liberate any violatile fuel contents of water which may be present, that is, foreign materials are freed from the oil and pass out through the crankcase ventilator.

New Remco Piston Ring Is Announced

In announcing the new Remco piston ring, designed to curb excess flow of oil in high speed engines, J. A. Ramsey, president of the Ramsey Accessories Manufacturing Corporation, says that his company already has sold millions of piston replacement rings to car owners.

Use of replacement rings, he says, gives a car owner another year of driving at a cost as low as $20 to $30. Many repairmen have found that with these rings they can economically recondition engines that have seen 15,000 to 20,000 miles of running.

The new Remco rings are designed to prevent piston rocking, piston slap and oil pumping.

Convertible Sedan Wins Praise for Nash

Conceived as an American ideal of European type coachwork, the new Nash convertible sedan has met with the most enthusiastic approval ever accorded a special model developed by the company, according to reports from all parts of the country.

The model can be transformed instantly from a snug, roomy inclosed model with all closed car advantages, to a smart, open road master, with all the freedom and driving pleasure offered by a fast, powerful open car. It brings to the moderate price field an exclusive design previously found only in the most expensive custom-built models.

First Man to Sell Pnumatic Auto Tire In This Country Dies

The man who first sold a pneumatic automobile tire in America died in Akron, O., recently. He was Arthur J. Wills, 67, a special sales representative of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co.

In 1896, when Alexander Winton was nursing his automobile into popular acceptance, Wills went to Cleveland as the tire sales manager of the Goodrich company and made the first bona fide sale.

Four More Miller Tire Dealers in City

The Strochl Tire Co., distributers of Miller tires, has added four independent dealers for Miller "Geared to the Road" and Miller "Rellim" tires.

They are—Weber Brothers' Motor Service, 6668 Fyler avenue; J. W. Rose Inc., 7434 Manchester; the St. Louis Avenue Service Station, Prairie and St. Louis, and the Wellston Motor Co., 6314 Easton avenue. Including these, eight independent Miller dealers have been added by the Strochl Tire Co. in the past month.

Buick Expects Sales Increase Due to New Policy as to Changes

During the five months from the time it introduced its present line of straight eights in the last week of July, 1930, until the end of the year, the Buick Motor Co. sold one and a half times more straight eight cars than its nearest competitor sold the 12 months of 1930.

These figures were compiled from a recent report of new car registrations prepared by the R. L. Polk Co. This report shows that Buick registrations in the last five months of 1930 totaled 49,464 cars as against 31,275 cars registered during the entire year by the second largest manufacturer of straight eights.

"Because of our recent announcement that the present 1931 Buick straight eights will be continued through the summer and fall months this year instead of being replaced with a new line Aug. 1 we believe that Buick sales figures during the coming spring months will exceed the figures for the same months of last year," says C. W. Churchill, general sales manager for Buicks.

Lon F. Israel Wins Chevrolet Contest

Lon F. Israel, 35 Mason avenue, Webster Groves, won the $100 first prize in a St. Louis Chevrolet dealers' $500 puzzle picture contest, held Feb. 1 to 14. Eddie L. Karasek, 1422 North Forty-sixth street, East St. Louis, Ill., won the second prize of $60, and E. L. Croissant, 916A Bates street, third prize, $40.

Israel's entry represented a Chevrolet display room, with a cutout of a car displayed prominently in the center. The rear walls of the showroom were painted to represent two large pieces of tapestry hanging from the ceiling. On one side of the room there is an open fireplace, while a poster of the Chevrolet owners service policy adorns the other side wall. A large rug covers the entire salesroom, which is illuminated by a series of eight lights, a chair and a fern plant was also displayed in the show room. The Chevrolet trademark is in the center of the display window, as well as on both outside walls of the building.

Uniform New Model Announcements Plan Indorsed by Marmon

Voicing immediate approval of the recommendation by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce that all new models be presented simultaneously in November or December of each year, G. M. Williams, president of the Marmon Motor Car Co., has announced that in the future Marmon will follow this policy in introducing new cars.

Williams said the N. A. C. C. recommendation, made only a few weeks ago by the Board of Directors, had been unanimously approved by Marmon officials, who regarded it as one of the outstanding steps toward stabilization taken by the industry.

"Marmon is confident that such a step eventually will lead to placing the automobile industry on a sounder and more substantial basis," Williams said. "Not only will the simultaneous introduction of new models by all companies lead to a more uniform and more stable business for the manufacturer, but it will place the dealer on a firmer footing and be of real benefit to the motorist."

Willys-Overland Head Tells of 40 Per Cent Car Sales Increase

"Having recently returned from a trip throughout the East, visiting Willys-Overland distributers located in the larger trade centers, it appears to me that business is definitely on the upgrade," L. A. Miller, president of Willys-Overland, Inc., says in a statement.

"Our new line of cars and trucks has met with unqualified approval by all dealers. This seems to be unprecedented so far as our business is concerned and probably the business of many other companies, and, naturally, causes optimism.

"We know that February sales will be at least 40 per cent better than January sales. Advance orders indicate that March will show a 40 per cent increase over February. This, naturally, is very encouraging, because a steady improvement in our business and in the business of other manufacturers is much better than large and unsound increases in volume and later curtailment. All business must be stabilized and other than seasonal peaks and valleys avoided."

You Need Never Lubricate NASH Springs

NASH has always striven to free the Nash owner from service requirements. That is why, on Eight-80 and Eight-90 models, Nash provides Lifetime Lubricated Springs, designed specifically to carry the weight of the individual model on which they serve. Each spring is encased in a steel cover—which retains the original lubricant for the life of the car. This expensive construction assures perfected spring performance—preventing water, rust and grit between the spring leaves and the development of spring squeaks.

Besides Lifetime Lubricated Springs, features in one or all Nash models include: Twin-Ignition Eights priced lower than last year's Sixes; Bijur Automatic Chassis Lubrication; increased horsepower; longer wheelbase; 9-bearing crankshaft in all Eight-cylinder models; 7-bearing crankshaft in the Six; new Nash Safety Transmission; insulated bodies; extra-quality upholstery, advanced beauty and luxury throughout.—Nash delivered prices make Nash cars the greatest values in their respective fields. Chevrolet Starts Sales Conventions In 52 Key Cities

Nine Groups of Factory Executives Sent Out on Promotion Drive Starting This Week.

The Chevrolet Motor Co. will start this week sales promotional activity said to be the most extensive ever put on by a national manufacturer.

Upward of 40,000 persons in the Chevrolet domestic retail organization will be summoned to the 52 zone headquarters in as many key cities, to attend meetings staged by factory officials to improve retail sales procedure. Nine groups of factory officials, each group composed of eight men, will stage the meetings from March 2 to March 19.

To conclude the meetings in less than three weeks, all region and zone managers, sales promotional representatives and other members of the field staffs are being pressed into service to aid members of the home office in holding the sales conventions, which are under the general direction of H. J. Klingler, vice president and general sales manager.

The move, attempted by Chevrolet for the first time this year, is based on a belief that unusually good business in 1931 will reward the organization which goes out after it. While similar meetings have been held on a national scale by Chevrolet and other manufacturers, this is said to be the first instance of national conventions being held solely for retail salesmen.

The purpose, according to Klingler, is to school the retail salesman in every phase of car merchandising in the interest of improved service to the public, which in turn will add to the good will of the dealer's establishment and the product, and add to sales volume.

General Motors Truck Co. to Build Full Line of Trailers

The General Motors Truck Co. announces its entry into the truck trailer field with a complete line, to be manufactured in its Pontiac plant and distributed through its branch, distributer and dealer organization. Production has started and delivery of the new trailers will begin very shortly, the announcement said. The line includes both four-wheel and six-wheel self-contained trailer units, and semi-trailers for service with truck tractors. There is a wide range of capacities and tire equipment covering every standard trailer requirement.

Manufacturing standards will be the same as for the truck line.

Planes and Autos Compared.

There are more than 8000 airplanes in use in the United States, as many planes as there were automobiles in the country 30 years ago. The number of cars and trucks now being operated in the States totals approximately 25,000,000.

Willys-Overland Head Tells of 40 Per Cent Car Sales Increase

"Having recently returned from a trip throughout the East, visiting Willys-Overland distributers located in the larger trade centers, it appears to me that business is definitely on the upgrade," L. A. Miller, president of Willys-Overland Inc., says in a statement.

"Our new line of cars and trucks has met with unqualified approval by all dealers. This seems to be unprecedented so far as our business is concerned and probably the business of many other companies, and, naturally, causes optimism.

"We know that February sales will be at least 40 per cent better than January sales. Advance orders indicate that March will show a 40 per cent increase over February. This, naturally, is very encouraging, because a steady improvement in our business and in the business of other manufacturers is much better than large and unsound increases in volume and later curtailment. All business must be stabilized and other than seasonal peaks and valleys avoided."

Chevrolet Starts Sales Conventions In 52 Key Cities

Two New Graham Dealers Appointed

The Gross Motor Co., local Graham distributer, has appointed two new Graham dealers in St. Louis—the Uhlemeyer-Cutler Motor Co., 1645 South Grand boulevard, and the Joedlecke Motor Co., 5237 Morganford road.

U. H. JOEDIECKE.

The Uhlemeyer-Cutler Co. is occupying the building formerly used by the Weber Motor Sales Co. Its president is E. G. Uhlemeyer, and C. J. Cutler is sales manager. The firm is to handle Graham cars exclusively, according to "Jack" Ford, general manager of the Gross Motor Co.

The Joedlecke Motor Co., of which U. H. Joedlecke is president, is to erect a new sales and service building. Joedlecke has been in the automotive business on the South Side for a number of years.

Breadon Drives 1180 Miles in Two Days In Free Wheeling Car

Sam Breadon, well known Pierce-Arrow distributer in St. Louis, also owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, has just completed a tour to Bradenton, Fla., in a new free wheeling Pierce-Arrow car. Breadon left St. Louis Sunday morning, Feb. 22, and arrived at Bradenton on Monday evening, Feb. 23. On Sunday, he reached Dalton, Ga., 570 miles from St. Louis, and on Monday traveled 610 miles, from Dalton to Bradenton.

Breadon, who had driven to Bradenton many times before, says he never enjoyed a car as much as he did the new free wheeling Pierce-Arrow. Free wheeling has taken the fatigue out of driving, because it relieves the driver of mental and physical fatigue, affording greater relaxation and enjoyment, and it eliminates a great deal of foot work, he says.

Franklin Production Schedules Increased

An increase of 15 per cent in production schedules has been ordered by President H. H. Franklin of the Franklin Automobile Co. for February, March and April. This increased output was made necessary to fill retail orders.

Retail deliveries to date this month are within 10 cars of doubling the same period of last month, while shipping orders on hand are almost double those of the same time last month. There are more unfilled orders in dealers' hands now than at any time since last June, Franklin said.

Detroit Wonders About Effect of Canadian Tariff

restore the industry's confidence in the immediate future. These assurances were received by Robert O. Lord, president of the Guardian Detroit Union group.

Lord recently wrote his fellow bankers throughout the country asking their support for motor car dealers who have been affected by a curtailment of credit.

Their agreement to go as far as possible in the rehabilitation of the nation's basic manufacturing industry is regarded as eliminating one of the most serious hurdles in the return to prosperity. It is a reaction that has the greatest significance to car makers and allied interests.

The new tariff barrier which Canada has reared against automobile imports has stirred much discussion in Detroit. It affects particularly those American manufacturers who do not have Dominion plants. This group includes Packard, Nash, Hupmobile, Graham, Auburn, Marmon, Willys and others. General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, Studebaker and Durant have Canadian factories.

The possibility is seen that companies which do not produce cars in Canada will have to raise their prices while the others may be able to lower their lists because of decreased competition and the correlative possibility of increased production.

More employment for Canadian labor by forcing other motor car manufacturers to locate plants in the Dominion is the objective of the new tariff. The entire Canadian automotive industry actually is American — branches of companies in this country. Last year 154,192 cars and trucks were built in the Dominion. Of these, 45,361 were exported. Imports from the United States totaled only 23,233.

Chevrolet on Monday will launch a project in retail salesman training unlike anything ever before attempted in the motor car industry. It is patterned after the expedition sent out by the company last fall when factory executives visited 52 key cities, introducing the new models to distributors and dealers and outlining the sales plan for the current year.

The same itinerary will be followed. Forty thousand salesmen will be thoroughly drilled in every phase of car merchandising. Improved service to the public is the objective and the campaign is expected to pay out in the form of increased business.

Refinement, not basic changes, characterize the new La Salle line. Minor revision of this nature is entirely consistent with the gentlemen's agreement in the industry to confine new model offerings to the last two months of the year.

Chassis changes were made in the La Salle last fall. The newest revisions have to do with appearance and the interior of the car. As to the former, the conventional vertical hood louvers have been replaced by the door type. Smooth custom styles replace the pleated upholstery previously used.

Chrysler Claims Stock Car Records For One to Five Miles

Every stock car record for open and closed models from one to five miles inclusive (12 in all) that are recognized by the A. A. A. Contest Board are held now by Chrysler Imperial Eight cars," says a statement from the Chrysler Corporation.

"Subject to confirmation by the Washington office of the A. A. A., this statement was authorized by L. Warren Baker, chief steward of the world record trial meet at Daytona Beach. These records were made Feb. 12, 13 and 14 on the sands of Daytona Beach under A. A. A. Contest Board supervision. The new records come under class B classification for stock cars having piston displacements from 305 to 488 cubic inches. Piston displacement of the Chrysler Imperial Eight motor is 384 cubic inches.

The open car used in these trials was a Chrysler Imperial Eight roadster, selected by W. D. Edenburn and William Taylor, A. A. A. representatives, from a Detroit dealer's showroom. Following its selection, the car was torn down, carefully inspected and calibrated by Taylor, the A. A. A. technical representative, to establish its strictly stock status. The car then was driven to Daytona Beach by Billy Arnold and Harry Hartz, with an A. A. A. observer.

"The closed car, a close-coupled Chrysler Imperial Eight sedan, was selected from the stock of the Chrysler salon at Palm Beach and inspected by Taylor. Following the completion of the record trials, the cars again were inspected in the same manner by Taylor, who had journeyed to Daytona for this purpise.

"Under revised A. A. A. Contest Board stock car regulations, a stock car is the same as offered for sale with full factory catalogued equipment by any dealer. This means that all speed trials under A. A. A. supervision must be made with cars fully equipped with fenders, windshield, top, spare wheels, tires, bumpers and all other accessories.

The Chrysler Imperial Eight roadster, which just made the open car records, was driven with its top up and curtains in position. The close-coupled sedan, which established the closed car records, was fully equipped and in addition carried a Philco-Transitone Auto radio.

"The records established were: For open cars—standing start one kilometer, 38.145 second; standing start one mile, 55.645 seconds; flying start one kilometer, 24.765 seconds, which is at the rate of 90.326 miles per hour; flying start one mile, 39.815 seconds or 90.413 miles per hour; flying start five kilometers, 2 minutes 7.670 seconds or 87.605 miles per hour; flying start five miles, 89.910 miles per hour.

"All open car records were made with Billy Arnold, the 1930 A. A. A. racing champion, at the wheel. All times and speeds given are averages for north and south runs on the beach.

"Closed car records: standing start one kilometer, 39.66 seconds; standing start one mile, 55,825 seconds; flying start one kilometer, 24.80 seconds, or at a speed of 90.198 miles per hour; flying start one mile, 39.875 seconds or 90.282 miles per hour; five kilometers, 2 minutes 5.93 seconds, or a speed of 88.816 miles per hour; five miles, 3 minutes 24.195 seconds, or 88.151 miles per hour.

"All closed car records were made with Harry Hartz, famous racing driver, at the wheel."

Selection in Pennsylvania.

"In Pennsylvania 25 per cent of the applicants for licenses to drive motor vehicles fail on the first test, and on subsequent examinations 3 per cent wholly fail. About 300,000 new drivers are examined each year, and in the last year 75,000 of those who thought they could drive a car failed to pass the first test, or answer questions concerning ordinary rules of the road. The 3 per cent who were unable to learn how to drive indicates that last year in Pennsylvania alone almost 9000 persons were prevented from driving because they were fundamentally incompetent, and their presence on the highways would have constituted a menace and danger to every other person in a vehicle or on foot.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE.

SARTORIAL idiosyncracies: Noel Coward sports a thin silver bracelet. Toodle-oo!

Mayor Walker has four one-buttoned silk lapelled overcoats—all alike.

Paul Whiteman's coats are all double-breasted.

E. Phillips Oppenheim wears a huge single black pearl in the bosom of his evening shirt.

Jack Dempsey's trousers are pleated.

George White wears only blue serge.

Earl Carroll has been hatless 15 years.

Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. prefers herring bone cloth.

Billie Burke is keen for beige.

Rod La Rocque can tie a muffler like nobody's business.

Charlie Chaplin wears black silk socks at all times.

Sinclair Lewis has a civet cat fur coat.

Natacha Rambova features enormous earrings and slinking gowns.

Arthur Somers Roche is color blind, but what gaudy socks he wears!

Michael Arlen introduced a large silver key chain with evening clothes.

Flo Ziegfeld wears only lavender or deep blue shirts with collars to match.

Tommy Millard has a $185 brown beaver derby and wears it.

Irvin Cobb wears bright yellow gloves.

Anita Loos still has a wind-blown bob.

Dudley Field Malone has an Inverness coat.

There are many who believe Al Smith can be induced to run for Mayor of New York at the next election. It is believed he is the only Tammany man that has the slightest chance.

A discussed book of the winter continues to be "The Lives of a Bengal Lancer." The opening paragraph begins: "All along the way from Bareilly to Khushalgargh on the Indus I was alone in a railway carriage with two couchant lions." That gives one an idea!

Outside of thumping a banjo like Eddie Peabody, there is nothing I would rather do this week than tap dance like Bill Robinson.

The tap dance, incidentally, is becoming out-moded. The dance steps that inspire the cheers are the hip wiggling, acrobatic sort. The fellow who can come within an inch of breaking a leg or ankle brings down the house.

The presidential suite of the new Waldorf-Astoria will be on the forty-second floor and have four exposures. Rooms are 14 feet high and the living room measures 18 feet wide by 44 feet long. Hoover is expected to occupy it in the early spring on a trip to the metropolis.

Short shavings: Patricia Salmon, Shelby, Mont., tent show star, later glorified on Broadway, is in continuous burlesque. . . . Harry K. Thaw's newest apartment is at 1136 Fifth avenue. . . . Billie Dove wears a $50,000 chinchilla coat. . . . Greta Garbo will have the dancer's part in "Grande Hotel." . . . William Collier Sr. uses a buff settee as an autograph album for visiting celebs in Hollywood. . . . Green Hand drives an automobile in Dayton, O. . . . Irving Berlin tries to get 10 hours' sleep nightly and usually gets four. . . . Roy L. McCardell has written another funny one called "My Uncle Oswald" (Farrar and Rinehart). . . . Stage censorship is around the corner. . . . Irvin Cobb may read some Roark Bradford tales over the radio. . . . He was the first to sing the writer's praise. . . . The Majestic apartments, a 30-storied building, replaces the famous old Hotel Majestic. . . . Sid Grauman was once a newsboy in San Francisco. . . . The biggest library tea in New York is given yearly by Charles and Kathleen Norris. . . . Conrad Nagel's father is head of a music conservatory in Pasadena. . . . His son has had a high-class musical education. . . . Uncle Joe Cannon used to pat a little girl named Helen Morgan on the head in their home town, Danville, Ill. . . . Lew Cody has been riding the water wagon. . . . Earl Carroll once "hoboed" it to the Orient with his brother Jim. . . . Irving Berlin's first American home was on Cherry street. . . . Roy Howard's daughter Jane is attending the University of Mexico to study archeology.

Chaplin to Write And Direct Talkie

Charlie Chaplin confided to friends, just as he was sailing on the Mauretania for England two weeks ago, that he will produce and direct a talking picture, in which he will not appear, when he returns from his trip around the world. He is accompanied by Ralph Barton on his present visit to England, Spain, France, Germany, Japan and Australia—with intervening points as additional stopovers.

Chaplin's theories of talking pictures are not fully formed, he says, because he does not understand the technique of making them, although he has been quietly studying it. He will not film a stage play, he says, but would construct an original story, as he always has for his own pictures. He will probably call on a professional writer for some dialogue, but may even tackle that himself, since he believes in simple, straightforward speech, anyway.

Preparing for Women Golf Guests in June

St. Louisans Make Arrangements to Entertain Prominent Players in Tournament at Country Club.

WITH the official 1931 golf season still three months away, arrangements are already being made for the entertainment of prominent women golfers from the Middle West, who will come to St. Louis to participate in the Women's trans-Mississippi golf tournament to be played at the St. Louis Country Club June 15 to 20, inclusive. All states from the Mississippi River to the Rocky Mountains will be represented, and for the first time states bordering the river on the east will send golfers, making the tournament the second largest for women to be played in the United States this year.

Tuesday, June 16, Mrs. Mahlon Brookings Wallace Jr., former St. Louis District champion, will entertain the visiting and local players at tea at her home in the St. Louis Country Club grounds; the following day there will be a dinner bridge and a meeting of the executive committee at the Country Club. Thursday, June 18, a mixed two-ball foursome has been arranged at Normandie Golf Club, and on Friday, June 19, there will be a luncheon and swimming party at the Westwood Country Club. The finals of the tournament will be played Saturday, June 20.

Many of the participants will come to St. Louis a few days before the opening of the tournament and a series of informal entertainments have been planned for them in addition to the time which they will require for practice.

On Friday, June 12, they will go to the North Hills Country Club swimming party, followed by a tea, and the following evening a theater party will be given at the Municipal Opera. Sunday afternoon a mixed two-ball foursome will be open to those taking part in the tournament at the Country Club, and the qualifying round of play will begin Monday morning, June 15.

Mrs. Harold H. Scott is president of the St. Louis District Golf Association in charge of arrangements for the tournament; Mrs. James R. Bissell, vice president; Mrs. Clarence Wolff, secretary, and Miss Flora Hilger, treasurer. Mrs. I. S. Hynes is chairman of the Sports Committee.

Former St. Louisan Married in New York

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.

ST. GEORGE'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH in Stuyvesant Square was the scene today of one of the largest Lenten weddings—that of Miss Mary Paschall Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman H. Davis, 59 East Seventy-ninth street, and John Clarkson Potter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson Potter, New York and Southampton, L. I., formerly of St. Louis. The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock by the Rev. Howard C. Robbins and was followed by a reception at the Davis home.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an empire gown of ivory satin made with long, close-fitting sleeves and a train from the waistline. Her tulle veil was arranged from a tiara of old point d'Angleterre lace, and more of this lace was used on the bodice of her gown. She carried a sheaf of calla lilies.

Miss Nora Potter, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Sarah Davis sister of the bride, as maids of honor, wore yellow crepe de chine made with cowl necks, normal waistlines, scalloped long skirts and short sleeves. Their straw hats and shoes matched their frocks and their gloves were an off-white tint. They carried yellow iris, orange snapdragon and blue delphinium.

The bridesmaids, Miss Eleanor Lamont, Miss Nora Grace, Miss Maria Sloan Auchincloss, Miss Jane Wyatt, Miss Lucy Sloan, New York, and Miss Evelyn Ames of Boston, wore orange crepe de chine gowns and matching accessories.

George Holland Potter was his brother's best man, and the groomsmen included J. Paschall Davis and Goode Paschall Davis, brothers of the bride.

Following a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Potter will make their home in Boston.

Mr. Potter's family formerly lived at 42 Westmoreland place, St. Louis. The bridegroom is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Potter, New York, who lived in St. Louis until a year ago, and is related to the Clarkson Carpenter and Lienberger families there. Mrs. Potter was Miss Amy Holland, and is a sister of Mrs. Marjorie Holland McKittrick.

The fathers of the bride and bridegroom, are well-known in New York and Washington, and have held important Government positions.

Weddings and Engagements

Announcement is made of the marriage last evening of Miss Mary-Gray Druin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Valentine Druin, 7280 Southwest avenue, to Albert John Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Harris, Hamilton, Ontario. The marriage took place in the conservatory of the W. A. Stertzing greenhouses at 8:30 o'clock, with the Rev. Ray Suerig of Maplewood Congregational Church officiating.

The bride wore a gown of white chiffon made on long, straight lines, with long, close-fitting sleeves. The bodice had a deep V neck in front with a bertha of the chiffon forming a short cape in the back. A small bow of the chiffon was attached to the bertha at the waist line. The veil of Brussels net was fastened to the hair in cap style, with tiny sprays of orange blossoms and lilies of the valley. She wore shoes of white crepe and carried an Empire bouquet of Angelus roses and lilies of the valley. Her only attendant was Miss Grace Elizabeth Myers, who wore a frock of printed chiffon in shades of rose and deep cream made like that of the bride. She carried an Empire bouquet of Joanna Hill roses with bows of rose satin ribbons.

Mr. Harris had as his best man Ray H. Wahlbrink, St. Louis. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Ben A. Bohm and preceding the ceremony Mrs. Roy C. Hormberg sang two selections.

A reception and wedding supper followed, after which Mr. and Mrs. Harris departed for Chicago, where they will make their home. Both will continue their studies at the Moody Institute.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Harris, mother of the bridegroom, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Skelly, Sparta, Ill., uncle and aunt of the bride.

Miss Ruth Greenblatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Greenblatt, 843 Westgate avenue, and Louis Bartfeldt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bartfeldt, 5936 McPherson avenue, were married Feb. 10 at Hotel Chase. Mr. and Mrs. Bartfeldt spent their honeymoon in Chicago and the South, and are at home at 7334 Forsythe boulevard.

Mrs. Greenblatt gave a luncheon for her daughter Monday at the Lennox Hotel. A horseshoe shaped table seating 60 guests was laid in a private dining room, and was decorated with pink and white favors and spring flowers.

Judge and Mrs. H. A. Hyde, 6242 Cabanne avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Julia May Hyde, and Charles von Siblin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar von Siblin of New York. Sisters Announce Betrothal Same Day

ANNOUNCEMENT was made yesterday of the engagement of Miss Eleanor Frances Ross, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Ross, 25 Amherst avenue, University City, to Ralph Charles Dean, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. Dean, Greenwich, Conn., formerly of St. Louis. The news was told at a luncheon given by Mrs. Ross at their home and later in the afternoon the betrothal of Mr. and Mrs. Ross' second daughter, Miss Dorothy May Ross, to William Foulke Spencer Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Foulke Spencer, Muncie, Ind., was made known.

The luncheon tables were adorned in spring flowers and the first announcement was writen on small scrolls which served as place cards and were later used as tally cards. A few bars of a wedding march were found in hearts painted on the cards, one of the guests receiving the final card which contained a verse with the names of Miss Ross and her fiance. The second announcement was found on corsage bouquets presented the guests. Small cards read, "Same Song, Second Verse," and the names of Miss Dorothy May Ross and Mr. Spencer.

Both Miss Eleanor Frances Ross and Dr. Dean were graduated from Washington University. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority. Mr. Dean is a member of Sigma Chi Fraternity. The wedding will take place in June.

Miss Dorothy May Ross attended Michigan and Washington universities and is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority. Mr. Spencer attended Michigan University and is a member of Delta Sigma Pi Fraternity. Their wedding will take place in the fall.

Webster College Alumnae Play

THE Webster College Alumnae Association will present a passion play, "Behold the Man," by the Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S. J., during the Lenten season. There will be four performances at the Shubert-Rialto Theater the evenings of March 26, 27 and 28, and the afternoon of March 28. The production will be under the direction of Harry R. McClain and the proceeds will go to the Loretto Foundation, working to endow Webster College.

At this time last year the Webster College Alumnae gave a modern passion play, "A Fantasy of the Passion," written by Father Lord. The play this year will be given in three acts, while last year the action was continuous for the entire performance. A cast of men and women, some of whom appeared in "A Fantasy of Passion," others in various Guild and stock company productions, have been assembled for the new play. All feminine parts will be played by members of Webster College Alumnae.

The Four Best Spring COAT FASHIONS
Pioneers in the Presentation of Spring Fashions Are These Models, Typical of the Smart Collection Featured at Kline's. Their Graceful Lines and Elegance of Design Portray an Understanding of the Mode . . . Delightfully Interpreted!
A—A sportive type of lacy tweed, with bright taffeta scarf that adds its charming bit to an unusual Coat! The crush belt is a very new sports idea, too . . . as is the pronounced wrap-over. The large buckle completes its attractiveness. $29.50
B—This type stresses severity of line that is individual! The Paris-inspired cuffs are of beige American broadtail*—the scarf collar is of self material—indicative of Spring in design! The coat is of black Baska.................. $39.50
C—Ermine dyed squirrel accentuates this basket weave model in the lovely new skipper blue. Note the lavish use of the fur . . . and the very smart crush belt.......................... $59.50
D—Beige Senta combines with beige fox to become one of the most fashionable Coats of the season! The chic details, such as the deep, roll-around cuff . . . the scarf collar and clever buttons, owe their origin to a noted Parisian designer...... $79.50

Activities of Women's Clubs

Barrett, music supervisor, Normandy High School, accompanied by Ernest Stamm.

The St. Louis Shakspeare Drama Study Club met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Edward Kroeger, 2360 Klemm avenue, with Mrs. D. H. Hucke assistant hostess.

The study of "Hamlet" was resumed at this meeting under the leadership of Mrs. Robert Hall Atchison. The guest of honor was Mrs. George C. Richardson of New York City, a former president of the club.

The next meeting will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. James R. Booth, 7109 Dale avenue. Mrs. Martha Sontheimer will be the assistant hostess.

The February meeting of the Women's Club of St. Louis University School of Medicine, was held at the home of Mrs. Leo Bartfels, 5870 Cabanne avenue, Monday. After a short business meeting presided over by Mrs. Charles H. Neilson, a varied and interesting musical program was presented by Mrs. Grayson Carroll, contralto; Mrs. Roy H. Milligan, pianist, and Mr. Oscar Heather, tenor.

The tea table was presided over by Mrs. William H. Vogt and Mrs. Alfred P. Briggs. Assisting Mrs. Irving H. Boemer were Mrs. Newman R. Donnell, Mrs. William W. Graves, Mrs. Madison J. Pulliam, Mrs. Joseph C. Peden and Mrs. Leland B. Alford. About 70 members were present.

The quarterly meeting of the Delphian Council will be held in the auditorium at the Central Library at 10:30 o'clock Friday morning, conducted by Mrs. B. A. Thompson, president. The spring luncheon will be discussed.

The Alpha Delphians of St. Louis will discuss two novelists at their next meeting, which will be tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at Kingshighway Presbyterian Church, 5010 Cabanne avenue. A resume of the previous lesson will be given by the president, Dr. Helen Gibson. Mrs. H. T. Miller will lead the discussions and give an outline of the "Essence of Realism." Mrs. W. H. Dickey will describe "Aunt and Uncle Pullet" of George Eliot's "Mill on the Floss." George Meredith's "Richard Feverel" will be discussed by Mrs. O. R. Moody and Mrs. G. B. Lindsay. The novels of George Meredith will be discussed by Mrs. R. C. Bridges.

The Morning Etude Musical Club will hold its regular bi-monthly meeting in Vandervoort's Auditorium Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. Rosalind Elsner Anschuetz will give an illustrated lecture on "Lincoln's Oratoria."

Mrs. Alma Russell Morse is in charge of the program.

A patriotic party and entertainment in honor of Jules Field was held by the Greater St. Louis Women's Republican Club, Feb. 19, at Liederkranz Club Hall. The next meeting of the club will be held Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Guidons will hold its monthly literary salon for members and guests under the leadership of Mrs. Charles M. Hoyt Friday at 11 a. m. in the drawing rooms of Mrs. Frank Henniger, 4414 Washington boulevard. Mrs. Hoyt will read recent Russian fiction, showing the effect of the Russian Soviet regime on family life.

A public salon will be held Wednesday in the Daniel Boone room of the Hotel Statler at 2 p. m. Mrs. Hoyt will review "The Education of a Princess," by Grand Duchess Marie of Russia. Cards of admission may be secured from Mrs. F. H. Littlefield, president, eighth district; Mrs. J. Leyden White, Mrs. R. H. Tait, Mrs. H. Raymond Walker, Mrs. E. A. Steininger, Mrs. C. C. Wednesday at 8 p. m. the Ladies' Auxiliary of Alhambra Grotto will hold the public installation of its officers in the auditorium of the Grotto. The newly elected and appointed officers of the auxiliary are: Mrs. Edna Schmidt, Aphrodite, Queen of Love; Mrs. Gussie Branditz, Demeter; Mrs. Agnes Wolfarth, Vesta; Mr. H. D. Schilling, King; Mrs. Letitia Phipps, Clio; Mrs. Lula Upshaw, Melpomene; Mrs. Dorothy Born, Bendick; Miss Gertrude Bishop, Terpsichore; Mrs. Olive Winkle, Pollhymnia; Mrs. Nina Meyer, Hebe; Mrs. Dorothy Fox, Aurora; Mrs. Philippine Kelting, Argus. Mrs. Jule Willman will sing during the installation.

The ceremony will be preceded by a short program.

Miss Claire Seimer, Miss Lucille Hall and Miss Jessie Burnside will be hostesses to the Literary Alumnae Saturday at the Gatesworth Hotel. "Who Moved the Stone?" by Frank Morrison will be reviewed by Miss Hall and Miss Nellie Matlock will have charge of the discussion.

The Uandi Literary Club will meet Thursday at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Herbert Boettler, 6501 San Bonita avenue, with Mrs. Harry McKee as assistant hostess. Papers will be read by Mrs. Chester Prince and Mrs. Robert Grote. The book of the day will be reviewed by Mrs. R. C. Heath.

Officers for the church year were elected Tuesday by the Woman's Association of Second Presbyterian Church as follows: President, Mrs. Thomas H. Cobbs; vice presidents, missionary, Mrs. W. L. Upson; sewing, Mrs. Hamilton Cooke Jr.; child welfare, Mrs. H. J. Drabelle; social service, Mrs. Walter S. Sutherland; luncheons, Mrs. David Brewster; dinners, Mrs. G. A. Green; recording secretary, Mrs. L. K. Ayers; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. H. Murray; treasurer, Mrs. Mabel C. Smith; membership treasurer, Mrs. Samuel A. Thompson; auditor, Mrs. D. C. W. Berryman. The association adopted a budget of $7412 for the next year, about $5000 of which is divided between foreign and national missions. The balance goes to various causes, including the work in St. Louis.

Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock Prof. Edmond Wuerpel of Washington University will lecture before Theta Chapter, Mu Phi Epsilon Sorority at the Art Museum. The subject will be "Sculpture."

Bailey Circle No. 170 will hold its meeting tomorrow, March 2, at the K. of C. Building, 3917 Lindell boulevard.

Miss Mabel McQuiston of the English department of Beaumont High School, and also a member of the St. Louis College Club, will review "Wild Geese" Tuesday at the weekly dinner meeting of St. Peter's Branch of the Girls' Friendly Society.

The young artist contests, sponsored by the Missouri Federation of Music Clubs, will take place during its annual conference and music festival, April 23, 24 and 25 at Hotel Chase. Divisions of competition are organ, violoncelo, piano and voice. The winners will later enter the regional contest of Arkansas, Kansas and Missouri. The successful participants of this contest are eligible to appear in the national federation contests, which will be held at the national biennial in San Francisco in June.

Junior contests will be held April 25. Classes in piano, voice, violin and musicianship will participate. Applications for both contests may be secured from Mrs. John Handley Caldwell, state president, 16 Algonquin Lane, Webster Groves, Mo., and Mrs. Hugo Wiemers, eighth district president, 3508 Vista avenue.

The next meeting of the Confederate Dames Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will be held at the residence of Mrs. J. W. Harris, 10 Carrswold place, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The St. Louis Choral Club, National Federation of Music Clubs, under the direction of Carrie Deal Smith, will present the "Black and Tan Frolics of 1931" at the Sheldon Memorial Thursday evening at 8:15 o'clock. The sketch will resemble a minstrel show, and will embrace bits of musical comedy.

Chapter O. of P. E. O. met Monday at the Wednesday Club. Mrs. Frank P. Hayes, Mrs. J. E. Bright and Mrs. T. N. Jeffords were hostesses. The president, Mrs. Ruth Kelso Renfro, presided at the business meeting following the luncheon. The next meeting will be held tomorrow at the home of Mrs. R. E. Carter, 6621 Pershing avenue. There will be an election of officers.

P. E. O. Co-operative Board will meet Friday at 11 a. m. in Vandervoort's auditorium. The P. E. O. luncheon will be held at 12:30 p. m. in the tearoom.

The sixteenth annual minstrel show and dance will be given by the Daughters of America and Junior Order of National Association of Mechanics at Moolah Temple, 3821 Lindell boulevard, Saturday evening at 8:15 o'clock.

GRAY HAIR IS EASILY DARKENED

Tells How She Did It With a Home-Made Remedy.

Mrs. E. H. Boots, a well-known resident of Buchanan County, Ia., who darkened her gray hair, made the following statement:

"Anyone can darken their gray or faded hair, and look twenty years younger with this simple remedy, which they can mix at home. To half a pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, one small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently. It does not color the scalp, is not greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."

"Whitest wash ever!" says Mrs. M. Benear, 3923 Miami

"I always feel a little glow of pride when I hang out my snowy Rinso wash—whiter than the whitest wash I ever got the old-fashioned way! No scrubbing or boiling—Rinso's thick, lasting suds soak out the dirt. A little gives a lot of creamy suds, instantly—even in our hard water."

MRS. MARTIN BENEAR,
3923 Miami, St. Louis, Mo.

Brighter clothes from tub or washer

How Rinso's thick, active suds loosen dirt! Clothes come so white, they don't need to be boiled. Colored things come brighter than ever.

Cup for cup, Rinso gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps—even in hardest water. Rich, lasting suds. Great in washers, too—the makers of 40 famous washers recommend it. Get the BIG package.

Sears Do Not Sell "Seconds" or "Culls"

ALL our vitreous china closets are strictly "A" Grade, or "Regular Selection" ware as defined by the code of Commercial Standards, and are so labeled. The code requires that all culls be marked at the factory with two short lines cut through the glaze and filled with red varnish or enamel. When buying vitreous ware be sure you get "Regular Selection" and not culls. The marks denoting culls are placed inside the closet tanks near the top, and on the rear of closet bowls. Our vitreous ware must pass strict inspection and every piece is guaranteed strictly "A" Grade. We do not sell "seconds" or culls.

Mrs. Roy Johnson, Mrs. Louis Sullivan, Mrs. Joseph Whyte and Mrs. Louis Desloge motored to Chicago for a week's stay.

Mrs. M. R. de Penaloza attended a luncheon Thursday given by Mrs. James J. Ring at her home, 4393 West Pine boulevard in honor of her niece, Miss Genevieve Ring.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben M. Layton of 5653 Cabanne avenue have announced the birth of a son, Tuesday, Feb. 24. Mr. Layton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Y. Layton of 325 North Elizabeth avenue.

Mrs. C. O. Wilding of 434 Wesley avenue left Monday for Chicago to visit Mrs. A. J. Gariepy, formerly of St. Louis.

An entertainment for the benefit of charitable and civic purposes was given Friday evening at the Presbyterian Church. Mrs. M. Leaver was in charge of the program.

Mrs. Pauline Salzman of Fort Washington, N. Y., who visited friends in Ferguson for several weeks, has returned home. Mrs. Salzman was the guest Tuesday of Mrs. T. M. Williams of 7 Thoroughman avenue.

Mrs. M. R. de Penaloza of 99 South Clay avenue, was hostess at a bridge luncheon Friday.

Miss Helen Hughes of 515 Hiffin avenue entertained 12 couples at bridge Saturday evening.

The engagement of Miss Charlotte Dixon Baldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leanord Eugene Baldwin of Kansas City, and Marshall Meriwether Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Harris of Allen place, has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin. The marriage will take place this summer.

Mrs. J. S. Schweitzer of 216 Harrison avenue, will attend the meeting of the Uandi Club Thursday at the home of Mrs. Herbert Boettler, 6500 San Bonita avenue. Mrs. Ruth Crane Davis will be the speaker.

Mrs. J. H. George, educational secretary of the women's auxiliary of the Episcopal Church, will be the speaker at the meeting of the Parish Aid of St. Stephen's Church at the residence of Mrs. T. B. Terry, 403 Hereford avenue, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Thatcher of Chambers road, who have been visiting in Miami, Fla., are guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Barringer of Montclair, N. J. They are expected home about March 8.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE U. S. A.

Survey of Business, Political and Judicial Ills and Possible Remedies for Some of Them.

By Samuel Untermyer

America a Spoiled Child of Fortune, Says Noted Lawyer — Governing Processes Antiquated, and We Lag in Welfare Laws—Founts of Justice Clogged and Monopolies Far From Curbed—Power Rights.

By SAMUEL UNTERMYER

Counsel in many very important lawsuits in the last 35 years, his clients sometimes having been great corporations, public utilities and trusts, and at other times the Federal Government, labor unions and obscure individuals.

The material in the following article is taken from an address made by Mr. Untermyer before the members of the University Club, of Los Angeles, Feb. 17.

WHAT I shall have to say to you will be quite as unpleasing for you to hear as it is for me to have to say. But there comes a time when someone should undertake as a public duty the wholesome and ungrateful task of holding for us "the mirror up to nature" so that we may see our shortcomings. It is only in that way that we can be persuaded to mend our ways.

America has been so long the spoiled child of fortune and it is so much easier for us to swim with the tide and join in the chorus of adulation that accompanies material success, that few care to assume the unprofitable role of reminding us of our blunders. And yet, that is quite as necessary to our progress as are the danger-signals that warn the mariner at sea against the rocks that lie in his course.

That is the sort of introspection in which I propose to indulge today. If I am an alarmist or given over to exaggeration or unduly pessimistic, my words will bring their own reaction. If I am wholly or partly right, the consolation of having performed a gratuitous, unsought, unwelcome duty must be my only reward.

But in order that I may not be misunderstood, let me assure you by way of preamble and explanation that life has dealt generously with me—far beyond my just deserts—and that, strange as it may seem, after you have heard what I have to say, I am an incurable optimist on America and its future. Whilst I can see and deplore its failings, it is just because of devotion to my country that I dare venture the criticisms I am about to express.

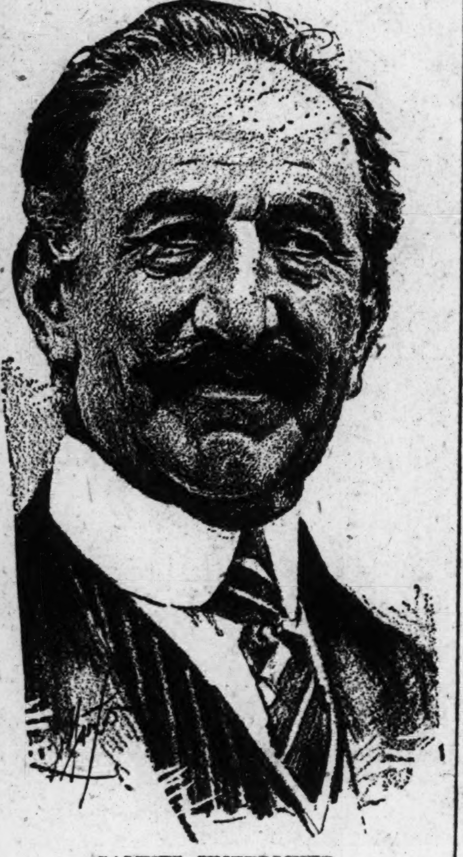
I differ from the people of other nations and from our own smug, self-satisfied fellow-citizens who blindly worship our material success and prosperity to the point at which they assume that it must have been achieved by superior thrift and ability and by a more profound knowledge of economic laws than that of other countries with which we compete.

Nothing could be further from the truth, and the sooner we recognize that in the management of our affairs we are deficient in the rudiments and practices of a sound social and economic philosophy, take stock of our blunders and mend our ways, the better it will be for our future.

Deceived by National Vanity.

In calmly accepting our vast accumulated, albeit poorly and unjustly distributed wealth, as the reward of the superior brains, energy and industry of the nation, we have utterly lost sight of the fact that it is largely the result of the development of the great natural resources with which bountiful nature started us on our course—far greater than those of any other country on earth. It has suited our vanity to delude ourselves into the belief and to take it for granted that we are the architects of our own fortunes, which is not true. Laboring under that delusion which I regard as a form of "folio grandeur" we, like the proverbial drunken sailor, have gone on and on squandering our munificent patrimony by carelessly entrusting the development of our policies of distributing those natural resources and the government of our ever-growing complicated affairs to ignorant and incompetent men with no knowledge or training in the difficult science of government.

I venture to assert that on the whole a more generally untrained body of national, state and local legislators and one of lower intellectual standards is not to be found in any civilized country on earth. Ours is the veritable paradise of the demagogue and ignoramus in public life. Our standards of public service are so perverted that true statesmanship rarely dares assert itself if it runs counter to the public delusion of the moment.



SAMUEL UNTERMYER.

This is not because we do not know better. It is because we are indifferent, superficial in our study of public questions and insufficiently interested in the affairs of government and do not realize the very direct and often devastating effect upon our own individual fortunes of the ignorance of our representatives.

We seem to regard government as a thing apart from us.

Clinging to Outworn Formulas.

Our form of government is neither democratic nor highly progressive. We cling to outworn forms that are a travesty upon government and make us appear ridiculous. One of the most striking, but only one of the many illustrations of that assertion, is found in the persistence through generations of our "lame-duck" Congresses. For 13 months of every two years, we permit ourselves to be governed and misrepresented in the House of Representatives, and our laws to be made and unmade by men who have been expressly repudiated by their constituents. The truth is that our Government is not responsive to the will of the people. In that respect the most democratic and responsive form of government is that of Great Britain where the Parliament is dissolved and a new election is immediately held to determine and carry out the public verdict upon any great issue that arises. With us the Congress that we elected, say, in November, 1930, does not convene until December, 1931. Not only may the issues on which it was elected have ceased to exist, or have been decided adversely to the popular verdict by the Congress that the people have repudiated before the new Congress meets, but still worse, important new issues may meantime arise on which the judgment of the people cannot be recorded until December, 1933, when those issues may have been decided by Representatives without, and often contrary to, the will of their constituents! Is that democratic government?

The country is now being shaken to its foundations by the alarming and increasing misery caused by unemployment due to the business depression which is unfortunately far from ended. The efforts of well-meaning but hopelessly inadequate, unjust and unscientific agencies of private charity are being drafted into service to relieve and bridge over, as best they can, the emergencies against which government should have provided and protected us as it has long done in other countries.

Some American Shortcomings.

We were generations behind in providing compulsory insurance to provide compensation against accident in industry. After years of loud outcries and acrimonious opposition from the powerful employers, compromise laws were finally enacted that provide insufficient relief under forms of procedure that are in a great many states so dilatory and poorly administered that they fail largely of their purpose.

Insurance against old age, sickness and unemployment that have existed for a generation or more in other countries which make no boast of democracy are still unknown to us. Our employers who by the well-recognized rules of accountancy allow, as an expense of the business, depreciation against obsolescence and wear and tear on buildings, tools, machinery, merchandise and the like, stand aghast at and loudly denounce as socialistic and confiscatory the long but thus far unsuccessful agitation to indemnify the human machine in those same industries against the same wear and tear and obsolescence due to old age, even though the employe is clamoring for the opportunity to contribute to such insurance.

About the Author:

SAMUEL UNTERMYER has appeared as counsel in many celebrated legal contests in the last 30 years. He participated in the litigation between the Standard Oil Co. and the Waters Pierce oil properties; between James Hazen Hyde and others for the control of the Equitable Life Insurance Co.; between the Rogers and Rockefeller interests and the Heinze forces for the Montana copper mining properties; between the Treasury Department and the Riggs National Bank in Washington.

He conducted the famous investigation of the Money Trust for the House of Representatives and the Senate investigation as to campaign contributions in the national election of 1924; he helped frame the Federal Reserve Act, prosecuted the building profiteers in New York after the war, and in the matter of street car fares in that city successfully opposed any increase in rates.

He has appeared for labor unions, for obscure individuals, and for the people of New York State in matters of social welfare. These facts but scarcely sketch his legal activities in the last three decades.

The same is true of insurance against unemployment. In times of depression the employer has his capital, undistributed profits and reserves accumulated in years of prosperity to fall back upon until business revives, but the men who by their labor are responsible for his prosperity are turned adrift to starve. If every industry were compelled with us to bear this burden as in other lands, for whose form of government we have a degree of contempt commensurate with our ignorance of their institutions, we should not be driven to these frantic appeals for help and it would not be necessary for our employes to submit to the loss of self-respect involved in the acceptance as charity of that to which they are entitled as of right and justice.

There is no reason for this scandalous state of things other than the despotic power of capital over government which enables it to defeat just social legislation and thereby to shift its righteous burdens from the shoulders of industry to those of charity.

Vicious Legal Processes.

The strength of a chain is measured by its weakest link. I think it will be admitted that the weakest link in our chain of government is in the administration of justice. Sad as it may be to admit, with us the administration of justice has completely broken down, for which we lawyers cannot escape our heavy share of responsibility. The intolerable delays and the prohibitive cost of litigation together constitute a virtual denial of justice. A poor litigant, however just his cause, is literally starved out by the artificial barriers that surround our cumbersome procedure in a lawsuit. In the end, unlike the rule that prevails in other countries, the cost of litigation is imposed upon the successful instead of upon the defeated party. The trifling award to the former is no indemnity as it should be and is elsewhere. The quality of our judiciary is also far beneath that of other countries, due partly to the impotence and want of influence of our bar, but mainly to the political considerations that determine the selection of judges.

The most vicious and demoralizing effect of the now grotesque prohibition law is that it has converted law-abiding citizens by the millions into hypocrites and potential criminals. The manner of its enforcement, or rather non-enforcement, has brought all law into contempt. It amounts to the indictment of an entire nation. Noble and idealistic as we may be willing to concede the motives that prompted the experiment, it has failed of its purpose and has proven an overwhelming disaster. It should be wiped from the statute books with as little delay as possible if we are to rescue a vestige of our self-respect in the eyes of the world. By every rule of a moral code, a purveyor of liquor is no more a criminal than is the buyer.

The anti-trust laws constitute another of our economic follies which we persist in retaining upon the statute books. Many of us believe that these laws were wise and constructive in their inception and that, if courageously and impartially enforced against the great business and financial interests against which they were aimed, they would have

Plan to Modify Capitalism, Curb Greed And Distribute Share of Profits to Labor

---By Robert S. Brookings---

President Emeritus of Washington University, After Citing Views on Need of Revising Economic Conditions, Outlines a Way to Make Labor a Partner in Business Enterprises.

By ROBERT S. BROOKINGS,

(Copyrighted)

ANY student of the rapid changes taking place in our modern civilization cannot fail to be impressed by the growth in the world of widespread dissatisfaction with the existing organization of society.

Ranging all the way from mild forms of criticism to the violent challenge which comes from Russia, this almost universal dissatisfaction is based on a growing conviction that capitalism, although it is the form of economic organization which has given mankind a greater degree of general well-being than had ever been known before, contains with itself serious maladjustments and injustices, especially as regards the relations between capital and labor, and that some way must be found for correcting these glaring defects.

The extreme critics of the existing social order, the Communists, insist that the only solution of this problem is to destroy the whole present-day order of society and upon its ruins to build up a new one. In Russia, where they have had a free hand for more than a decade, the Communists have declared vicious everything we hold sacred, and have proceeded to reorganize society in a way which we should have thought impossible only a few years ago. They have shown that their way of correcting the defects of capitalism is to destroy it totally, the good in it equally with the bad.

The less extreme critics hold that the overwhelming price exacted by communism need not be paid, but that, on the contrary with courage and intelligence, our social order can be so reorganized as to preserve the good there is in capitalism and at the same time to correct its defects. But more and more our outstanding thinkers warn us that unless this is done the growing dissatisfaction of the great masses of the world's population will eventually make inevitable the devastating holocaust of the Communist method.

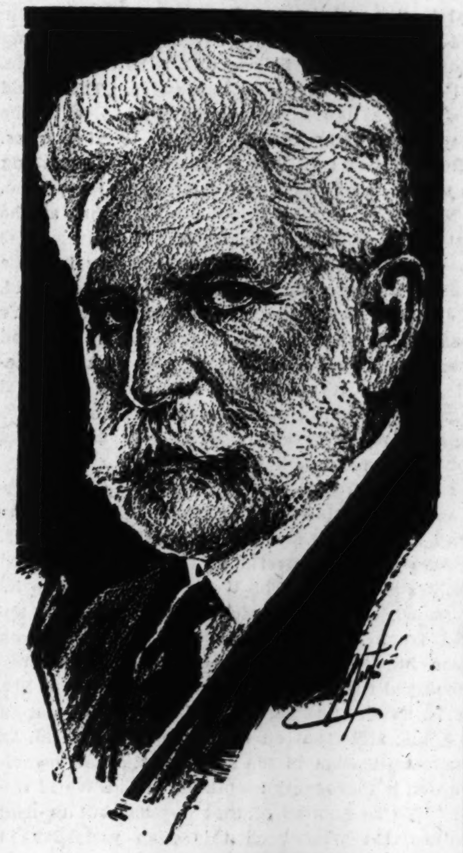
To quote only a few of these warnings that our modern civilization stands today at the parting of the ways leading either to some form of modified capitalism or to some form of revolutionary communism:

Warning by College President.

Last summer, at Southampton, L. I., Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler delivered an address entitled: "The One and the Many," in which he contrasted the Communist form of society with ours, which he preferred to term "liberal" rather than "capitalistic." He said that we must not rely on a doctrine of "laissez-faire" but must be prepared to answer the charges of the Communist against the present order and "to readjust or modify existing practices so as to remove all grounds of Communist criticism without yielding the fundamental tenets of liberalism." The ideal of society, he concluded, is not the Republic of Plato or the Communist state of Marx and Lenin, but "is the free association of men . . . acting each with high intelligence, with moral purpose, and all socially minded."

In a sermon on Dec. 28, 1930, Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick repeated the same thing in different words: "See the picture (of the world today): communism rising as a prodigious world power, and all the capitalistic nations arming themselves to the teeth to fly at each others' throats and tear each other to pieces . . . Capitalism is on trial . . . Our whole capitalistic society is on trial; first within itself, for obviously there is something the matter with the operation of a system that over the western world leaves millions upon millions of people out of work who want work, and millions more in the sinister shadow of poverty. Second, capitalism is on trial with communism for its world competitor . . . The verbal damning of communism now prevalently popular in the United States will get us nowhere.

"The decision between capitalism and communism hinges on one point. Can capitalism adjust itself to this new age? Can it move out from its old individualism, dominated by the selfish profit motive, and so create a new co-operative epoch with social planning and social control, that it can serve, better than it has, the welfare of all the people? If it can, it can survive. If it cannot, some form of communism will be forced upon our children. Be sure of that!"



ROBERT S. BROOKINGS.

Legislator's Conclusion.

Representative Hamilton Fish Jr., chairman of the congressional committee which recently investigated Communist activities in the United States, speaking at a meeting in Carnegie Hall, before publication of the committee's report, said: "I do not want any one to think, because I have taken the lead by virtue of an extended investigation in exposing and combatting the falsities and attendant horrors of communism, that I believe our own economic system is above reproach. Far from it; there is much that present-day industrial capitalism can learn and borrow to advantage from Russian communism. If communism is on trial, so also is capitalism."

The essence of the Communist experiment in Russia lies in the attempt to demonstrate that a more efficient system of production than exists under capitalism can be obtained by abolishing individual enterprise and private profit-making, and substituting for it state ownership of the means of production under a system of centralized planning and control.

It is believed that this will equalize supply and demand and prevent those maladjustments and fluctuations in business activity which accompany the capitalistic system. In the matter of distribution, the Communist theory has been that the nation's income should be divided in proportion to needs, rather than in proportion to services rendered; but in Russia this principle has been in practice more or less modified by the introduction of a wage scale and—to the extent that this is the case—the practice is tending in the direction of capitalism.

The Communist ideas are being tried out in Russia, moreover, under a system in which the whole economic life of the country is under the control of the Government, which is a self-chosen dictatorship and which holds unlimited sway over all the agencies of industrial production and distribution and over the life and activities of the laboring classes, thus eliminating individual liberty.

Lack of Personal Incentive.

In my judgment, the fundamental weakness of the Communist plan lies in the assumption that individual initiative and incentive can in the long run be maintained without making individual rewards directly proportionate to individual effort and ability, and without giving to men and women the fullest possible opportunity for the development of their capacities. We believe that liberty and individuality are the indispensable essentials of economic efficiency. We believe that in the end the Communist experiment will serve as an ample demonstration that the very best machinery is nothing but a dead investment if the men behind these machines are deprived of personal freedom and incentive and denied such cultural possessions as the family and religion.

And yet, in spite of its weaknesses, Communism represents a real challenge to our Western civilization. That challenge cannot be met either by denunciation or by force. Our Western civilization must vindicate its worth if it is to endure. And it can vindicate its worth only by demonstrating its ability to correct its own defects, and its consequent capacity for constructive development.

Would Have Workers Represented in Management and Pay Dividends to Each After Reasonable Earnings Had Been Distributed to Capital—New Federal Incorporation Act Needed.

Attempts at such a demonstration are being made in various countries. Some European nations for example, are striving through discussion and negotiation to meet the great social problem of the relation of capital and labor. Germany, a representative liberal democracy, has an Economic Advisory Council, representing the various economic groups of the country, to which the discussion of all economic and social problems is referred before introduction with recommendations into the Reichstag for decision. The members of the Advisory Council, however, have no voting power.

What Italy Can Do.

Although Italy is an autocracy under the dictatorship of the Duce, every economic interest of the country is afforded opportunity for discussion and negotiation so that they may, by mutual agreement, arrive at a fair compromise of their differences. The Government will not permit, either through lockouts or strikes, any interference with the productivity of the nation, and if, in the last analysis the groups fail to agree among themselves, the Government through its minister or the labor court determines the solution of all problems. In Italy as elsewhere, however, the autocracy of capital seems to exist, and the general feeling among the working classes is that the Government favors the employers.

These attempts are still far from providing an adequate solution of the great social issue which confronts us today. Much more far-reaching is a plan for a more equitable distribution of the fruits of industry which originated some years ago in New Zealand. In its essence, this plan places a limit upon the remuneration of capital without limiting the eventual remuneration of labor. The Companies Empowering Act of 1924, the provisions of which are enabling, not compulsory (quoted in full in my Economic Democracy, pp. 111-117, MacMillan, 1929) is a new conception of employe partnership in industry which does not deny the importance of capital in production, nor deny to it the return which it properly earns, but at the same time regards labor as "the life-giving element in production, superior in function and in quality to capital."

Every Worker a Partner.

H. Wickham Steed, editor of the English Review of Reviews, writing enthusiastically of this plan in the issue of August, 1930, says: "If labor organizations could extract from employers twice or thrice the wages currently paid without altering the status of workmen or ennobling 'labor's' conception of its own functions, they would merely add to the costs of production and tend to render industry unprofitable. But if, by thinking things out to the end, they reach the conclusion that what workers need is a definite personal interest in the work they do and in its success, together with a voice in the general control and management of it, they may see that it is quite possible to increase employment, to cheapen output and to add to material rewards while raising the status of workers from that of mere hirelings to that of partners in enterprise."

In the United States, the principle of property rights has played a basic role in making America the largest industrial community in the world. In the light of changed conditions, this principle today needs modification, and it is in America, more than anywhere else in the world perhaps, that an opportunity exists for setting into operation forces which, while recognizing the rights of property, will modify these rights in a spirit of justice and so attain the goal of social betterment, while avoiding the basic errors and the disastrous consequences of communism.

We have in this country through our economic system of mass standardized production and distribution, and through the mass consumption and the control of a large home market made possible by the "saving wage," paved an easy way by which it would seem that we might fairly and with justice to all modify and limit the rights of capital while enormously increasing the opportunities of labor.

The plan of a modified capitalism sketched in the following pages and based in part on

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy, or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

For a Game and Fish Commission.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I READ John B. Scott's letter on "Save the Ozarks' Wild Life," which appeared in your paper on Feb. 14, 1931, with a great deal of interest.

I am glad to see our sportsmen taking an interest in the wild game of Missouri. I, too, have been a sportsman for 40 years, hunting all sorts of game in Missouri, more particularly quail, and unless we do something and do it quickly to restock our fields and streams, the sport and recreation derived from hunting and fishing are gone forever.

The number of hunters and fishermen in 30 years has increased very rapidly, while comparatively little has been done to increase the fish and game.

In Jefferson City alone, 30 years ago, both fishermen and hunters could be counted on the fingers of two hands, while today we have possibly 500 hunters and double that many fishermen. The freeze of January, 1930, and the dry spell of the same year almost wiped out our quail.

On my farm of 1280 acres in Pettis County in 1929, I found 14 coveys on 200 acres in one-half day. This year I found one and one-half coveys on the entire 1280 acres, using four dogs. Have hunted this farm 40 years from one to two trips each year and always by protecting the game had plenty of quail for sport.

I am heartily in favor of the proposed bill now before the Legislature for a Game and Fish Commission, believing it the best way to handle the department. For instance, a commission this year could have closed the entire State after the first week of hunting, when it was found that game was scarce. Keep the season open in order to produce revenue, but let the commission regulate the length of time, bag limit, etc., as the needs of that year indicate.

I have no grievance against the present game warden, but we all know that no warden can accomplish much in so short a time and, further, game wardens do not have the power granted to them that can be given to a commission. Whatever is done, let it be done at once.

Nellie Melba.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE International Mark Twain Society greatly regrets the passing of Dame Nellie Melba, a vice president and Australia representative of our society. One of the world's greatest singers, she made her debut as Gilda in "Rigoletto" at Brussels, Oct. 15, 1887. An excellent account of her fascinating life can be obtained from her "Melodies and Memories," published a few years ago.

CYRIL CLEMENS, President.

A Denton J. Snider Memorial.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I SEE that steps are to be taken to preserve the house in which Eugene Field lived in St. Louis.

I am entirely in accord with such a movement, but desire to call to the attention of the people of St. Louis a plan under way to commemorate the work and memory of another great St. Louisan, Denton J. Snider, philosopher and educator, and perhaps the greatest writer the city has ever known. His works are better known in England and on the Continent than they are in the community which was the scene of his endeavors.

Denton J. Snider belonged to a group of intellectuals who, shortly after the end of the Civil War, formed a philosophical group called the St. Louis Movement, which has left its impress upon the cultural and educational life not only of St. Louis but of Chicago and several other cities. He taught in the old Central High School for many years, and had a part in introducing the kindergarten system in the St. Louis schools. He founded a communal university, giving his services without remuneration, and even distributing his books gratis to all who came to his classes.

The Denton J. Snider Association for Universal Culture, an organization devoted to the study of the writings of this great scholar, is endeavoring to have a high school in this city named in his honor. It invites the co-operation and assistance of all who knew Dr. Snider or came under his influence, to the end that it may not be long before a worthy tribute may be paid this eminent St. Louisan.

MARY E. COUGHLAN.

Thieves and Bandits.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I AM glad that in your editorials with regard to the Grand National Bank robbery you are calling the thieves "thieves," rather than bandits. It is my belief that the constant use of the word "bandit" gives thieves what in slang is called a "swelled head." It makes them feel important. According to the Standard Dictionary, a bandit is one of a band of robbers or highwaymen; originally a proclaimed outlaw. Such bands were quite often picturesque. The Robin Hood legend appealed to the imagination, and Dick Turpin was somewhat of a popular hero. But the tendency to make heroes of thieves is a mischievous tendency, dangerous to society. Let us stop calling [illegible]its, for the sake of imagin[illegible] people.

Passing of a Great Newspaper.

Sale to the Scripps-Howard interests of the New York World marks the passing of a newspaper which had enjoyed the distinction of being second in prestige only to the London Times.

Liberal thought everywhere cannot escape a profound sense of loss. For 48 years The World has been one of the great spokesmen of the Republic. In the reactionary period since the World War it has been almost unique among Eastern newspapers in its defense of the civil rights of the people. When Joseph Pulitzer bought The World in 1883 the sturdy Americanism for which he stood was to a much greater extent than it is today a living thing in American thought. It was a time when more than 80 per cent of the voters of the country went to the polls. A thousand Worlds could not have held the American people true to their traditions in the era of political and moral chaos which resulted when the warring peoples of Europe deluged us with their gold and the sun of communism veritably "came up like thunder" out of Russia.

Nevertheless, The World continued true to its faith. It labored valiantly for the preservation of the individual in the onrush of the great forces which conspired to destroy him, and nothing could be more disheartening than to believe that it battled in vain. The lesson of its career is impressive. The World proved that a newspaper can be aggressive in the public interest without injury to its material fortunes. Mr. Pulitzer had said that it was to him something more than a commercial enterprise, and so it proved. The New York Herald Tribune relates that at the height of his powers he neglected the business side of the newspaper to pour his whole energy into the newspaper's public work. Nevertheless, The World, in addition to demonstrating the truth of Jefferson's famous axiom that "where the press is free and the people can read all is secure," became a fine material success. Its combined moral and financial strength at its zenith must forever rebuke all those newspapers which have thought they cannot succeed except by the smug policy of laissez faire.

The World's liberal opinions, its hatred of corruption and its detestation of privilege, had nothing to do with its material decline. Other liberal journals, and there are still several of them in the United States, are successful. The World's failure was in its business aspect. Its intellectual position remained unaltered from the time when the guns of Joseph Pulitzer himself thundered against public wrongs and scourged the evildoer in whatsoever walk of life. There is, as Mr. Pulitzer's sons have pointed out in their public statement on the sale of The World, "a fortunate mitigation in the spirit of the new ownership which is thoroughly hospitable to The World tradition." To be assured of that one has but to read the editorial reprinted on this page yesterday in which the Telegram told what it thinks of California's incredible intolerance of civil rights.

Probably The World suffered in part from a decline common to morning newspapers. There are many fewer morning newspapers in the United States than there were. There is only one, the Milwaukee Sentinel, left in the whole State of Wisconsin. Chicago, which a few years ago had six morning newspapers, now has but two. Boston and Philadelphia, in which morning newspapers were numerous up to a few years ago, have left but three each. The list of cities in which there is only one morning newspaper left, though some of them formerly had as many as five and six, is growing daily. It includes St. Louis, Cleveland, Detroit, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Pittsburg, Indianapolis and New Orleans. The passing of The World leaves but three morning newspapers in New York. Decline of the morning newspaper is due to the changing tempo of life. More than half the population of the United States has become urban. Automotive transportation has depopulated street cars and suburban trains. The evening newspaper has proved itself better suited to the times, and the rise of the evening newspaper corresponds to the decline of journals in the morning field. The World had readers. Where it failed was in the competition for business.

As a contemporary says, "Mr. Pulitzer was a crusader, and The World was his sword." From Grover Cleveland's election in 1884, advocated by The World as a means of breaking the Republican party's 24-year-old stranglehold on the country, The World's hat was constantly in the ring. In 1885 and 1886, it trapped and sent to prison the Jake Sharp gang of boodlers who corrupted New York City's Aldermen and bargained off Broadway. The World took up arms against the brutal practice of torturing prisoners in the New York penitentiaries and stopped it. It was first to take up the agitation for rapid transit, resulting in New York's subway system. The World, single-handed, exposed the scandalous deal between the McKinley administration and the Union Pacific reorganizers, saving $14,803,000 to the people. It led the fight for better tenements, obtaining conviction of a builder who used mud instead of cement in tenement house construction, causing the death of a dozen workmen. It fought Boss Croker and his corrupt leadership of Tammany Hall, pursuing him with the historic question, "Where did you get it, Mr. Croker?" referring to his great wealth. The World exposed the armorplate frauds, whereby rotten armor was being manufactured for our battleships.

Although supporting Cleveland in his two successful campaigns, The World fought him bitterly in one of the most brilliant journalistic episodes in American history—the Venezuelan affair. As a result of Cleveland's message to Congress in December, 1895, Great Britain and the United States were on the verge of war. The World immediately cabled and telegraphed more than 500 messages to leaders of thought throughout England and the United States, including the Prince of Wales, who put aside official etiquette to answer, asking them to send messages of good will. The response was so fervent that overnight it turned back the tide of jingoism and averted war.

The World exposed the alliance between Secretary of the Treasury Gage and the Standard Oil bank, by which it appeared that this institution was favored with Government deposits without interest amounting to $1,000,000 a day; it fought successfully for the imposition of a franchise tax, adding $15,000,000 to New York State's revenue; it bared the Tammany Ice Trust scandal. It won its battle against the insurance companies when an investigation conducted by Charles Evans Hughes disclosed tremendous scandals that rocked the nation and resulted in the complete reorganization of the insurance business. A resume of The World's crusades against public and private corruption is an inspiring chapter in American journalism. The journalistic technique of Mr. Pulitzer, who used the news as a black sky which he illuminated with editorial lightning, perhaps marked the most effective innovation in the use of publicity since the time of Voltaire.

The Post-Dispatch regrets the passing of The World. It was with resources Joseph Pulitzer had made through the Post-Dispatch that he bought The World from Jay Gould. As the parent, so to speak, of the great journal which The World became, the Post-Dispatch has taken a natural pride in the distinctive place it made for itself as an exponent of the finest tenets in American journalism. We are fearful that the passing of The World is an irreparable loss to liberal thought in the United States. No cause can lightly mark the passing of one of its great exemplars.

The influence of The World in its devotion to social justice and political uprightness was not upon the people alone. It affected also the contemporary press which, in the words of Editor Wallace of the Louisville Times, is restrained in its material impulses by the example of free newspapers like The World. It was in its prime the best fulfillment in our history of the expectation shared by the men who wrote the Bill of Rights of what the press would become if it were made free. In "The Press Today," published in 1930, Oswald Garrison Villard, who had himself inherited the New York Evening Post, said:

> The solicitude that one hears on all sides is the best tribute to what The World has been and could be. Its editorial page has been the last remaining morning one in the metropolis that did not bow the knee to the god of things as they are, that felt that there is a better kind of America and a juster one to be achieved, that stood ardently for the rights and liberties of the individual.

Under the circumstances, the injunction laid upon the heirs of Joseph Pulitzer not to sell The World had become intolerable. The courts very properly dissolved it. Nevertheless, the passing of the paper is one of the great tragedies of American journalism, a loss which the nation can ill afford. In the manner of the Samurai, we salute its passing soul.

HE GOT THE WRONG NUMBER.

Few are the people who will not sympathize with Mr. C. N. Allen. He is the Vallejo, Cal., contractor, who made the front page yesterday. He tried to place a telephone call and got the wrong number. An hour later Mr. Allen was arrested on his piazza and dispossessed of his rifle. His unerring aim had brought down four main trunk lines and put no less than nine circuits out of order. Officially society cannot condone Mr. Allen's course. Officially it must call him to account. Human nature, however, sees him with more understanding eyes. He is the brother of us all. His sin is our sin and his punishment our punishment. As the Scriptures say, to do the thing in the mind is no less wrong than to commit it openly, and where is there one among us who some time or other, probably since breakfast today, has not had the swelling urge to do what Mr. Allen did—and more?

A JOB FOR SHERLOCK.

If the great detectives of fiction's Scotland Yard were available, which one of them would be commissioned to dig into the mystery of St. Louis' thieves' market? These legendary sleuths were talented performers, and they had gifted press agents. Dupin, sorting over the data compiled by Poe, could read in a vague implication the whole detailed story of the crime, dragging the murderer at last into the red glare of retribution. Monsieur Lecoq may never have attained the fineness of genius, but Gaboriau invested him with an energy that bored through all the defenses of cunning or granite. An operative of a later school was Craig Kennedy who, by his partnership with science, could look into the seemingly innocent contents of a test tube and find solutions for the problems of tragedy and despair, on the authority of Reeves' skillful pen. But that cadaverous nemesis of villains whom the world met long ago in the unpretentious lodgings at 221 Baker street still wears the plume. In the twitch of an eyelid, the angle of a hat, the impress of a footprint, a mannerism of speech—oh, well, no letter of recommendation is necessary now. If still practicing his profession, Sherlock Holmes were the first choice for the job of placing an identifying finger on the unknown warrior that telephoned Eddie Foristel. And what a dandy yarn Conan Doyle could spin of the affair of the Grand National bonds, from the Sabbath morning burglary to the restitution!

FRATERNITY OR GANG?

Lawrence Huegel Jr. finds himself on the "dishonorable inactive list" of his high school fraternity at Jefferson City. He stands accused of having "broken faith with a brother." And who is that brother whose trust Huegel is alleged to have violated? He is Representative Clifford C. Rens, now at liberty under $1000 bond, scheduled to be tried in May on a charge of forging Huegel's name to a State pay warrant for services as legislative clerk which the student did not perform.

With an alumnus and a member figuring in a petty payroll raid which has scandalized the State, the Jefferson City chapter of Delta Phi Kappa has taken sides between them. It finds that the youth, who played the part of a responsible, conscientious citizen and performed a public service in helping expose the alleged fraud, is guilty of breaking faith. Tacitly it approves the actions of the man, who is accused of attempting to use the student as his dupe, with a promise of "cigarette money," in order to put $31.50 into his own pocket.

Fraternities at educational institutions set themselves up as a means of instilling the highest principles of society into their members, and most of them live up to that aim. By its action this high school organization, however, has indorsed the principles of the underworld gang.

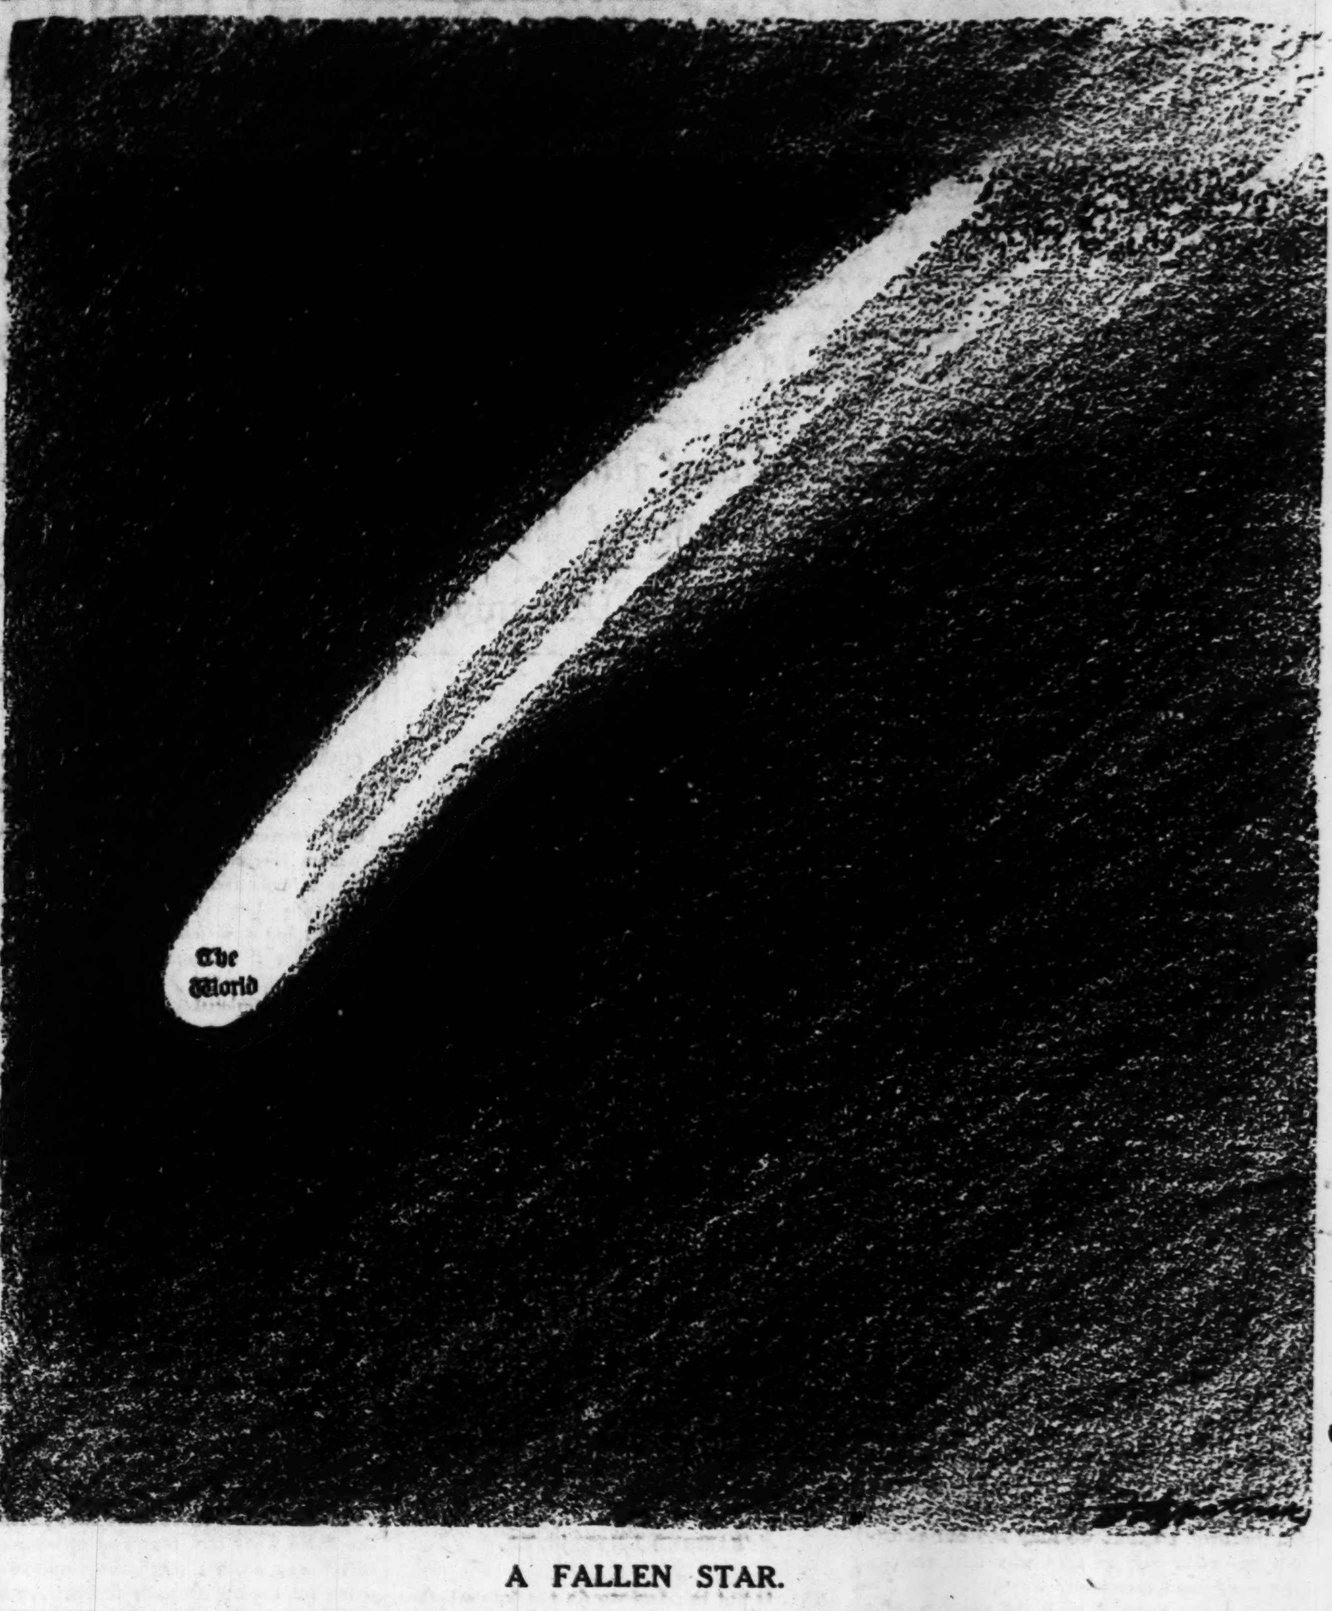
AN EXAMPLE FOR MISSOURI.

If the Missouri Legislature wants an example in its consideration of the bill to legalize Sunday hunting, let it look to Wisconsin. By a vote of almost three to one its representatives in the State Legislature have just approved a bill abolishing the last of Wisconsin's blue laws. These legalistic anachronisms are passing just as surely as the Mississippi flows by St. Louis on its way to the sea. Nor will a state derive any particular honor in being one of the last to yield to the irresistible force of changing [illegible] customs.



A FALLEN STAR.

Press Comment on Sale of The World

MILWAUKEE JOURNAL: No sadder word has come through many weary moons than that The New York World is come to the ending of its days. To all who know the press as an instrument for the betterment of the world, to all who hope it is still to be such an instrument and that the world is still to grow better, the passing of The World is not only saddening but disturbing. For since the first issue that Joseph Pulitzer controlled, The World has been America's foremost exponent of the principle he set forth on that May morning in 1883, that an intelligent newspaper must be "independent, but not indifferent or neutral" on any question involving public interest.

TOPEKA CAPITAL: The World was one of the most courageous and intelligent American newspapers. Its standards were admirable. It had the respect of all newspapers. Nobody had any sort of outside control over it. It is to be deplored that it is such a newspaper as The World that has to go down.

• • •

BALTIMORE EVENING SUN: Joseph Pulitzer, the elder, succeeded in his endeavor to establish a newspaper which should be more than merely a purveyor of information. He did create an institution which was a force in public life and a force that operated, we believe, for the public good. The World has made its errors, of course, but in the 48 years that have elapsed since Joseph Pulitzer took it over it can hardly be denied that its existence has tended to make New York a more decent, safer and pleasanter town in which to live. And to the nation outside of its own city it has stood as an exponent of sane liberalism, which is a service the country can ill afford to spare.

LONDON EXPRESS: This marks the close of an era in the history of what was, for a quarter of a century, the most virile, original and, in a way, the most sensational newspaper in the world.

SPRINGFIELD (MO.) LEADER: The consolidation writes only another chapter in the rapidly developing newspaper history of our land. So shall the story run, newer blood shall take that which the old builded and, applying methods which keep step with the times, produce fewer but—with all reverence to the memories of those who gave true journalism its birth—vastly better newspapers. In The World and the Telegram together there shall be preserved the best that was Pulitzer's and the best that was Bennett's. And to the ideals of them both shall be given the vim, the vitality and the energy that belongs to today.

BOSTON EVENING TRANSCRIPT: To a very large element of the reading public, the downfall of The New York World will come with a veritable sting of sorrow. A great romance of newspaper enterprise thus ends in material failure. A most singular and striking career, that of Joseph Pulitzer, dazzlingly successful in its hero's life, eventuates in a newspaper crash.

• • •

WICHITA FALLS (TEX.) TIMES: There has been nothing finer in American journalism than the Pulitzer tradition. Joseph Pulitzer's sons have tried valiantly to uphold that tradition. That they have failed is due, we believe, more to the changed order of things than to any lack of competence or courage on their part. Loss of the Pulitzer identity by The World will silence the one genuinely liberal voice in American journalism. There will be left only the choice between conservative smugness on one side and sensationalism on the other.

PHILADELPHIA RECORD: Even in the days of its decline, The New York World stood for something strong and fine. It has shown liberalism, courage, a resolute purpose to defend the public interest. In these days the community which possesses a fearless, independent journal possesses an asset of priceless public worth, and the people of New York can ill afford to lose the champion they have had in The World.

• • •

OSAKA (JAPAN) MAINICHI: We believe that the legacy of The New York World left by the late Mr. Pulitzer will not be impaired, but rather that it will be resurrected with fresh virility.

• • •

KANSAS CITY TIMES: The World goes out fighting in exemplary fashion. Its courageous and clarifying exposition of Tammany corruption, its unhesitating revelation of responsibilities for existing conditions, regardless of party preferences, have been characteristic of this newspaper's career. When a newspaper establishes a merited reputation for independence, its utterances are respected as convictions, even if they encounter many disagreements. The World has not been an exception to this rule. It is regrettable that the last of the notable New York family names identified with journalism must disappear, along with those of Dana and Bennett.

WASHINGTON STAR: Joseph Pulitzer will nevertheless be remembered not only as a genius himself but as a discoverer of genius.

• • •

ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT: The sale and disappearance of The New York World occasion a feeling of sincere regret that these papers should cease to exist as distinct entities. The Morning World in particular has been for half a century one of the outstanding newspapers of the country, a recognized leader in journalism and a potent force in public affairs. Its passing will bring to an end a newspaper career of peculiar interest and significance.

CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER: It is a tragedy as appraised in the newspaper world. It is a serious loss to the court of intelligent public opinion. An era ends with the transfer of the property. The fond hopes of a pioneer progressive in the publishing field are tangled in the wreckage. Collapse of the Pulitzer enterprise, after so illustrious a career, is a disaster which no newspaper man can discuss without a sigh.

• • •

LONDON STAR: The New York World kept the banner of liberalism flying far outside New York, for throughout the United States the reformers (and they are fewer than we think) took their cue from The World. It was the only strongly Democratic newspaper in New York, and, politically, its passing will be important.

• • •

ST. LOUIS STAR: Had The World been blotted out of existence at the height of its prestige and power, its passing would have been rightly termed a national calamity. Even now, considering what might have been, it is scarcely less. For years the editorial page of The World was the breath of life to American liberalism, and its news columns were a thundering force in the journalism of politics. But, even as happens with an individual going through the cycle of life, the thunder was stilled long before the hour of final dissolution.

CINCINNATI ENQUIRER: Obliged to sell their papers because they were losing money steadily, the Pulitzer sons found several possible buyers. Just what is it that these groups were bargaining for in terms of millions? The enterprise does not make a profit. It is a tradition that was for sale—a name made great by the initiative and courage and wisdom of the late Joseph Pulitzer, sustained since his death by the loyalty of a staff of newspaper men.

• • •

CLEVELAND PRESS: The ingredients harmonize in the merger. They blend naturally. There is nothing in the nature of oil-and-water about the transaction. Through half a century, the institution which Joseph Pulitzer founded and that founded by E. W. Scripps have been working in separate ways toward a common end.

• • •

ILLINOIS STATE REGISTER: While in a sense it is to be regretted that the effort of The World employes to take over the paper and continue the Pulitzer policies to which they had made so loyal a contribution to date failed, it is a satisfaction to know that if the property had to be disposed of to outside interests its destiny was confided to a high-class organization like the Scripps-Howard syndicate, which enjoys a splendid reputation in newspaperdom and both in point of personnel and financing may be counted upon to maintain high standards.

ST. LOUIS TIMES: When, in 1883, Joseph Pulitzer bought a decrepit property from Jay Gould, he left St. Louis with the dream that became a reality. As the years went on, he, as hundreds of other captains of progress have done, determined that there would be no change even after that mystery known as death had stayed his course. It was an ambition worthy the energy and spirit of its author. Yet, in a space so short that it is to be measured by a generation, the will has failed under the relentless pressure of time and change. The wholly unexpected has happened.

COLUMBIA MISSOURIAN: The New York newspaper field without Pulitzer's human World may still look the same but it will lack the spice, sparkle and vivacity that gives variety and spirit to life. For 48 years The World proved itself a model in the human newspaper world. Reporters and writers from all over the country came, often at lower wages, to sit at the feet of its editors and special writers to learn the art and science of newspaper work.

The World has run its course. The younger Pulitzers could not cope with the tabloids and the newer popular journalism of New York, they say. Other crusaders will have to take up the fighting spirit of the older Pulitzer.

EMPORIA (KAN.) GAZETTE: It is a sad day in the newspaper offices. The World has always been Democratic in politics, but it has been independent, too, perhaps more independent than Democratic. It has been fair and honest and brilliant in its editorial expression and editorial policy. And its passing brings sadness and a sense of loss to all its friends.

averted the perils of monopoly from which we are suffering. But, like the prohibition law, though for a different reason, they have been made impossible of enforcement. The Sherman law has been on the statute books for over 40 years. Spasmodic and unequal efforts at enforcement in isolated cases have served only to demonstrate that the powerful offenders against the law are stronger than the courts or the Government, and so for every violator who has been prosecuted, hundreds, perhaps thousands, have cropped up and are now operating and growing stronger and stronger in open defiance of the law.

The Monopoly Question.

The only serious attempts at enforcement have been in the assaults on organized labor to which the law was never intended to apply. There is no longer any use of arguing the economic policy of whether or not these vast monopolies and combinations of capital should or should not be suppressed. That is no longer possible except here and there in isolated spots where the offender is not as powerful and its operations are accordingly not as perilous as the great combinations. The truth is that the influence of these great lawbreakers exerted on one administration after another has proven irresistible.

I believe that the Sherman and Clayton acts, if aggressively and impartially enforced, would have eliminated the monopolies that have now accumulated to the extent of hundreds and possibly thousands, from which the country is suffering and which have buried their tentacles so deeply into its economic life that any genuine attempt now made to enforce those laws would lead to a cataclysm in the business and financial world. I am satisfied it was largely because of the fear of the disaster to business that would have followed the dissolution of the United States Steel Co. by the courts and to some extent, perhaps, because it has not ruthlessly used its unlawful power, that all precedents were overturned to sustain it. Its guiding spirits had vision. With the strength of a giant to crush and eliminate competition at will, it did not use that strength. From the time of that decision the law became a mockery.

The courts have added in other ways to destroying the efficiency of the law by their decisions limiting the power of the Federal Trade Commission which, as originally designed, was a useful piece of legal machinery in the direction of enforcement.

The antitrust laws of today are in a less sensational way as much of a reproach to our administration of justice as is the prohibition law.

Real Control Possible.

If more of our public men would be politically honest and courageous, they would confess the failure of the law and enact laws that would effectively protect the public against the oppression of these combinations. In other ways there are effective means at hand. These trusts are now subject to no effective regulation. Since they cannot be suppressed, they should be rigidly regulated. I have long urged Federal regulation of those that are engaged in interstate commerce, which would apply to most of them, and certainly to those imperiling the public safety by clogging the arteries of free competition.

Every corporation engaged in interstate commerce should be made subject to Federal regulation. Every interstate combination of corporations engaged in such commerce should be required to take out a license to entitle it to do business and all its business methods and transactions should be subject to Federal supervision and control. It should not be permitted to have an agreement on prices or for the restriction of production or the division of territory or with respect to any one of the many other means by which the channels of trade are obstructed, unless the agreement is open and has been approved by the Federal Trade Commission as to its reasonableness.

A form of regulation based upon the German Kartel would answer the purpose. As things stand, individual initiative in this country in large enterprises is no longer possible. The combinations can crush it whenever it becomes dangerous.

Not the least of our follies—or worse—is the ease with which the dominating financial interests have managed to secure legislation that permits great national banks to indulge by indirection in practices that imperil the safety of our banking system. The State Legislatures, in order not to be outdone in liberality in the use of the moneys of depositors, and so as to induce the state banks not to surrender their charters for Federal charters, are permitting the same class of laxity of administration.

Laxity With Banks.

The New York World of Feb. 6, commenting on the recent testimony of Mr. Owen D. Young before the United States Senate Committee that is investigating banking conditions, has this to say:

"Over 1300 banks failed last year, and about 6000—or one bank in every six in the United States—have failed since 1920. No other country in the world can present such a picture, and the peculiar thing is that this should occur in the country of greatest wealth and of the highest degree of individual well-being. The fault lies clearly in management and not in the lack of ability and resources."

I would supplement that explanation by a more obvious and accurate one. We should cease allowing the American and State Banking Associations and their member banks to dictate and write the laws that govern them. In making these laws why not take a averted the perils of monopoly from which we are suffering. But, like the prohibition law, though for a different reason, they have been made impossible of enforcement. The Sherman law has been on the statute books for over 40 years. Spasmodic and unequal efforts at enforcement in isolated cases have served only to demonstrate that the powerful offenders against the law are stronger than the courts or the Government, and so for every violator who has been prosecuted, hundreds, perhaps thousands, have cropped up and are now operating and growing stronger and stronger in open defiance of the law.

UNTERMYER TELLS WHAT'S WRONG WITH U. S.

The Monopoly Question.

The only serious attempts at enforcement have been in the assaults on organized labor to which the law was never intended to apply. There is no longer any use of arguing the economic policy of whether or not these vast monopolies and combinations of capital should or should not be suppressed. That is no longer possible except here and there in isolated spots where the offender is not as powerful and its operations are accordingly not as perilous as the great combinations. The truth is that the influence of these great lawbreakers exerted on one administration after another has proven irresistible.

I believe that the Sherman and Clayton acts, if aggressively and impartially enforced, would have eliminated the monopolies that have now accumulated to the extent of hundreds and possibly thousands, from which the country is suffering and which have buried their tentacles so deeply into its economic life that any genuine attempt now made to enforce those laws would lead to a cataclysm in the business and financial world. I am satisfied it was largely because of the fear of the disaster to business that would have followed the dissolution of the United States Steel Co. by the courts and to some extent, perhaps, because it has not ruthlessly used its unlawful power, that all precedents were overturned to sustain it. Its guiding spirits had vision. With the strength of a giant to crush and eliminate competition at will, it did not use that strength. From the time of that decision the law became a mockery.

The courts have added in other ways to destroying the efficiency of the law by their decisions limiting the power of the Federal Trade Commission which, as originally designed, was a useful piece of legal machinery in the direction of enforcement.

The antitrust laws of today are in a less sensational way as much of a reproach to our administration of justice as is the prohibition law.

Real Control Possible.

If more of our public men would be politically honest and courageous, they would confess the failure of the law and enact laws that would effectively protect the public against the oppression of these combinations. In other ways there are effective means at hand. These trusts are now subject to no effective regulation. Since they cannot be suppressed, they should be rigidly regulated. I have long urged Federal regulation of those that are engaged in interstate commerce, which would apply to most of them, and certainly to those imperiling the public safety by clogging the arteries of free competition.

Every corporation engaged in interstate commerce should be made subject to Federal regulation. Every interstate combination of corporations engaged in such commerce should be required to take out a license to entitle it to do business and all its business methods and transactions should be subject to Federal supervision and control. It should not be permitted to have an agreement on prices or for the restriction of production or the division of territory or with respect to any one of the many other means by which the channels of trade are obstructed, unless the agreement is open and has been approved by the Federal Trade Commission as to its reasonableness.

A form of regulation based upon the German Kartel would answer the purpose. As things stand, individual initiative in this country in large enterprises is no longer possible. The combinations can crush it whenever it becomes dangerous.

Not the least of our follies—or worse—is the ease with which the dominating financial interests have managed to secure legislation that permits great national banks to indulge by indirection in practices that imperil the safety of our banking system. The State Legislatures, in order not to be outdone in liberality in the use of the moneys of depositors, and so as to induce the state banks not to surrender their charters for Federal charters, are permitting the same class of laxity of administration.

Laxity With Banks.

The New York World of Feb. 6, commenting on the recent testimony of Mr. Owen D. Young before the United States Senate Committee that is investigating banking conditions, has this to say:

"Over 1300 banks failed last year, and about 6000—or one bank in every six in the United States—have failed since 1920. No other country in the world can present such a picture, and the peculiar thing is that this should occur in the country of greatest wealth and of the highest degree of individual well-being. The fault lies clearly in management and not in the lack of ability and resources."

I would supplement that explanation by a more obvious and accurate one. We should cease allowing the American and State Banking Associations and their member banks to dictate and write the laws that govern them. In making these laws why not take a few leaves out of the books of other countries? The laxity of our laws in the restrictions imposed upon the custodians of other people's money and the absence of the swift and sure punishment that follows breaches of trust in other countries, accounts for the difference.

The officials of our greatest banks are, with rare exceptions, merely highly paid clerks who are put there by the financiers who rule the banks and control the funds under cover. The directors are chiefly "dummies" selected by these same financiers. In Europe the banks are rigidly supervised, the directors are paid salaries. They are required by law to direct and are held to rigid criminal responsibility. In the rare cases of failure, it is still more rare for the officers and directors to escape prison.

Way to Curb Bankers.

These bankruptcies are occurring with us notwithstanding our justly prized Federal reserve banking system. The most disastrous and far-reaching of these catastrophes—the failure of the Bank of United States in the State of New York, with its 450,000 unfortunate depositors in the City of New York, and its 59 so-called affiliated corporations—is the most recent instance in which the catastrophe was due to a form of open defiance of sound banking methods long sanctioned by Federal and state authorities.

As long ago as 1912, when I was acting as counsel for the Committee on Banking and Currency of the House of Representatives, which was then engaged in an investigation of whether there was in existence a money trust that controlled the money and credits of the United States, only a few of the great banks had these affiliated companies that were exploiting financial ventures in which the banks were prohibited from themselves engaging.

Following the exposures by that committee I urged both President Taft and his then Attorney-General to put an end to that vicious practice which I then claimed, and still insist, was unlawful. For a time it appeared that my advice would be followed and a test made to determine the legality of these partnerships between national banks and their allied speculative companies with their compulsory identity of stockholding interest, but the pressure was apparently too strong and nothing came of my efforts.

Since then there have been hundreds of like perilous appendages to national and state banks that are using in speculative enterprises the funds of the banks of which they are in effect an integral part. Unless these subtle evasions of the spirit of our banking system are prohibited, eventual major disaster is inevitable.

But of all the follies of government, the most colossal and unpardonable is the way that it has dealt and is dealing with its natural resources which were at one time foolishly regarded as inexhaustible, and were dealt with accordingly. It reminds one of the spendthrift who has come into a great fortune and who, not realizing the value or possibilities of wealth or its limitations, proceeds to scatter it to the winds as though there were always more where that came from until he awakens some fine day to find himself penniless.

Wasting Natural Resources.

We have literally already thrown away the great bulk of that wonderful patrimony which has become the basis of most of our great private fortunes. Strange to say, we continue to persist in that policy with respect to the remnants of those resources that are left. Either we never seem to learn to mend our ways from the school of bitter experience or the capitalistic class have succeeded in educating the masses into the false belief that the Government is incapable of either developing or caring for the people's wealth.

If we had pursued the plan of developing our great mineral wealth that has been adopted, say, by South Africa, the royalties through private development of those resources would have almost, if not entirely, defrayed the entire cost of government. Our experience in dealing with the oil lands of the Osage tribe proves that such an arrangement would not have interfered with private development. We have thrown away our own oil lands without compensation, but when the Osage Reservation was opened to settlement our Department of the Interior that is in charge of the few scattered Indian tribes that we have not yet succeeded in exterminating, had the foresight to see to it that the tribe was compensated for the oil lands that were taken. The grants to these oil deposits have accordingly been conditioned upon the Indians receiving one-eighth of the gross production. That has amounted and continues to amount to a sum so great that every man, woman and child belonging to the Osage tribe is independently rich. And yet, there was the same struggle and competition for those lands by our prospectors as though there were no royalties attached to them.

In South Africa, a private individual or corporation that seeks the right of exploitation must sink its wells at a given point, must pay royalties on the production and at the same time, at its own expense, develop adjoining lands for the benefit of the Government, which the latter then develops or sells.

New Laws Needed.

Perhaps it was necessary in order to settle our country to give to the great transcontinental railroads vast municipalities amounting to hundreds of millions of acres of land that went with the grants, although our spendthrift munificence went beyond all reasonable bounds. In some instances, such as those of the Union Pacific and Central Pacific companies, we went even further and advanced them part of the moneys with which to build, all of which was, perhaps, as it should have been since the Government was unwisely unwilling itself to undertake these tasks.

Without entering at this time upon a discussion of the painfully shortsighted policy and lack of vision that led us into the tragic blunders by which the bulk of our patrimony has been sacrificed to build up vast private fortunes at national sacrifice, let us turn to the future and see whether it is not possible to profit by the absence of the past want of statesmanship. There will not be time now for such a discussion of that surpassingly important and constructive subject as I would like to undertake. I shall accordingly confine myself to outlining the way in which it seems to me we should now deal with a few of these natural resources such as our oil and copper deposits, that through the grace and prodigality of Government are now in private ownership, and with the remnants of the vast water powers that by sheer good luck still remain to the Government, which if properly conserved and wisely handled will yield untold national wealth.

Regardless of the wisdom or unwisdom of the anti-trust laws as applied to manufacturing and other industries, not based upon the ownership of natural resources, there can be no question of the necessity for abolishing those laws and inaugurating a contrary policy with respect to the development and distribution of oil and copper, as a necessary conservation measure. There is no reason why we should take these deposits out of the ground without restricting their production and distribution to the amount that can be profitably consumed and thus sacrifice the wealth that belongs to future generations without any return by way of profit to its owners or to the country.

Conservation Still Possible.

We are beginning to realize (rather late in the day) that there is a limit to the oil and copper still remaining in the ground, and yet, with our characteristic shortsightedness and happy-go-lucky policy, we are doing and in all likelihood will go on doing nothing to prevent the continuance of this criminal waste until it is too late.

We seem unable to comprehend, as an ethical proposition and apart from the question of enlightened selfishness that should influence us, that we have no right to rob future generations of their share of this heritage, except to the extent to which we need and can profitably dispose of these products.

The producers, refiners and distributors of oil and copper should be not only permitted, but encouraged, and I might almost say, required, if that were legally possible, to make agreements subject, of course, to government supervision and control that will limit the production to the consumption, and that will regulate the selling price, so that on the one hand the product will not be sacrificed by ruinous competition and that on the other, they will not be permitted, as they were during the war, to exploit the consumer when the price of copper that is now selling at 11 cents was at one time yanked up to 23 cents or more per pound.

There should also be a protective tariff on oil and copper that will prevent our supply being dissipated without profit in competition with the pauper labor of South Africa and South America. Unless we have some such protection, we must either close down our mines and wells or meet this competition, with the result that we shall exhaust these resources without adding to our wealth.

Whatever may be our policies with respect to monopoly or tariff protection applied in other directions, a different rule should be inaugurated in dealing with our natural resources.

What About Water Power?

This brings me to the last of the many topics I should like but will not have the time to discuss as fully as its importance deserves. I refer to the method of dealing with our water powers and of curbing the brazen, inordinate greed of the power trusts that are exploiting the people.

I have never seen an estimate of the priceless wealth of the undeveloped water powers of America. It must run into billions of dollars. The developed water powers that have drifted into private ownership for which nothing was paid to the nation or state that ceded these rights probably amounts to almost as huge a sum. Why these properties were ceded to private interests as a gift would be a mystery if we did not understand the mainsprings that unfortunately all too frequently direct and control our state and national governments. Even in the rare cases when, of late, compensation has been exacted, it has been ludicrously inadequate and takes the wrong form. It should be on the basis of a limitation on the price exacted from the ultimate consumer for light and power if the state or nation lacks the courage and foresight to develop its own power by building not only the dams and converters, but—most important of all — its own transmission lines. That is the only way it can dictate to the distributing companies the prices at which they must sell electric power and current, for I do not favor permitting governmental agencies going into the business of distribution except against "hold-ups" by the distributing companies.

These developments can be made a source of fabulous revenue to the nation and states that own the powers, if they are so disposed, and still benefit the communities by largely reduced rates, but that should not be the purpose. They should be operated on the basis of a fair return on actual cost. They would constitute no burden whatever on the public credit. The funds for construction and transmission are readily obtainable on bonds of a public corporation organized by the Government with recourse by the investor confined to the revenues of the project, out of which a sinking fund would be provided for the gradual amortization of the debt over a long term of years.

The carrying charges on the cost of construction and the consequent charge for current to the consumer would be considerably less than one-half—probably not one-third as much—as if the development and transmission were by private enterprise. This is due to a combination of a number of considerations. (1) The capital can be borrowed on securities issued at par instead of through bankers and at a discount. (2) The rate of interest would be little if anything over one-half that of a private corporate issue. (3) There would be no profit on the transaction such as private franchise exploiters and promoters would exact from the investors and such as the latter would rightfully demand from the consumer, to say nothing of the intermediate profits to the generating company in the first instance, then to the transmission company and lastly to the distributing company.

We have a striking instance of this desperate, unequal struggle at the moment in my own state between Gov. Roosevelt and the most formidable power trust on earth. The much-coveted prize is the control of the vast American-owned lower Niagara Falls and St. Lawrence River water power. The fight was started by Gov. Smith and has been raging for years.

Titantic Struggle for Control

Meantime two things have happened. Many hundreds of millions of dollars of water are running to waste and probably many more hundreds of millions will be dissipated before the titanic struggle between New York State and this giant trust is settled. Such is the power of the latter over legislation that it will probably end in a compromise—unjust to the State—but not nearly so disastrous as if this valiant Lochinvar, in the person of Gov. Roosevelt, were not standing bravely with his back to the wall championing the people's rights against this threatened invasion of the enemy.

Now that the people have at last been half-awakened from their "Rip Van Winkle slumber" (for they are not yet sufficiently awake to give the Governor the support he requires) the trust is "graciously willing" that the State shall build and operate the transmission lines that will feed the power and current to its private distributing companies. That would relieve the trust of the burden of furnishing the bulk of the capital and retain the control and profits of the enterprise by fixing the rates to its own distributing companies and their rates to the consumer. Of course, it is, why not? The thing is, on its face, too transparent to deceive a grown man, no matter in what specious refinement of reason it is clothed.

The transmission lines are the key to the situation. If the State builds them it can dictate the prices that shall be charged for the power and current to the consumer. If the trust builds and owns the transmission lines they will be financed under cover of an intermediate company with more intervening charges. No contract between the State and the distributing companies for rates will longer be possible. We shall then, God help us, be relegated to the tender mercies of our Public Service Commissions to fix reasonable rates. We all know from bitter experience what that means. There is not time here to rehearse the history of what the people of this country have suffered at the hands of these commissions that have been appointed largely through the influence of the corporations whose rates and practices they are supposed to regulate, but for whom they are, alas, only too often mere "rubber stamps" to record their will.

My excuse for dwelling with you at such length upon the lower Niagara Falls and St. Lawrence River water power controversy, which may be said to be a New York State issue, although it is in another aspect a national isue, is that it is symptomatic of a struggle that is raging in Congress and all over the country between government and these fabulous and perilous power combinations that are spreading their poisonous tentacles all over the land, undermining and shaking the very foundations of government. The evils of the industrial trusts that have conquered us, as compared with the operations and effects of this latest form of legalized banditry, are "as moonlight unto sunlight and as water unto wine." Is their conquest to be added to the long list of America's follies? We shall see.

MARK STEINBERG TALKS ON UNEMPLOYMENT SITUATION

Construction Industry Must Revive Before Normalcy Can Be Restored Here, He Says.

The construction industry in St. Louis must be revived before normal business conditions can return, Mark C. Steinberg, of the Industrial Club of St. Louis, said in a radio talk over Station WIL yesterday.

Steinberg urged house owners to engage men for minor repairs promptly so as to help relieve the unemployment problem. The main objective of unemployment relief work, he said, was not merely to afford temporary aid, but to re-establish men in regular jobs. Necessary buying rather than hoarding would aid in restoring normalcy, Steinberg asserted.

Brookings Writes of Plan To Modify Capitalism

the New Zealand Act above referred to, is not presented as a final solution of all our economic problems, but solely in the hope that discussion along the lines indicated may establish it as sound in principle. It is evident that it would involve changes so far-reaching and affecting vitally so many different interests as to require prolonged study and discussion by the best minds of the nation.

The corporation has with us demonstrated itself as the most efficient organization for the production, distribution and division of wealth, and, as practically all of our corporations are conducting either an interstate or an international business, under our constitution it would seem to me that Congress has the power to require that such corporations should reincorporate under a Federal incorporation act; which act, while securing to capital a fair return at a fixed rate of interest and dividends, risk considered, would divide all additional profit or accretions in the form of labor shares between the employes (management and labor) in the ratio of their individual contribution, probably as recorded by their wage or salary compensation.

Such labor shares, following the plan of the New Zealand enabling act, would share equally with the common stock in dividends. Differing, however, from the New Zealand act, which only gives the employes voting power according to the shares they hold, I would suggest that as management and labor are the principal factors or elements in production, and as the responsibility for carrying out the policy of the board of directors is clearly placed in their hands, such responsibility should be accompanied by authority; hence they should be accorded, independently of stock holdings, a fair representation on the board of directors, and on any executive, or any controlling committee.

Workers as Directors Also.

The desirability of giving workers a liberal representation on the board of directors, is emphasized by the scarcity of and the vital necessity for, good management in industry. Notwithstanding their present handicap, many of the chief executives of our largest industries (such as the president of the United States Steel Corporation) have developed from the ranks of the workers. It must be evident that the additional experience as directors will enormously increase our managerial output.

As an example of procedure under the suggested national act: It would be required that in reincorporation the assets of the old corporation should be fairly valued, and, in the new Federal corporation, these assets should be represented by securities so classified as to properly protect the former security holders, with the following result:

Assuming that a corporation, with assets of $100,000,000, represented by $25,000,000 of bonds, $25,000,000 preferred stock, $25,000,000 common stock and $25,000,000 of conservatively valued surplus, wished to reincorporate, the process of reincorporation under the Federal act would probably be to issue $25,000,000 of bonds bearing interest say at 4 per cent, $25,000,000 of preferred (or "A") stock paying dividends of say 5 per cent, and $50,000,000 (old common and surplus) of common (or "B") stock paying say 6 per cent.

Special Fund for Workers.

As is the custom with conservatively managed corporations, proper reserves from profits would continue to be set aside to take care of depreciation and obsolescence. But the balance of earnings, instead of being carried to a surplus account, would henceforth be divided in the form of labor shares among the employes—management and labor—in the ratio of their service, probably as recorded by their wage or salary. As in the New Zealand act: Such labor shares should not be transferable, but, if the holder of any labor shares ceases to be employed in the service of the company (whether by reason of death or otherwise) he shall be deemed to have surrendered his shares, and in such case there shall be payable to him or his legal representatives, as the case may be, either in cash or in common or "B" shares, the value of those labor shares. A company issuing labor shares may issue shares of common or "B" stock in payment or satisfaction wholly or in part of any shares in the profits of a company to which the holder by virtue of those labor shares from time to time become entitled.

It has been recently suggested that, in the light of modern business methods, we shall be compelled to restudy our antitrust laws with their absolute embargo on any limitation of competition, or on any control or limitation of production. It will be perfectly evident that under present conditions, where the owners of industry are interested in deriving as large profits as they can from the public, of which they form only a small part, the necessity for antitrust legislation differs widely from what would be the case under the proposed national incorporation act which would limit interest and dividends on capital and transfer the incentive of profit to management and the workers, who themselves represent the great mass of the public.

Likewise, such an act could more clearly define the nation's right and method of regulating public utilities, which directly or indirectly, through control, function in more than one state.

As the whole profit and loss in industry would, under this act, accrue to labor and management, they would naturally devise ways and means to take care of unemployment, whether by reducing days and hours of operation or by some other process.

It will be obvious that, as this incorporation act provides that all securities have a fixed return in either interest or dividends, the element of chance and the possibilities of speculation, which were responsible for the great stock market crash of 1929, will be greatly minimized.

If Mr. Ford's contention is sound—i. e., that the greatest potential efficiency in labor is never developed except under the pressure of the worker's self-interest, as demonstrated by the progressive lowering of his unit cost of production as he advanced his wage scale—then, under this proposed issue of labor shares, the pressure for efficiency would be concentrated upon management and the workers, and the increased efficiency thus developed would add to investment security.

This suggestion of entirely segregating capital investments from personal service is intended to limit such investments to a fixed return, and divide between the workers (management and labor) all additional earnings, thus greatly broadening the opportunities of the great mass of our population and answering one of the greatest criticisms of our present capitalistic system.

End of Stock Dividends.

Consider the history of the common stock of any one of our most successful industries during the last 10 years. In many of them the directors, as a principle of wise and sound economy, have made every effort to assist and induce their employes to become owners of their common stock. Had they instead adopted the policy of labor shares, as above outlined, the hundreds of millions of dollars which have accrued to common stockholders in the form of surplus or stock dividends, would have gone to the owners of labor shares, i. e., to those who had produced this increase, namely management and labor.

While it will be pointed out, of course, that all companies are not successful, nevertheless the impetus to increased efficiency inherent in the ownership of these labor shares might be expected materially to increase the prosperity of all. At the very worst, the workers in less successful or unsuccessful industries would be no worse off than under present conditions.

All capitalistic governments recognize the inequalities of opportunity between the capitalist and the worker, and as a result undertake, through income and inheritance taxes and other methods of taxation, to relieve the great mass of the people as far as possible from the expenses of government. The worker realizes this, but his reply is: Yes, that is taxing capital after it has passed into individual possession, but what we complain of is that in all our industrial processes we lack the opportunity of accumulating at least that measure of capital which will protect us and our families from the menaces of unemployment, sickness, old age and death. What we want is some modification of the present system providing for each one of us the opportunity for such accumulation as to give to life a reasonable security—after which we should be glad to participate more largely in the expenses of government.

Help for Agriculture.

The criticism which we hear of modern industrial methods having greatly accentuated, through large corporations, the autocracy of capital, is based principally on the immense fortunes realized simply through investment. In order to answer this criticism, would it not be wise to segregate or modify the element of risk in investment by the adoption of a national incorporation act such as is suggested above? This whole scheme of a limited or modified power of capital largely segregates it from the personal element which is most directly responsible for production and distribution, making of capital a commodity, the price of which is fixed as is that of all commodities by the law of supply and demand, and at the same time giving it greater security; while the personal element, i. e., management and labor, assumes the profit or loss.

This limitation of capitalistic power is, after all, only in line with that national policy which by the transportation act of 1920 empowered the Interstate Commerce Commission to so limit the rates that can be charged by the railroads as to indirectly affect the return on the large field of investment represented by railroad stock.

It remains to consider the bearing of this plan upon agriculture. In our infancy as a nation we conceived it to be necessary, in order to populate our vast territory, to promote settlement by giving land to settlers at a nominal price (the Homestead act even gave them 160 acres free). Transportation development was also stimulated by free grants of land. Moreover, the increment in land values was allowed to accrue solely to the owners thereof. The fact that land values have been declining in recent years and now receive a very low return on the market value is no reason for assuming that agriculture, which supplies the food for all of our population, will not prosper again in the future. In any event:

INDIANS TO TRAIN SCOUTS FOR CIRCUS

Group of Pueblos Arrive to Give Instruction in Dances—Rehearsals Begin Tomorrow.

Training in Indian dances and ceremonies will be given 200 St. Louis Council Boy Scouts by a group of Pueblo Indians, who have come here especially for this purpose, Charles H. Mills, activities director of the Council, announced yesterday. The training, which will start tomorrow evening, is being given in preparation for an Indian feature at the annual Scout Circus, to be held at The Arena, March 20 and 21.

The classes will be held at the DeMun School, DeMun and Northwood avenues, twice a week for the next three weeks. The rehearsal tomorrow evening will start at 7:30 o'clock, but all but one of the remainder will be held in the afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. Rehearsals will take place March 4, 5, 10, 12, 16 and 17. The last, in the evening, will be a full-dress rehearsal.

Chief Big Snake, who appeared at a Cub entertainment last month, is leader of the Pueblo group, which is composed of Princess Morning Star, Blue Sky Eagle, Ray Silvertongue, Raymond Roe Cloud and Wayne Wolf Robe. The repertoire they will teach will include the Eagle Dance, the Bow and Arrow Dance and an inter-tribal ceremony.

Participation in the dances is open to any older scout, although Order of the Arrow members will be given preference in case there are too many applicants. The Irondale lodge of the order is sponsoring the dances.

Each dancer this year will be aided in making his own costume, including war bonnet, vest and leggings. The costumes will then be kept by the makers. Since the introduction of Indiancraft at Camp Irondale last summer, a number of troops already have Indian costumes. One troop has made more than 20 war bonnets.

Scouts wishing to take part in the dances should report at the DeMun school before 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening.

SPRING TRAINING COURSE IN BOY SCOUT LEADERSHIP

The first meeting of the spring training course in Boy Scout leadership, for scoutmasters, assistant scoutmasters and troop committeemen, will be held at the Michael School tomorrow evening. The course was originally scheduled to start last Monday, but was postponed on account of Washington's Birthday.

Field Executive J. L. Case will act as scoutmaster of the class, which will be conducted as if it were a regular Scout troop. He will accept registrations any time tomorrow, until the course actually begins.

Two specialization classes, in first aid and swimming, were started by the St. Louis Council last week, for men who have had some previous training. Both of these classes will hold their second meetings this week, the first-aid class at the Washington University Medical School, tomorrow evening, and the swimming class at the Principia pool, Tuesday. Another special class, in patrol leadership, which was scheduled to start last Wednesday, was abandoned because of too small a registration.

Troop Notes

South District.

Plans to meet the district objective were outlined at the monthly meeting of the South District Deputy Commissioners, held at the Hotel Saum, Thursday evening. Deputy Commissioner L. John Lewis also presented an outline of an older boy program. H. P. Mueller presided.

Troop 129 of St. George's Catholic Church, registered as a new troop last Wednesday evening, with a membership of 27. Joseph Jordan is scoutmaster, while the troop committee is composed of Messrs. Kofron, Imfeld, Tines, Schloemer, Graber and the Rev. Mr. Berkel.

Scout Earl Bartareau has been promoted to Junior Assistant of Troop 174 of the Zion M. E. Church. The Flaming Arrows are leading in an inter-patrol contest, closely followed by the Submarines and the Eagles. Plans are being made for a troop court of honor. The scouts of the troop took part in a troop good turn Friday, by demonstrating scouting to the Carondelet School Patrons Association, which is considering sponsoring a new troop. James L. McKay, principal of the school, gave a talk on scouting.

A troop court of honor and an investiture ceremony were held by Troop 178 of the Scruggs School, last Friday evening. Awards were made during the court to winners of a recently concluded inter-patrol contest. C. H. Mills, activities director of the St. Louis Council, gave a talk on camping, and H. P. Mueller, chairman of the South District, also gave a talk.

A new troop, which will be known as Affton 1, is being organized at the Church of the Seven Holy Founders, Affton, Mo., under the leadership of the Rev. C. A. Seery. The troop committee met with Field Executive Carl Laemmli last Tuesday evening, to lay plans for the organization.

Central District.

Twelve scouts, Scoutmaster McCluskey, and L. F. Stiger of Troop 106, Second United Presbyterian Church, worked at the troop camp last Monday, putting it into shape for the coming camping season. The troop is planning to install running water, a plumber having donated the pipe.

Fifteen scouts were awarded second class pins at a Troop Court of Honor conducted by Troop 185 of the Rock Springs School, last week. Dr. Harry D. Greditzer and Judge Pearcy were the chief speakers at the court. The troop, which was organized recently, is participating in the first aid event at the Scout Circus. Carl S. Bauman is scoutmaster, Glen Bond and Bud Kalish are assistant scoutmasters, and Committeemen Miller, Hacker and Parshall form the troop committee.

North District.

A "500-point" pin has been awarded Senior Patrol Leader Robert Schalk by Troop 236 of the Normandy Presbyterian Church, for accomplishment in an Achievement contest conducted by the troop. Scout Fred Frow was awarded a "250-point" pin. Three scouts, Frank Barber, Donald Grindell and James De Shong, passed tests at the meeting last week. Scouts Barber and Grindell received their Tenderfoot pins only two weeks ago. Ribbons for winning first and second place in a game were awarded to the Eagle patrol, to be placed on the patrol totem pole. The Indian patrol won inspection. The Buffalo patrol reported on a patrol hike.

Suburban District.

Five Maplewood troops, 85 and Maplewood 1, 2, 3 and 4, held a joint Court of Honor last Wednesday evening, with H. P. Thies as chairman. The court was part of the troops' qualifications for advancement in the Achievement Roundup. Officer Mann of the Maplewood Police Department, a troop committeeman of Maplewood 3, spoke. A board of review for Maplewood scouts is scheduled at Maplewood Junior High School March 11.

Troop Clayton 1 held its monthly hike a week ago yesterday to the camp site, near Sunset Country Club, presented to the scouts by Troop Committeeman H. H. Sims. Tests were passed. An interpatrol contest closed yesterday. Six merit badges and five rank advancements were presented at a Court of Honor held at De Mun School Monday evening. William Simms and Roderick Baalman received Tenderfoot pins; Dick Lund, Sedly Seigfried, Myron Goldberg and Stanley Nussbaum got second class badges, and Harvey Simms Jr. received a Star Scout award.

Troop Richmond Heights 3 of West Richmond Heights School received a new troop flag at the regular meeting Friday evening.

A Troop Court of Honor was held by Troop Rock Hill 1 of Rock Hill School last week to fulfill one requirement of the Achievement Roundup. Chairman Frank L. Johnson of the troop committee presided. Scout Ed Spinks received both a second class badge and a Junior Assistant Scoutmaster's commission. The latter was presented by Scoutmaster Adrien De Yong.

Scoutmaster M. L. Brallow of Troop Maplewood 3, who organized that troop three years ago, has resigned his commission due to his leaving the city. He is planning to move to Portland, Ore. In order that the troop might keep its service record intact, Scoutmaster Brallow re-registered the troop before he resigned, although it was a month before re-registration was due. Assistant Scoutmaster Ferd Loelkes is in charge of the troop until a new scoutmaster is elected.

Troop Maplewood 6, just organized at the Church of the Nazarene, devoted most of its second meeting last week to formation of patrols. Field Executive M. N. Leavitt attended the meeting and assisted in the work. An American flag was presented to the troop by Troop Webster Groves 2. Scoutmaster Fred E. Doerle will attend the scoutmasters' training course starting tomorrow evening.

West District.

Two new members were enrolled by Troop 26 of the Delmar Baptist Church at the regular meeting last week. David Grimes was taken in as a new Tenderfoot and First Class Scout Winston McAdoo, a former member of the troop, was transferred from Troop Home Heights 1. The troop will enter the oath and laws pageant and the merit badge event at the Scout circus.

Scout Theodore Thamos has been elected scribe of Troop 75 of the Washington School. During March each patrol will be turned over to scouts who have proved themselves able to become patrol leaders. Committeeman Allen has promised to take the troop to see the shadow box at Police Headquarters.

A large supply of food and clothing, for distribution to needy families, was obtained by Troop 90 of Temple Shaare Emeth, as admission to a troop Court of Honor and investiture ceremony conducted at the temple last Wednesday evening. More than 200 parents and friends attended, each contributing one article of food and one of clothing.

The scouts of Troop 94 of St. Barbara's Church spent last Sunday working on the derrick the troop will erect at the Scout circus.

Tests in fire-building, cooking and tracking were passed by scouts of Troop 120 of the Church of the Apostles on a hike a week ago yesterday. The hike was attended by 15 scouts. Scoutmaster Ed Morrish, Assistant Scoutmaster Ed Wood and Troop Committeeman W. H. Wood.

32 SENT TO PRISON AND JAIL IN WEEK

Four Convicted by Juries and Others Enter Pleas of Guilty in Circuit Court.

Three of four trials before juries in the criminal divisions of Circuit Court last week resulted in convictions. Dan Evans and Layton Payne, Negroes, tried jointly in Judge Ryan's court for murder in the first degree, were given life sentences in the penitentiary.

They were charged with being two of three men who strong-armed Mandel Glatstein, 56-year-old grocer, in a passageway near his home, 1422 North Fourteenth street, Oct. 25. Glatstein was robbed and stabbed. He died four hours after.

Juries also convicted Louis Friedman for uttering a bogus check, and John Houston, a Negro, for felonious carnal knowledge. Each received two-year penitentiary sentences.

Earl Price, a Negro, was freed of a robbery charge when evidence did not place him near the scene when Louis Bierman, a storekeeper of 4193 West Belle avenue, was robbed last June.

20 Years for Holdup Man.

Nine men entered pleas of guilty to felony charges. Among them was Adolph Gaters, a Negro, who pleaded to two cahrges of robbery with a deadly weapon and assault to kill. He was given given concurrent sentences of 20 years. Gaters held up two Kissel-Skiles Rent-a-Car garages Nov. 30 and assaulted one of the managers with a revolver.

Others to plead to felonies and their sentences were: Christ Meier, burglary and larceny, eight years; Thomas Tollotson, burglary, two years; Louis Calvin Miller, robbery, five years; John Wilson, larceny of motor vehicle, two years; Gordon Mahon, burglary, two years; Milton Emmanuel, grand larceny, three years; George Lacy, grand larceny, two years and Tardie Southern, burglary, three years.

Many Enter Pleas of Guilty.

Persons charged with felonies who were permitted to plead guilty o toffenses of lesser degree and take less than penitentiary punishment were:

Earl Cunningham, petit larceny, one year in Workhouse; Frank Zerhoff, larceny of motor vehicle and obtaining money by false pretense, concurrent terms of 90 days; Joseph Fisher and Francis Rogers, operating automobile without consent of owner, 90 days, with stay of execution for 90 days; Cliff White, common assault, six months; William Rives, carrying a concealed weapon, 50 days; Joseph Smith, operating automobile without consent of owner, 60 days in jail; Robert Babb, larceny from person, one year, with concurrent year for operating automobile without consent of owner; Kern Neece, malicious trespass, six months; Thomas Colbert, manslaughter, six months; Robert Perry, assault to kill, six months; Alfred Cummings and Albert Harris, carrying concealed weapons, 50 days; Alex. Lane, petit larceny, one year; Alex Robinson and Thomas Seymour, petit larceny, six months and one year, respectively, and Henry Gibson, Henry Ward and Clifford Layne, petit larceny, six months. A charge of robbery against Marcus Johnson and one of larceny of a motor vehicle against Charles Westerman were dismissed by the Circuit Attorney's office for insufficient evidence.

Brookings Gives Plan to Modify Capitalism

Have we not now arrived at a point where future increment in farm lands as in industry should be stabilized by means of a national policy such as has been outlined above?

In dealing, however, with the economic importance of the return on farm land values and their relation to the workers and the public, the problem has so many ramifications that it should be made a study of those whose training especially qualifies them for the task. In my article on "Agricultural Corporations" (published by the press in September, 1928) I gave it as my opinion that if agricultural production were so incorporated as to introduce sound business and scientific management, and to secure ample working capital with which to properly prepare the land and develop the maximum use of labor-saving machinery, that agriculture could be made—even at low world prices—as profitable as any of our other industries. Within recent years the Collins Farm Co. of Iowa has proved this contention to be absolutely sound.

Finally, under that recognized sound policy of distributing one's savings among a variety of risks, agricultural in common with other stocks (industrial, commercial, transportation and mining) would be distributed among all the people, making us an economically homogeneous nation.

The problem touched upon here is great and many-sided. We have shown that communism attempts to solve the social problem by a complete destruction of the capitalistic system. We believe that the constructive solution of this problem is to be found in a modified capitalism which more clearly defines risk and more justly divides profits. The modified capitalism here proposed would continue to stimulate individual potentiality, and while preserving such cherished institutions as the family and the church, would promote that broadening of opportunity which is sought by the workers. This problem is of such importance to the world that I can only hope that others, younger and better equipped than I, will develop and work out in detail its solution, some of the basic features of which are outlined here.

Everyone knew that her "headache" was only an excuse!

Upstairs alone while others danced... was the reason 'B.O.'? (Body Odor)

"MY HEAD ACHES," she said. "I don't feel like dancing." But the pitying look on the other girl's face told her everyone knew the real trouble. No partners!

Everyone suspected the reason, too. But they hesitated to tell her. It wasn't until some days later that one of the girls finally dropped a tactful hint about "B.O" (the polite name for body odor) and suggested a simple safeguard.... Now she enjoys every minute of a party—has every dance taken. "B.O." once ended—loneliness vanished, too!

We get no warning!

That's what makes "B.O." doubly dangerous. We don't know when we offend, because we quickly get used to an ever-present odor. But pores give off a quart of odor-causing waste daily. Don't take chances—don't risk unpopularity.

Adopt Lifebuoy as your toilet soap—say good-bye to "B.O." worries. Lifebuoy gives an abundance of rich creamy lather, even in hard or cold water. This searching antiseptic lather penetrates pores—removes all odor. Its pleasant, extra-clean scent—that vanishes as you rinse—tells you Lifebuoy purifies.

New complexion beauty

Thousands of happy women are rejoicing over the radiant new complexion beauty Lifebuoy "facials" have brought. So simple, too. Just work the bland, creamy lather well into the pores. It gently loosens and dissolves clogged impurities—tones and stimulates dull skins to fresh, healthy radiance. Adopt Lifebuoy today.

A George Washington party was given in celebration of the eighth and tenth birthdays, respectively, of Virginia and Kenneth Kurrus at their home, 5527 Emerson avenue, by their mother last Sunday. The young guests were Marjorie Delabar, Catherine Detert, Rosemary Gerst, Melba Johns, Virginia Kuchenbuch, Janet Kurrus, Ruth Phillips, Carlene Reuter, Lorraine Reuter, Dorothy Rohrkasse, Gloria Sexton, Joyce Tremayne, Ruth Wilson and James Duroso, Al Geret Jr., Paul Neider, Earl Parker, Paul Parker, Edwin Pilleps, Lawrence Teirney and Earl Waldron.

Mrs. Harry A. Wellington, 7249 Forsythe boulevard, entertained for her daughter, Miss Rosemary, at a Washington birthday bridge luncheon. The guests were classmates of Miss Wellington at the Visitation Academy.

A reception was held Friday at the home of Mrs. Jack Donohue, 4038 Kennerly avenue, in honor of her mother, Mrs. J. Moonan, who celebrated her eighty-second birthday that day. Mrs. Moonan greeted all of her family, except two daughters who live in California, and a large group of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Truman, 904 Eastgate avenue, gave a surprise party Saturday afternoon, Feb. 21, in honor of Mr. Truman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Truman, who celebrated their golden wedding that day. They received a gold wine cup and tray from the Daughters of Israel Society of which Mrs. Truman is a member; a basket of flowers from 23 members of that society, and a plant from the Jewish Orphan's Home. In addition there were many gifts from other friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman, who are each 74 years old, were born in Poland. They have two grandsons, Billy and Terry Jene Truman.

SERVICE STATION PLANNED NEAR WABASH DEPOT

Phillips Petroleum Corp. Acquires Sublease on Corner of Delmar and Hodiamont.

RECORD FIGURE OVER ORIGINAL

Cancellation Clause May Be Exercised Because of Demand in Other Building Projects.

By Berry Moore.

The Phillips Petroleum Corporation has acquired a sublease from the plans of a service station designed for a 72 by 100-foot plot at the northeast corner of Delmar boulevard and Hodiamont avenue, opposite the Wabash Railway station. It is to be constructed by William H. Flaherty, who recently acquired a five-year lease of the site, subject to cancellation, from R. A. and G. B. Bullock.

While not disclosed, the rental derived under the sublease, it was stated, will yield a record advance over that paid under the original lease, after charges for interest on the outlay for the service station.

R. A. and G. B. Bullock own a total of 172 feet on Delmar and 180 feet on Hodiamont, including the corner plot leased for the filling station. The lease is regarded as only a temporary arrangement subject to the cancellation clause, which may be exercised in the event of the sale of the property, anticipated in view of the diversity of projects submitted for this site, including notably hotels and department stores. The site is regarded as admirably adapted for both hotel and department store purposes.

Sought for Eight-Story Hotel.

R. A. and G. B. Bullock confirmed a report that Chicago interests recently had the tract in view for an eight-story fireproof hotel with subway connection with the Wabash Railway station at the northwest corner of Delmar boulevard and Hodiamont avenue. It was also disclosed that the J. C. Penney Co., a chain store on a national scale, recently sought the tract as a site for a department store. An offer is now under consideration for the adjoining ground on Delmar for a garage.

Exclusive of the corner plot having 72 feet on Delmar and 100 feet on Hodiamont, leased for the filling station, R. A. and G. B. Bullock still have available for lease 100 feet on Delmar and 80 feet on Hodamont, subject to cancellation should the entire tract of 172x180 feet be sold. The tentative sale price is $1500 a foot on a basis of the Delmar boulevard frontage, which reflects the value the owners place on the Hodiamont frontage with the Wabash Station opposite.

As was told in the Post-Dispatch last Sunday, Goodrich-Silverstone, Inc., represented by the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co., has closed negotiations for the purchase of 100x157 feet, embracing two lots of 50 feet each, on the south side of Delmar boulevard, 60 feet east of Skinker road, as a site for a filling station, for a total consideration of $76,500. The east 50 feet is owned by the Polar Wave Ice & Fuel Co., which was represented in the negotiations by the Giraldin Bros. Real Estate Co. The west 50 feet is owned by the Burdeau Real Estate Co.

Third Deal of Kind.

This is the third corner site on West Delmar recently acquired for filling station purposes by chain interests, the other being the northwest corner of Delmar boulevard and Hamilton avenue, 110x157 feet, taken by the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., under a lease with an option to purchase, through the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. A record valuation was also established in this instance, it is understood, this corner being one of the most strategically situated in this part of the city.

Negotiations are also reported for other holdings on Delmar, both improved and unimproved. Included is the Tivoli theater building, a modern structure on Delmar boulevard in University City. In addition to the theater, the structure includes apartments and stores which add materially to the rental volume. The property is controlled by Chicago interests. Negotiations have also been resumed for the City Hall block in University City on Delmar boulevard recently acquired by Nathan Frank, attorney and former Congressman.

SLIGHT DROP IN REALTY DEEDS

The regular monthly index figure computed from realty deeds recorded in 64 cities by the National Association of Real Estate Boards is 66.0 for January. This shows a decrease, as compared to the December figure, which was 68.9, but it is an increase over the previous month, when the index showed 64.6. These figures are based on the normal 100 used for deeds recorded in the year 1926.

60 ST. LOUISANS TO ATTEND NATIONAL REALTY MEETING

Exchange Here First Large Group to Make Reservations for Convention in Baltimore, May 27-29.

The first large group to make a reservation for the convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, to be held in Baltimore, Md., May 27-29, is the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange. Last week it reserved rooms for 60 persons. Unusual to have large group reservations early, the association officials say this portends a large attendance.

H. D. Pettibone, vice president of the Chicago Title and Trust Co. of Chicago, is to be a speaker on the Mortgage and Finance Division's program. He will talk on "What the Experiences of 1929-30 Have Taught the Mortgage Man."

Ruford D. Franklin of New York, manager of the Co-operative Apartment Department of Douglas L. Elliman & Co., will address the Co-operative Apartment Division on the subject "Protecting the Purchaser."

Walter C. Stearns Jr. of New York, manager of the Insurance Department of Sutton, Blagdon & Lynch, will address the Co-operative Apartment Division on the subject "Fire Insurance on 'Extras' in Co-operative Apartments."

Post-convention tours to the historical and picturesque regions in the neighborhood of Baltimore are being planned by the Real Estate Board of Baltimore.

SAM SCHUCHART PURCHASES WEST END APARTMENT HOUSE

The three-story apartment building at 6231 Rosebury drive has been purchased by Sam Schuchart, real estate operator. There are three apartments of nine rooms and three baths each.

Schurchart made the purchase as an investment with plans for occupying one of the apartments. The building, of ornate design, is just west of Skinker road and Forest Park, which is regarded as an attractive location. Schurchart declined to disclose the purchase price. The building was formerly owned by Harry Koplar, moving picture theater owner, who was represented by Sam Hamburg.

ILLINOIS REALTY MEN PRESENT TAX SCHEME

Propose $10 Levy on Every Citizen to Ease Burden on Land Owners.

The Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards at an emergency tax conference at Springfield, Ill., Feb. 18, suggested as a possible means of tax adjustment, a $10 tax on every citizen of the State. This tax would be in the form of a registration or filing fee on all incomes. Its promoters propose that the money so raised be used to defray some of the governmental costs now paid by real property. The plan contemplates crediting against this fee the taxes paid by real property owners so it would not put an additional burden on them.

A committee headed by J. B. Whitehead, Rockford, Ill., a former president of the Illinois Association, and with which representatives of the Illinois Agricultural Association will co-operate, will get to work immediately on the proposed income filing fee movement.

The conference was preceded by a meeting of the directors of the association who approved a bill before the State Legislature requiring all new real estate brokers to pass an examination before receiving licenses.

WOLF-POLLACK CO. TO OPEN ITS NEW OFFICE TOMORROW

The Wolf-Pollack Real Estate Co., composed of Sidney Wolf and Edward A. Pollack, formerly at 101-03 N. Eighth street, has moved its offices to larger quarters on the ground floor of its own building, 206-12 Olive street. Formal opening of the new office will be held tomorrow.

The concern will specialize in the leasing of downtown property with special attention in the district east of Fourth street. It is entering the first deed of trust field. The company has large rental collection and are well equipped to give individual service.

IMPROVEMENTS IN PASADENA HILLS VIRTUALLY COMPLETED

W. C. Philbrook reports the outlook for building activity in Pasadena Hills for 1931 is exceedingly good. Seven new homes are under construction with the trustees having passed on 10 more plans for homes to be built this spring.

Northwest St. Louis is experiencing considerable activity, especially in the Normandy district.

Improvements in Pasadena Hills are virtually completed. The street lighting system has been installed and is in operation. Work on planting and beautifying parks and boulevards is to start at once and the children's wading pool and windmill will be constructed as soon as weather conditions permit.

BILL TO CHANGE PORTION OF LINDELL TO BUSINESS ZONE

Property Owners Between Vandeventer and Sarah Petition Aldermen—Langsdorf of City Plan Commission Opposes.

Lindell boulevard, which for years has been one of the most perplexing factors in the city zoning movement, is again before the Board of Aldermen as a special problem of property use and assessment equities.

The aldermen have under consideration a bill which would change Lindell, between Sarah street and Vandeventer avenue, from a multiple dwelling zone to one of commercial character.

Petitions in support of the bill were presented by Louis H. Phillips of 4014 Lindell, president of the Lindell Boulevard Property Owners' Association, and by property owners on Lindell west of Sarah. Speakers in support of the change, at a hearing of the Legislation Committee Thursday, included Luke E. Hart, attorney, representing the Knights of Columbus, owners of the large club building at 3917 Lindell, and Jacob L. Babler, a property owner on the thoroughfare.

Arguments made for the measure were that the section of Lindell between Vandeventer and Sarah was already committed largely to commercial use and had no future as residence property. The valuations on which property owners are now being assessed, Phillips said, are those of commercial property, and this is inequitable unless commercial use of the land is permitted.

Dean A. S. Langsdorf, member of the City Plan Commission, opposed the change as "piecemeal zoning," which he said was destructive of the purpose of zoning regulations. He said the question of assessments should be taken up with the City Board of Equalization, which meets this month.

If the section in question were changed to a commercial zone, he said, the movement would spread to the adjoining blocks. He said the amount of property now zoned in the commercial class was three times as much as the city's business required.

Opposition to the change was expressed by Harry Newman, a real estate dealer, who spoke of the attitude of the Masonic organizations, large property owners on Lindell, in favor of maintaining restrictions, and E. B. Meissner, representing Congregation Shaare Emeth, owning the site of the former temple at the southeast corner of Lindell and Vandeventer.

ST. LOUIS CURTAIN CO. TAKES LONG LEASE

To Occupy 5000 Square Feet at 808 Washington Av. Through Martin & Breitt.

St. Louis Curtain Co. has acquired a long lease on about 5000 square feet on the second floor of the building at 808 Washington avenue, through Martin & Brutt Real Estate Co. The concern, of which I. Poulin is manager, specializes in the manufacture of ruffled curtains to supply the local trade and the Southwestern territory. The lease was made for the account of the Lindell Real Estate Co.

Martin & Breitt also leased the third floor of the building at the southeast corner of Seventh and Olive streets to Earl T. Graham who will open a large dental parlor. The lease was made for the account of the Weil Realty Co.

Martin & Breitt closed a long term lease with the Connelly Manufacturing Co., makers of paper boxes, on the building at the southeast corner of Twenty-first and Walnut streets, owned by the Barry Real Estate Co.

A long term lease to A. B. Ewing for about 4000 square feet on the fifth floor of 414 North Twelfth street also was closed. Ewing represents a number of manufacturers and is sales agent for electric lamps selling to the local trade. The lease was made for the account of Leopold Ackerman.

Martin & Breitt also closed a lease to the Crown Cork & Seal Co. on the four-story and basement building at 406 North Third street, to be used for warehouse and offices. The lease was made for the account of the Vogel Real Estate Co.

SOMERSET REALTY CO. JOINS EXCHANGE AS ACTIVE MEMBER

The Somerset Realty Co., a corporation, 912 Title Guaranty Building, was admitted to active membership in the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange at a meeting of the board of directors of the exchange last Thursday. William J. Kinney and Michael Kinney are officers of the company.

The Charles Schreiner Plumbing and Heating Co., 4512 Tower Grove place, was elected to affiliated membership. The request of Frank A. Singer to have the name of his active membership as an individual changed to Frank A. Singer, Inc., was approved.

WANSTRATH BUYS GOOD WILL OF TOENISKOETTER REALTY CO.

George J. Wanstrath, president of the Wanstrath Realty Co., with offices at 715 Chestnut street and 4029 West Florissant avenue, has purchased the good will of the Toeniskoetter Realty Co., 5003 North Broadway. The head of the latter establishment, Joseph H. Toeniskoetter, who has been in business for 30 years, will hereafter be connected with the Wanstrath Realty Co., at its Florissant avenue office. The Wanstrath company is one of the best known in the city, with a record number of noteworthy transactions and loans to its credit.

DOCTOR PEPPER BOTTLING CO. GETS FOREST PARK AV. PLACE

The Doctor Pepper Bottling Co., of St. Louis has acquired a lease of a building at 4300 Forest Park avenue, comprising approximately 20,000 square feet of floor space. The Dr. Pepper parent company is in Dallas, Tex., and has granted a franchise to the local concern for distribution of the product within a radius of 50 miles of St. Louis. A complete bottling plant is being installed and will be in operation about March 10.

The Francisco Realty Co. handled the negotiations and represented both parties in the deal.

BUILDING PERMITS INCREASE

February Estimate $1,688,340, Compared to $961,982 Last Year.

The estimated cost of buildings for which construction permits were issued in February was $1,688,340, as against $961,982 for the same month of last year.

INVESTORS BEGINNING TO PURCHASE FARMS

Countrywide Survey Shows Market Is Better in 30 of 59 Communities.

The farm land market is better in 30 out of 59 widely scattered communities, a study of 1930 farm buyers shows a tendency toward buyers reared among the cows and chickens, and middle-aged buyers are more numerous than those in their twenties, according to a countrywide survey made by the farm land and country estate division of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. The survey also showed that 48 persons in 20 communities bought farms as investments during the last few months.

Farm land brokers, reporting last week in a questionnaire, furnished the data on the 59 communities. Thirteen found business the same as a year ago and 16 said conditions were worse. Thirty found a better demand for rural lands.

In 42 communities, 100 more farms were sold in 1930 than in 1929, although the number of acres and value of the total number of farms sold showed a decrease. The 42 brokers sold 1023 farms in 1929 and 1122 in 1930.

Analyzing the crop plans used by their buyers, farm land experts of the Realty Association found a tendency almost three to one for diversified farming as against one-crop farms.

Investigating reasons why 193 farmers have sold their holdings in the last few months, the division found the necessity of settling estates accounted for the greatest number of these sales, with foreclosures third on the list of reasons, and six selling to buy larger farms.

The survey gives data interesting to the farm land broker on farmers' history, ages and family size. In 194 sales, the greatest number of buyers were from 41 to 45 years old, with only four in the 21 to 25 year class.

Native born farm buyers exceeded foreign born buyers nearly four to one in this survey, and the greatest number of buyers were reared on farms. Fewest buyers were those who had been farm tenants.

The greatest number of families among these buyers had four in the family. Of buyers with 10 or 12 in a family there were only two. The second highest number of sales in family groups were those families having only two members.

Analyzing sources of prospects for the 1000 farms, the greatest number came through advertising, with personal contacts bringing in the next largest group of buyers.

Buys Waterman Avenue Home.

The residence No. 5089 Waterman avenue was sold by Cornet & Zelbig last week for Mrs. Cora S. Brown to Elizabeth W. Barnsback of Edwardsville, Ill. The residence contains 10 rooms, three baths and large garage.

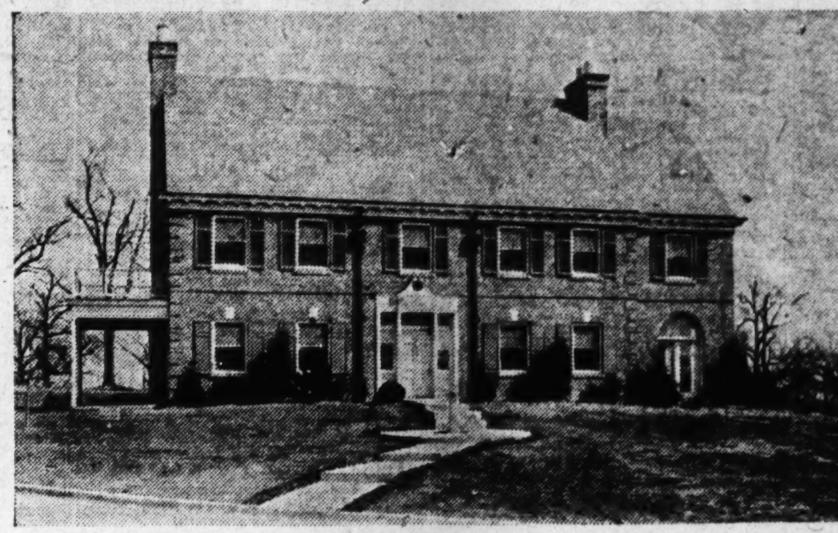
PASADENA HILLS

The Garden Spot of St. Louis County



Visit Our New Colonial Home—Open for Inspection Sunday, March 1st.

Spring in all its glory will soon be here when the call to the wide open spaces will be felt by all. Green grass, flowers, birds singing in the trees, sunshine and cool breezes during the warm Summer months. THAT IS THE LIFE.

BUILD IN PASADENA HILLS

If you have not yet obtained that home away from the smoke and drudgeries of the city, NOW IS THE TIME TO START.

BUILD IN PASADENA HILLS

One of the happiest times in a person's life is when they are building their home nest. Watching it grow out of the ground and into completion then moving into a home that you have planned and built according to your own ideas, with those things that you like which MAKES LIVING A PLEASURE.

BUILD IN PASADENA HILLS

NOW IS THE TIME TO ACT: Building is cheaper, wonderful locations can be had at reasonable prices and, if bought in the right location, your home value will increase as your land value increases.

BUILD IN PASADENA HILLS

ST. LOUIS COUNTY IS RAPIDLY FILLING UP as statistics show the County has grown to over 200,000 in the last 10 years. GET YOUR LOCATION NOW—build now or later.

Start a Savings Account in Pasadena Hills

You can get a piece of ground on terms that will surprise you. Just a little savings will start you on the road to a home of your own or the building of an estate for your family. ST. LOUIS COUNTY LAND IS A SAFE INVESTMENT IF PROPERLY BOUGHT.

17 PER CENT RECOVERY IN STOCK LIST SINCE DEC. 16

Bottom of Bear Market Was Reached in Middle of the Last Month of 1930—Quoted Values Up $12,000,000,000.

MARKET REACTIONARY AT CLOSE OF WEEK

Carrier Shares Decline 1 to 5 Points and Fair Recessions Develop in Industrials and Utilities—Rally Takes Edge Off of Dip.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. — The stock market paused to look back this week.

Prices advanced on two days, and slid back on three (Monday was a holiday), with the result that the general price level, as measured by the index of 90 leading issues, ended the week at the exact spot where it started.

This uncertain see-sawing of prices, coming after a fortnight of vigorous advances, had the earmarks of the distribution of pool holdings to the public, which had its imagination stirred on Monday by the most feverish trading of the new year—5,300,000 shares were traded.

Wall Street sentiment, in the main, however, turned cautious rather than bearish. There was an inclination to measure the distance already progressed, and to consider the more gradual uptrend of business. Speculators have obviously sought to anticipate business improvement rather than go along with it, but since March, in the light of past experience, is likely to see the peak of the normal seasonal upturn of the first half of the year, the business of anticipating at this stage grows a little more complicated.

While the past week has left the aggregate level of prices unchanged, the end of February permits the measurement of the advance for the first two months of the year, which amounts to 17 per cent. As measured from the bottom of the bear market, reached on Dec. 16, share prices have added nearly 25 per cent to their total paper, or quoted value, or more than $12,000,000,000.

Margin Account Trades.

While the amount of investment buying in the early stages of the advance of February was probably in large volume, the bulk of activity of late appears to have been speculative. A survey of more than 30 commissions indicates that some two-thirds of the late buying has been for marginal account. Low-priced issues, specialties and public utilities have attracted most of the following, while the rails and the so-called pivotal industrials have been almost neglected. Taking price averages for the various groups separately, the utilities actually show a fair gain for the past week, but this was canceled by losses in the industrial and rail groups.

Broker loans increased $26,000,000 in the stock market week ended Tuesday, making a three week's gain of only about $80,000,000. This roughly parallels the swelling in loans during the false bull market in the early part of last year, but starting from the lowest level of brokers loans in more than five years, the upturn has generally been considered small. Call money has held officially at 1½ per cent for eight weeks, the lowest average rate since 1908. The large amount of Government financing to be disposed of in March is expected to take up some of the slack in credit.

Market Reactionary Saturday.

Week-end selling for both accounts gave stocks a reactionary tone today, although a late rally took the edge off the decline.

Shorts who had been watching for an opening decided that the poor January railroad earnings and the decline in pivotal issues yesterday offered an opportunity and stocks were sold rather briskly during the first hour. Carrier shares slipped off 1 to 5 points and fair recessions developed in industrials and utilities as stop-loss orders were uncovered.

Strong support for some of the recent speculative favorites, notably Radio and Columbia Graphaphone, stiffened prices in the last half hour, and the close was only irregularly lower, with rails still

17 PER CENT RECOVERY IN STOCK LIST SINCE DEC. 16

Bottom of Bear Market Was Reached in Middle of the Last Month of 1930—Quoted Values Up $12,000,000,000.

MARKET REACTIONARY AT CLOSE OF WEEK

Carrier Shares Decline 1 to 5 Points and Fair Recessions Develop in Industrials and Utilities—Rally Takes Edge Off of Dip.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28. — The stock market paused to look back this week.

Prices advanced on two days, and slid back on three (Monday was a holiday), with the result that the general price level, as measured by the index of 90 leading issues, ended the week at the exact spot where it started.

This uncertain see-sawing of prices, coming after a fortnight of vigorous advances, had the earmarks of the distribution of pool holdings to the public, which had its imagination stirred on Monday by the most feverish trading of the new year—5,300,000 shares were traded.

Wall Street sentiment, in the main, however, turned cautious rather than bearish. There was an inclination to measure the distance already progressed, and to consider the more gradual uptrend of business. Speculators have obviously sought to anticipate business improvement rather than go along with it, but since March, in the light of past experience, is likely to see the peak of the normal seasonal upturn of the first half of the year, the business of anticipating at this stage grows a little more complicated.

While the past week has left the aggregate level of prices unchanged, the end of February permits the measurement of the advance for the first two months of the year, which amounts to 17 per cent. As measured from the bottom of the bear market, reached on Dec. 16, share prices have added nearly 25 per cent to their total paper, or quoted value, or more than $12,000,000,000.

Margin Account Trades.

While the amount of investment buying in the early stages of the advance of February was probably in large volume, the bulk of activity of late appears to have been speculative. A survey of more than 30 commissions indicates that some two-thirds of the late buying has been for marginal account. Low-priced issues, specialties and public utilities have attracted most of the following, while the rails and the so-called pivotal industrials have been almost neglected. Taking price averages for the various groups separately, the utilities actually show a fair gain for the past week, but this was canceled by losses in the industrial and rail groups.

Broker loans increased $26,000,000 in the stock market week ended Tuesday, making a three week's gain of only about $80,000,000. This roughly parallels the swelling in loans during the false-bull market in the early part of last year, but starting from the lowest level of brokers loans in more than five years, the upturn has generally been considered small. Call money has held officially at 1½ per cent for eight weeks, the lowest average rate since 1908. The large amount of Government financing to be disposed of in March is expected to take up some of the slack in credit.

Market Reactionary Saturday.

Week-end selling for both accounts gave stocks a reactionary tone today, although a late rally took the edge off the decline.

Shorts who had been watching for an opening decided that the poor January railroad earnings and the decline in pivotal issues yesterday offered an opportunity and stocks were sold rather briskly during the first hour. Carrier shares slipped off 1 to 5 points and fair recessions developed in industrials and utilities as stop-loss orders were uncovered.

Strong support for some of the recent speculative favorites, notably Radio and Columbia Graphaphone, stiffened prices in the last half hour, and the close was only irregularly lower, with rails still

LOCAL STOCK TRADE LIGHT DURING WEEK

Shares Showing Gains for Week Are Only Slightly Greater in Number Than Those Recording Declines

Only a few more stocks sold up than down in the comparative light trading in the short week on the St. Louis Stock Exchange. Probably half of the week's aggregate business represented transactions in the low-priced shares like Hussmann-Ligonier and Bentley Stores. The former ranged between 4 and 4½. Bentley sold at 50 cents to 20 cents.

Coca-Cola Bottling featured the stronger section with a 7-point gain. Wagner Electric moved up fractionally, while Meyer-Blanke and Landis Machine ranged up 2 points each. Scullin Steel preference gained over a point. Fractional advances were made by Brown Shoe and McQuay-Norris. International Shoe ranged between 47 and 47¾, closing at 47¼.

On the lower side of the market were Key Boiler Equipment which declined 2 points, Pedigo-Lake which lost 1½, Ely-Walker that declined 1 and Rice-Stix, Dr. Pepper and Southwestern Bell preferred, all down fractionally.

17 PER CENT RECOVERY IN STOCK LIST SINCE DEC. 16

heavy. Sales approximated 1,700,000 shares.

Bears, who had been arguing that the strong advance had no justification from the business news, stressed last month's railroad income statements, which reveal losses of about 37 per cent from a year ago. New York Central's January net operating revenue of $1,827,100, against $5,609,582, brought out offerings of the stock, which dropped more than 4 points. It recovered a point of the decline. Baltimore & Ohio at one time was down 3 points, while Norfolk & Western tumbled 5 and Central of New Jersey, in a few sales, dipped 12. In most instances there were small advances from the lows.

Copper Better.

An estimate that the Youngstown district steel operations next week would be 2 per cent lower tended to dampen bullish enthusiasm. Advances of $1 to $2 a ton by Chicago manufacturers of strip steel had little effect market-wise. United States and Bethlehem Steels lost about a point net. Sale of some copper at 10½ cents, an advance of ¼ cent, gave courage to the metal shares, although gains in Anaconda, Kennecott and Nickel were fractional.

Radio closed half a point higher, after a large turnover, and its partner in the rally, Columbia Graphaphone, was up more than a point. Others finishing with nominal improvement included General Electric, North American, American Telephone, Chrysler, Paramount and Hayes Body. Westinghouse, Union Carbide, Sears-Roebuck, American and Foreign Power, United Corporation, National Biscuit and Allied Chemical sagged.

Foreign exchanges were dull with the week-end. Sterling cables and the French franc yielded slightly, but the German mark and Spanish peseta firmed.

RAILROAD EARNINGS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—The first 67 railroads to report January earnings had net operating income of $33,021,000, a decrease of 37.3 per cent from the $52,741,000 reported by the same railroads for January, 1930. Their December net operating income amounted to $46,653,000.

Railroads reporting today, with comparative figures for last year included:

	1931.	1930.
New York Central	$1,872,100	$5,609,582
Illinois Central	404,795,	1,497,701
Louisville & Nashville	847,303	1,371,846
Tennessee Central	1,788	17,802

Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis, 1931, $42,282, 1930, $15,783.

Gulf, Mobile & Northern, 1931, $32,493, 1930, $35,324.

Copper Market Stronger.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Strength was added to the copper market today with reports that a leading producer had sold the metal in the domestic market at 10½ cents a pound, delivered, an increase of one-quarter of a cent a pound.

Heavy sales of the metal in the export market and a fair demand for domestic delivery during the past week had caused offerings of copper at 10¼ cents gradually to disappear and the trade expected a price advance.

Copper circles also regarded as bullish export and import figures announced by the American Bureau of Metal Statistics. These figures showed United States imports of unmanufactured copper last month dropped to 17,433 metric tons, against 21,895 in December and 22,844 in November. Exports to refined copper from the United States increased to 34,009 tons last month, as against 24,170 tons in December and 31,478 in November.

WEEK'S METAL REVIEW

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Foreign buying of copper continued on a large scale, but domestic demand remained limited. Purchases from abroad were sufficient to absorb custom smelters output and the undertone of the market was firm. Electrolytic for delivery in the Connecticut valley was held at 10¼ cents, the volume of offerings at this level being limited. Steadiness of the market was attributed partly to expectations of favorable statistics for February, as well as a seasonal improvement in domestic consuming demand with the arrival of the spring building season and the upturn in the automobile industry.

Tin was irregular, but generally steady. Heavy selling in the Far East and expectations of an increase in visible supplies were offset by favorable reactions to the restriction scheme recently adopted by countries controlling 90 per cent of the world's production.

Demand for lead continued fairly active, with buying extending to April. Specifications against March contracts are said to be larger than in February. The price is steady.

Zinc was firm on an improved demand, with offerings restricted owing to curtailed ore output.

Antimony is quiet and steady.

Rolled Strip Steel Advances.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Strip steel producers in Chicago have advanced hot and cold rolled strip steels prices $1 and $2 a ton, respectively, effective immediately.

Under the new schedule, hot rolled prices are 1.70 cents to 1.80 cents a pound, up $1 a ton, and cold rolled strip 2.63 cents a pound, up $2 a ton.

Cold rolled strip makers are operating between 35 and 40 per cent of capacity, a gain of about 5 per cent in recent weeks.

INVESTMENT BONDS FIRM AT WEEK END

Turnover in the Short Session, However, Is Comparatively Small.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—The bond market assumed a more cheerful tone in saying goodbye to February which has fallen far short of fulfilling hopes that were nurtured by the good start made with the turn of the year.

The turnover in the short session today was comparatively small but investment issues in both the domestic and foreign groups displayed a firm trend. Stock privilege issues were irregularly higher despite the heavy tone of shares.

Transfers of United States Governments amounted to more than $500,000, with price movement upward. Treasury 4s were an exception, sagging 3-32ds. Liberty 4¼s gained a small fraction, as did Treasury 3¾s and Treasury 3⅜s of 1943-47.

A 13-point drop in International Great Northern adjustment 6s to 50 was in response to the announcement that the company had deferred action on the interest payment for the second half of 1930. The circumstances of the sugar industry influenced the default in payment of the interest on the 7 per cent bonds of Sugar Estates of Oriente, Inc., subsidiary of the Cuba Dominican Sugar Corporation. Only one sale was recorded at the year's low of 10¾, but other sugar bonds moved lower.

In the foreign division several issues moved to new highs for the year. Italy Kingdom 7s reached a new year's high at 99½ but closed off ⅛ net. Lautaro Nitrate 6s were strong, rallying 3½ points to a new 1931 maximum. Prussia Free State 6s, Rhinelbe 7s, Royal Dutch 4s, Santa Fe Argentine 7s, Siemens & Halske 6½s, Tokio City 5½s, Bremen State 7s and German Agricultural Bank 7s were other issues that moved forward to equal or surpass their best prices of the year.

COTTON CLOSES HIGHER AFTER SELLING DOWN

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—An opening decline in cotton under realizing and some selling on the easier showing of Liverpool and weakness in Alexandria, was followed by rallies on trade buying and covering today. May contracts after selling off to 11.23 or 6 points net lower rallied to 11.37 and closed at 11.36. The final tone of the market was very steady at net advances of 6 to 8 points. Spot steady, mids 11.20.

The opening was steady 4 to 6 points lower and the active month sold about 4 to 7 points net lower during the first few minutes under profit taking or liquidation. This seemed to be combined with a little Southern and local selling which was probably promoted by the showing of Liverpool, tone of a trade comment from Germany, and an idea that the more urgent demand from the trade had been supplied earlier in the week.

Trade buying appeared to be in the market around 11¼ cents for May, however, with part of it attributed to Japanese interests, and after early offerings had been taken, prices rallied on a continuation of this demand and week-end covering. March contracts sold up from 11.02 to 11.13 and October from 11.74 to 11.88 and closing quotations were within a point or two of the best.

Cable advice from Liverpool said that Continental buying and trade calling had been supplied by Bombay selling, and selling influenced by the weakness of Egyptian cotton. Manchester reported good buying of cotton cloths for the British home trade and a fair business in yarns with India. Ashmouni cotton in the Alexandria futures market showed a decline of 53 to 70 points, while Sakallarides were 95 to 110 points lower. The spot quotation for Indian cotton in Liverpool showed a decline of 15 points.

Report from the domestic goods market indicated that business had been rather less active than during the previous week, but had probably covered a wider range of goods. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 132,000 bales against 134,000 last year. Advices from Germany published here this morning said that German cotton spinners had reached an agreement to restrict output 15 per cent for six weeks commencing March 6.

INVESTMENT BONDS FIRM AT WEEK END

Turnover in the Short Session, However, Is Comparatively Small.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—The bond market assumed a more cheerful tone in saying goodbye to February which has fallen far short of fulfilling hopes that were nurtured by the good start made with the turn of the year.

The turnover in the short session today was comparatively small but investment issues in both the domestic and foreign groups displayed a firm trend. Stock privilege issues were irregularly higher despite the heavy tone of shares.

Transfers of United States Governments amounted to more than $500,000, with price movement upward. Treasury 4s were an exception, sagging 3-32ds. Liberty 4¼s gained a small fraction, as did Treasury 3¾s and Treasury 3⅜s of 1943-47.

A 13-point drop in International Great Northern adjustment 6s to 50 was in response to the announcement that the company had deferred action on the interest payment for the second half of 1930. The circumstances of the sugar industry influenced the default in payment of the interest on the 7 per cent bonds of Sugar Estates of Oriente, Inc., subsidiary of the Cuba Dominican Sugar Corporation. Only one sale was recorded at the year's low of 10¾, but other sugar bonds moved lower.

In the foreign division several issues moved to new highs for the year. Italy Kingdom 7s reached a new year's high at 99½ but closed off ⅛ net. Lautaro Nitrate 6s were strong, rallying 3½ points to a new 1931 maximum. Prussia Free State 6s, Rhinelbe 7s, Royal Dutch 4s, Santa Fe Argentine 7s, Siemens & Halske 6½s, Tokio City 5½s, Bremen State 7s and German Agricultural Bank 7s were other issues that moved forward to equal or surpass their best prices of the year.

COTTON CLOSES HIGHER AFTER SELLING DOWN

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—An opening decline in cotton under realizing and some selling on the easier showing of Liverpool and weakness in Alexandria, was followed by rallies on trade buying and covering today. May contracts after selling off to 11.23 or 6 points net lower rallied to 11.37 and closed at 11.36. The final tone of the market was very steady at net advances of 6 to 8 points. Spot steady, mids 11.20.

The opening was steady 4 to 6 points lower and the active month sold about 4 to 7 points net lower during the first few minutes under profit taking or liquidation. This seemed to be combined with a little Southern and local selling which was probably promoted by the showing of Liverpool, tone of a trade comment from Germany, and an idea that the more urgent demand from the trade had been supplied earlier in the week.

Trade buying appeared to be in the market around 11¼ cents for May, however, with part of it attributed to Japanese interests, and after early offerings had been taken, prices rallied on a continuation of this demand and week-end covering. March contracts sold up from 11.02 to 11.13 and October from 11.74 to 11.88 and closing quotations were within a point or two of the best.

Cable advice from Liverpool said that Continental buying and trade calling had been supplied by Bombay selling, and selling influenced by the weakness of Egyptian cotton. Manchester reported good buying of cotton cloths for the British home trade and a fair business in yarns with India. Ashmouni cotton in the Alexandria futures market showed a decline of 53 to 70 points, while Sakallarides were 95 to 110 points lower. The spot quotation for Indian cotton in Liverpool showed a decline of 16 points.

Report from the domestic goods market indicated that business had been rather less active than during the previous week, but had probably covered a wider range of goods. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 132,000 bales against 134,000 last year. Advices from Germany published here this morning said that German cotton spinners had reached an agreement to restrict output 15 per cent for six weeks commencing March 6.

HEAVY TONE MARKS CLOSE ON THE CURB

Selling Is Largely in Recently Strong Issues—Sales Total 401,000 Shares.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—The Curb market came to the end of the second month of the year today with a distinctly heavy tone, although the period since Jan. 1 has been a period of sharp improvement in share prices.

Whether a phase of advancing prices had been completed, or the market was merely passing through a flurry of profit taking, can only be learned with the passage of time.

Selling on the Curb today was largely in recently strong issues. The transactions for the two-hour session aggregated 401,000 shares. Utilities displayed conspicuous group heaviness, although losses were moderate. Electric Bond and Share met buying after selling off a point, and closed with a loss of a small fraction. American and Foreign Power warrants, American Gas and Electric, and Electric Power Associates lost about a point. Northern States A, however, gained 2.

Although industrials were in the main heavy, two of the higher priced issues, Mead Johnson and A. O. Smith surged up 6 and 5 points, respectively, to new 1931 highs. Deere dropped more than 3, and issues losing a point or so included Aluminum Co. and Dresser Manufacturing issues. Oils also sagged. Gulf, Humble and Vacuum lost about a point, but Indiana and Cities Service closed off only ⅛ each. In the investment trusts, National Investors lost a point, but Goldman Sachs moved up a fraction.

CORPORATION REPORTS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—General Motors Acceptance Corporation today joined the ranks of companies which last year showed increased earnings over 1929. Net profit for 1930 was reported as $14,570,326, equal to $29.14 a share, compared with $12,456,635 or $24.91 a share, in 1929. The 1930 profits excluded a gain of $830,162 from revaluation of assets, while the 1929 profit excluded a gain of $1,953,-523 from the same source.

American News Co. and subsidiaries for 1930 reported consolidated net profit of $932,793, equal to $4.31 a share, against $1,625,165 or $8.12 a share in the previous year.

Beech-Nut Packing Co. and controlled affiliated corporations reported for 1930 net profit of $2,465,471, compared with $2,702,953 in 1929.

Penick & Ford, Ltd., and subsidiaries had 1930 net profit equal to $4.01 a common share, against $3.97 a common share in 1929.

National Family Stores reported for 1930 net loss of $196,185, compared with net profit of $852,113 in 1929.

BUSINESS NOTES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Activity in the country's electrical equipment markets has braced up somewhat, Electrical World reports. Sectional reports of the past week give evidence of a larger volume of orders and pending negotiations appear to hold more promise for future business.

Sixty-four per cent of the cotton clothing manufacturers replying to International Association of Garment Manufacturers, forecast that business during March in their industry would be equal or better than in March, 1930. Seventy-seven per cent of the replies said shipments in January were below those of last year.

The improvement since early in the month ni the demand for plate glass was maintained this week, the American Glass Review says. The plate glass call, both in number of orders and their size, reflects a revival of activities in the automobile industry. The demand on the part of the mirror manufacturers, as well as the jobbing trade, however, continues in light volume, and is well below the seasonal normal.

Dividend Is Omitted.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—The Heywood-Wakefield Co. of Massachusetts, reed and fiber furniture manufacturers, has omitted the semi-annual dividend on the $7 first preferred stock due at this time. Since March 1, 1930, the company has been paying an annual rate of $3.50 a share on this issue.

LOCAL STOCK TRADE LIGHT DURING WEEK

Shares Showing Gains for Week Are Only Slightly Greater in Number Than Those Recording Declines

Only a few more stocks sold up than down in the comparative light trading in the short week on the St. Louis Stock Exchange. Probably half of the week's aggregate business represented transactions in the low-priced shares like Hussmann-Ligonier and Bentley Stores. The former ranged between 4 and 4½. Bentley sold at 50 cents to 20 cents.

Coca-Cola Bottling featured the stronger section with a 7-point gain. Wagner Electric moved up fractionally, while Meyer-Blanke and Landis Machine ranged up 2 points each. Scullin Steel preference gained over a point. Fractional advances were made by Brown Shoe and McQuay-Norris. International Shoe ranged between 47 and 47¾, closing at 47¼.

On the lower side of the market were Key Boiler Equipment which declined 2 points, Pedigo-Lake which lost 1½, Ely-Walker that declined 1 and Rice-Stix, Dr. Pepper and Southwestern Bell preferred, all down fractionally.

17 PER CENT RECOVERY IN STOCK LIST SINCE DEC. 16

heavy. Sales approximated 1,700,000 shares.

Bears who had been arguing that the strong advance had no justification from the business news, stressed last month's railroad income statements, which reveal losses of about 37 per cent from a year ago. New York Central's January net operating revenue of $1,827,100, against $5,609,582, brought out offerings of the stock, which dropped more than 4 points. It recovered a point of the decline. Baltimore & Ohio at one time was down 3 points, while Norfolk & Western tumbled 5 and Central of New Jersey, in a few sales, dipped 12. In most instances there were small advances from the lows.

Copper Better.

An estimate that the Youngstown district steel operations next week would be 2 per cent lower tended to dampen bullish enthusiasm. Advances of $1 to $2 a ton by Chicago manufacturers of strip steel had little effect market-wise. United States and Bethlehem Steels lost about a point net. Sale of some copper at 10½ cents, an advance of ¼ cent, gave courage to the metal shares, although gains in Anaconda, Kennecott and Nickel were fractional.

Radio closed half a point higher, after a large turnover, and its partner in the rally, Columbia Graphaphone, was up more than a point. Others finishing with nominal improvement included General Electric, North American, American Telephone, Chrysler, Paramount and Hayes Body, Westinghouse, Union Carbide, Sears-Roebuck, American and Foreign Power, United Corporation, National Biscuit and Allied Chemical sagged.

Foreign exchanges were dull with the week-end. Sterling cables and the French franc yielded slightly, but the German mark and Spanish peseta firmed.

RAILROAD EARNINGS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—The first 67 railroads to report January earnings had net operating income of $33,021,000, a decrease of 37.3 per cent from the $52,741,000 reported by the same railroads for January, 1930. Their December net operating income amounted to $46,652,000.

Railroads reporting today, with comparative figures for last year included:

	1931.	1930.
New York Central	$1,872,100	$5,609,582
Illinois Central	404,795	1,497,781
Louisville & Nashville	847,303	1,271,846
Tennessee Central	1,788	17,802

Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis, 1931, $42,282, 1930, $15,783.

Gulf, Mobile & Northern, 1931, $32,493, 1930, $35,224.

Copper Market Stronger.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Strength was added to the copper market today with reports that a leading producer had sold the metal in the domestic market at 10½ cents a pound, delivered, an increase of one-quarter of a cent a pound.

Heavy sales of the metal in the export market and a fair demand for domestic delivery during the past week had caused offerings of copper at 10¼ cents gradually to disappear and the trade expected a price advance.

Copper circles also regarded as bullish export and import figures announced by the American Bureau of Metal Statistics. These figures showed United States imports of unmanufactured copper last month dropped to 17,423 metric tons, against 21,395 in December and 22,344 in November. Exports to refined copper from the United States increased to 24,009 tons last month, as against 24,170 tons in December and 31,476 in November.

WHEAT MARKET HAS A SETBACK AS WEEK CLOSES

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Feb. 28.—July wheat lost more than a cent at the final session of the week while corn was unchanged to ⅛c lower. Beneficial snow in part of Kansas and rain at points elsewhere in winter wheat territories and action of Liverpool and Winnipeg prices were factors in the wheat market. Chicago dispatch told of threat of big deliveries of wheat Monday. Oversea purchases of Canadian wheat was put at 1,000,000 bushels.

Liverpool was mixed, March closing ⅜d lower and May and July ⅛d higher.

Winnipeg showed fractional decline early and closed 1c to 1⅛c lower.

July wheat opened at 63½c, May corn 63¼c and July corn 65½c.

Local wheat receipts which were 186,200 bu compared with 56,000 last week and 64,400 last year included 41 cars local and 92 through. Corn receipts which were 58,800 bu compared with 57,400 last week and 99,400 last year included 24 cars local and 18 through. Oats receipts which were 61,600 bu compared with 33,000 last week and 66,000 last year included 18 cars local and 10 through. Hay receipts were 10 cars local and 7 through.

In the cash grain market Saturday soft wheat was steady. Free receipts met ready sale at ruling prices. The demand, however, was narrow and except for a few cars select heavy test garlicky grain which went to mill order buyers, the whole available supply was taken by a local elevator and a shipper. Sales of No. 1 were on a basis ⅛c below the Chicago old May figure and No. 2 at 1¼c below. Hard wheat was steady. Demand was quiet. Low grades were slow and lower to sell. A few cars were sold at 63c, but there was practically no demand otherwise and about five cars were carried over, as 60c was the best bid on these. Sales of No. 1 were on a basis 3½c below the Chicago old May figure. Corn was steady to ½c lower. The basis as compared to futures was about unchanged from yesterday. Some of the yellow corn on sale went to elevators and there was a limited demand from mills and industries. Oats were steady to ½c lower. The demand was only fair. There were some sales to elevators and local trade and a few shipping orders were filled.

St. Louis Bran Market.

Cash wheat feed market was better. Standard bran was quoted for immediate shipment at $15.75 to $16, pure bran $16 @16.25, mixed feed $16.50 to $16.75, gray shorts $17.50 to $18, standard middlings $16.25. To arrive from the west, standard bran was offered at $16 to $16.25, pure bran $16.50, grey shorts $18.75, standard middlings $16.50. Oat-feed was quoted at $7.50. Sales reported were as follows: Four cars standard bran (late yesterday) $15, buyer paying reconsigning; 2 cars standard bran $15.50 to go out, 1 car do do $15.75 to go out and 1 car pure bran (by local mill) $16, to go out.

Transactions in mill feed futures totaled 600 tons.

WHEAT IS 7 CENTS UNDER LAST WEEK'S TOP LEVEL

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—New tumbles carried wheat quickly down today to 7 cents under last week's top level, and corn to a fresh bottom record for the season. Big deliveries of wheat Monday on Chicago March contracts were threatened, beneficial snowfalls and rains overspread much domestic wheat territory, and foreigners showed, it was said, increased anxiety relative to entrance of the United States wheat into active competition with wheat from other countries. Receipt of corn in Chicago totaled nearly double those both of a week and a year ago.

Wheat closed irregular, 1½ cents lower to ⅛ advance, corn 1⅛ off to ¼ gain, oats ½ down to ⅛ up, and provisions at a rise of 5 to 17 cents.

Downturns of grain prices began as soon as trading started. Rallies afterward lacked force, and it was especially apparent that announcement of Canadian wheat export business failed to act as a stimulus in Chicago, although the purchases from Canada for overseas account totaled 1,000,000 bushels. On the contrary, attention focused on unexpected relative weakness of Liverpool wheat quotations and on the fact that parts of Kansas had received a foot of snow.

Adding to the downward momentum of wheat were assertions by trade authority that aside from the 35,000,000 bushels which the grain stabilization corporation proposed to sell abroad during the next four months, there was altogether too much domestic wheat on hand for domestic use. It was urged that if this wheat were held until demand overtook the supply, the carrying charges would increase the burden, and apparently necessitate enhancement of values to a point where a world-wide crop disaster would be requisite to wipe out losses incurred. Primary receipts of wheat aggregated 1,575,000 bushels, and apparently gave ground for relief that the United States wheat visible supply on Monday would show another heavy increase.

In the corn market the price of March delivery fell to below 60 cents, not only outdoing the season's previous bottom record but also that of any delivery since 1922. Many stop-loss selling orders were forced into operation. There was talk that the mild winter and extensive use of substitutes had reduced corn consumption so that March 1 farm stocks of corn might prove far bigger than recently was looked for.

Liquidation of oats holdings took March oats to under 30 cents, a new low on the crop.

Packers buying advanced provisions, despite lower quotations on hogs.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Raw sugar was unchanged today at 3.32c for spots, duty paid. There were offerings of both Cuban and duty frees in nearby position at this level, but refiners showed no interest above 3.30c, and the only sale reported was 9000 bags of Philippines for May-June shipment to an operator at 3.47c.

There was only a small trade in futures and price movement were narrow and unimportant, with the market closing net unchanged for March and 1 point lower for later deliveries. There was a little covering and some European buying at the outset and the market opened unchanged to 1 point higher, but the failure of demand to broaden in the spot market seemed to restrict buying and in the trading prices reacted under selling by trade interests against purchases in the spot market. According to cable from Havana President Machado of Cuba has signed the decree fixing the production quotas for Cuban mills in the current grinding season. Approximate sales were only 6300 tons. March closed 1.22c. May 1.29c; July 1.37c. September 1.44c. December 1.52c. January 1.54c.

Refined was quiet and unchanged at 4.50c for fine granulated with demand still limited to nearby requirements only.

FINANCIAL NOTES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—The Louisiana & Arkansas Railroad is inquiring for two locomotives, Railway Age reports. The Chicago Tank Car Co. is inquiring for one tank car. The Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad has provided for retirement of 7286 miscellaneous freight cars, of which 286 are now being scrapped and 7000 are being offered for sale before being scrapped.

The time limit for deposit of securities of the Chicago traction companies to be consolidated into the Chicago Local Transportation Co. has been extended to March 31.

Buick Motor Co., a division of the General Motors Corporation, produced and shipped 7907 cars in February, against 6000 in January and 8842 in February of 1930. The March schedule calls for an output of 10,021 cars. In March of 1930, Buick shipped 8760 units.

A shipment of $2,475,000 in gold has arrived from Argentina, consigned to the Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co. by the Banco de la Nacion Argentina of Buenos Aires. The shipment was designed to support the peso and was the first made to Central Hanover this year.

Chevrolet Motor Co. produced 64,649 cars and trucks in February and has established a schedule of 78,713 units for March. W. S. Knudsen, president, said that Feb. 20, the date of the last report, dealers had on hand 36,000 fewer used cars and 2000 fewer new cars than a year ago. "One or two sections of the country, notably Arkansas," he said, "are still sub-normal, but many other districts are rapidly working back to normal consumption. California and the Atlantic coast sections are doing particularly well."

New York State ranks first among security owners both in volume of holdings and in proportion to population, a survey by Guenther-Law shows. California ranks second, with Illinois and Massachusetts tied for third.

Oakland Motor Car Co. shipped 10,007 cars in February, exclusive of exports, compared with domestic shipments of 7900 cars in January. For March the company has scheduled 12,600 cars.

Advance in Silver Price.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Bar silver advanced ⅜ of a cent in New York to 27⅜ cents an ounce and the metal also was strong in London, despite an increase in the import duty made by the Government of India.

The advance in price in the face of what might have been considered a bearish development, was explained by the fact that trade circles had expected India to double the import duty, whereas an increase of 50 per cent was ordered.

RED CROSS DROUTH RELIEF DESCRIBED

Manager Baxter of Local Office in Radio Address Says It Prevented Starvation.

Explaining why the Red Cross did not make a premature appeal for funds for drouth relief, why it declined an appropriation from the Government and describing the organization's activities throughout the middle west, William M. Baxter Jr., manager of the National Red Cross office in St. Louis made public a report on Red Cross drouth relief activities in a radio talk broadcast by Station KMOX last night.

"It was evident last fall that it would be inadvisable to launch a premature appeal for funds," he said. "The needs were developing slowly; emphasis was placed on the use of local resources first, before calling for outside aid. Drouth is not like a tornado—sudden, spectacular and arousing to the emotions. While awaiting the proper time to appeal for additional funds, the local Red Cross chapters on the scene strongly organized themselves to deal with the problem, with the advisory assistance of their national organization.

"Before Nov. 1, as an emergency measure to sustain livestock and provide winter food, 59,500 families received pasture seed and 27,400 families, garden seed. Before Christmas the local chapters had already fed and clothed 225,000 people in 328 counties. There had not been one authentic case of starvation.

Volunteers Aid Work.

"Thirty-five thousand volunteers of local Red Cross chapters are engaged in extending relief to the sufferers. These volunteers are slaving night and day without remuneration, and altogether are demonstrating the most magnificent outpouring of humanitarian spirit since the World War. Each county is divided up into small units such as townships and school districts. Each small unit has in it a committee, the members of which are neighbors of those in distress and know better than any one else the kind of help they should receive.

"The committees have gone to considerable lengths to be sure that the relief is adequate. They know what the people were accustomed to eating and wearing before the drouth occurred, and have been furnished exactly the same thing. Food orders issued by chapters are taken by the families to the merchants they deal with regularly. Thus normal trade channels are preserved. In addition to these measures, 400 carloads of food have been donated to the Red Cross and shipped free by the railroads to the scene of distress. These carloads contained 16,000,000 pounds of food, a great deal of it fresh vegetables of considerable value in maintaining a balanced diet.

Medicines Supplied Free.

Chapters are providing medicines for families who could not otherwise obtain them, and yeast for families suffering from pellagra. In several states funds are being supplied to the school authorities to provide noon lunches for the children. As a result, school attendance has improved and the children's health has been kept good.

"There has been much interesting discussion of the official decision not to accept an appropriation from the Government for relief purposes. The money was declined because the foundation of the Red Cross throughout the world is voluntary effort. The organization's service has always sprung naturally from the human sympathies and neighborly inclinations of the people. This was not a question for the moment only. It stretched out into the future—whether the humanitarian spirit was to be preserved as a free force in our national life. Under the present system the public voluntarily supports the institution and therefore controls its policies and activities.

"At the beginning of the relief fund campaign certain misgivings were expressed that the general depression was so severe that people would not contribute as in the past. I am very happy to be able to report 665 local Red Cross chapters in this part of the country alone reached or exceeded their quotas of the fund. To date $9,500,000 has been contributed nationally. The $10,000,000 relief fund asked for is assured."

WANTS BOTH SIDES TO REVISE SURVEY BILL REVENUE DATA

W. B. Weisenburger Suggests New Calculations in Line With Senate Amendments.

Walter B. Weisenberger, president of the Chamber of Commerce, has written to E. Sydney Stephens of Columbia, chairman of the Associated Taxpayers Committee of Missouri, suggesting proponents and opponents of the State Survey Commission taxation bills exchange suggestions for calculating the amount of revenue the bills, as amended by the Senate, will produce.

Weisenburger, who was replying to a recent letter from Stephens requesting him to revise the figures presented by opponents of the survey legislation, wrote 'the amended bill has rendered obsolete all other calculation." He asked Stephens for estimates, as prepared by friends of the survey commission legislation, of the revenue expected under the bill in its amended form.

ACTOR'S PARTY RAIDED, LIQUOR AND DICE SEIZED

William Henry Boyd, Two Guests Arrested After He Hits Policeman.

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 28.—A Hollywood party, which neighbors a block away said they could hear, was broken up early today by police who arrested three film actors, including William Henry Boyd, 45 years old, recently of the New York stage.

Charges of possession of liquor, gambling and showing of an obscene picture were placed against Boyd. He was released on $750 bail. Walter L. Catlett, 42, and Pat O'Brien, were charged with intoxication and given suspended fines of $10 each.

Shortly after midnight, residents of the neighborhood telephoned police that a boisterous party was being held. Six officers went to the house. Officer J. T. Shields said he knocked on the front door and was met by Boyd, who floored him without further introduction.

The police invaded Boyd's residence and found about 20 fashionably gowned women and men in evening dress drinking and gathered around gambling tables. Roulette wheels, dice and a gallon of liquor were seized. A motion picture projection machine with a film which police said depicted nude subjects also was taken.

Boyd, not the veteran film actor of the same name, later told police he had just completed work on a picture and was entertaining some friends. He indicated he would fight the charges.

Two women accompanied the men to the police station, but refused to give their names. O'Brien was well known in pictures as the character, Hildy Johnson, in the film, "The Front Page." Boyd's latest film appearance was in the "The Spoilers," with Gary Cooper.

Some of the women at the party, police said, were in scanty attire. The gambling room was described as "well equipped" and supplemented by "a richly furnished bar."

Boyd, held in jail for two hours, came to Hollywood about two years ago after a long career on the New York stage. He was divorced a month ago from Clara Joel Boyd, stage actress. They were married in Greenwich, Conn., in 1920. The day after his divorce, he was arrested in Oceanside, Cal. for reckless driving and fined $250.

Hollywood's other William Boyd, comes from Tulsa and has been in films since 1919. The two recently had a dispute over their names, but both refused to change them. Among the pictures in which the second William Boyd has appeared were "The Volga Boatman," and "Officer O'Brien."

FIGHT TO PLACE WOMEN ON JURIES TO BE RENEWED

Committee of League, Beaten in House, Will Urge Cause Before Senators.

A committee of the League of Women Voters will go to Jefferson City Tuesday, to attend the hearing of the State Senate judiciary committee upon the bill to make women eligible for jury service in Missouri.

Yesterday's issue of the League Bulletin, organ of the League, told of the impression formed by the delegation which attended the hearing of the House committee on Criminal Jurisprudence last Monday. "This committee," the Bulletin says, "is known as the graveyard committee, because of the high mortality of bills sent to it.

"The committee called a hearing on jury service, to be held immediately after adjournment of the House. As this hour is decidedly elastic, members of the League assembled at 2:30 p. m. and sat until after 8.

"During three hours of this time, we listened, for all the world like jurors, to the most magnificent display of lawyers and witnesses arguing completely beside the point. Finally our turn came to speak—and so did the sandwiches for the gentlemen. We presented our arguments amid the efforts of the committee to disentangle the ham from the cheese, answered questions as to the age of our mothers, our views on prohibition and other equally pertinent matters—and left.

"The Committee was prompt in administering the lethal dose and we began our plans to try again in the Senate."

Two More Shaffer Papers Sold.

By the Associated Press.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Feb. 28.—The Terre Haute Tribune announces today the purchase of the Terre Haute Morning Star and the Terre Haute Evening Post. The announcement says the Post will be discontinued with the issue today.

The Star was part of the John C. Shaffer chain of papers, including the Indianapolis Star and the Muncie Star.

Newsprint Firm in Receivership.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 28.—The Minnesota & Ontario Paper Co., newsprint manufacturers, was placed in the hands of receivers today by Judge J. W. Molyneaux in Federal District Court here. The Court was informed the receivership was asked for because it was found impossible to refinance on a satisfactory basis, the obligations of the paper company which mature March 1.

FAKE DRY AGENTS STEAL $540 FROM BABY'S CRADLE IN 'RAID'

East St. Louis Confectionery Owner Reports Loss After Search.

Tony Kokotovich, owner of a confectionery at 2151 St. Louis avenue, East St. Louis, reported to police yesterday that three men who posed as prohibition agents, robbed him of $540 which he had hidden beneath the mattress of his baby's cradle when they "raided" his place Friday night.

The men exhibited a gold badge bearing the initials U. S., Kokotovich said, and announced they were going to search the store and home for liquor. He told police they found none and departed and he did not miss the money until some time later.

When he called at the Prohibition Office yesterday to find the "agents" Kokotovich was told that no one connected with the department had made a raid at the St. Louis avenue address. The case was turned over to agents of the Department of Justice.

LETTERS GIVE CLEW IN WOMAN'S DEATH

Suitor of Mrs. Betty Burns, Omaha, to Be Charged With Murder.

By the Associated Press.

OMAHA, Feb. 28. — Letters found in her trunk today disclosed tragic details of the life of once socially active Mrs. Betty Burns, 38 years old, as county authorities prepared to file first degree murder charges against Frank von Och, her last admirer.

Mrs. Burns' body, badly beaten, was found early Thursday in an unkempt room in Von Och's rooming house here. She had lived with him four years, police said. He told the police she had killed herself with gas, but an autopsy showed a brain concussion.

The trunk in which her letters were found was discovered at the Union Station here. She had taken it there to ship to Jackson, Miss., to rejoin her husband. Letters in it showed that the dead woman was formerly Miss Elizabeth Bettison of Dallas, Tex., sister of a Dallas eye specialist. In 1909 she married Eldon Burns, son of a Federal Judge, and the two moved to Des Moines, Ia., where Burns, a broker, is reputed to have made a small fortune. He built a home at a reputed cost of $50,000. In 1926 they separated and Burns went to Florida.

Then Mrs. Burns came to Omaha and met Von Och. About 10 days ago while Von Och was in jail on a minor charge, Mrs. Burns disappeared for a few days. When Von Och was released he found that $228, a watch valued at $105, and some other valuables were missing.

Deputy County Attorney Nye said he had a witness who made a statement that Van Och had admitted beating Mrs. Burns, and "would keep on beating her every day until she told what she did with that stuff."

Mrs. Burns' body lies unclaimed at a local mortuary. Burns, now an investment salesman in the South, has been informed of the death. Her daughter, wife of a Des Moines physician, advised local authorities that she will have nothing to do with the affair.

Woman's Death Fourth Violent One in Physician's Family.

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 28.—The death of Mrs. Eldon Burns, in Omaha, Neb., Thursday made a total of four violent deaths in the family of Dr. David L. Bettison, Dallas eye specialist, brother of Mrs. Burns. Dr. Bettison was killed in an automobile accident here last May.

His 8-year-old son, David Jr., was killed by lightning while playing near his home here seven years ago. Three months after the doctor's death, a brother, Overton Bettison, was killed in an automobile accident in Oklahoma.

ENTRIES CLOSE TUESDAY FOR BLACK AND WHITE EXHIBIT

Pictures to Be Shown in Annual Display at Artists' Guild Week From Tomorrow.

Pictures intended for exhibition in the annual black and white competition sponsored by the Post-Dispatch must be delivered to the Artists' Guild, Union boulevard and Enright avenue, before Tuesday. The exhibition will open a week from tomorrow.

The competition, for which prizes totaling $400 are offered, is open to any artist, but the subject must be a St. Louis scene or one identified with St. Louis. Any medium such as oil, water-color or etching may be employed.

The pictures will be on view at the Artists' Guild for a month. Announcement of awards will be made within two weeks after the exhibition opens.

Funeral services for Mrs. Nellie E. Langan, widow of Edward A. Langan, former president of the Langan Furniture Co., will be held at 9 a. m. tomorrow from St. Joseph's Church, Clayton, to Valhalla Cemetery.

Mrs. Langan died Friday at St. Francis' Hospital, Chicago, following an operation for the removal of a tumor. She had made her home with relatives in Chicago following the death of Mr. Langan several years ago. Surviving are a daughter, Marian, and a son, Eugene F. Langan.

LIFE SENTENCES FOR 2 CONVICTED HOLDUP SLAYERS

Two Negroes, Found Guilty of Killing Mandel Glatstein Near His Home, to Seek New Trial.

A verdict of life imprisonment was returned by a jury yesterday against Layton Payne and Dan Evans, Negroes, tried for the murder of Mandel Glatstein, 56-year-old grocer, who was stabbed by robbers near his home at 1422 North Fourteenth street Oct. 25. Defense counsel filed a motion for a new trial.

Testimony was that Glatstein, walking to his home, was strong-armed by three Negroes, who dragged him into an areaway at 1404 North Fourteenth, stabbed him and fled with $55 in cash.

Payne, 29 years old, and Evans, 25, were identified by Caroline Anderson, a Negro, who said she looked from her second-story porch and saw them directly beneath her, beating a prostrate man. She testified that Payne exclaimed, "Hit him again."

Julia Lotts, another Negro, said Evans ran from the areaway, stopped and glanced back, remarking, "That guy ain't dead yet; he's crawling."

Evans declared he was making a tour of restaurants and night clubs the night of the murder; Payne said he was at home. Detectives testified they could not verify either alibi.

Judge Ryan gave the jury the choice of three verdicts, life imprisonment, death and acquittal. Deliberation began at 4 p. m. Friday, and the verdict was reached at 10:30 a. m. yesterday.

ASKS BENCH AND BAR TO WORK TOGETHER FOR TRUE JUSTICE

State Supreme Judge Atwood Addresses Annual Banquet; Governor Also Speaks.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 28.—The demand for speedy justice should not be permitted to prevent just consideration of causes, and bench and bar should co-operate "to the end that, in fact as well as in theory, law may be true dispensation of justice," Supreme Judge Frank E. Atwood said tonight, in an address at the annual banquet given here by the Missouri Bar Association for Judges of the Supreme Court and the St. Louis, Kansas City and Springfield Courts of Appeals.

He said that nearly all lawyers appearing in the appellate courts declare they are there to settle the law. "As a matter of fact," he said, "many of those who come up on law points really want us to adjust the law to fit their cases and to that extent unsettle it and in a sense render it less certain."

A proposed reorganization of the Missouri Bar Association to enlarge its membership and effectiveness, was discussed by Guy A. Thompson of St. Louis, member of the Executive Committee of the American Bar Association and former president of the Missouri association.

The State Association now has about 1600 members, Thompson said, or about one-fourth of the 6500 lawyers practicing in Missouri. The plan provides for affiliation of the 47 local bar associations in Missouri with the State association, and through such affiliation to make all members of the local associations members of the State association.

Gov. Caulfield made a brief address of welcome to the association. Other speakers on the program were, Joseph W. Jamison, president of the association; Frank P. Barker of Kansas City, Judge Simon G. Nipper of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, Judge Henry L. Arnold of the Kansas City Court of Appeals, and Judge Robert J. Smith of the Springfield Court of Appeals.

RED AND PACIFIST SPEAKERS START LEGISLATIVE INQUIRY

Report Is They Were Paid With State Funds by Springfield, Mo. Teachers' College.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 28.—Charges that a Red lecturer from Soviet Russia and an alleged pacifist were paid $50 apiece from State funds by the Southwest Missouri State Teachers' College at Springfield, Mo., for speeches to students there are expected to be aired before the Appropriations Committee of the House of the Missouri Legislature Monday night.

The Appropriations Committee has requested Dr. Roy Ellis, president of the Springfield Teachers' College, to appear and answer the allegations.

The charges were called to the attention of the committee by Gov. Caulfield, who was notified of them by a letter from Secretary of Agriculture Hyde. The charges were made by F. M. Van Natter, of Neodesha, Kan., who heard the speeches, by Victor Yakhontoff, a former Major-General of the Russian army, last Oct. 23, and Paul Harris, southern secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War, with headquarters in Louisville, Ky. Harris spoke Armistice day, Nov. 11.

Van Natter wrote a letter to Col. George B. Lockwood, editor of the National Republic, Washington, Feb. 5, complaining of the speeches. Col. Lockwood turned the letter over to Secretary Hyde.

Gardner Steel Grave Vault

guaranteed 100 years

Naturally you want to protect your casket against attack from any outside source such as vermin or water. The Gardner Grave Vault gives this protection because it is air-tight and indestructible. Solid sheets of 12 gauge copper bearing steel especially manufactured for the Gardner Vault by the U. S. Steel Corporation will guard your casket indefinitely.

Any undertaker you select can supply you with the Gardner Grave Vault and will gladly show you illustrations of the various styles.

IN MEMORIAM

ADSHIER—In loving memory of our dear mother, Florence E. Adshier, who passed away March 4, 1930:

Not dead to us who loved her,
But only gone before;
She lives with us in memory,
And will forevermore.

Sadly missed by HER CHILDREN. (c)

BLOCK—In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Alvina Block, who departed this life, March 1, 1918.
HENRIETTA BLOCK. (c)

CELLA—In loving memory of our dear daddy, Anthony J. Cella, who departed this life Feb. 25, 1927:

Those whom we love go out of sight,
but not out of mind,
They are cherished in the hearts of those they leave behind;
Loving and kind in all his ways,
Sincere and true, in heart and mind,
Beautiful memories, he left behind.

Sadly missed by his wife, MRS. MAMIE CELLA, AND LOVING CHILDREN. (c)

DE MANGE—In loving memory of our dear father, Prosper De Mange, who departed this year Feb. 24, 1923.

We are thinking of you today, dear father,
Thinking of the past,
Picturing you in memory
Just as we saw you last.
You left behind some broken hearts
That loved you so sincere
Never did or never will forget you, father
dear.

Sincerely missed by THE FAMILY.

DOERNER—In loving memory of Charles A. Doerner, who passed away March 2, 1930.

His memory is as dear today
As in the hour he passed away.

Sadly missed by wife.
MARY DOERNER.

DOUGHERTY—In loving remembrance of our dear mother and father, Katherine and Frank Dougherty, who departed this life one year ago, Feb. 25 and 28, 1930.

Sad and sudden was the call
For our dear parents, loved by all;
We little thought that on that day
They would be called so far away.

Sadly missed by DAUGHTER, NAN DOUGHERTY.

EBERLIN—In loving memory of Gertrude Eberlin, who departed this life March 1, 1928. Sadly missed by MOTHER AND SISTER. (c)

GRAFEMAN—In loving memory of our darling Myrtle Grafeman, died Feb. 26, 1923.

A precious one from us is gone,
A voice we loved is still;
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled;
God called her home; it was His will,
But in our hearts she is living still.

Sadly missed by HER PARENTS.

HELLE—Magdeline, who passed away March 3, 1930.

What is home without a mother?
All things this world may send,
But when I lost my darling mother
I lost my dearest friend.

DAUGHTER, PAULINE BATRICK. (c)

JOHNSON—In loving memory of my dear wife, who died Feb. 27, 1930:

I miss her when I need a friend,
On her I could depend;
She cheered me in sickness, she soothed me in pain,
God grant some day we'll meet again.

Sadly missed by HUSBAND AND THOSE WHO LOVED HER.

JORDAN—In memory of my dear husband and stepfather, John F. Jordan, whom God had called Feb. 25, 1930:

Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days;
Sincere and true in heart and mind,
Beautiful memories he has left behind.

Sadly missed by
HIS WIFE AND CHILDREN. (c)

KERN—In memory of our dear wife and mother, Anna L. Kern, whom God has called, March 2, 1930.

Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just to the end of her days,
Sincere and true her heart and mind,
Beautiful memories she left behind.

Sadly missed by her HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.
And all who loved her. (c)

KITCHIN—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Isaac Kitchin Jr., who died March 2, 1926.

His memory is as dear today,
As in the hour he passed away.

MA.

KNOLL—In memory of our dear sister, Lulu Knoll, on her birthday, March 1:

Gone but not forgotten.

Sister and Brother-in-law,
MR. AND MRS. H. SIMON.

LEHMANN—In loving memory of our dear mother, Katie Lehmann.

One year has passed since that sad day
The one we loved was called away;
God took her home; it was His will
But in our hearts she liveth still.

Sadly missed by
SON AND DAUGHTER-IN-LAW.

LEIGHTON—In loving memory of Herbert Leighton, who departed this life one year ago, March 3:

Dearest Herbert, you have left us,
Left the home you loved so well;
But some day we will meet you,
And together we shall dwell.
How we miss your footsteps,
How we miss your dear, sweet face;
You are gone but not forgotten,
There will always be a vacant place.

Sadly missed by
FRIENDS AND RELATIVES. (c)

LEVINS—In memory of Mary Levins, who departed this life March 2, 1930.
MOTHER, SISTER AND BROTHERS.

SHAW—In loving memory of our dear father, John Shaw, who passed away one year ago today, Feb. 24, 1930:

Father gone but not forgotten,
Never will his memory fade;
Sweetest thoughts will always linger
Around the grave where father is laid.
And we hope to meet our father
On that bright and peaceful shore.

Sadly missed by
HIS THREE CHILDREN.

STAATS—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Minnie Staats, who died one year ago, March 4, 1930:

We are lonely, yes, for mother,
In the year that passed away;
And we know she will always guide us
Till we meet again some day.
She is happily reunited
With her pal, our father, dear,
In the beautiful Isle of Somewhere
They await their children there.

Sadly missed by THEIR CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

IN MEMORIAM

ROTTMANN—Beatrice Adams. In loving memory of our darling daughter and sister who departed this life March 3, 1926. Sadly missed by MOTHER, BROTHERS, STEPFATHER AND ALL WHO LOVED HER. (c)

STOUT, LAURA L.—In memory of my dear wife, who was called March 3, 1929:

Loving and kind,
All her ways upright and just to the end;
Sincere and true her heart and mind,
Beautiful memories she left behind.

Sadly missed by:
HER HUSBAND, HARRY. (c)

TEXIER—Louise: In memory of Mrs. Louise Texier, who departed this life one year ago, Feb. 27, 1930.

Broken is the family circle;
Our dear one is passed away;
Passed from earth and earthly darkness,
Into bright and perfect day.
But we all must cease to languish,
O'er the grave of her we love;
Strive to be prepared to meet her,
In the better world above.

Sadly missed by
HER HUSBAND, DAUGHTER, FATHER, MOTHER, SISTER AND BROTHER. (c)

WEBER—Roman: In loving remembrance of our dear husband and father, who departed this life March 5, 1930.

One year has passed since that sad day,
My dear husband has passed away.
We saw him suffer, heard his sighs,
With aching hearts and weeping eyes.
We saw him sinking hour by hour,
Yet could not stay death's awful power,
But now he calmly sleeps at last
All pain, all aches, all suffering passed.

Sadly missed by
WIFE AND SON. (c)

WEINHEIMER—In memory of my beloved husband, Albert Weinheimer, who died March 1, 1930:

Surrounded by friends I am lonesome,
In the midst of my joys I am blue;
With a smile on my face I've a heartache,
Longing, dear husband, for you.

MRS. MARY WEINHEIMER. (c)

ZANONE—In memory of husband and father, David J. Zanone, who died March 6, 1921. Sadly missed.
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

ZIMMERMANN—In loving memory of our darling daughter, Jeanette Zimmermann, who departed this life March 2, 1930, at the age of 6 years.

You were a flower too sweet for us,
Sent here but for a while;
God marked you when He gave you life
And took you with a smile;
The shock was short, the pain severe,
To part from our darling we loved so dear.

Sadly missed by BROKEN-HEARTED PARENTS, SISTER AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

MEN—WHO—CAN—SELL

To such men we offer an opportunity to earn from $2000 to $5000 and up per year dependent only on ability and effort expended.

A REAL FUTURE awaits those men who can develop into supervisors, depot managers and branch managers.

Territory—St. Louis and vicinity.

Apply 10:00 a. m. ONLY Monday. No other time. 514 Paul Brown Building.

DISTRICT MANAGER WANTED.

A nationally known million dollar corporation—the leader in its field—with offices in all principal cities, has an opening for a man with the following qualifications, to represent it as district manager in the St. Louis office which has been established for years:

Age 30 to 40 years. Diversified selling experience such as high-class specialties, advertising, books, or intangibles. Must have good appearance, personality and reputation, be accustomed to earning a fair income, be able to finance himself for 30 to 60 days and be immediately available.

The line is educational. The territory is well organized. The company has been established 28 years, is a national advertiser and its sales in 1930 were the greatest in its history. Depression proof business, good the year round with an unlimited market and future.

Salesmen work on leads almost exclusively. Many tested lead production methods coupled with unusual home office cooperation and training in your own office insures success from the very start.

Should you feel that you measure up to our qualifications write us full information about youself and give telephone number. Field manager now in city will interview you immediately. All replies held strictly confidential. Address Box D-419, Post-Dispatch.

SALESMEN, ARE YOU HAPPY?

Sell a quick easy sales, unit for business men, bankers and investment houses! Universal appeal; prospects all around you; low price, which enables you to get volume. Large commissions and real money in bonuses.

You will not need training of any kind. You can start right out making money. You can travel or represent us locally.

We have the greatest business library ever compiled, backed by such men as Roger W. Babson, B. C. Forbes, James H. Rand Jr., John Moody and others who are known to hundreds of thousands of business men.

Our men are making from $60 per week up. Write. Ask for details. Tell us all about yourself and get established as a member of the finest organization of its kind in the world. Assure yourself of the opportunity of making more money than you have ever earned before.

HELP WTD.—WOMEN, GIRLS

LADIES

No matter how good you are if you haven't an article that is easy to sell your income suffers and no matter how inexperienced you are the largest selling single design foundation garment in America will provide an amazing income.

Picture, if you will, YOUR OWN BUSINESS AND PRODUCT, the most widely advertised of an entire industry, in Good Housekeeping, Vogue, Woman's Home Companion, Ladies' Home Journal, Post-Dispatch and KMOX—that is Charis, the choice of American women, not the ordinary elastic kind, but the garment that truly controls and remolds the figure—it's the garment your neighbors wear.

January business was the greatest in our history which we celebrated with a great prosperity banquet at the Statler and our BEST business begins in March; $5000 cash will be paid out to our entire organization for March and April in addition to the regular incomes. No "hard times" in our business.

A limited number of highly established territories will be filled Monday when we will interview applicants over 28 years of age, neat appearance, with ambition to achieve unusual success. No deliveries or fittings to make. Assured income first month. Those who qualify will receive complete course of Charis merchandising at no expense. Opportunity like this knocks but seldom. See Mr. Healy Monday morning, 10-12:30, room 3000 Columbia Bldg., 318 N. 8th st. (c)

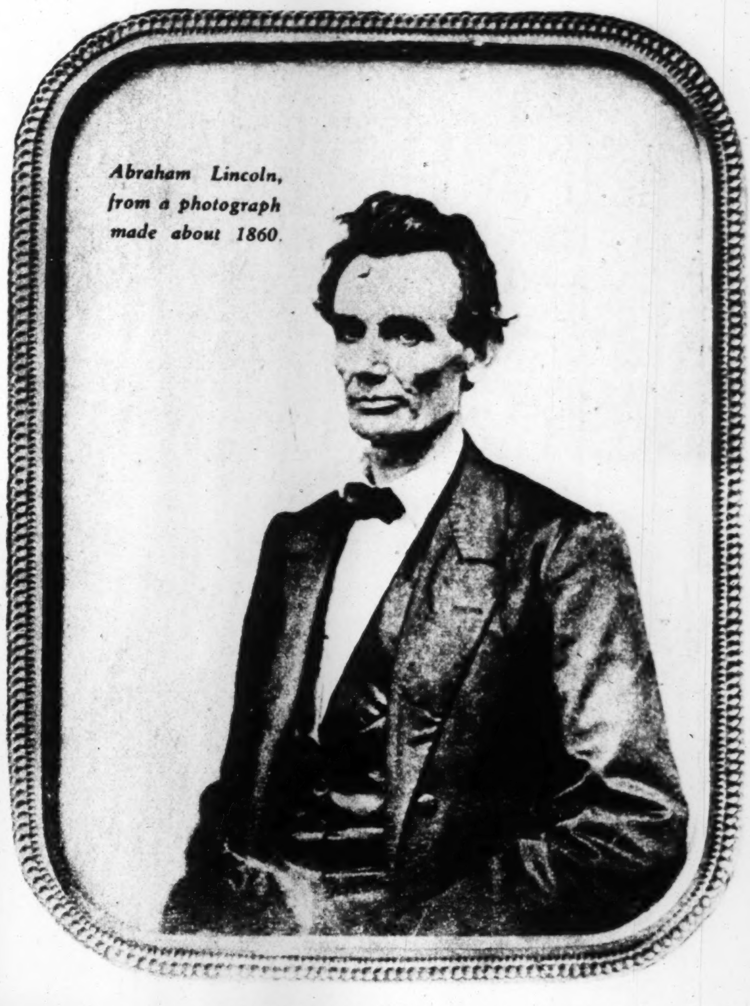
Was Lincoln Unkempt? Springfield Says "No"

Photographic Collection Brought Forward in the Emancipator's Home Town in Refutation of Edgar Lee Masters' Sensational Book, "Lincoln: The Man."



Abraham Lincoln, from a photograph made about 1860.

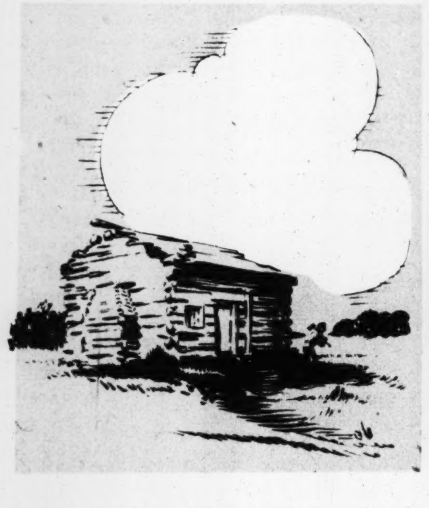
SPRINGFIELD, Illinois.

THE people in this town are a little inclined to laugh now that all the shouting has died down. It happened about the time of Lincoln's birthday, which is a big day here anyway, with speakers from Chicago and Washington. Edgar Lee Masters hurled his bombshell of a book at Lincoln—simply tore the stuffing out of him, left not a single virtue—but as the smoke cleared away, the figure of Lincoln was seen to stand as it always has, dominating the Springfield horizon, dominating even the modern city. And the opinion is pretty general here that what Mr. Masters hurled at Lincoln was not a bomb but a bunch of wet fire-crackers.

Springfield knows both Masters and Lincoln. They both lived here, the Emancipator, the martyred President, and his latest biographer, who would reduce him to a mean and scheming politician, hypocritical, deceptive, cold, crafty, double-dealing, stupid, a plagiarist and other kinds of a thief. Even slovenly and unkempt in his personal appearance. As one reviewer remarked, Dickens gave even Bill Sykes a better break than Lincoln got from Masters.



The Lincoln tradition is very strong here. It is possible to talk to many people who preface their stories, "They say, you know, that Mr. Lincoln . . ." These stories they have had from their fathers and mothers. And there are still ten or twelve old residents who saw Lincoln. He passed along the street, said, "Hello, Bub," patted them on the head. These are the sons and daughters of his associates, law partners, political allies.

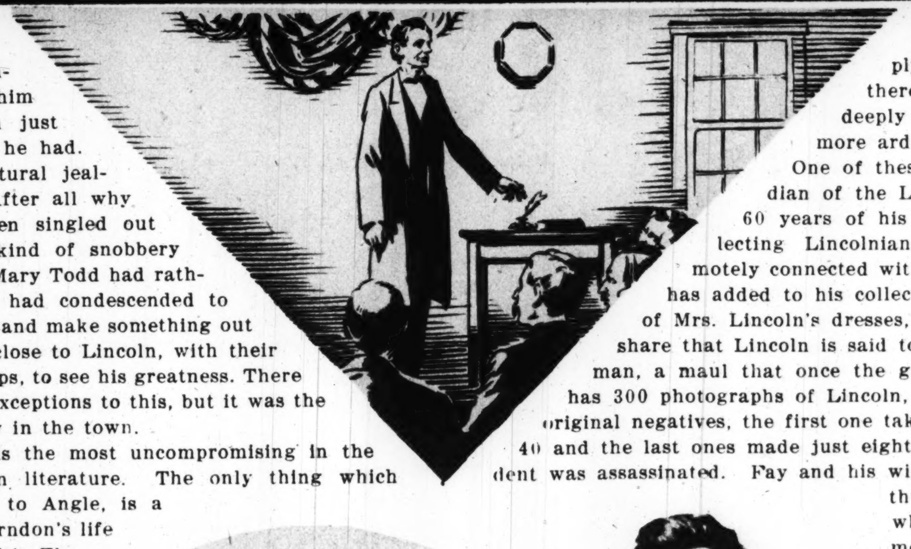
And in many old homes there is a Lincoln tradition. The great man came there for dinner or he stopped the night there. In this room he slept, in this chair he sat. The home of Vachel Lindsay, the poet, was, for example, the scene of Lincoln's farewell reception. The house belonged then to a sister of Mary Todd Lincoln. In the front parlor President-elect and Mrs. Lincoln said good-by to old Springfield friends on the eve of departure for Washington.

OUT of this tradition has grown an attitude toward Lincoln that differs from that of the rest of the country. Lincoln is not so idealized, so sentimentalized here in his home town. He is more a human figure. There is something almost proprietary in the attitude of the old-timers. Lincoln, in their eyes, was not a demi-god. But neither was he a crafty, rabble-rousing politician in the Masters' construction. Not by a long shot:

The Springfield point of view is expressed best by Paul M. Angle, secretary of the Abraham Lincoln Association. Through years of research he knows probably as much about Lincoln as it is possible to know. Perhaps not a scrap of paper, not a myth or a legend that he has not examined. In his opinion the popular concept of Lincoln is a highly idealized one. But after all the detractions and subtractions have been made the unquestionable greatness of Lincoln remains, in Angle's opinion.

He points out what he believes to be the fundamental weakness of Masters' book—the fact that Lincoln is blamed not only for the Civil War but for everything that followed it, from carpet-baggers to present-day gangsters. Whereas, according to Angle, Lincoln was created by the crisis, his greatness grew out of the need of the nation.

Thirty years ago, according to Angle, the inquiring stranger might have found certain citizens who would have agreed with the Masters' view of the home-town boy who made good. What was probably the prevailing opinion at that time, held that Lincoln was a pretty good lawyer who got out over his depth when he became President. And this was only natural, Angle points out. His contemporaries had tilted with him in court, they had won just about as many cases as he had. There was a certain natural jealousy that entered in. After all why should Lincoln have been singled out to go so far? And a kind of snobbery persisted, a feeling that Mary Todd had rather married beneath her, had condescended to take the prairie bumpkin and make something out of him. They were too close to Lincoln, with their jealousies and partisanships, to see his greatness. There were, of course, notable exceptions to this, but it was the common attitude of many in the town.



Masters' arraignment is the most uncompromising in the whole history of Lincoln literature. The only thing which approaches it, according to Angle, is a critique of William B. Herndon's life of Lincoln which appeared in The Southern Review. That attack has always been ascribed to Albert Taylor Bledsoe, editor of the magazine. Bledsoe practiced law with Lincoln for a time in Springfield, but considerably before the Civil War went South where he became actively identified with the Southern cause, serving in Jefferson Davis' cabinet. His review of the Herndon book was scarcely a review at all, but, rather, 25 pages of derogation. It was put down, at the time, to the prejudice of a fighter in a lost cause. Praise for Lincoln was hardly to have been expected from a staunch Southerner so soon after the rebellion had been put down.

The case of Masters is different. His attack cannot be so simply explained away. And there is no doubt that it has deeply disturbed many of the more ardent Lincoln enthusiasts. One of these is H. W. Fay, custodian of the Lincoln tomb here. For 60 years of his life Fay has been collecting Lincolniana. Anything even remotely connected with the Emancipator, Fay has added to his collection—a scrap from one of Mrs. Lincoln's dresses, a piece of the ploughshare that Lincoln is said to have used as a young man, a maul that once the great man wielded. He has 300 photographs of Lincoln, and in many cases the original negatives, the first one taken at about the age of 40 and the last ones made just eight days before the President was assassinated. Fay and his wife live within a stone's throw of the Lincoln tomb which is now being remodelled. Until recently his great personal collection of Lincolniana was contained in the crypt itself. Now it is housed in a two-story concrete garage near his home.

Lincoln in 1864.

Fay was especially annoyed by Masters' statement that Lincoln was slovenly and unkempt.

"Why the photographs show that isn't right," Fay says, and he brings out from his files some of the hundreds of likenesses of Lincoln that he has gathered together.

"See that!" He thumbs them over. "And that and that. Why he was almost a dandy. Not one of these photographs—and some of them are what we today would call snapshots—show that he was unkempt or rundown. They show just the opposite to my way of thinking."

And it is true that the photographs, several of which are reproduced on this page, show Lincoln to be spruce enough, clothes pressed and brushed, made of decent materials. The tie may be somewhat awry, the collar not too carefully in place, but the man shown in the photographs, even the prairie lawyer, the young Congressman, has none of the earmarks of the sloven.

In referring to Lincoln as unkempt Masters opened a dispute of ancient standing. Writing of Lincoln's career in the State Legislature at Springfield, Masters says:

"And now in Springfield did he ally himself with the common people? Rather did he make all the patrician alliances that were available to him, so much so that he was soon accused of belonging to the aristocracy; and on the stump he was compelled to defend himself against the ridicule of swashbucklers like Col. Dick Taylor, whom to discomfit, Lincoln pulled down his vest rudely, while Taylor was addressing the multitude, exposing to the gaping rustics Taylor's frilled shirt and great watch seal. As Lincoln went about unkempt and badly dressed, in trousers too short, and coat too tight or too bobbed, there was nothing to expose about him except his principles; and that required something more intellectual than pulling down his vest."

Again the biographer pictures Lincoln at home, about to incur the wrath of his wife:

"He has forgotten to do something that she asked him to do; or else he has been lying about on the floor reading newspapers, and when there was a knock at the door he has gone to answer the summons, and has presented himself in his stocking feet to the well dressed lady caller; and he has stood before her, with his coat off, and his one suspender barely holding up his trousers. To the inquiry whether Mrs. Lincoln is in he has said, 'I reckon she is,' and he has admitted the fashionable lady about the time that Mrs. Lincoln appears to witness the unceremonious and shocking conduct of her husband. Her eyes have told him what is to come when the lady is out of the way, and he has gone uptown to escape for as long as possible the wrath that is surely to descend."

IN FAY'S files are numerous descriptions of Lincoln's appearance. It was a matter of controversy during his life. His enemies in the North and the cultured aristocrats of the South said much the same things about him that Masters has said. He was called an uncouth ape, a crude rustic, a provincial boer. What are probably the most impartial descriptions come from English periodicals and newspapers. The following excerpt is characteristic of many such descriptions:

"Clothe this figure in a long, tight, badly fitting suit of black, creased, soiled, puckered up at every salient point of the figure (and every point of the figure is salient), put on large unfitting boots, gloves too long for the long, bony fingers and a fluffy hat covered to the top with dusty crepe; then add to this an air of strength, physical as well as moral, and a strange look of dignity, coupled with all this grotesqueness."

The last is what Masters has ignored, say the Lincoln enthusiasts here. He has taken certain minor defects of dress and has created from them the picture of the sloven, ignoring the fact that the general impression, as in the above description, was one of dignity and strength approaching almost to a kind of grandeur. Another English commentator wrote:

"Like most American gentlemen, he is loose and careless in dress, turns down his flapping white collars and wears habitually what we consider evening dress."

An old man who had seen him often, said in 1911, "There's no denying he was long and lean and he didn't always stand straight and he wasn't particular about his clothes, but at Bloomington

The Newest Thing in Insurance Frauds

How Fred Segar and Arthur Taggart of Omaha Collected on the Policy of a Woman Who Was Still Alive.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

OMAHA, Nebraska.

A BRAND new method of defrauding life insurance companies came to light in Omaha the other day with the arrest of Fred Segar, agent for the Prudential Insurance Company of America, and Arthur Taggart, an Omaha undertaker. Their scheme came near being successful. Only by the merest accident was it detected. But the accident happened as the direct result of a bit of blundering. Once it had happened the wonder was that the blunder hadn't tripped the schemers sooner. For it was an obvious blunder and a clumsy one.

The Prudential company had just paid a death claim of $1000 on the life of "Rose White" of Omaha. A check had been mailed to Segar to deliver to the beneficiary, "Alfred W. White," whose address, as indicated by the company records, was Spencer, Nebraska. The check had been cashed and had come back through the regular channels to the company. It had been indorsed by "Alfred W. White" and reindorsed by Arthur Taggart, who, apparently, had cashed it. All details of the business of paying the death claim had been wound up and the White policy file was ready to be marked "closed" when a clerk in the insurance company's home office in Newark, New Jersey, chanced to thumb over some correspondence relative to the case and in doing so came upon an envelope marked "not known here." The letter contained in this envelope was a company communication which had been mailed to Alfred W. White, the beneficiary, at Spencer, Nebraska, notifying him the check had been forwarded to Segar, who would deliver it. The letter had been returned by the Spencer postoffice.

It seemed strange to the clerk that the check sent through Segar, the agent, had been indorsed by White and cashed, while a communication concerning it had been returned when sent to White direct. Something must be wrong, the clerk thought, so he took the matter up with higher officials. The company forwarded data on the case to William A. Stevenson, company investigator stationed at Kansas City. Stevenson, working with an Omaha investigator, first looked into the death of "Rose White." From the City Health Department he learned she had died on October 12, 1930, of complications resulting from several ailments. And the death certificate disclosed she had died at the county hospital.

Stevenson went to the hospital. About the first thing he learned there about Rose White was that she was not dead. She was a patient there, recovering from a long illness. Nurses introduced him to her. She said she had carried a policy for $1000 on her life, but had allowed it to lapse nearly two years ago. Who was Alfred W. White? Rose White had no idea. She said she had never heard of him. Who had kept up payments on the policy after she had allowed it to lapse? She didn't know. She didn't know they had been kept up.

Here, then, was a first-class mystery. The insured person wasn't dead, the beneficiary wasn't known to her, and somebody else had been paying the premiums on a policy that she didn't know had been kept in force. Stevenson went into a huddle with the Prudential officers and the cancelled check was brought out. Also the policy on the life of Rose White was examined. Segar had sold that policy. Presumably he had delivered the check to "Alfred W. White," too. He ought to know something about this, they reasoned. So it was decided to call him into the investigation. Then another clerk noticed something. He noticed that Segar's handwriting closely resembled that of the "Alfred W. White" who had indorsed the check. The investigators sent for Segar at once.

AT FIRST Segar said he didn't know anything about any deception. He said he had delivered the check to Rose White's husband, Alfred W. White, who had come to Omaha from Spencer to make the settlement. But he couldn't explain how the company's letter could have been returned marked "not known here." And he couldn't explain how he had made the settlement while Mrs. White was still alive. Neither could he explain the similarity in the handwriting. Finally, he broke down, the police say, and told everything, involving Taggart. Then both Segar and Taggart are said to have signed confessions. This is the story they told, according to information given out by the Prosecuting Attorney's office:

Rose White was the common law wife of Ernest Teetzel of Omaha, who had held two industrial policies with the Prudential, one for $200 and one for $100. Teetzel died December 16, 1929, and Rose White, as beneficiary, tried to collect on the policies. Under the Nebraska law, however, the undertaker who handles the funeral gets his money first and the beneficiary and any creditors get what is left. Taggart handled Teetzel's funeral and his charges were about $225. Confronted with his prior claim on Teetzel's policies, Rose White became discouraged and stopped paying premiums on the $1000 policy she carried. Shortly afterward she became seriously ill and was taken to the county hospital.

Segar noticed the woman was defaulting in her payments and, upon investigation, learned she was ill and that doctors expected her to die. Here was an excellent opportunity for somebody to collect $1000 insurance by paying Mrs. White's premiums. He told Taggart about it and suggested that Taggart pay them. So it was agreed, the provision being that Segar and Taggart would split the expense of car

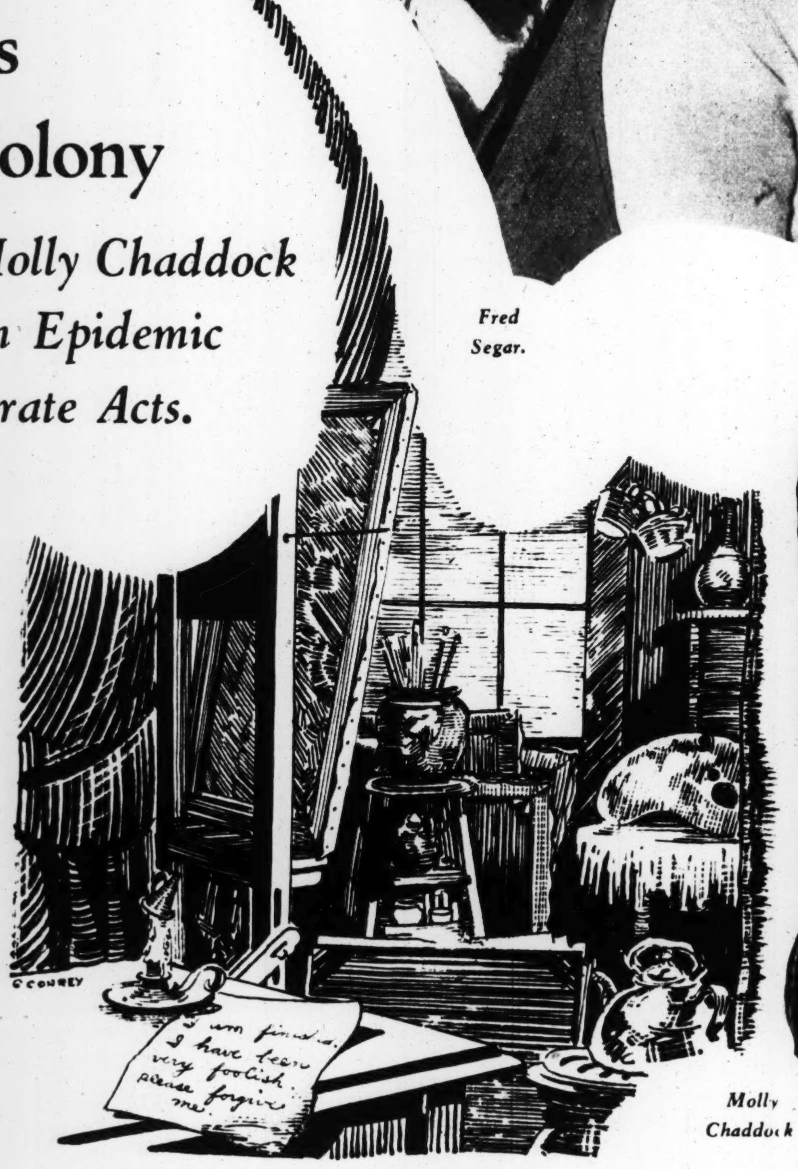
Suicide of Pretty Molly Chaddock the Latest in an Epidemic of Such Desperate Acts.



G CONREY
I am finished. I have been very foolish please forgive me.

Molly Chaddock

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

LONDON.

SOMETHING has happened to London's bright young people, those smart, ultra-sophisticates portrayed so bitingly in Aldous Huxley's "Point Counterpoint," and in Evelyn Waugh's "Vile Bodies." Over their favorite playground—the Chelsea district here—there has fallen a pall of gloom. It may be connected, this unprecedented sobriety, with the suicide of lovely Molly Chaddock.

And before Molly there was Peter Warlock. And before Peter—but the bright young people of Chelsea do not get a great deal of enjoyment these days out of reading the suicide record. Once, possibly, they could be flippant about even that. But there has been a succession of suicides among the brightest and gayest and best-loved. So Chelsea, for the time being at any rate, has dropped the mask of gaiety.

Chelsea is like most other post-war Bohemias—a little feverish, a little frantic, somewhat desperate, lacking, perhaps, in the easy romance of the Parisian Bohemia of the last century. Aldous Huxley gives a series of interesting Chelsea portraits in "Point Counterpoint," and, it is proven, they are derived directly from real people, from people famous in contemporary London life. Lucy Tantamount, who could take her pleasures like a man, without entangling the emotions, anywhere, with anyone. Poor Spandrell, sardonic, hating himself, hating life; as Huxley points out, a hopeless adolescent at thirty, and a suicide. These desperate post-war Bohemians have of late been living out a series of tragedies in real life. They have come suddenly against a blank wall and there has been nothing for it but the quickest way out. As with Huxley's unfortunate Spandrell, it was the only gesture left to them.

Mary Helen Chaddock, called Molly by everyone who had known her longer than half an hour, was among the loveliest of all the young women who live on the fringe of Chelsea's art world, earning a precarious living by posing. She had innumerable friends. She was welcome at almost any table in any cafe. She knew the great and the near-great, the failures and the hangers-on, Bohemia's camp-followers, by far the largest part of Chelsea's population.

Molly Chaddock was a good sort, in the Chelsea phrase. She took her loves and her friendships with the casualness that is characteristic of the group she knew so well. But the unexpected happened—Molly fell in love, hard and fast. In the Chelsea code love is for an hour, a day, a week, but rarely longer. Her love for a young English actor was something quite new and strange—beyond the experience of the bright young people she knew in Chelsea.

Unfortunately, the young actor was not attracted to Molly. He was determined on a serious career on the stage. His life, when Molly entered it, did not allow of a permanent alliance. A famous play made his success. He went to America. But still Molly hoped that possibly he might come to reciprocate the love which she openly avowed.

Then one day not long ago she got the news from America of his marriage. She had written him constantly, letters which he never answered. The marriage was the final blow that dissipated all hope for Molly. Pride entered in. She had told everyone that she was in love with him.

Molly Chaddock put her head in a gas oven and a few hours later she was found dead. Beside her body was a clipping from a London newspaper with a photograph of the young actor and his bride and an account of their marriage, and a letter to her father, explaining why she had killed herself. Ironically enough, the pictures she posed for will live on, conveying something of her fresh charm to posterity. She had been the favorite model of Augustus John, Sir John Lavery and Sir William Orpen.

Molly Chaddock's suicide came less than two weeks after that of Peter Warlock, whose death was described at the time as an "irreparable loss to the world's music." Throughout his career in Chelsea—he was less than 40—his friends had constantly said that if only he would do serious work, unquestionably the small store of the world's great music would be added to.

BUT Peter Warlock never did compose the great music of which he gave promise. His tunes were enormously clever, but they lacked depth and profundity. Peter Warlock, too, resorted to gas.

Before the young musician there was Austin Major Small, who gave marked promise as a writer, his work, under the name of "Seamark" having received wide notice. He left the following letter—it in part described the garbled mess that his life had become—addressed to his wife:

"I am sure that in the not too distance future you will find someone who will agree with your astonishing ideas of married life, and I hope you will be supremely happy. But take care you don't find someone who has your own ideas. You will have the same miserable life you have given to me.

"Please tell the Coroner where you got the money for the trip to Nice and explain to him that you were perfectly willing, despite my objections, to make that trip, leaving me to get on as best I could. This is just the final instance of several scores since we were married. I genuinely hope you will get a better deal in the Great Beyond than I shall."

At about the same time a young artist, Frederick Roland Atkinson, ended his life, leaving a note that said: "I am finished. I have been very foolish, but the chief fault has been my generosity. I trusted too much. Please forgive me." Atkinson is said to have been in despair because of his love for Dolores, the famous model of Jacob Epstein, the sculptor. Dolores, herself, nearing 40, is contemplating entering a convent, sickened and weary, she says, of the life she has led. Recently in America, she published very sensational memoirs.

If one goes back a little further, there was Jimmy White, self-made, enormously rich, a Chelsea playboy. At the height of his career, with no reason unless it was satiety, boredom, he too killed himself. And in the Broadmoor Criminal Lunatic Asylum is another Chelsea figure, Ronald True.

Dolores, Jacob Epstein's famous model.

By the narrowest possible squeak True missed the gallows for the murder of an actress. It was only, the fact, it is said, that he happens to be the illegitimate son of a titled Englishwoman of great prominence that he was committed to Broadmoor. Lady "Blank's" name was carefully kept out of the proceedings.

Aldous Huxley delivers a tirade against the Chelsea Bohemians in "Point Counterpoint." He puts it into the mouth of the character, Mark Rampion (a portrait of the author's friend, the late D. H. Lawrence, the novelist). He has Rampion condemn them for the silly superficiality of their lives, their cheapness and stupidity. And he intimates that all this is possibly one reason why the art that Chelseaites turn out is second-rate.

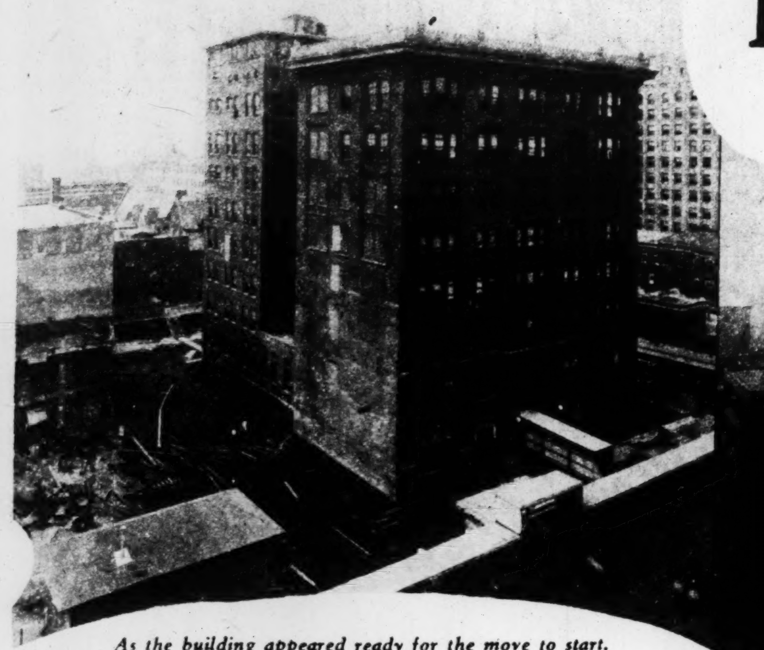
How 18 Men Moved an 8-Story Building Without Interrupting Its Service

The Most Spectacular Engineering Feat in the History of Indianapolis and How It Was Accomplished



As the building appeared ready for the move to start.

Four days later, at the end of the straight move.

The building after the front face had disappeared.

INDIANAPOLIS, Indiana.

THIS city has just witnessed the most spectacular engineering feat in its history, and a good many of its citizens are still rubbing their eyes and trying to convince themselves that what they saw really happened. Some are a bit like the rustic who, upon seeing a giraffe for the first time, exclaimed incredulously, "There ain't no such animal." They are reluctant to admit that the thing could be done at all, notwithstanding the fact that it has been done and the evidence is there for anybody to see.

The project was the removal of an eight-story office building of brick and steel to a new site without interrupting for a single day the operation of the structure or any of its facilities such as electric lights, water, sewers, elevators and even a busy downtown telephone exchange.

This structure, which is now resting comfortably in its new location, is the main office building of the Indiana Bell Telephone Company. It occupies an area 100 by 135 feet and weighs approximately 11,000 tons. Formerly it stood on New York street at Meridian, facing north. But the company wanted to clear that site for a new and larger office building while at the same time preserving the old building and keeping it in continuous operation. So they cut the old structure loose from its foundations, put it on rollers, turned it around 90 degrees and simply wheeled it across the block to its new site. It now faces west on Pierson street at New York. The actual moving started on October 14 and by November 12 the strange journey had been completed. By December 1 the building had been anchored to its new foundation and since then the finishing touches have been put on so that little now remains to show that the move took place—little, that is, except the inescapeable fact that the building used to face north on New York street at Meridian and now faces west on Pierson at New York, Pierson being one block west of Meridian. The diagram on this page shows the relative positions of the old and new sites and the route traveled in the move.

THE moving of buildings—even large buildings—from one site to another is not exactly a new form of engineering achievement, of course. It is frequently done. But in this case the moving was done under such conditions and circumstances as to set this undertaking apart as one of the truly remarkable engineering accomplishments of the year. The problem was not merely to move a solidly built eight-story brick and steel structure from its concrete moorings, but to move it while keeping house service facilities and its telephone cables all in operation at the same time. This was actually done. The entire building except the basement was occupied and business was conducted in a normal manner with the public and hundreds of employes coming and going as usual. So smoothly was the work carried out that employes inside the structure were not conscious of being moved at all.

Gas, water, sewer and steam heat services were maintained through flexible hose connections at the basement ceiling level, these connections having slack enough to permit the full extent of the move without replacement. Electric service was provided through temporary overhead wires from a pole, and elevater service, which normally included travel to the basement, was continued by stopping all cars at the first floor with safety apparatus installed on the steel framework under the shafts. The telephone wires leading to the exchange switchboards were lengthened where they left the building by splicing the cables with 200 feet of slack. In this manner all the wires contained in seven large submarine-type cables—five for toll circuits and two for trunk lines to local offices—were kept in operation without even a perceptible increase in wrong numbers. Telephone service went on as usual. Indeed, while the move was under way there was one telephone conversation between a young man in Australia and his father who was ill in an Indianapolis hospital. The connection was made through the moving switchboard.

The work of moving the building was planned under the direction of the engineering department of the telephone company in co-operation with the operation and engineering department of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. Vonnegut, Bohn and Mueller of Indianapolis, were the architects, and consultants in various capacities included three New York firms. The general contractor was Leslie Colvin of Indianapolis and the contractor for moving was the John Eichleay Jr. Company of Pittsburg.

3—Swinging the building on its pivot point.
4—Present location of building.

Several possible plans suggested themselves when the undertaking came under consideration, but the one that seemed most practicable was that of moving the structure straight back (south) for a distance of 52 feet and then rotating it through an angle of 90 degrees to its new location so that it would face west instead of north. This was the plan ultimately put into effect.

To prepare for the move, a considerable amount of preliminary work was necessary. Small buildings on the property had to be wrecked, steel sheet piling had to be driven to hold up the embankments along the streets and underpinning had to be installed under the adjacent Lincoln - Riley Building, in which much of the local telephone equipment is located. Also, to maintain connection between the main entrance and the sidewalk, a movable steel and concrete bridge had to be constructed. One end rested on the floor of the building vestibule entrance and the other was supported on rollers near the sidewalk. Arrangements were provided also for keeping the fire escape in the rear in service.

Temporary provision was made on the first floor for the mechanical and electrical house service equipment. The heating boilers which were used as a reserve for outside central heating service and which were located in a sub-basement were removed and the sub-basement was filled up solidly to the level of the rest of the basement.

THIS done, the floors and the walls were removed, leaving only the foundation walls and the steel supports under the building. With this space thus cleared out, the entire area over which the building was to move was excavated to a depth of about 21 inches below the basement level and foundation footings were placed in the new locations.

The next step was to provide for a system of tracks over which the structure was to be hauled on rollers. For this, a reinforced concrete mat, generally six inches thick, was placed over the entire ground area upon which the building would travel and laid level with the top of the foundation footings. The reason for this concrete mat is easy to see. The underlying gravel would have furnished a firm enough bed to support the moving operation, but the mat furnished a rigid flat base for distributing the enormous weight and insured a level surface over which to lay the tracks and haul the mammoth load. On top of the concrete mat timbers 6 by 8 inches were laid in the fashion of railroad ties to act as a cushion and also to help distribute the weight. They permitted any slight unevenness in the thickness of the mat or in the height of the rails to be taken up as the building rolled along. Across the timbers, railroad rails, mostly used ones rounded up for the purpose, were laid close together, generally without spiking as there was little tendency for the rails to move under the slow, steady movement of the load on them. Both timber and track arrangements can be seen in the picture showing the building after the move was completed.

The building after the move was completed.

TO LIFT and support the weight of the building, brackets formed of I-beams were riveted to the 59 columns and under these brackets were two layers of heavy steel beams extending in two directions. Some of this bracing can be seen in the picture at the bottom of the page. All of these steel members were rigidly fastened and tied together to resist any possible twisting strains.

With the mat and trackage in place and steel supports and bracings fastened to the columns, the building was now ready to be lifted the quarter inch necessary to permit the rollers and steel bearing plates or shoes to be slid under the supporting beams. The rollers were solid steel bars three inches thick and 30 inches long. The bearing shoes were made up of four short lengths of railroad track laid between two steel plates three-quarters of an inch thick and 2 by 4 feet in area, the bottom plate being bent upward at the ends to facilitate feeding-in the rollers.

The building was raised by 100-ton ratchet screw jacks placed under the upper layer of beams. It was not practicable to lift all of the columns in one operation, so they were handled in groups of four to six at a time. The rolling equipment was placed under the lower layer of beams and the cast iron bases supporting the bottom of the columns were slid out from under them. The jacks were then released transferring the loads to the rollers. This operation was repeated until the entire building had been freed and placed on rollers. As each roller rested on four rails, the weight was distributed so that the pressure on a rail was only about two tons under each roller.

In pushing the building on the 52-foot move straight back from New York street, 18 jacks, each handled by one man, were used as shown in the bottom page photograph. The jacks, although rated at 100-tons capacity, were operated to exert a force of only about 10 tons each or a total of approximately 180 tons. This was equal to a little over 1½ per cent of the structure's total weight. The large number of jacks was used with a view to distributing the forces evenly along the length of the building.

A close-up view of jack operation.

The jacks were braced against timbers clamped to the tracks and projecting over to the steel sheet piling and retaining wall at the street. Reblocking was necessary for every 12 inches the building moved, as this was the screw jack's limit of travel. Here are a few facts to indicate how fast the building traveled and why it was that the workers at their desks inside were not conscious of being moved:

At the sound of a whistle the jack handles were moved back and forth six times through an arc of 90 degrees, this taking about half a minute. The men rested about another half minute and then the whole operation was repeated. For these six strokes the jack screws and the building moved three-eighths of an inch. The distance of 52 feet for the first straight move was covered in four days, so the rate of travel was 13 feet a day.

The start of the straight move south. The building was pushed by only 18 men, shown here at the jacks.

WHEN the building had reached its farthest point south, it was raised again so the position of the shoes and rollers could be changed. The procedure then was to rotate the structure around a pivot point near the rear inside corner, this pivot point being located so that rotation would bring the structure around to its exact final position. The force for the turning movement was provided by 10 jacks pushing on the south side of the building and two sets of tackle blocks pulling on the north side using stranded steel cables operated by drums on a stationary steam engine. By using both jacks and cables it was possible to obtain a movement which, measured on the arc traveled by the farthest front corner, was 10 to 17 feet a day. The total distance traveled on the turn was 224 feet and this was covered between October 23 and November 12, or 17 working days.

As a result of the careful preparation in the track layout and guiding lines, the building never varied more than an inch from the predetermined path in moving. This variation, when it occurred, was quickly correctly by changing slightly the angle of the rollers. No damage of any sort resulted from the move and the building was in the same sound condition at the end as it was before the move started. A few small cracks in interior partitions appeared as the columns were lifted in groups during the jacking operations, but these closed up when the building was brought back to an even bearing. During the journey over the rails there was no change in the size of these cracks.

When the structure reached its final position, the reverse of the original procedure of jacking up was followed until the whole building had been lowered to its permanent foundations. This last operation, involving the preparation of the new column bases, required about a month. Restoration of the walls and house service equipment followed and has been virtually completed.

The Indiana Bell Telephone Building, erected in 1906, now stands firmly on its new lot and, whether for better or worse, is facing a new outlook on life.

A "Master Crime" Story From Real Life

A Woman and Her Lover Turn to Banditry and Murder, but Finally Lose in a Race With the Law.

THE story of Irene Schroeder, at least in its public phase, is rapid-fire melodrama, more fit for the moving picture screen than for laboratory analysis; yet repeatedly I find myself thinking of it in terms of chemical forces. Take two substances, A and B, mix each of them with any other of a hundred chemicals and the mixture remains inert. Then, perhaps by chance, A and B come together. Instantly terrific heat develops, and unless there is a good outlet for the expansive forces of the union there is explosion. Let us see how closely the story of Irene Schroeder and Glenn Dague follows this analogy.

Irene Crawford was one of 14 children born and brought up in a squatter's shack half way up a mountain in West Virginia. It was not ambition but sheer lack of room and food that forced her out into the world. The story of Irene, until she emerged into public view, was one of drab obscurity. From the shack of her squatter home she went at the age of 15 to live in another shack by a railroad siding in Wheeling, West Virginia. Without much of a childhood of her own, she married at the age of 16 and became a mother. Her husband, a poor drudge, contributed to her marriage nothing but a family name and what at first was only an additional burden, the child, Donnie. Inside of two years the marriage of the Schroeders broke up.

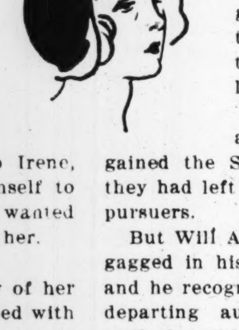
Irene was a short, heavy muscled girl with broad cheekbones and jaws. There was surliness in the sidelong look of her brooding, gray eyes; but until late in her story they never showed fire. She had the body of a drudge and apparently a drudge's unlimited submissiveness.

So when her marriage broke up she took her child with her. He was a good-looking youngster, with an engaging smile. To support him and herself she worked 16 hours a day as a cleaning woman in the railroad coaches.

At the age of 20 she was working as a waitress in a restaurant near the freight yards.

All this time there was Glenn Dague, whose life was not so squalid as Irene's, but almost as drab. He was making a meager living as an insurance agent in Viola, Pennsylvania. He was married to a school teacher, had two children and was trying to put some color in life by teaching Sunday school and acting as leader to a little troop of Boy Scouts. That was his story until the age of 30. It did not improve much in interest when he went to work as an automobile salesman in Wheeling, while his family lived on in Viola.

Then one day as he was driving for his agency his car grazed a woman and he stopped to apologize. The strangers looked at each other—and in each other two commonplace human beings discovered miracle. Dague took Irene Schroeder to the restaurant where she worked; and after that came there to eat.



They became lovers. But theirs was not the light affair of a wayside meeting. Dague told Irene of his life in Viola. He spoke of it only as part of his outpourings to Irene, one of his ways of giving himself to her. Then he told her that he wanted to leave everything and marry her.

IRENE later wrote the story of her life, a crude narrative stamped with sincerity. In describing the scene in which Glenn Dague told her of his family, she wrote:

"He didn't say anything against his wife, and he told me about his two children. I saw at once that he mustn't lose all this. So when he asked me if I loved him I sort of laughed and said, 'I love all the boys!'

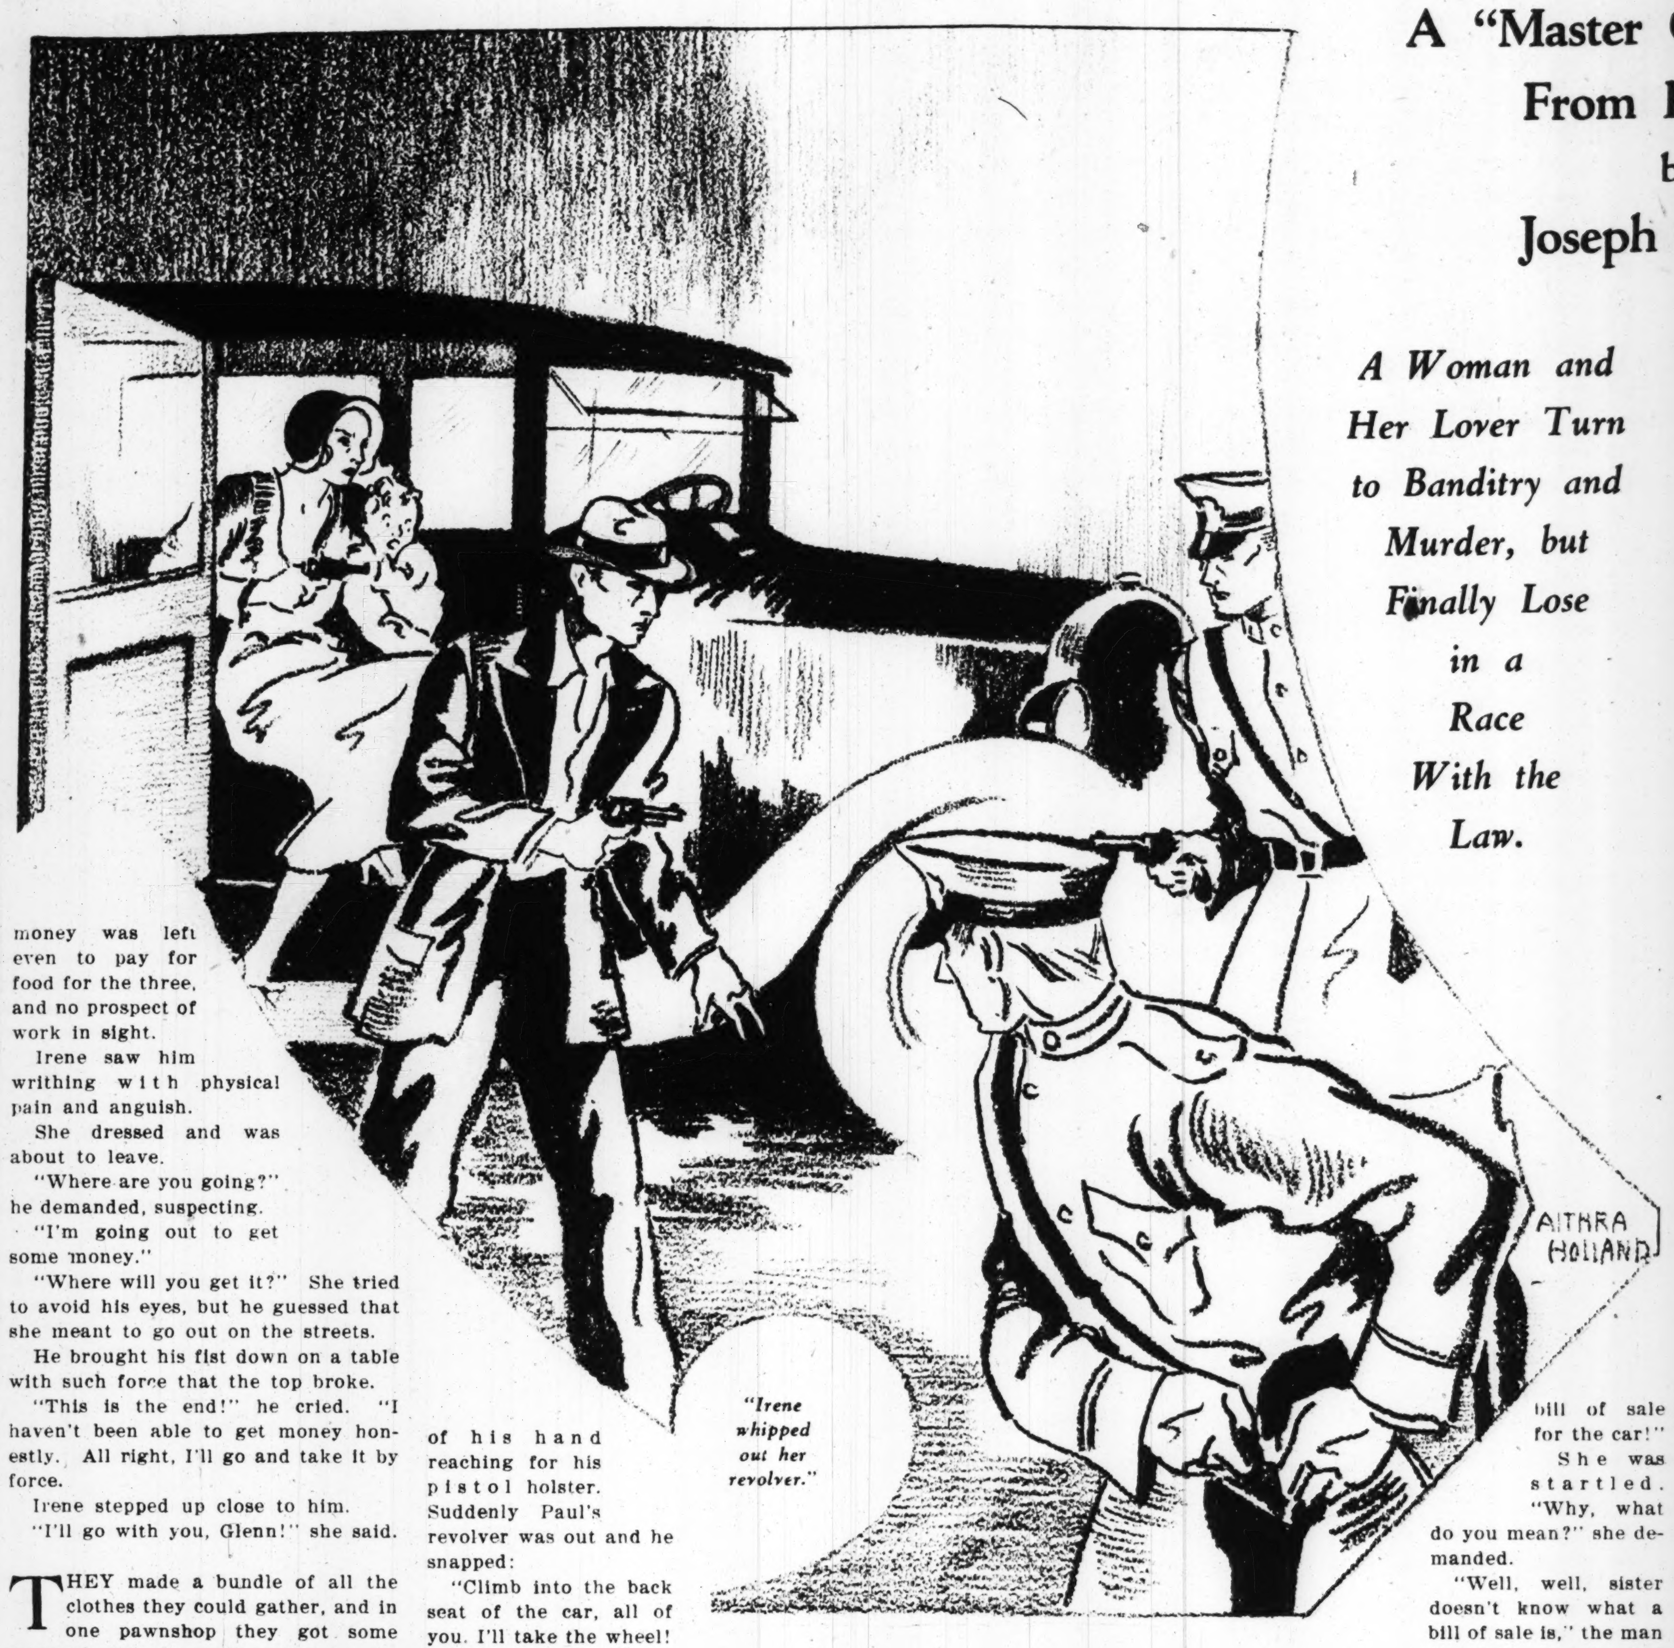
"He wanted to know, 'Do you mean I'm not the only one?' I let him think what he pleased."

He left his family, his job, respectability, everything, to join Irene.

If he were 10 times as strong a character he could not help uniting his life with hers, any more than she could help joining him, though she made several efforts to run away from him. They had become one with all the tenacity of affinitive forces.

Their union generated in him a fierce energy which he tried to direct toward making a living for Irene and Donnie. He tried selling washing machines, tooth paste, silk stockings, anything; he tried factory work, ditch digging, any kind of labor, but he was so impatient at the meagerness of his earnings that he could not concentrate on a job.

One day, while working for a tree "doctor," he fell from a 40-foot ladder, was laid up and lost his job. Soon no money was left even to pay for food for the three, and no prospect of work in sight.



"Irene whipped out her revolver."

Irene saw him writhing with physical pain and anguish.

She dressed and was about to leave.

"Where are you going?" he demanded, suspecting.

"I'm going out to get some money."

"Where will you get it?" She tried to avoid his eyes, but he guessed that she meant to go out on the streets.

He brought his fist down on a table with such force that the top broke.

"This is the end!" he cried. "I haven't been able to get money honestly. All right, I'll go and take it by force.

Irene stepped up close to him.

"I'll go with you, Glenn!" she said.

THEY made a bundle of all the clothes they could gather, and in one pawnshop they got some money for it. In another they bought two used revolvers; the story they told was that they wanted them for self-protection on an isolated farm.

Then from the front of a store they stole a closed automobile. They took it to their home and picked up Donnie.

The boy, 4 years old, was delighted with the unexpected treat, in his own words, of a "motobile ride."

Then they drove to a grocery store in Butler, Pennsylvania, and stopped outside.

Will Angert, the proprietor, was alone and behind the counter when they entered. Without waste of words or movement Dague and Irene took out their revolvers, forced him to the back room, bound and gagged him, then emptied the cash register into their pockets. They got a little over $40.

They drove off with an air of leisure and gained the State highway, convinced they had left behind them no trail for pursuers.

But Will Angert, though bound and gagged in his back room, could hear, and he recognized in the sound of the departing automobile what he described as "the Chevrolet hum." Half an hour later a customer entered and freed him.

Angert snatched up the telephone, called up the State police and told his story.

Several days prior to this there had been installed in over a hundred stations of the Pennsylvania State Constabulary a machine called a teletype. Five minutes after Angert had telephoned this machine was clicking out in every State police station Angert's description of the holdup.

Glenn Dague was at the wheel of his car. Irene was by his side, with Donnie between them, when on the road ahead of them they saw two policeman obviously about to stop them. Dague muttered:

"If they bother us I'll get out and talk to them. If they try to keep me—do you understand, Irene?—grab the wheel and off you go with Donnie. You do understand, don't you?"

Dague stopped the car when it came up to the policemen. One of them, Brady Paul, opened the door by the side of Dague and said casually:

"Let's see your license, buddy."

Slowly Dague took out a leather wallet and handed it to Paul. Irene saw the patrolman hold it in such a way that it hid from Dague the sight of his hand reaching for his pistol holster. Suddenly Paul's revolver was out and he snapped:

"Climb into the back seat of the car, all of you. I'll take the wheel! Cover them, Ernie."

Instead of obeying, Dague pretended indignation and got out of the car to the road.

"What's the idea," he began.

He expected Irene to seize the wheel and drive off.

Donnie began to cry.

"Mother, don't let them hurt Glenn."

Even Dague was unprepared for what followed. Instead of taking the wheel, Irene whipped out her revolver and savagely began shooting. Dague joined in with his own revolver and the two patrolmen returned the fire.

Brady Paul went down dead. The other patrolman, Ernest Moore, fell wounded.

Dague leaped into the car and took the wheel, gave the motor all the gas it could stand, and away fled the Chevrolet.

Knowing the police were looking out for a Chevrolet, Dague and Irene stopped another car and with their revolvers forced a young couple out of it.

All over Pennsylvania and the bordering states telephone and telegraph wires, radio stations and newspapers were broadcasting the latest phases of the hunt for the murderers of Brady Paul. And dodging and twisting through all this clamor of pursuit, Irene guided.

FOR hers was the concentrated will, the cool brain that led thereafter. Dague was a good soldier; but she was in command.

Southward along the backroads of Pennsylvania and down into West Virginia, Irene took her man and her child. They changed automobiles almost every day.

Donnie must have witnessed over 40 holdups by his mother and Daddie Glenn.

At first Donnie's presence in a car was an asset to the couple. Who could dream that the parents of so winsome a youngster were about to take out revolvers?

But before long too many alarms were out for a couple with a child, and Irene left Donnie with her father in Benham, West Viirginia.

Then she put on men's clothing and, with Dague, stayed in hiding in "hobo jungles," those gypsy-like camps of anonymous wayfarers who drift over the continent.

West across Ohio, Illinois, they went, robbing more often to get gasoline and oil for their cars than for food for themselves.

In a Western city one evening a policeman jumped on the running board of their car, his revolver out. Dague was at the wheel, so it was Irene who knocked aside the policeman's pistol and sent him toppling into the road with a blow from the butt of her revolver.

The policeman fired a volley after them. The firing resounded, and a block and a half ahead Irene saw a detail of six policemen running toward them. Between the police and the car was a cross street, the only chance of escape for Dague and Irene. The police had already begun firing and a bullet splintered the windshield. Another ripped Dague's sleeve.

For Irene's sake he was about to stop. But she seized the wheel. She said: "When in doubt turn right!" and to the right into the cross street she raced the car. Her guess won for them.

They spent most of their nights sleeping in their stolen cars, parked on some back road.

THEY had escaped down through Arkansas into Texas, and were driving along near Pecos when, on the road ahead they saw a raggedly dressed man limping. They invited him to ride. The couple and the stranger, who introduced himself as Joe Wells, studied one another through a screen of small talk. They decided finally that they belonged together.

Joe had just left the penitentiary without official consent, and his limp was a disguise. Irene and Dague eventually told him about themselves. Joe was a veteran of the highway, as skilled in hoboing his way over a motorized country as over the semi-wilderness stretches of the Southwest. He became scout, cook, counsellor and clown for the party. The three joined plans. They would make their way down through New Mexico into Mexico, then back into Southern California. There they would be in time for the lettuce crop, could easily get jobs as pickers, and from then on would live simply as field laborers.

But in New Mexico trouble overtook them. Irene was sent ahead by the men to buy gas at a filling station while, as usual at such times, the men loitered on foot half a mile back. From the gasoline station came a six-footer in a huge cowboy hat and proceeded to fill the car tank, but did it clumsily. Suddenly he raised his head, pushed back his hat and said:

"Sister, we'll take a look at your bill of sale for the car!"

She was startled. "Why, what do you mean?" she demanded.

"Well, well, sister doesn't know what a bill of sale is," the man drawled. "Ain't that surprising, for a bright little girl like you! Now snap out of it! Move over and let me drive. You'll learn lots at the Sheriff's office!"

He got in beside her and Irene pretended to break down in tears. Her forehead dropped to the button that sounded the automobile horn. She was slow about letting the man take her place.

He had just managed to take the wheel when over his shoulder he heard a man's voice.

"I'll take the wheel. You climb out with your hands high and get in back!"

Two men had him covered with their revolvers and he was wise enough to obey.

HE TURNED out to be Deputy Sheriff Joe Chapman of Chandler.

With him as unwilling passenger the outlaws drove that night into the town of Chandler, hoping to get through in the darkness.

Suddenly, however, an automobile rushed at them, its headlights blinding Irene at the wheel.

"Jump!" she cried to her men.

From the other car came revolver and submachine gunfire.

Irene, Dague and Joe vaulted out of the car. So did Deputy Sheriff Chapman. The outlaws made as if for the fields, but doubled back to the dark road. Chapman was caught between the two parties and was shot dead. Another deputy Sheriff, Lee Wright, died later as the result of the shooting, either by his own men as he got out of the car or by the outlaws.

Once more the three fugitives escaped.

But from then on they fled on foot. And the Southwest was hunting them—Sheriffs, posses, bloodhounds, Indians and airplanes.

To throw the bloodhounds off their trail the three waded across the Gila River, and Irene later recorded that they "went almost mad, our wet clothes itched so." Their feet were cut and bruised. Dague became feverish with the burning sun. Irene could scarcely keep moving so weary she was. But it was she who spurred the two men on, to the Salt River Mountains ahead of them, where they hoped to find respite and a hiding place.

They came to a canal too deep to wade across. Neither Dague nor Irene could swim, Joe could. Since all three could not cross, and as their only hope for escape lay on the other side of the canal, the men talked of surrender.

Irene was half gone with exhaustion. But when she heard the men talk of giving up she lowered herself into the canal until the cold water revived her. Then she devised a rope of the men's coats and shirts.

Joe swam across with one end of the rope, while Irene held on to the other. When Joe was on the opposite bank Irene, rope in hand, threw herself into the canal. She was nearly drowned before Joe could drag her out. In the same way Dague was got across.

THEY stumbled on up the slope of the mountain when night came on. Suddenly Joe cried, "Look!"

Miles to each side of them the grass had been set on fire. "Indians!" Joe Wells told them.

It was the Indian way of lighting up a man hunt in the night. Their parties had separated to the right and to the left. Each side started a fire, affording the other side a fiery background against which to spy the fugitives.

The hunted ones lay on their faces till dawn came and the fires died down; then they resumed their trudge up the mountain side.

Suddenly they heard the snarl of a motor overhead.

An airplane was bearing down upon them. The plane dipped low over them as they threw themselves down in some sage brush. Then it tilted and flew off around the moutain side. Were they seen?

The three regained their feet and debated. Joe and Dague knew their situation was hopeless and wanted Irene to see it too. Dague wanted to save Irene further struggle. Joe was mad to smoke a cigarette in peace, since further effort would be heart breaking futility.

Irene was relentless as a lash.

They toiled on. They saw on all sides a ring of men closing in, some of them Indians. The fugitives gained a sheltering rock on the top of the mountain where they were now trapped.

Around the rock there ran a shallow trench. In it the three crouched.

THE airplane came back and swooped down over them. Firing now came from above as well as from the inclosing ring of men. The trapped three answered with revolver fire, shooting aimlessly.

Glenn Dague cried out that God was thundering at them from a cloud. At the sound of her man's voice shrill with hysteria of fever, Irene's spirit finally gave in. She threw away her revolver. Dague and Joe did likewise; and the three raised their hands in token of surrender.

Thus, only three weeks after their first holdup, the revolt of Irene and Dague came to its blazing end over 3000 miles from the scene of its first explosion.

Three months later the couple were tried in Pennsylvania for the murder of Brady Paul. At the trial Dague insisted that it was he who had killed the patrolman. Irene, as stubbornly as he insisted that not Dague but she had done it.

The defendant's lawyer pleaded with the jury not to send Irene to the electric chair and used her child, Donnie, as his argument. The lawyer for the prosecution also used Donnie for his plea. "For the child's sake," he insisted, "she must go!"

When the jury, after its deliberations, re-entered the courtroom one of its members, a woman, was smiling. At this a whisper ran through the crowded courtroom that Irene would probably be spared.

Then the foreman read the verdict, murder in the first degree, with no recommendation of clemency. The sentence of the court was that the two must die in the electric chair.

In Arizona Joe Wells was tried for the murder of Deputy Sheriff Lee Wright. He was found guilty and was hanged

Irene and Dague asked for leniency. But the date of their execution was set for early in 1931.

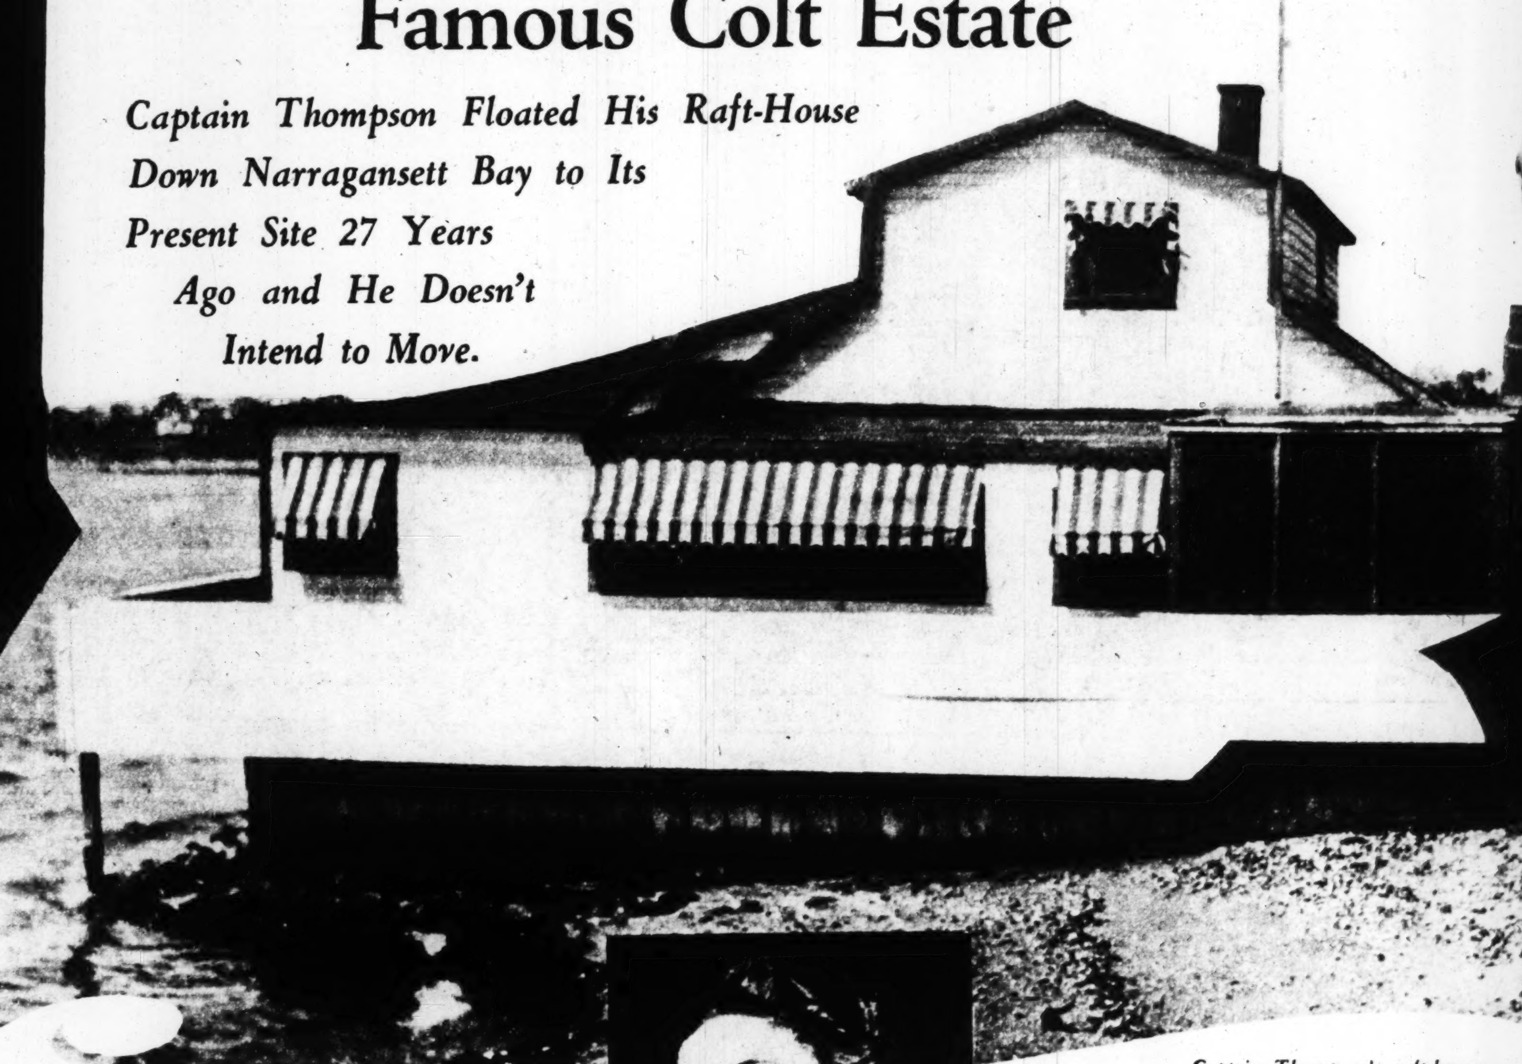
Trying to Oust a Sea Squatter from the Famous Colt Estate

Captain Thompson Floated His Raft-House Down Narragansett Bay to Its Present Site 27 Years Ago and He Doesn't Intend to Move.

Colonel Samuel P. Colt.



Captain Thompson's raft-house.

Captain Frederick G. Thompson.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

PROVIDENCE, Rhode Island.

TWENTY - SEVEN years ago, Captain Frederick G. Thompson tied up his 30-foot sloop at the wharf here one night and went ashore to see the town. When he got back next morning the sloop was gone. Somebody had stolen it.

Thus deprived of the only home he knew, Captain Thompson took matters under advisement and cast about for something to take the place of his sloop. All he found was a great heap of cast-off lumber and old barrels on the harbor water front. But the Captain was resourceful. With the barrels he built a raft and with the lumber he built a tiny cottage on the raft. Thus domiciled he started drifting down Narragansett Bay looking for a homesite. Finally, after drifting 20 miles, he found one just outside the town of Bristol. It wasn't much of a homesite. It was just a few feet of water front where he tied up his raft, but he liked it so well he decided to stay and he has been there ever since.

But now, after all these years, Captain Thompson, at 72, may lose his home again. The Colt family is trying to drive him out—heirs of Colonel Samuel P. Colt, former United States Senator, philanthropist and nationally known Republican leader. They have served notice on the Captain that he must leave. The Colts have owned the land for a long time now and they are tired of the Captain's squatting. Besides, they say his quaint abode interferes with their efforts to maintain a stately and aristocratic atmosphere on the famous Colt Drive, which runs along the shore past Thompson's shack.

The Captain declares that, heirs or no heirs, he is not going to move. He has hired a lawyer and threatens to carry the fight to the highest court in Rhode Island if any attempt is made to eject him. He claims squatter rights "in view of the many years through which I have been in possession."

"IF THE Colts wanted to get rid of me why didn't they do it years ago?" he asks. "Here I am, 72 years old and on my last sea legs, and a lot of rich people are trying to kick me out of my small world. If they take my home now where will I go? I have never been the kind to look for trouble, but if the Colts want a fight I'll give them all the fight I know how to give."

The move to get rid of the Captain and his shack, however, is not so new as the Captain implies. Apparently it started just after Colonel Colt's death some 10 years ago. All during this period, it was disclosed recently, the Colt heirs have tried to persuade the old sea captain to move, and only after his steadfast refusal have they threatened legal action.

When the retired man of the sea tied his home to the Bristol shore in October, 1903, the surrounding property was known as Asylum Farm. Later it was purchased by Colonel Colt and made a part of the stately drive along the bay shore. Colonel Colt was especially fond of his Bristol home and when he died he left special provisions for its upkeep.

Ethel Barrymore, when she was the wife of Russell Colt.

His will attracted much attention. He left an estate of $5,198,966 and was so generous in his bequests to friends, employes and benevolent institutions that his sons, Russell G. and Roswell C. Colt, tried to break the will.

The instrument provided for the payment of public bequests amounting to $410,000 and specific private bequests totaling $1,069,000. The private gifts included legacies of $100,000 each to Colonel Colt's sons and to his brother, Senator Le Baron B. Colt, and $25,000 to Ethel Barrymore, the actress, former wife of Russell Colt. Another gift of $1000 went to Count Moroni, a friend of the Colonel, and the Count's former wife got $50,000. Twenty-five servants, including all who had been in service for six months or longer, received $1000 each, and a bequest of the same amount went to 224 employes of the Industrial Trust Company of Providence. The residuary estate was divided into two equal portions, the income from one of which was to be applied to the upkeep of the Bristol property. The Colonel specified that none of his property should be sold and that his heirs should keep the famous Colt Drive open to the public at all times.

Before the Colonel's death, Thompson lived on the bay shore in his little shack unmolested, until he came to regard himself as an owner by right of long time possession. The Colonel, it seems, was friendly to him. Colonel Colt used to come down and visit him, he says, and for years paid him $2 a week to look after two costly statues facing the drive near the Thompson shack. After Colt's death the payments stopped, but the Captain declares he continued to look after them without pay and "they are the only statues on the estate that haven't been harmed by vandals."

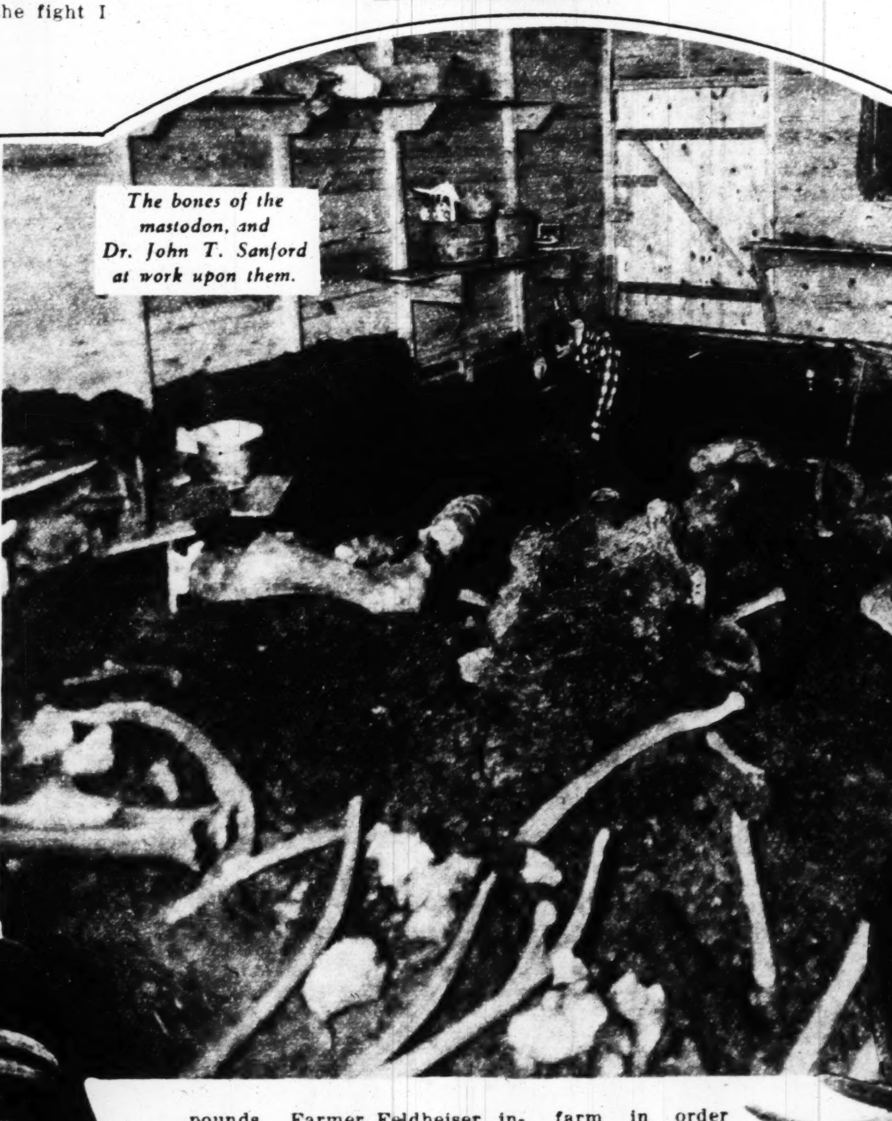
Thompson's right to live on the property appears to depend upon the validity of his claim as a squatter.

WHEN he tied his raft there 27 years ago he drove stakes in the water to serve as a foundation and then allowed the high tide to float his house on the stakes where he anchored it. He points out that after this was done, the area under and partly around his shack became filled up with sand and debris. Thus, through his agency, he contends, the land upon which his house stands was built up out of the bay and annexed to the shore. It's his own, he asserts, and nobody can drive him off. The Colts, however, say the claim is not valid because the house was built originally below the high water mark.

The Captain has lived alone in his shack for most of the 27 years since he drifted down the bay. His wife died two years after the pair took up their abode on the Bristol shore and he has no other relatives. In recent years he has worked some as a carpenter, but he is not able to do much work now. He spends most of his time sitting in his back yard puffing his pipe and looking out to sea.

Unearthing A Giant Mastodon On an Indiana Farm

Its Skeleton May Be the Largest of Its Kind Ever Found in North America.



The bones of the mastodon, and Dr. John T. Sanford at work upon them.

Donovan Harper.

Depiction of a reconstructed mastodon.

CROMWELL, Indiana.

AS THEY strip away the earth with infinite pains the skeleton of the mastodon is revealed. It is like turning time back with a rush of centuries, the outlines and size of the monster are so plainly seen.

Archeologists at work unearthing the specimen believe the mastodon may have fallen on this very spot thousands of years ago, that, perhaps, he met his death in a pit of quicksand. Or he may have died somewhere off to the north and been picked up by the great glacier which nudged him into Indiana at the rate of an inch a year. Dr. C. J. Fish, director of the Buffalo Museum, in charge of excavation, thinks the spot may be a veritable mastodon cemetery. Certainly the skeleton discloses that once the grandfather of them all romped over Indiana or the country to the north. Possibly this is the largest mastodon ever found in North America.

The mastodon's skeleton might still be resting obscurely beneath the slime of the peat bog on the Charles Feldheiser farm, not far from here, if a small boy had not happened to stub his toe. Donovan Harper, 10 years old, the son of a neighbor of Feldheiser, was out hunting skunks when he stumbled on the mastodon. He stubbed his toe on something that stuck out of the mud; he kicked at it, loosened it and at last pulled out of the ooze nothing less than an enormous tooth. He took it home and his father put it on the scales. The tooth weighed eight and one-quarter pounds. Farmer Feldheiser, informed of the discovery, did some digging on the spot where the tooth was found and unearthed a jawbone three and a half feet long. He began to realize the importance of his find and wrote immediately to the Buffalo Museum.

Dr. Fish and Watts Richmond, a wealthy Buffalo sportsman who is also interested in paleontology, visited the Feldheiser farm. It took them a very short time to determine that the specimen was mastodon americanum, and one, apparently, of extraordinary size.

Within a few days after their return to Buffalo a searching party was organized and not long afterward they came to Cromwell and began operations in the Feldheiser peat bog, having leased a considerable part of the farm in order that excavation may be carried on without damage to crops or fences. Dr. John T. Sanford, curator of geology and paleontology of the Buffalo Museum, is in charge. With him are Dr. Everett Burmaster, curator of anthropology at Buffalo, and Dr. Ira Edwards, curator of geology at the Public Museum in Milwaukee.

The first thing they did was to have a shed erected over the spot where the skeleton was known to be buried. With a stove installed, they rolled up their sleeves and started on the delicate job of getting the skeleton out intact with hand trowels. The more they saw of the skeleton the more convinced they were that it was a very rare find indeed.

The first tusk measured 12 feet 6 inches in length, exceeding the length of the mounted mastodon's tusk in the Field Museum in Chicago. The pelvic bone was discovered to be 5.3 feet across, the length of the ribs 4.4 feet, the femur 3.6 feet, and other measurements were in proportion to these.

It is Dr. Sanford's opinion the mastodon met death about 10,000 years ago. He ventures this opinion well knowing that a great many scientists differ radically, holding that 100,000 years ago would be a figure more nearly approximating the appearance of the last mastodons. Every effort is being made to complete excavations before the spring rains begin. As soon as the bones are exposed to the air they are cleaned, painted with ambroid and acetone, and then wrapped in thin layers of tissue paper and coated with layers of burlap and plaster of Paris, ready for shipment to Buffalo.

The mastodon's skeleton is just about the most profitable crop the Feldheiser farm has yet yielded. Besides the profit from the lease, Feldheiser has been able to charge admission on Sunday, and visitors have flocked to see the skeleton from miles around. On one day alone he took in a quarter each from 3000 of the curious.

The mastodon, it would appear, is the answer to the farm problem.

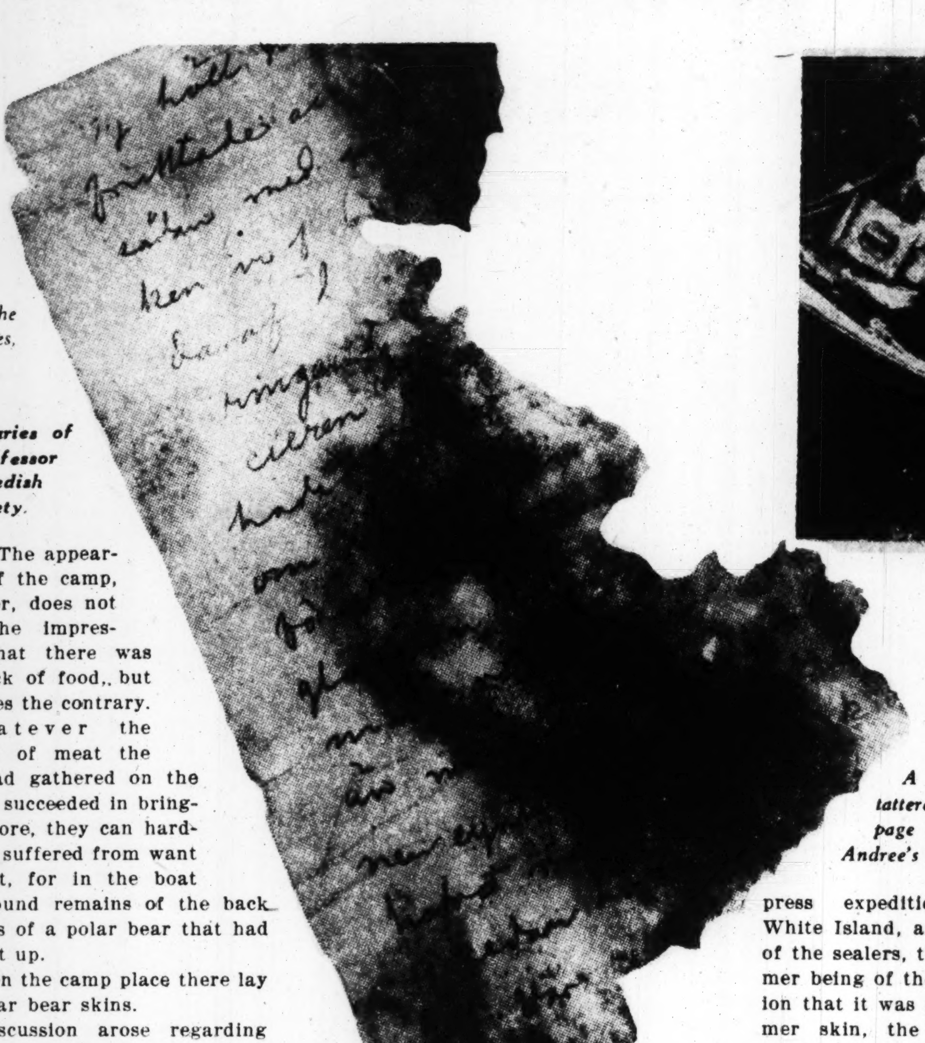
THE LOST EXPEDITION

The Tragedy of Andree's Fatal Polar Exploit as Seen From the Inside.

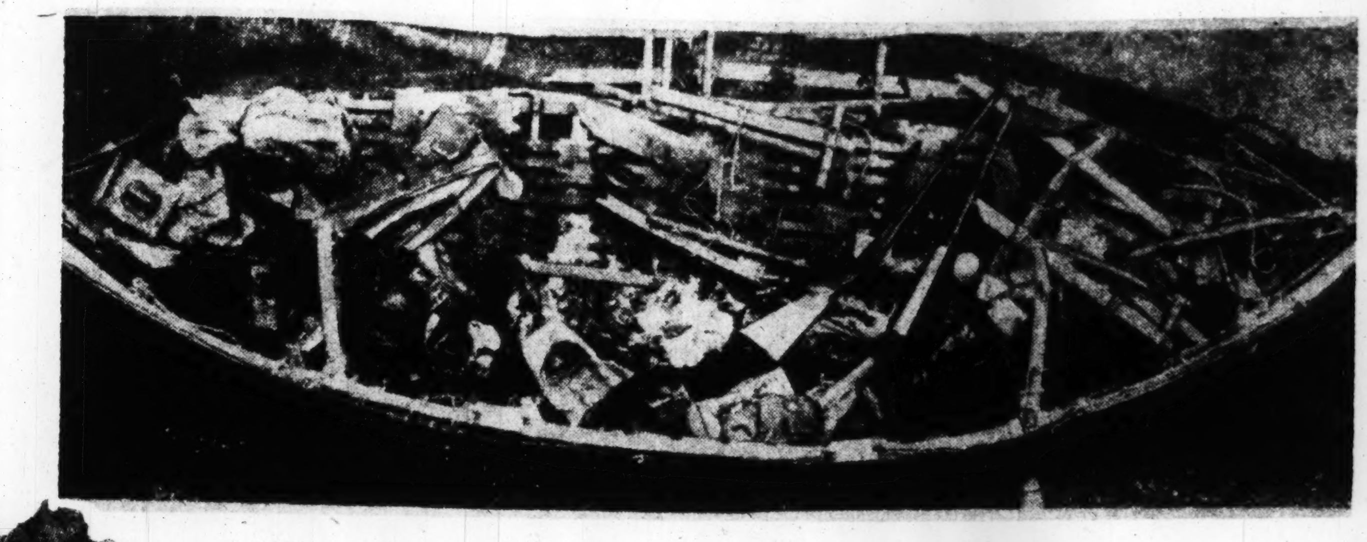
Trying to Read the Riddle of White Island.

This is the fifteenth installment of the official story of Andree and his associates, Strindberg and Fraenkel.

A Narrative Reconstructed From the Diaries of S. A. Andree and Nils Strindberg by Professor Nils Lithberg, President of the Swedish Anthropological and Geographical Society.



A tattered page of Andree's diary.



The expedition's boat, dug out of the ice on White Island last summer.

Examining the relics on White Island. On the right is Knut Stubbendorff, leader of the Isbjorn expedition.

AFTER the landing on White Island the fate of the three Andree explorers ultimately depended upon two things: Their clothing equipment and their supply of provisions.

The accounts which have been preserved give us an idea of that part of the equipment which had been purchased. But, in addition, there were a great many gifts given to the party.

As an illustration of the widespread enthusiasm which had been aroused by Andree's enterprise, we need but mention that the flag with the union mark which was found near the boat, adorned with an embroidered inscription, "Lev. Simon Gustafsson, Karlstad," was presented by a Swede who had emigrated as a young officer to Buenos Aires and was then a Colonel in the Argentine Army.

We obtain some idea of the expedition's supply of provisions from the record of the stock taking carried out on July 17 and that made on August 5, to which latter Andree has appended the remark: "This stock taking shows that we must be careful, with bread especially."

In addition, the stock takings of the contents of the provision baskets on Andree's and Strindberg's sledges, which were made several times, give us valuable information. The provisions originally taken in the balloon were supplemented constantly by the hunting booty obtained during the journey across the ice.

When the ice broke beneath them on October 2, the party was well supplied with meat. This we know from Andree's diary. How much of this they were able to carry to land at White Island we do not know. Neither have we any knowledge of the quantity of the original supplies remaining when they were compelled to leave the ice.

We obtain some idea of it, however, from checking the number of tins in which they had been preserved.

The following tins and other vessels have been found at White Island: 2 aluminum tanks of 5 liters (one liter is .94 of one quart), with a screw lid in the middle (these were evidently intended for fluid contents); 9 aluminum tanks of 5 liters each; 2 copper tanks of 5 liters each, with a little screw lid in one corner (also intended for liquids).

In addition there were 3 copper tanks or boxes of 2 liters each, 11 copper tanks of 1 liter each, besides 2 fragments and 2 lids.

At the camp there were also 2 preserve tins for bullion preparations, 9 other preserve tins, 2 sardine boxes, 3 round aluminum boxes with lids (one still containing coffee); 3 little tins (probably for spices), and 2 preserve tins as yet unopened, one of them probably containing goose liver paste.

A great number of these vessels—the square ones especially—were much dented.

We do not know if they were all still filled when the party landed. Neither do we know how many of them were empty by the time the men died, as they may have been destroyed long afterward by the trampling of the bears. The appearance of the camp, however, does not give the impression that there was any lack of food, but indicates the contrary.

Whatever the amount of meat the men had gathered on the ice and succeeded in bringing ashore, they can hardly have suffered from want of meat, for in the boat were found remains of the back and ribs of a polar bear that had been cut up.

Out on the camp place there lay two polar bear skins.

A discussion arose regarding these skins between the captain of the Isbjorn, which carried the press expedition to White Island, and one of the sealers, the former being of the opinion that it was a summer skin, the latter holding it was an autumn skin. The heads had been removed.

Probably the bears had been killed at the place, for in one skin there lay a number of pieces of bones and the sailors believed that one could see by the skin that the fat had been cut away in a frozen condition.

A number of sawed-off bones of Polar bear also were found, as were a section of a great seal and a skeleton of another seal, sawed up.

Lastly, there was found quite a heap of bird-wing bones—10 at least—and other bone remains of birds. These were considered as being the relics of ivory gulls.

The party, consequently, had been well supplied with meat, and had the means of procuring more.

The expedition had taken with it two single-barreled Remington smooth-bore guns, caliber 20; a double-barreled gun with top lever mechanism, of which the right barrel was a smooth bore, caliber 20, and the left a spiral grooved, caliber 450. The men had also a revolver.

The three guns, which were a present from the Huskvarna Arms Factory, Limited, were found at White Island.

Of the supply of ammunition, besides a number of cartridges found in the dead men's pockets, there remained at least 135 ball cartridges and 120 small-shot cartridges, packed in three nailed wooden boxes.

NEITHER was the party in want of fire or fuel. In addition to the matches the dead had about them there were found in a nailed wooden box 100 boxes containing fusees and ordinary matches.

The Primus stove was full of paraffin and the men also had driftwood, piled up. The cooking apparatus was in perfect order.

In a pan and on a plate which were found in the tent there were still some remains of food. So as regards food supplies the situation seems to have been as advantageous as one could have wished.

Strindberg's body, when found, was clad in a jaeger wool jersey nearest the body and, above this, a jaeger wool shirt with front and wristbands of striped linen, a pair of rather thin drawers and a pair of thicker ones outside these, both marked "N. S.," trousers and waistcoat of blue cloth, a pair of thin woolen stockings marked "N. S.," a pair of thick stockings of checked pattern, Lapp shoes with sennehay and puttees.

It was evident that his jacket had been taken away.

Out in the camp there was one single jacket tied by a belt to a number of other articles of clothing marked "N. S." and to a woolen jersey. In the camp there was also discovered the black and white checkered cap he is wearing in the photographs of the start.

Strindberg's clothing was in the main similar to the equipment of Andree and Fraenkel.

Andree's remains were clad in a jaeger wool jersey and a flannel shirt, a pair of thin jaeger drawers and a thicker pair of brown wool, knee protectors of gray woolen yarn, trousers, waistcoat and jacket of blue cloth, a woolen jersey with wide blue and white crossed stripes, a white sweater, two thin woolen stockings and a wool and hair sock on the left foot, one thick stocking and a wool and hair sock on the right foot, Lapp shoes and puttees.

Among his clothes there were also found two caps of brown striped wool resembling those worn by him and Fraenkel in the photographs we have of them.

Fraenkel's clothes consisted of a cross-striped wool underskirt, a flannel shirt with gray stripes and a soft collar, a waistcoat of brown cloth, a chamois leather waistcoat with lining, a thick knitted woolen jersey and a brown coat with the remains of a fur collar laced on.

Of Fraenkel's remains, only the upper part of the body was found inside the tent. The lower extremities were discovered some distance outside and bore no trace of clothes.

BUT out in the camp were discovered two pairs of trousers of brown cloth. One pair was unused while the other was much torn, as were all the clothes around the upper part of Fraenkel's body. These trousers were buttoned as if they had been worn.

Further, there were found the remains of a pair of drawers of the same gray striped wool as Fraenkel's undershirt; these was torn to pieces in such a way that the fragments correspond perfectly to the last-mentioned pair of trousers.

These articles of clothing, consequently, have most probably belonged to Fraenkel.

The pair of brown breeches, however, where not trousers like those worn by Andree and Strindberg but were short knickerbockers. This explains why the lower part of Fraenkel's body had been so torn to pieces by beasts of prey, the legs not having had the protection afforded by long trousers and puttees. A pair of much damaged Lapp shoes—Fraenkel's, we assume—also were found in the camp.

IT may be of interest to consider what the bills can tell us of the personal equipment of the three participators in the expedition.

In the main, we learn from them the quality of the articles of dress, and it scarcely corresponds to the demands one would make of clothing for a long stay in the Polar regions.

Each man has a leather waistcoat and a fur cap, but otherwise there are no leather clothes, and the fur caps do not seem to have been used.

We have dwelt at such length on clothing equipment because this seems to have been the weakest point in the preparations for the expedition. The question was discussed when the remains of Andree and Strindberg were being examined.

One of the participators in the Isbjorn's expedition declared that he was astonished at the unsuitability of the clothing for Polar traveling.

Among articles considered little suitable for the purpose, he mentioned the knitted gloves, the shirts of thin striped cotton, thin woolen jerseys and short socks.

Another man on the Isbjorn gave it as his opinion that the members of the expedition had frozen to death. "They did not have many clothes and were badly equipped. They had nothing but rubbishy clothes and socks!" he said.

We have seen that the party was not in want of food and that there was ammunition to obtain more.

They had provisions, cooking utensils, matches and fuel, but were not equipped to meet the cold of Winter on an island which was almost entirely covered with ice and where there was no other protection from the storms coming from the sea than that afforded by the thin tent of varnished balloon cloth, which, after the long journey on the ice, perhaps was damaged in many places.

The prospects of building themselves a snow-hut were small, too.

THE sealer, Sorensen, of the Isbjorn, certainly gave the most correct answer to the final riddle of the Andree expedition when he declared. "I think they have died in slumber, that the cold ended them. In any case, they have not died of hunger!"

The three men had but one sleeping-sack between them. To live for months in continual isolation from the world in one of the most desolate tracts on the globe must, of itself, have gradually become a serious psychical trial and one that was rendered additionally trying by the three men being compelled to share the same sleeping-sack night after night.

Strindberg died before the other two and had been buried by them.

One of the crew of the Bratvaag went to a little rivulet to drink water. There he found a cranium lying on the level ground, and, on looking about more closely, he saw a couple of Lapp shoes sticking from beneath a bed of rubble stones.

On investigation it proved that the dead man had been laid in a narrow cleft between the rocks and the remains covered with a foot-thick layer of rubble stones.

In addition to the fact that the underclothing was marked "N. S.," there was found, where the left hand had been, Nils Strindberg's engagement ring.

Tore Strindberg, the sculptor, remembered that his brother Nils had an injured tooth and this mark was found in the cranium.

In Andree's pockets was found a gold heart-shaped locket with the monogram "N. S.," with, inside, the portrait of Strindberg's fiancee and a lock of hair.

In one of Fraenkel's pockets was found Strindberg's almanac with his marginal notes.

Strindberg was followed to death by Andree and Fraenkel.

The two men had sunk into their last slumber side by side within the tent, and, to judge by all appearances, simultaneously.

Was Lincoln Unkempt? Springfield Says "No"

one night on the platform I tell you he was the handsomest man I ever saw."

And Lincoln himself is said to have made this comment about a photograph which, in the opinion of his friends, failed to do him justice: "The portrait of a slicked-up Lincoln would not have been recognized in Springfield."

Isaac Diller, one of the few living men who can recall seeing Lincoln familiarly and often, makes the same point. Lincoln in dress and appearance was neither above nor below the standard of the period in his home-town.

"YOU couldn't be very dandified in those days," Diller says. "Your boots were muddy when it was wet, or dusty when it was dry, because there wasn't any paving. I've seen many a wagon mired up to the hubs.

"It was different in the East, of course. When my father first came here from Philadelphia to practice law, he was shocked by the lack of dignity in the courtroom. Lawyers in their shirt sleeves and chewing tobacco right in the courtroom. Mr. Lincoln didn't put on airs above other folks here, but I don't ever remember his looking down at the heel or untidy. And a boy notices those things, too."

Diller lived, and for that matter still lives, just a block from the Lincoln home. He played with Tad and Willie Lincoln, usually at their house. And he is to be seen in a photograph taken of Lincoln and the boy, Tad, in the yard of the Lincoln home. Little Isaac Diller stands outside the fence looking in at the two within the yard. One of Diller's most prized possessions is a note from Mrs. Lincoln inviting him to a party for Willie.

Old-timers, such as Diller, do not take Masters' book very seriously. They knew Lee Masters when he lived in Springfield, and his father before him, and his brother, Tom, who, until his death recently, was a well known attorney here. They smile tolerantly at mention of the book, "Lincoln: The Man." Perhaps there would be more wrath if it had not been a home-town boy who was guilty of assailing Lincoln.

Angle is quick to concede the value of Master's work. His review of the book was much less condemnatory than many others that have appeared. There is a certain validity to Masters' point of view in tracing important constitutional changes to the Civil War and its consequences, he says.

But it is irrelevant, Angle insists, to blame Lincoln for this.

The little town of Petersburg, Illinois, has taken the belittling biography more seriously than Springfield. It is in the Petersburg cemetery that Ann Rutledge, according to legend the real love of Lincoln's life, lies buried. A granite shaft marks her burial place and on the shaft is carved the poem which Masters wrote in tribute to her. In his latest book he has changed his mind about Ann Rutledge. He insists that the whole story is without possibility of proof, highly improbable. Vacillation—a constant shifting of point of view to meet every criticism—is one of the faults which Masters marks up against Lincoln. And now, say the older residents of Petersburg, who stoutly maintain the truth of the Ann Rutledge legend, he is guilty of the same fault.

There has been a move in Petersburg to remove the poem from the Rutledge monument. And it is true that the profound and moving tribute that Masters once wrote to Lincoln and the woman who inspired his love reads a little oddly now:

Out of me unworthy and unknown
The vibrations of deathless music:
"With malice toward none, with charity for all."
Out of me the forgiveness of millions toward millions,
And the beneficent face of a nation
Shining with justice and truth.
I am Ann Rutledge who sleep beneath these weeds,
Beloved in life of Abraham Lincoln,
Wedded to him, not through union,
But through separation.
Bloom forever, O Republic,
From the dust of my bosom!

The Newest Insurance Fraud

rying the policy until the woman died. Taggart, having paid the premiums, would then collect the thousand dollars and divide with Segar. But the woman got better.

When nearly two years had passed and Rose White continued to improve, the conspirators began to realize they had invested in a bad proposition and agreed they would have to find some way to get their money back. A plan soon presented itself. It happens that the county hospital here observes a rule whereby the burials of its inmates are given to the undertakers of the city in rotation. So Segar and Taggart agreed that when Taggart's turn came around next time they would change the name of the dead person to Mrs. Rose White. His turn came in October, with the death of James Brown, an itinerant of unknown address.

Taggart filed the death certificate with the Health Department, changing the name to Mrs. Rose White, as agreed. He then inserted notice of Mrs. White's death in the death notice column of the local newspapers. Segar sent a copy of the death certificate and clippings of the death notice to the home office of the insurance company and sent with them Mrs. White's policy for collection. "Alfred W. White" of Spencer was named as the person to be paid through Segar.

IN DUE time the check came and Segar indorsed it with the name of White. Taggart kept $200 for "Mrs. White's" funeral expenses and they devided the remaining $800 equally. Deducting the $260 they had spent in carrying the policy, they still had about $270 each clear. The plan had worked out perfectly—except for that one blunder which led the clerk to stumble upon the fraud. That blunder was their failure to have somebody call for "Alfred W. White's" mail at the Spencer postoffice.

Had they done this, or had they given White's address as close to Omaha, or even in Omaha, so they could have received his mail themselves, they likely would have succeeded. But the returned letter tripped them up. And now, for the trifling profit of $270, they face prison terms that may range from one to ten years.

MISTER SULLIVAN TAKES A WARM BATH BEFORE RETIRING

And Awakens Feeling Utterly Unfit.

BEFORE us lies an interesting communication from Dr. Donald A. Laird, the Colgate University scientist who has been delving for some time past into the why and wherefore of sleep. The communication was not exactly meant for us. Apparently Dr. Laird doesn't give a hoot whether we get any sleep, slave though we do over a hot stove all day long. His letter was addressed to a colleague, a Mr. Howard Cushman by name. Dr. Laird wants Mr. Cushman to take a warm tub bath three nights running. Then Mr. Cushman is to take a warm milk drink three nights running. Then he is to answer a questionnaire and send it to Dr. Laird.

If Cushman is busy at the moment and cannot abide warm milk drinks, so he has asked us to take the three baths and the three drinks and report to Dr. Laird. Being intensely interested in sleep (we think it has come to stay; we do not think, as many do, that it is only a fad) and also being one who never fails a pal in an emergency, we comply with Mahatma Cushman's request.

All right, Dr. Laird, here are your questions, with our answers, vice Cushman, appended:

Q. Did you take a warm bath before going to bed?

A. Mmmm-hhh.

Q. Did you take a few minutes' physical exercise just before going to bed?

A. A few minutes? You should have seen us. In the bath we got soap in our eye. Fumbling with eyes shut for the towel, we accidentally turned on the hot water shower tap. Getting hastily out of the tub, we bumped our head against the basin. Rushing into the living room (eyes still shut), we stubbed a toe on the wood basket.

Q. When you went to bed were you looking forward to the next day with pleasure?

A. WELL, yes and no. Under the circumstances, probably more no than yes. The breaks had been against us. Our eyes still smarted. A bump was already developing with the alacrity of a young mushroom on the peak of our cerebrum, and the toe, which was the same toe broke in 1917 in the rush to get into the draft, was throbbing. But even when physically intact, Doctor, we doubt if we look forward to tomorrow, as a rule. You remember what the immortal bard said, in the fifth act of "Philip Barry":

> Tomorrow, and tomorrow, and tomorrow
> Creeps in this petty place from day to day
> To the last syllable of recorded time,
> And all our yesterdays have lighted fools
> The way to dusty death.

Q. Did you feel sleepy when you went to bed?

A. No. We were as bright as a dollar.

Q. Did ideas running in your head make it difficult to go to sleep?

A. Yes. We didn't mind their running so much, but when they get to shouting, it's not so good.

Q. Did you wake up during the night?

A. Mmm-hhh.

Q. How many times?

A. Once.

Q. For how long?

A. For six hours.

Q. Did you wake up spontaneously in the morning without being called or using an alarm?

A. Oh, yes. At 6 o'clock the fire engines went up the avenue, testing a new siren, we think. After they finished the Fourteenth Hussars of the Metropolitan Garbage Collectors gathered with garbage cans. They were followed by a bevy of milkmen. At 8 a group of little children had a bit of vociferous pre-school play under the window. At 8:30 the telephone rang and it was somebody for a Mr. Bantok. We never heard of him. After that we got up quite spontaneously. Doctor, how do you suppose Mr. Bantok slept?

Q. Check any of these which describe how you felt on getting up—slightly tired (check); muscles stiff (check); cheerful (Gr-r-r-r); easily irritated (check and double check); difficult to think (check); nervous (check); noises in head (the most complete collection you ever saw, Doctor); peppy and well-rested (you get out of here, Doctor).

Q. How much time did you spend in naps yesterday?

A. Nine hours; and, Doctor, we'll let you know about the warm milk later.

FRANK SULLIVAN.

THE PLURAL OF MONGOOSE IS MONGOOSES

A Grammatical Idiosyncrasy Not Closely Connected With Pitching a Tent on a Railroad Track.

"DO YOU like winter sports?" inquires Cousin Sylvester.

"Not as a class," I returns, "but there's a bird I know playing the ponies down in New Orleans who's not such a bad guy if you"——

"We're not discussing your barrelhouse boy friends," cuts in the frau frigidly. "We're talking about winter pastimes like skiing, ice skating, tobogganing and the like. All of us have been invited to Lake Anthrax for the week-end and"——

"Up to," says I, "but not including me. I've no desire whatever to dress up like a Baby Bunting and make figure aches on the ice. Anyhow, I haven't been able to look at snow in wholesale lots since the experience I had in the winter of '97."

"What was that?" inquires Cousin Sylvester, who could sell what he has between his ears to a vacuum manufacturer.

"Well," I tells him, "that winter a couple of lads from Syracuse and myself decided to go shooting mongeese"——

"The plural of mongoose," points out the wife's relative, "is not mongeese, but mongooses."

"Perhaps in the lower reaches of Eastern Turkestan," says I, "but not around Syracuse. We pride ourselves on our plurals in Onandaga County. The purity of the plural is maintained at all costs. As evidence of this, the statistics show that there were fewer deaths from pleural pneumonia in Syracuse than in any"——

"Does this go on long?" demanded the missus ominously.

"Until the tale is unfolded in all its hideous sordidness," says I firmly. "Cousin Sylvester's old enough to be told?"

"I had an idea," observes the house pest, "that the mongoose was indigenous to India."

"Gandhi propaganda," I sniffs. "The mongoose, indeed, may be indigenous to India or even Indiana, but when the wind is in the right direction and collections are good, mongeese are thick around Syracuse.

"Go on with the story," urges Pete Malone, a visitor at Second Mortgage Manor, who, up to this time, had spoken a lot but said nothing. "The suspense's getting me."

"Well," says I, "it was on a Tuesday that we started out—the first Tuesday after the first Monday and preceding the first Wednesday in January. We'd heard the mongeese were biting"——

"Are you," cuts in Sylevster, "laboring, by any chance, under the delusion that the mongoose is a fish?"

"I am certainly not," I snaps. "Is a fish the only thing that bites in the bright lexicon of youth? Have you never heard of biting irony? Have you never been bitten by a desire to throw an electric fan into a setting of eggs? Shall I continue," I demands, indignantly, "or am I to be constantly interrupted by allusions to fish?"

"Not by me," promises Malone. "I don't know what a mongoose is, but I'll accept your interpretation. Shoot!"

"Where was I?" I inquires.

"Up in Syracuse," replies Pete, with his usual vagueness.

"Ah, yes," I murmurs. Well, Joe Goofnow, Honest Harry Zilch and—by the way, did I ever tell you how Harry got the handle of Honest?"

"No," comes back Pete, "but you will."

"IT SEEMS," says I, "that the boys had left Harry alone one day in a room where a red-hot stove was. When they got back Harry was gone, but the stove was still there. Since then he's been known as Honest Elihu McClintock."

"A title richly deserved," agrees Malone, "but let's to our mongeese."

"Mongooses," corrects Sylvester.

"We left Syracuse early in the morning," I goes on, ignoring the interruption, "but an hour out of town Joe Goofnow remembered that he'd forgotten to bring along his gun.

"Harry volunteered to go back after it, which he did, but in getting Joe's fowling piece he laid down his own and, in the excitement of the departure, forgot to bring it along. In the meantime, Joe and I discovered we had no cartridges"——

"Are you sure," cuts in Pete, who's enjoying the ride, "that Honest Elihu McClintock hadn't stolen 'em?"

"I'm glad you brought that up," says I. "For a fact, I did have such a suspicion, so when we finally got together again I charged him with the deed. He firmly denied the theft of the cartridges, though he did admit that he'd stolen my game bag, Joe Zilch's lunch and an extra pair of shoelaces we had in co-operation. That having been disposed of, we gayly proceeded after the festive mongoose."

"Without cartridges?" asks Cousin Sylvester, sarcastic.

"We'd made Zilch cough 'em up," I explains. "About 10 miles out of Syracuse we decided to camp for the night, but having no camp equipment it was necessary to return to Syracuse for it. By the time we got back to the site we'd selected for the camp it was broad daylight again, so we proceeded on our way in a blizzard that was so thick you couldn't see your own face, much less mongeese"——

"Mongooses," interrupts Sylvester.

——"who were probably skittering over our toes," I plows on. "The mongoose, as you know, is as white as the snow and"——

"How," inquires Malone, "do you spot 'em, then?"

"It's something in the nature of a gift," I tells him. "You see a lump of white in the distance and you shoot. If a dead animal results it's a mongoose, if not it's snow. Inexperienced hunters will often, after days of hunting, come home with nothing but a bag full of slain snow. You can imagine," I goes on impulsively, "the disappointment on the peaked faces of the children when the old breadwinner returns from the prowl with"——

"Is the mongoose good eating?" cuts in Pete, apparently noticing that my fount of inspiration's running dry and in need of help.

"Excellent," I assures him. "The meat of the mongoose can only be compared in flavor and texture to that of the Australian wombat when grilled over a fire of bayan logs cut down in the full of the moon. You bread it, fry it with bacon until crisp and sprinkle it lightly with caviar. As a final touch you open a can of sardines and make your meal out of that."

"Come on, Sylvester," glowers the frau, "let's get out of here and leave these two old sils to themselves."

"Just a minute," says I, "and I'm through. "The second night, miles and miles from civilization, we pitches our tent on a field of virgin snow.

WE'D BEEN asleep for an hour or two when I'm suddenly awakened by a dazzling light in my face. At the same time a burly figure enters the tent.

" 'What's up?' I asks.

" 'Up!' yells the bozo, who's wearing a sort of engineer's cap. 'Get up, you saps. You're camping on the main line of the New York Central.'

"That sort of disarranges the whole trip," I goes on, "and we beats it back to Syracuse, but a greater disappointment awaits us there. On the main street I meets up with a lad who does something at the university and he asks me where I have been."

" 'Hunting mongeese,' I tells him, frankly.

" 'Mongeese!' he exclaims. 'There aren't any mongeese in America.'

" 'No?' I exclaims.

" 'No,' says he. 'They're indigenous to India, and besides, the plural is not mongeese, but mongooses.'

"Did you know that, Sylvester?"

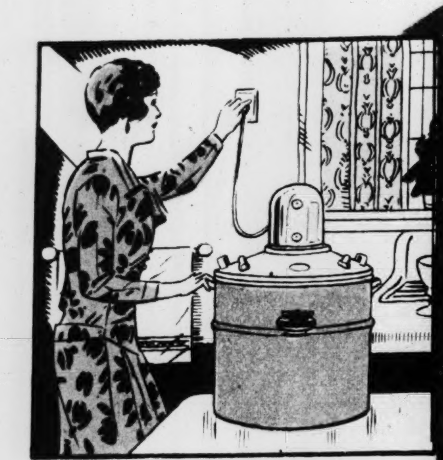
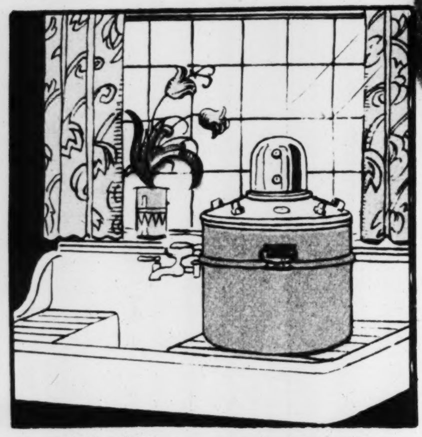
Now--An Electric Clothes Washer Every Woman Can Afford!

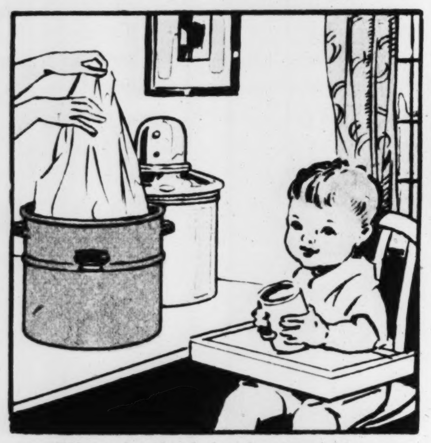
Dry Cleans, Too



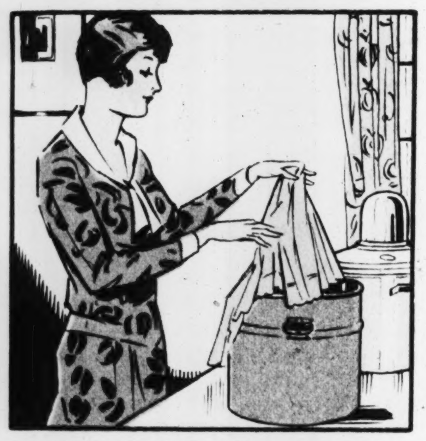
Just plug Cinderella in any electric outlet and it does the washing in a jiffy for as little as a one cent an hour. A wonderful help in any home.



Cinderella is so convenient and easy to handle that it is useful not only for the week's wash, but for quickly needed things that are washed every day.



Where there's a baby, there's washing to be done every day. And Cinderella is a wonderful help. It washes as much as 14 diapers in 15 minutes.



Even your daintiest silks and laces can be washed safely in the Cinderella. It has no moving parts to tear, rip or wear the clothes.

See Cinderella demonstrated at hardware, electric, house furnishing, and department stores and electric companies everywhere.

Cinderella $37.50

IMAGINE IT! A complete electric washer for only $37.50. Just the thing to use every day for babies' clothes and other quickly needed things. "Made to order" for apartment dwellers. Ideal for small families. Does the week's wash in a surprisingly short time for as little as a penny an hour.

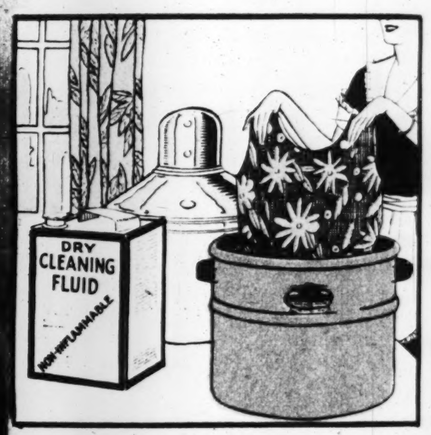
Washing by an amazing "Bubble-Action" principle, Cinderella has no moving parts to tear, rip or wear the clothes. Nothing to break or pull off buttons. Only the thorough cleansing action of air bubbles, suds and warm water traveling through every thread of the clothes fifty times a minute.

In 15 minutes Cinderella washes as much as 5 men's shirts, or 2 single sheets and 2 pillow cases, or 14 diapers, or 10 pieces of lingerie. Used with the new non-inflammable, non-explosive cleaning fluids, Cinderella does a wonderful dry cleaning job on any material (gasoline or other explosive or inflammable fluids must not be used).

You can't afford to be without a Cinderella! You can't afford to wear yourself out at the washtub, or pay heavy cleaners' bills, with Cinderella available at this amazingly low price! There's no other washer like it—a product of the Black & Decker Mfg. Co., Towson, Md.—World's Largest Manufacturer of Portable Electric Tools.

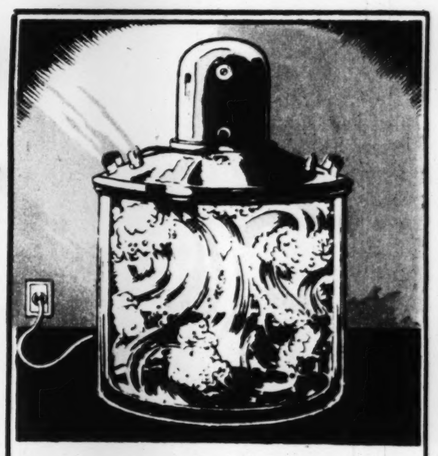
Hardware, electrical, house furnishing and department stores and electric companies everywhere have the Cinderella on display. Call on one of them for a demonstration tomorrow.

BLACK & DECKER



Cinderella's "Bubble-Action" does a wonderful dry cleaning job on any material. Be sure to use non-inflammable, non-explosive dry cleaning fluid.

Cinderella is "just right" for apartment dwellers. It can be used in the bathroom, in the kitchenette, wherever there is an electric outlet.



Be Sure to See This Glass Demonstrator

Call on a Cinderella dealer tomorrow and see this demonstrator—made of glass so you can see exactly what goes on inside. In it you can see Cinderella's amazing "Bubble-Action" principle in action. You can see how it washes without moving parts to wear the clothes or tear off buttons. You can see how the air bubbles, suds and water continuously rush through the clothes until they are beautifully clean. Cinderella is different from any other washer you ever saw. So be sure to see it—tomorrow.

Let Calumet's Double-Action show you

★ ★ ★ what fun baking can be!

If you want to know the greatest joy of baking—the thrill of turning out one glorious triumph after another—try Calumet Baking Powder. Calumet's wonderful Double-Action makes baking success so easy that it is to-day the largest-selling baking powder in the world!

Calumet's first action begins in the mixing bowl. It starts the leavening. Then, in the oven, the second action begins. It continues the leavening. Up! . . . up! . . . it keeps raising the batter and holds it high and light. Cakes, muffins, quick breads turn out so fine and delicate, beautifully baked—even though you may not be able to regulate your oven temperature accurately.

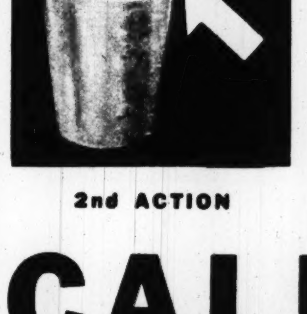
All baking powders are required by law to be made of pure, wholesome ingredients. But not all are alike in their action nor in the amount that should be used. And not all will give you equally fine results in your baking. Calumet is scientifically made of exactly the right ingredients, in exactly the right proportions to produce perfect leavening action—Double-Action!

Calumet Golden Spice Cake! A joy to make! A joy to eat!

Get some Calumet to-day and try the delicious recipe given here. Notice how little Calumet it calls for. The usual Calumet proportion is even less — only one level teaspoon of Calumet to each cup of sifted flour. A splendid economy! Calumet is a product of General Foods Corporation.

© 1931, G. F. CORP.

1st ACTION



2nd ACTION

See Calumet's Double-Action!

Make this test—See for yourself how Calumet Baking Powder acts twice to make your baking better. Put two level teaspoons of Calumet into a glass, add two teaspoons of water, stir rapidly five times and remove the spoon. The tiny, fine bubbles will rise slowly, half filling the glass. This is Calumet's first action—the action that Calumet specially provides to take place in the mixing bowl.

After the mixture has entirely stopped rising, stand the glass in a pan of hot water on the stove. In a moment, a second rising will start and continue until the mixture reaches the top of the glass. This is Calumet's second action—the action that Calumet holds in reserve to take place in the heat of your oven. Make this test to-day. See Calumet's Double-Action which protects your baking from failure.

How dramatic findings of now-famous test made at New York Laboratory are changing all previous conceptions of skin care

> ". . . we have tested these three products in direct comparison with similar products of the expensive lines bearing famous 'individual' names.
> "We find them equal and in three cases superior in quality to these famous 'individual' name products which sell at prices from 2 to 8 times more than they do."
> (Signed) HENRY W. BANKS, 3d.
> Loomis, Stump & Banks, > Consulting Chemists.

THUS for the first time in the history of the cosmetic industry you are able to buy products of salon quality or better at the same price you now pay for ordinary creams and lotions. Products actually certified by high authority.

It sounds unbelievable. Many women will doubt this statement. We expect this. But the proof is in the products.

They are two creams and a liquid compounded on an utterly new plan. A plan which eliminates all inferior elements in old type creams and lotions and brings you the benefits of present day science in skin care.

Here is a brief statement on each product.

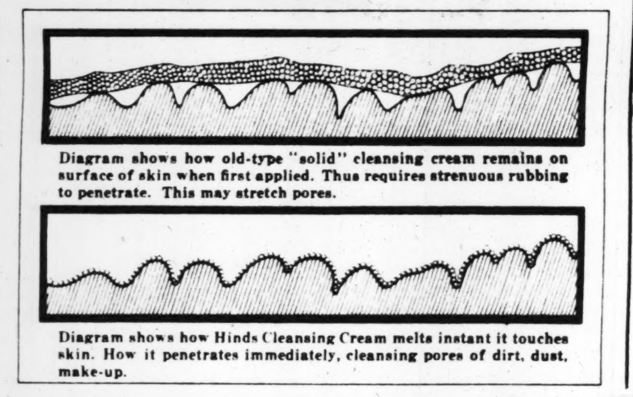

Diagram shows how old-type "solid" cleansing cream remains on surface of skin when first applied. Thus requires strenuous rubbing to penetrate. This may stretch pores.

Diagram shows how Hinds Cleansing Cream melts instant it touches skin. How it penetrates immediately, cleansing pores of dirt, dust, make-up.

Hinds Cleansing Cream

A remarkable cream that actually changes from a solid to a liquid on contact with skin heat.

The moment you apply, Hinds Cleansing Cream melts, penetrates and cleanses pores of dirt, dust, make-up.

This new cleansing cream liquefies from 2 to 7 times faster than any other popular priced liquefying or so-called "liquefying" cream. Chemists have proved this.

Until today the only possible way you could secure a cream like this was by paying from $1.00 to $2.50 for it.

Does it not seem utter folly to continue with old-type cleansing creams that merely skim the surface of your skin when first applied? That require vigorous massaging which may stretch pores to penetrate?

Is it not folly of the worst kind when a far-sighted price policy on the part of the manufacturers gives you this remarkable expensive-type cream at actually the cost of ordinary creams? Consider what this means.

Hinds Toning Cleanser

Toning Cleanser brings you a new way of pore refining scientists have been working on for five years.

It's a way that not only refines pore texture but does so in a remarkably short time.

You accomplish this by means of a liquid which is both a cleanser and a solvent. It is called Hinds Toning Cleanser.

Utterly unlike many skin tonics and fresheners, Hinds Toning Cleanser positively will not dry skin.

YOU JUDGE.

Place a little cleansing cream you now use on arm. Then a little Hinds Cleansing Cream. If the cream you now use melts immediately like Hinds, it is a fine liquefying cream. You're safe in using it.

UNIQUE COMPARATIVE TEST MADE AT NEW YORK LABORATORY

Used after cleansing cream, it removes all traces of grease. Dissolves out all lingering particles of dirt, oil, pore residue. Relieved of this residue, pores shrink back to normal size.

Use during day to cleanse skin when removing make-up. Make-up then applied gives you the lustrous look of glowing health.

Note, please, the new delicate skin texture, the vivid cleanness regular use of Hinds Toning Cleanser brings you.

Hinds Texture Cream

Hinds Texture Cream is a new type of skin softener.

A light, delicate cream you apply at night . . . it is utterly unlike the old-type "greasy" softening creams. Hence you retire with face smooth and lovely.

No need to smooth towel over pillow for fear of grease on linen.

No need to be uncomfortable with grease on face . . . in hair.

Absorbed rapidly by the skin, this scientifically compounded cream works through the night, eliminating tight, drawn feeling of skin, scaliness, dryness.

All that dry scaly condition that makes skin look old vanishes. Oil content of sebaceous glands is aided so skin regains smooth, dewy texture of youth.

Notice to Women

Do not expect to find this new way of skin care in ordinary creams and cleansers. These three products, certified by high authority, are scientifically compounded to supplement each other.

Remember, these facts do not come to you from some unknown manufacturer. They come from the makers of Hinds Honey and Almond Cream, known and trusted by American women for over fifty years.

Insist on the genuine Hinds Cleansing Cream, Hinds Texture Cream (in 40c and 65c sizes) and Hinds Toning Cleanser, 65c. At all druggists. A. S. Hinds Company, Bloomfield, N. J.

Looks Lovely -:- What Makes Large Pores? Compare, Please -:- Ready Here Now

GOODBY GREASY CREAMS!—Now no need to go to bed with face greasy and uncomfortable. New Hinds Texture Cream for softening skin is greaseless. Absorbed rapidly by skin. You look lovely as if ready to go out. Works through night, counteracting dryness, tight drawn feeling of skin.

ON A SECTION OF SKIN size of dime there are 578 pores growing larger every year because of pore residue they are forced to carry. Get rid of pore residue and you get rid of large pores. Hinds Toning Cleanser dissolves out pore residue. Thus pores shrink back to normal size.

IT'S THE OLD WAY AND THE NEW . . . Girl on left has old-type cleansing cream on face. Note "lard-like" appearance. Girl on right has new Hinds Cleansing Cream on face. At once it melts, gently penetrates pores, washes out dirt, dust, make-up. Skin feels fresh and clean as baby's.

"You are to be congratulated on your vision—you are serving the American family in the broadest, most practical way"

...already thousands of letters like these, from leading men and women all over the country, have been received by The Kroger Food Foundation

THERE'S an inspiring picture of America in the letters that have poured into us following the announcement of The Kroger Food Foundation. Letters from business and professional men, statesmen and scientists, college presidents and professors. And, most important of all, letters from American women—the keepers of the health of the nation. Women, who—as home-makers, editors, consultants—are quick to welcome the institutional assistance of The Kroger Food Foundation in the business of better living.

And to these women, for whom The Foundation was established, we renew our pledge to search and find ways of making food standards better and better. We can reproduce only a few typical excerpts from these appreciative letters, but they will serve to show you what the public thinks of The Kroger Food Foundation, Remember, it is your Foundation, and, if you have any request in relation to foods, or suggestions for Foundation activities, write to The Kroger Food Foundation, Cincinnati, Ohio.

"I think you are doing a splendid thing and it seems to me to be an unusually forward looking move on your part."

Lita Bane, Editor
Modern Homemaker Department
Ladies' Home Journal

"Dedicating oneself or one's money to the public service is the highest form of human usefulness, and when the object of such dedication is to safeguard and to improve the people's food and thereby their health, it reaches for the very pinnacle of usefulness. The Kroger Food Foundation has been nobly conceived. May it be administered toward glorious achievement!"

Arbuckle Brothers
New York, New York

"Your announcement . . . reveals an enlightened attitude toward business. A corporation like yours has a public duty, and it is encouraging to realize that you have the progressive outlook which is the attribute of the really successful American business . . . of today."

Russell Wilson, Mayor
The City of Cincinnati

"I consider this a most excellent piece of work. We need more of such."

Miss Celina Neptune
Department Home Economics
Northern Illinois State Teachers' College
DeKalb, Illinois

"May we offer our congratulations upon the establishment of a new Million Dollar Kroger Food Foundation. We shall look forward with interest to the findings resulting from your research work and wish at this time to extend to you and your organization our best wishes for success."

Grace Godfrey
Director of Home Economics
The Drexel Institute
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

"Since your organization will have problems similar to our own I will be pleased to see any of your staff for consultation whenever such cooperation is desired."

American Institute of Baking,
C. B. Morrison, Dir. of Laboratories
Chicago, Illinois

"The possibilities for good of The Kroger Food Foundation are limitless. Not only will it raise the standard in millions of American homes, but it will contribute materially toward the physical and thus the intellectual and industrial efficiency of the wage earners of this nation."

Paul C. Stetson, Supt. of Schools
Indianapolis, Indiana

"Here at Good Housekeeping Institute we are of course very much interested in any plan that will work for the good of the American home, and we feel sure that you have this clearly in view in establishing The Foundation."

Good Housekeeping Institute
Katharine Fisher, Director

"I will watch with interest for the development of The Kroger Food Foundation. The work should bring great good to the people . . ."

Mrs. Nora Gordon, President
The Waterman Community Club
Waterman, Illinois

" . . . and I want to congratulate The Kroger Grocery & Baking Company on its important development in its history, the establishment of The Kroger Food Foundation, dedicated to the housewives of America and their families . . . with my best wishes for the great success of your enterprise . . .

Nicholas Longworth
The Speaker's Rooms
House of Representatives, U. S.
Washington, D. C.

"In my opinion there is a real need for a Food Foundation such as is envisioned . . . and there can be no question that the findings . . . will be of much value."

Quality Bakers of America
W. S. Allison, Chairman
Operating Committee

"Congratulations and good wishes."

Gilbert Bettman, Attorney General
State of Ohio

"I wish to congratulate you on the idea back of this plan . . ."

The Charles E. Hires Company
C. E. Hires, Jr., President
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

" . . . it seems a most worthy undertaking . . . if you plan to issue regular news bulletins covering the findings of your nutrition specialists we should be glad to have our Church Housekeeping Bureau put on the mailing list . . ."

The Christian Herald
Clementine Paddleford
Director of Service

"Let me extend my sincere good wishes for the real success of the Foundation. At any time it becomes practicable or desirable, you may count on us to furnish any assistance or information that we consistently can."

Institute of American Meat Packers,
Wm. Whitfield Woods, President,
Chicago, Illinois

"This is the day and age for bigger and better things and a very opportune time for the progressive step your company is taking. You are to be congratulated and I am sure that the citizenship of the United States will be benefited by this wonderful forward movement."

The Union Trust Company of Dayton
W. G. Davidson, President
Dayton, Ohio

"As a state educational institution, we are of course all of us deeply interested in any form of research work looking to the improvement of living conditions. Furthermore, we are glad to extend to the new Foundation all cooperation possible from our faculty and equipment . . . who I am sure will be glad to serve you at any time."

A. H. Upham, President
Miami University, Oxford, Ohio

"We, as farmers who produce the food of the nation, are especially interested in your project. A large part of our organization's work for several years has been devoted to a study of food and nutrition in rural diet. Please accept our congratulations on the establishment of The Kroger Food Foundation. We wish you every success."

FIRST TAKE A DEEP BREATH, FACE FRONT, AND WITH RIGHT HAND RAISED SMARTLY TO BROW GIVE THE HEALTH SALUTE.
THEN RAISE LEFT FOOT IN BACK OF YOU, SPREAD BOTH ARMS OUT TO THE SIDE AND BALANCE ON RIGHT FOOT WHILE YOU SLOWLY BEND FORWARD, BEING CAREFUL—NOT TO BEND TOO FAR.
NEXT PLACE LEFT FOOT TO THE REAR AS YOU ADVANCE THE RIGHT FOOT. FOLD YOUR ARMS AND LOOK UP TO LEFT. THEN AS QUICKLY AS POSSIBLE RAISE BOTH FEET OFF THE FLOOR
I BEG YOUR PARDON, MY MISTAKE. . . . LIFT ONLY ONE FOOT AT A TIME.
NOW PLACE BOTH FEET FLAT ON THE FLOOR, HOLD THE KNEES STIFF AND WITH HANDS ON HIPS ARCH THE ARCHES AND BACK SHARPLY
HOWEVER BE CAREFUL AND DO NOT GO TOO FAR BACKWARD
AND THEN HOLD BOTH HANDS ABOVE YOUR HEAD AS FAR AS POSSIBLE WHILE YOU RAISE YOURSELF ON YOUR VERY TIPPY TOES. FOLLOW THIS BY——FALLING FORWARD LIGHTLY TO THE FLOOR. . . . . AND SO LADIES AND GENTLEMEN ENDS THE HEALTH ANTIC HOUR.
WHEN THE BELL TINKLES IT WILL BE EXACTLY--- THAT CRASH! IT SHOOK THE ENTIRE HOUSE. WHAT HAPPENED? I THOUGHT PERHAPS THE PIANO FELL OVER OR—
WHAT? WHAT? OH YES NOW I REMEMBER. I WAS GOING THROUGH THE DAILY HEALTH ANTIC HOUR. WHILE YOU'RE HERE GIVE ME A HAND UP, WILL YOU?

SEE! MISS SCHULTZ WOULD MARRY ME IF I WASN'T BALD LIKE A HEN'S EGG. AND SHE HATES WIGS— SO I GUESS MY CASE IS HOPELESS!
STOP WORRYING!
I'M ASSOCIATED WITH DOCTOR SEEPO, A WONDERFUL BEAUTY SPECIALIST! GRAFTING HAIR ON YOUR HEAD WILL BE PIE FOR HIM! DOC'S A WIZ AT THAT STUFF!
FINE! MUTT, I LOVE YOU!
AND TO SHOW YOU I'M YOUR FRIEND I'LL GET YOU A CUT RATE!
GREAT! RING OUT, YOU WEDDING BELLS!
DR. SEEPO
DOC, MEET JEFF—MY BEST FRIEND. HE WANTS SOME HAIR GRAFTED ON HIS BEAN!
HE NEEDS HAIR!
ONE HOUR LATER
HERE'S SOME MORE HAIR TO GRAFT ON JEFF'S HEAD, DOC!
OKAY!
THIS IS INDEED WONDERFUL!!
STILL LATER
JUST ONE MORE PATCH AND WE'RE FINISHED!
DOC, YOU ARE INDEED A WIZ!
MUTT'S BEEN GONE AN HOUR GETTING THAT LAST PATCH OF HAIR! WHY THE DELAY?
MAYBE HE'S GONE TO LUNCH! YOU KNOW HOW MUTT IS!
WOINK!! WOINK!!!!
WHAT'S THAT?
THAT'S MUTT! IT WON'T BE LONG NOW!
AW, BE A NICE PIG. ALL I WANT IS JUST ONE MORE PATCH OF HAIR OFF YOUR BACK!
IS THERE A RIOT SOMEWHERE?
NAW! JEFF'S MURDERING SOMEBODY IN DOC SEEPO'S OFFICE.

LET'S PLAY A GAME OF LOTTO — OR DOMINOES —
BUT THOSE GAMES ARE SO OLD-FASHIONED!
OLD-FASHIONED? SKIDDO — 23! YOU'RE TEASING!
I MEAN IT! THIS YEAR, TO BE IN THE SWIM, YOU'VE GOT TO LEARN THE LATEST FAD —
I JUST LOVE TO LEARN NEW GAMES — WHAT'S THE NAME OF THIS ONE?
BACKGAMMON, OF COURSE = IT'S SWEEPING THE COUNTRY!
But Daughter Oh!
DINNER WON'T BE READY FOR HOURS —
WE MIGHT PLAY A FEW HANDS OF BRIDGE BEFORE THE DINNER BELL RINGS —
BRIDGE? BE YOUR ANNIVERSARIES — BRIDGE AND CONTRACT PASSED OUT WITH THE HOOP SKIRT!
THIS IS 1931 A.D. JOIN THE BIG PARADE — LET'S PLAY THE LATEST OF THE NEW GAMES... BACKGAMMON!

HOW PERFECTLY WONDERFUL, ROD! I'VE BEEN WANTING TO LEARN BLACKGAMMON — IT'S SOMETHING LIKE PING-PONG, ISN'T IT?
NO... AND IT'S BACKGAMMON, DEAR = BUT I'LL BE RIGHT OVER AND TRY TO EXPLAIN IT TO YOU...
PEOPLE SAY DORA'S KINDA DUMB, BUT SHE'S MIGHTY SWEET JUST THE SAME = GEE, WON'T IT BE SWELL AFTER WE'RE MARRIED.... SITTIN' IN OUR LITTLE HOME PLAYING BACKGAMMON?
I BROUGHT THE INSTRUCTION BOOK ALONG, TOO = SO WE —
OH, ROD... FORGET THAT SILLY BLACKGAMMON.... COME ON, LET'S GO...
BUT —
LOUIS DE FRIJOLI, THE MOVIE SHEIK, IS OVER AT MARTHA MILLER'S HOUSE AND SHE'S INVITED US OVER NOW LISTEN, DORA = DON'T FORGET YOU'RE ENGAGED TO ME — DON'T YOU GO MAKING A SAP OUT OF ME = REMEMBER THAT!
MY HEART'S LEAPING LIKE A TUNA FISH
OH, DORA = COME RIGHT IN = HE'S MARVELOUS!
MARTHA, IS HE REALLY HERE?
AW, SHUCKS!
MISS BELL, SEÑOR FRIJOLI...
OH, I'M SO THRILLED!
SENORITA.... MY SOUL, SHE SWELK WIT' ENCHANTMENT!
YOUR EYES — ZEY FEEL ME WIT THROBS LIKE ZE NIGHTINGALE'S SONG
OH, MR. FRIJOLI!
HEY, LISTEN!
"LUIS" TO YOU, MY "ESTRELLITA". MY LEETLE STAR!
OH, LUIS!
SAY, LISTEN, YOU BIG GARLIC-EATER! THAT'S MY FIANCEE — LAY OFF!!
SAVVY? WE'RE ENGAGED = GOING TO BE MARRIED = DON'T TRY TO MAKE ANY PLAY FOR DORA OR I'LL....
SEÑOR, I DO NOT UNNERSTAND... IF ZE LADIES SHE WILL EXCUSE WE WILL GET ZE POCKET DICTIONARY IN ZE NEXT ROOM AND YOU CAN MAKE ZE EXPLAIN....
YOU'RE DOGGONE RIGHT I CAN TALK ENGLISH! NOW, LISTEN, YOU LITTLE PEANUT-NOSED SAP I'VE FALLEN FOR THAT GAL OF YOURS, SO SCRAM!
THAT BIRD AIN'T SO DUMB, EITHER!
